TEXAS SUPREME COURT
ADVISORY BOARD MEETING
September 13, 1986

CHAIRMAN SOULES: Let's bring this meeting to order and get started.

We're going to take the last paragraph on Page 8. Is there any controversy over the -- okay, I'm sorry. On Page 153 of the materials, the last paragraph of Rule -- proposed Rule 279 -- is all that's left of that Rule to work on today.

Hadley, is there any change in that current law?

PROFESSOR EDGAR: Yes, it just says that the words "legally" or "factually" have been added because lots of people have argued from time to time, "What is that, is that legally insufficient evidence or factually insufficient evidence?" And clearly it means, I think, legally sufficient, certainly after verdict. And since you can't make a factual insufficiency argument before verdict, we thought to remove any doubt about what that means, to let people know it means both. So that's why we were recommending that be included.

1 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Does that -- in 2 effect, that's stating in the rules something the 3 rule did not state, but which was understood by 4 everybody to be the law anyway?

5 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Well, it wasn't 6 understood by everybody because people argued 7 about whether or not that meant legal or factual, 8 when, any way you look at it, it means both. So,
9 we just thought we would clean it up. It really 10 has become somewhat redundant, maybe, but we were 11 just doing that to make clear to the bench and bar 12 what's --

13 MR. WELLS: Well, if it's legally
14 insufficient, you make the objection before. You 15 know, this kind of lets you hide behind the law, 16 don't it?

17 PROFESSOR EDGAR: But you've always 18 been able to do that by filing a Motion for 19 Judgment N.O.V. We haven't changed the law any by 20 this.

21 CHAIRMAN SOULES: This is what the law
22 is. It just states it expressly, whereas the rule 23 previously did not so state it.

24 PROFESSOR EDGAR: That's right.

25 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Any -- is there any

1 objection to this?

2 JUDGE TUNKS: I'm not sure I
3 understood what change he made.

4 CHAIRMAN SOULES: All right, Judge.
5 As Hadley was saying, in the past, raising 6 insufficiency of the evidence --

7 JUDGE TUNKS: Factual insufficiency.

8 CHAIRMAN SOULES: -- was done after 9 verdict -- either factual or legal insufficiency.

10 For example, even though you can object to 11 the submission of an issue based on legally 12 insufficient evidence -- there is no evidence to 13 support it -- even if you did not do so after 14 verdict, you could move for a Judgment N.O.V.
15 because there was no evidence to support it. So 16 you could actually raise that after verdict even 17 though it was not raised before.

18 JUDGE TUNKS: But you can't ask for -- 19 what bothers me is this terminology here. It 20 appears to state -- to infer that a basis -- that 21 an objection to an issue because there is factual 22 insufficiency is sufficient to keep it from being 23 submitted. That is not correct.

24 CHAIRMAN SOULES: That's correct. You
25 -- there's no question that you properly stated

1 the law there.

2 JUDGE TUNKS: The fact that this
3 language suggests that to me might also suggest it 4 to somebody else. The claim that the evidence is 5 factually insufficient may be made after the 6 submission to the jury.

7 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Well, that's a
8 correct statement of the law because that's the 9 only time it can be made.

10 JUDGE TUNKS: That's right. But it
11 infers that factual insufficiency could be made 12 before the case is submitted to the jury.

13 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Of course, it cannot 14 do so.

15 PROFESSOR EDGAR: I don't read that --

16 JUDGE TUNKS: I think probably Hadley
17 corrected it. I just didn't understand him clear 18 enough. I think you took out the word "factually" 19 here; did you not?

20 PROFESSOR EDGAR: No, you see, the 21 rule as it now reads just says, "a claim that the 22 evidence was insufficient to warrant the 23 submission may be made for the first time after 24 verdict."

25 JUDGE TUNKS: Yes, sir.

PROFESSOR EDGAR: And people have, from time to time, said, "Well, does that mean legally insufficient evidence or factually insufficient evidence?" Well, actually it means both, and that's what we've said.

JUDGE TUNKS: Well, you cannot possibly file an objection to the submission of an issue on the grounds that the evidence was factually insufficient to sustain it -- to void or submit it.

PROFESSOR EDGAR: Does this indicate that you can?

JUDGE TUNKS: I think it does. It did to me.

PROFESSOR EDGAR: Well, that's not our intention.

JUDGE TUNKS: Well, that's all right.

PROFESSOR EDGAR: And certainly that was not --

JUDGE TUNKS: I just wanted to clear that up in my own mind.

CHAIRMAN SOULES: All right, any further discussion on final paragraph of Rule 279? Okay. Those in favor of recommending the Supreme Court adopt this final paragraph, show by

1 hands. Opposed? That's unanimously recommended, 2 then.

3 MR. RAGLAND: Lou, may I ask a
4 question?

5 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Yes, sir. Tom
6 Ragland.

7 MR. RAGLAND: As usual, I'm about two 8 days late on things. In the first paragraph, 9 third line -- we were talking about that yesterday 10 -- did we leave the word "limiting" in there -- 11 "limiting construction"?

12 CHAIRMAN SOULES: No, it was taken 13 out.

14 MR. RAGLAND: Taken out?

15 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Yes, sir.

16 PROFESSOR EDGAR: We deleted the whole
17 paragraph, not just that part of it, Tom.

18 CHAIRMAN SOULES: All right. Now,
19 we're going to move to Rule 286.

20 MR. SPARKS (San Angelo): Can you tell
21 me how Rule 279 finally reads?

22 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, Sam, it
23 reads --

CHAIRMAN SOULES: Oh, before we leave that, we need to raise Harry's concerns of yesterday whether or not we should submit "factual" or insert "factual" in -- on Page 152, in the paragraph that's in plain type, not in italicized type, in the fifth line, before the word "element." Anybody have a chance to --

PROFESSOR EDGAR: Well, it certainly wouldn't hurt anything, and if it's a cause for concern then I certainly have no problem with including it.

CHAIRMAN SOULES: Bill, what do you think about inserting the word "factual" in that fifth line? It's a matter Harry had concern about and you were --

PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I don't like the idea of it. I thought about it, and I think it will create confusion.

CHAIRMAN SOULES: Why so?

PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, we're really talking about deeming a component element of -- we are really talking about a legal element, if we're going to talk about anything. We're talking about deeming that the judge found that a particular component was supported by sufficient

1 evidence. I don't -- I just don't think the word
2 "factual" adds anything at all.

3 MR. REASONER: Well, I -- Luke, I have 4 thought about this further and the thing that 5 bothers me, if you will look back -- and I didn't 6 get a chance to talk to Hadley about it this 7 morning -- but the old rule referred to deeming 8 the issues themselves, you know, which I take to 9 be the issues that would have been submitted to 10 the jury.

11 PROFESSOR EDGAR: The fact issue.

12 MR. REASONER: The fact issue. Why
13 wouldn't it work, Hadley, if you just substituted 14 "questions," because as I understand the deemed 15 issue practice, you never went back and thought 16 about whether the issue was too broad or too 17 narrow, or how many issues there would have had to 18 have been. You were just deemed the answers to 19 however many issues were necessary to support the 20 cause of action, assuming you had a sufficient 21 submission for them to be necessarily reparable.
22 So why wouldn't it work just to put "questions"?

23 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Well, the problem
24 that I have conceptually with that, Harry, is that 25 with a broad-form question, a question in all

1 probability is going to consist of what we used to 2 think to be an independant ground of recovery or 3 defense --

4 MR. REASONER: Well, but --

5 PROFESSOR EDGAR: -- and we don't 6 really mean that, you see.

7 MR. REASONER: No, but for "deeming" 8 ever to come up, somebody has got to say, here is 9 a question that was not asked to the jury, or 10 maybe there are two questions that were not asked 11 to the jury. They really got to say they were 12 questions that were not asked to the jury.

13 PROFESSOR EDGAR: No, that's not what 14 we were talking about yesterday. We were talking 15 about a situation in which a question was asked, 16 but it was factually deficient with respect to an 17 essential component of that question. If we're 18 talking about fraud, for example.

19 MR. REASONER: But that's another way
20 of saying, Hadley, if fraud consists of A, B and 21 C, we didn't ask C to the jury. There is a 22 factual inquiry that was not made, whether because 23 of the definition or the way the question was 24 asked. So there was a question that was not 25 asked, and that's really what you want deemed, is

1 the jury's factual response to C.

2 So it seems to me that the use of "question"
3 really is parallel with the prior practice. When 4 you inject the notion of an element, by which I
5 take it you mean in this instance, an element of a 6 cause of action in a legal concept, that's 7 radically different from our prior deemed issue of 8 practice.

9 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: No, I don't think 10 it is, because we're deeming that there is 11 evidence -- we're deeming a finding, all right?
12 The findings are what are deemed and there are 13 findings on particular --

14 MR. REASONER: No, that's -- that may 15 be what you are doing in your head; that's not 16 what this language says. It says, "deeming" --

17 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, I think you
18 need to read the language more carefully if you 19 don't think that's what it says.

20 MR. REASONER: All right. Well, read
21 it. It says, "deeming the element." It's not 22 saying it's deeming any finding; it's not saying 23 it's deeming the answer to any question. It's 24 saying it's deeming an element of a cause of 25 action.

1 CHAIRMAN SOULES: I think Harry's got 2 a -- has raised a new matter here and I think it
3 needs to be addressed. Sam Sparks, San Angelo.

4 MR. SPARKS (San Angelo): I don't 5 think it's a new matter. We kicked this thing
6 around yesterday ten times. And Judge Pope sat
7 there, and we used the examples of five elements
8 of fraud. Now, one of them is omitted. That's 9 what we've been talking about all this time.

10 And I was told yesterday -- both Edgar and 11 Bill said that was a legal element. You know, one 12 of the five requirements is omitted from the 13 instruction that's given to the jury and it's 14 going to be deemed. That's what we kicked around 15 yesterday. And it's not factual, it's just an 16 element. And in that case it's a legal element.
17 This is not a new -- we talked about this 18 yesterday for two hours.

19 MR. REASONER: Well, are you
20 supporting me, Sam?

21 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, let me say
22 this: From the --

23 MR. SPARKS (San Angelo): I don't want
24 the word "factual" in there. I think it creates a 25 problem. Without it in there, it covers both

1 factual and legal.

2 MR. REASONER: I think you're right,
3 and that's why I think it ought to say
4 "questions."

5 MR. SPARKS (San Angelo): Well, let's 6 vote on it.

7 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Well, the thing --
8 if it says "questions," though, Harry, it just 9 says "when the ground of recovery of defense 10 consists of more than one question," okay? The 11 jury is asked, "Do you find that the defendant's 12 negligence proximately caused the plaintiff's 13 injury? What amount of damages, if any?" The 14 jury answers damages; does not answer question -- 15 does not answer the liability question. Then 16 you're going to deem a finding of "yes" on the 17 first question that was not answered? That's not 18 what we intend here. We're talking about when a 19 question contains more than one element.

20 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: See, and before 21 it was one question per element, before, under the 22 old scheme. That's why it said "issue" before, 23 because each element had to have it's own separate 24 question under the separate and distinct scheme.

25 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Its component part.

1 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Its piece. Now,
2 maybe "element" isn't a very good word, but it 3 comes as close to identifying what we have always 4 been talking about as anything else we had to use,
5 I think. And when you say "factual element," I'm 6 not sure what a "factual element" is.

7 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): What is wrong
8 with the use of the word "issue" in this 9 particular --

10 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Because it
11 doesn't mean anything.

12 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Because it creates
13 an ambiguity because "issue" in the before time -- 14 before we changed it -- meant "question" and not 15 "legal issue." I really think that's the problem 16 with the current rule. It has the word "issue" in 17 it, and we don't know whether "issue" means issue 18 in the sense of component part of a claim or a 19 defense, or question, which could be bigger than 20 one issue in the sense that you are mentioning it.

21 Really, that's why I suggested we change it 22 to "element." I'm not completely happy that 23 "element" -- "element" isn't great -- but I
24 wouldn't want to say "part." When I hear "parts," 25 I start thinking about cars, see? I have to talk

1 "element" -- that's as close as I can come. And 2 it really isn't a factual element; it's an 3 element, like materiality is an element of a fraud 4 case.

5 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Do we have three
6 alternatives? One that we just leave "element" 7 there without any modifier. The second, that we 8 modify element by inserting the word "factual" -- 9 "factual element." And then, third, that we 10 replace "element" with the word "question."

11 Now, are those the three alternatives that 12 are before the house?

13 MR. REASONER: No, I would say you
14 could not completely replace -- because I think 15 Hadley is right. The preparatory language doesn't 16 make sense if you use "question." But it seems to 17 me that, when you get down to what it is you are 18 deeming, that you could substitute "question" for 19 "element" there.

20 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Harry, tell me
21 exactly how that would work because that -- I'm 22 afraid I don't yet understand.

23 MR. REASONER: It may well be that I
24 don't understand, but I think down at the end when 25 you say, "and make a file written" -- well, let's

1 see. Where you have the last element or elements,
2 I believe it would work if you substituted
3 "question" there.

4 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Rusty.

5 MR. MCMAINS: I mean the whole thing
6 is modified when you get right down to what it is 7 that we are deeming it talks about, if there is 8 factually sufficient evidence to support a finding 9 thereon.

10 It's a finding on an element of a cause of 11 action, or a ground of recovery or a ground of 12 defense. And that's a finding which is as close 13 as we can come in the current practice to 14 describing whatever the animal is, because when 15 you submit to the jury a question with a whole 16 bunch of definitions and instructions in a broad 17 form -- we can call that a "jury finding," or we 18 can call it an "implied finding" when we get to 19 the nonjury situation -- but to call it a 20 "question" is wrong; to call it an "instruction" 21 is wrong, and to call it a "factual finding" is 22 not necessarily accurate. But it doesn't make any 23 difference when you talk about factual elements 24 because we talked about findings here. That's as 25 clear as it needs to be.

1           People are going to understand how this works 2 the same way it used to work, to the extent that 3 it ever worked; and to the extent that it didn't 4 work, it ain't going to work again. But that's 5 not a new problem. We aren't creating any new 6 problems that weren't there before.

7           CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, that's 8 debatable, but we did that yesterday.

9           MR. REASONER: Yeah, well, I --

10          CHAIRMAN SOULES: Justice Wallace.
11 Excuse me, Judge, I didn't see you.

12          JUSTICE WALLACE: The perception I get 13 sitting here listening -- and I certainly share in 14 what I'm about to say -- is that I'm not sure 15 anybody in here understands what this says. And 16 if this group doesn't understand it, how in the 17 world is that trial judge going to understand it 18 up there on the bench when you start hitting him 19 with it?

20          Now, if I understood Hadley's explanation 21 yesterday, this was intended to cover an 22 alternative ground of recovery or defense that was 23 lacking in the legal or factually sufficient 24 evidence.

25          MR. MCMAINS: No.

1 PROFESSOR EDGAR: No, that was on the 2 top of Page 8, Judge Wallace, which we have 3 eliminated.

4 JUSTICE WALLACE: Oh, I'm sorry.

5 PROFESSOR EDGAR: We're talking over
6 here on Page 152.

7 JUSTICE WALLACE: That's what I get 8 for coming in late.

9 PROFESSOR EDGAR: I share Rusty's
10 view. This is not intended to change the law in 11 any way the mechanics of "deemed findings," Harry.
12 We're just simply trying to find a word which is 13 sufficiently descriptive to cover the changes we 14 made yesterday. And I don't really -- to whatever 15 extent it was confusing before, it will remain 16 confusing; but to whatever extent it was 17 explanatory, it will continue to be so.

18 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, all I can 19 say is when Hadley and I went through this at the 20 last meeting, Rusty, we sat down and tried to make 21 it mean what it has always meant, in terms of the 22 change from narrow as you practiced to broad as 23 you practiced, to preserve it. This is as close 24 as we could come to getting it to be the same as 25 it has been for -- since it was invented. And I'm 1 confident that putting "factual" in is going to 2 make a bigger problem than it's going to do an 3 improvement. - And what the problem --

4 MR. REASONER: Well, I'm not confident
5 either way, but I'm persuaded by Rusty's 6 enthusiasm that we can't improve on it at the 7 moment and we might as well move on.

8 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, is everybody
9 satisfied that we leave this the way we left it 10 yesterday?

11 JUDGE TUNKS: Resigned to it, instead 12 of being satisfied.

13 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Resigned to it, all
14 right.

15 Let's go on to 286. Is there a controversy 16 about this?

17 MR. SPARKS (San Angelo): Luke, my 18 question is still the same, is the first paragraph 19 just like it's written? Is that what we have 20 adopted, no changes?

21 PROFESSOR EDGAR: No, we added after 22 the underlined portion, "submitted or requested," 23 we said, "are waived" instead of "shall be deemed 24 as waived."

25 MR. SPARKS (San Angelo): All right,

1 that's fine. What other changes in that 2 paragraph?

3 PROFESSOR EDGAR: That's all.

4 MR. SPARKS (San Angelo): Thank you.
5 And then the second paragraph --

6 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Deleted.

7 MR. SPARKS (San Angelo): The whole
8 paragraph?

9 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Yes, sir. And the 10 last paragraph is maintained as suggested.

11 MR. SPARKS (San Angelo): All right.
12 Thank you.

13 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Excuse me for 14 overlooking your request there, Sam. I apologize.

15 MR. SPARKS (San Angelo): I'm used to 16 it.

17 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, then, I doubly 18 apologize.

19 PROFESSOR EDGAR: 286 is simply 20 textual.

21 MR. MCMAINS: Luke?

22 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Rusty.

23 MR. MCMAINS: Excuse me, did we -- I
24 don't remember any real discussion on the last 25 paragraph yesterday.

1 CHAIRMAN SOULES: We did that before
2 you got here this morning.

3 MR. MCMAINS: Well, you didn't talk 4 about the -- what you have left in here is just 5 "question." And, once again, you ignore the fact
6 that there are elements that can be now included 7 by instruction or definition that are just as much 8 a challenge -- may be challenged by a sufficiency 9 of the evidence.

10 PROFESSOR EDGAR: That's right.

11 MR. MCMAINS: Such as in the current 12 status of the law, any inferential rebuttal
13 instruction.

14 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, do we want to 15 reopen that and take it up, or what are we going 16 to do? We've got a lot of work to do today.

17 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Would you just say
18 "question" or "element thereof"?

19 MR. MCMAINS: Well, I mean, I -- just 20 to -- technically speaking, you make an objection 21 that there is no evidence to support this 22 admission of an unavoidable accident instruction.
23 I mean -- you know, so it's an instruction. I
24 don't know why you don't use the same
25 question-instruction definition like we used

1 previously.

2 MR. REASONER: Well, now under the 3 existing practice you would have to object before 4 the charge was given, right -- on an instruction?

5 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Yeah, that's right.

6 MR. MCMAINS: Not to say that there is 7 no evidence of unavoidable accident, but then I
8 don't -- since it's not a finding, I guess there 9 isn't any place we can do it.

10 MR. REASONER: I think on an 11 instruction you are required to object before the 12 charge.

13 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, that's -- 14 see, that's because you're playing by the old
15 rules.

16 MR. REASONER: What are known as the 17 current rules, the last time I looked at my book.

18 MR. MCMAINS: Yes, but, I mean, when 19 an entire defense -- when the recovery and 20 defense, both, may be contained in an 21 instruction --

22 MR. REASONER: But you're really
23 opening up the entire charge for a post-verdict 24 attack if you put that in there.

25 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Well, that's always

1       been true.

2                   MR. MCMAINS: Well, if all you can do
3       is attack the question, and I'm going to submit 4       your defenses by instruction, then you have --

5                   CHAIRMAN SOULES: Excuse me, we can't 6       get a record with two people talking.

7                   MR. REASONER: I beg your pardon?

8                   MR. MCMAINS: That's fine, I just want 9       to know what the rules of the game are.

10                  CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay.

11                  MR. MORRIS: Luke, let me ask you
12       something.

13                  CHAIRMAN SOULES: All right. Lefty
14       Morris.

15                  MR. MORRIS: I'm sorry I wasn't here a 16       little earlier either.

17                  What is the rationale for this paragraph -- 18       this last paragraph?

19                  MR. JONES: That was a compromise that 20       we had to throw to David Beck in the subcommittee 21       to get the --

22                  CHAIRMAN SOULES: If we have time to 23       go back to that before 12:30, we will. We've got 24       a lot of other work to do. We have resolved the 25       -- we have voted and passed on the last paragraph

1 of 279. I don't like doing this, I tell you right
2 now, but I've got -- I guess I have to -- somebody 3 has to. We've got to move on. We have voted on 4 every aspect of 279. Now, we are going to 286.
5 If we have time to go back to matters that we have 6 earlier dealt with at the end of today's session, 7 we will do so.

8 It's my hope that when we get through today
9 we will have acted on every rule that was before 10 this Committee when we started a year ago. And 11 that we will not need another session before we 12 make our report to the Supreme Court.

13 286.

14 MR. SPARKS (San Angelo): Can't we 15 just finish this one, Luke?

16 CHAIRMAN SOULES: We have finished it.

17 MR. SPARKS (San Angelo): It is 18 finished?

19 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Yes, sir.

20 MR. SPARKS (San Angelo): Okay.

21 PROFESSOR EDGAR: 286 is textual.
22 Just two changes; "of" to "from" and "change" to 23 "charge."

24 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Any objection?
25 Okay. Those in favor, show by hands. Opposed?

1 That's unanimously recommended.

2 295.

3 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Rule -- We hashed
4 this around at an earlier meeting and the 5 subcommittee went back and tried to incorporate 6 the changes and suggestions that were made as a 7 result of the earlier meeting and this is what we 8 came up with. We were simply trying to explain in 9 writing what really happens because the rule, as 10 it was stated, was somewhat confusing.

11 MR. REASONER: Hadley, is there any -- 12 is there thought that there is to be any 13 limitation on how many times the judge can retire
14 the jury? I mean, can he just keep doing it 15 indefinitely,
16 or --

17 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Well, the rule, as 18 it is recommended, does not put any limit on the 19 court, but does state that if it happens more than 20 once, then the court may declare a mistrial.

21 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: You are going to 22 explain in writing to the jury, in open court, the 23 nature of the unresponsiveness. You are going to 24 explain it in writing and in open court, or what?

25 PROFESSOR EDGAR: That's what the rule

1 -- the rule says that it's to occur in open court
2 now, and is to be called to the jury's attention
3 in writing. That doesn't change the law.

4 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I'm just 5 complaining about the language of it.

6 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Well, that's -- 7 okay. Whatever would be better.

8 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): Hadley, a lot
9 of times when you have a verdict form that has a 10 lot of instructions juries don't read the 11 instruction, "if you've answered yes to this 12 question, skip down to 12," rather than -- and 13 they go right through and they answer every 14 question. And, many times, the lawyers can look 15 and see that it's a clear verdict for the 16 plaintiff or a clear verdict for the defendant, 17 even though the jury has not followed the 18 instructions because they have answered every 19 question, when they were not to under the 20 instructions on which questions to answer,
21 depending on the answer they gave to the preceding 22 question. Does that make it an informal or 23 defective verdict, or a purported verdict?

24 So this rule would call now for the -- even 25 though clearly a judgment could be rendered on the 1 verdict -- the judge to send it back to have them

2 erase some answers.

3 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I think that's 4 always been so.

5 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): That never does 6 happen?

7 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Well, no, because 8 the court just simply ignores the immaterial 9 answers.

10 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): That's true.
11 Everybody does.

12 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Yeah, but I think
13 the logic of it is that they are not finished 14 until they are finished, until they have done it
15 properly. So they could always go back and change 16 something that they have already written down, if 17 the fact they hadn't followed the rules overall 18 was brought to their attention.

19 It's kind of almost a philosophical -- gets 20 to be a philosophical point. You say, "You've 21 answered enough for me to render judgment on this 22 verdict. Do I need to instruct you to go back and 23 follow the rules on the theory that if you do 24 that, you might erase what you have already put 25 down and replace it with something else?" So, I

1 think, in theory, you could insist -- one party
2 could insist upon the jury following the rules.
3 People don't do that, and that's what doesn't 4 happen in practice.

5 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): That's true. I
6 don't think it's defective if you get a verdict 7 that you can write a judgment on.

8 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Any further
9 discussion on 295? Rusty.

10 MR. MCMAINS: Well, the only -- I
11 think the question that Sam was asking is: Do you 12 have to -- under this rule, would it appear that 13 you have to send the jury back?

14 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): That's right.

15 PROFESSOR EDGAR: We did not -- with 16 respect to the amendment, that does not change the 17 directive under the current rule. I mean, the 18 current rule would still require that.

19 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): Right.

20 PROFESSOR EDGAR: So we have not 21 changed that practice.

22 MR. MCMAINS: Yes, but I -- but I tend 23 to agree with Sam. I'm not sure that that verdict 24 -- a verdict in which they've answered some 25 questions they didn't have to answer because they,

1 for instance, didn't answer their predicate
 2 questions -- like they will frequently do in a 3 negligence case with a percentage question when 4 they didn't find somebody negligent -- I don't 5 think that renders the verdict defective, and I 6 don't think this rule applies.

7 Under its revision I'm not sure that's true.
 8 And this says it is with a mandatory "shall," and 9 I just don't know.

10 MR. LOW: What you're saying is, that 11 it should be, if it's not responsive to the issues 12 required by the jury to be answered, and maybe 13 that the ones they answer might not be required, 14 you know, for a verdict. It could possibly 15 eliminate -- see, it won't matter to those that 16 they are not required -- see, the jury is 17 instructed to answer only -- go down to 12 to 18 answer to so they are really not required to 19 answer those others that they did.

20 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Rusty, maybe I'm 21 reading it incorrectly, but I think under the 22 current rule, literally applied, the court would 23 be required to send the jury back. It says, "If 24 it is not responsive to the issue, the court shall 25 call the jury's attention thereto in writing and

18
19 20
21
22
23

send them back for further deliberation."

MR. MCMAINS: But I'm not sure how you can claim it's unresponsive when they answered a question. I mean, they are posed the question. It is true that the predicate says you don't have to answer that question.

PROFESSOR EDGAR: But it says you will not answer it. It doesn't say you don't have -- it just says you shall not answer it, or you shall answer it only in the event you have done so-and-so.

MR. MCMAINS: Well, I understand that, but I still don't --

MR. REASONER: But I thought the law was, if the jury's answers are sufficient to base a judgment on, the judge can ignore the rest of it.

PROFESSOR EDGAR: They do.

MR. REASONER: And I guess it comes down to what kind of gloss you put on responsive, or something. But, to me, an immaterial answer -- it doesn't matter whether it's responsive or nonresponsive.

MR. LOW: What if they go back and change something else after that? You have

1 already got a -- or you can go back and say,
2 "Well, wait, don't answer it."

3 MR. REASONER: Well, that's entirely
4 possible but I don't -- this rule does not -- as I 5 read the existing rule, this rule has not made any 6 change.

7 PROFESSOR EDGAR: That's right.

8 CHAIRMAN SOULES: The predicate is not 9 responsive both ways, the present rule and the 10 proposed rule.

11 PROFESSOR EDGAR: The reason you asked
12 us to go back and work on this, you looked at Rule 13 295 and you said, "Well, if the verdict is to be 14 reformed, then it really isn't a verdict yet 15 because it's not a verdict until it is accepted."
16 So then we added the word "purported" and that's 17 how that came about. Then, we recognized that 18 responsiveness was not entirely accurate, that 19 maybe we ought to include conflicting answers in 20 there, so we included that. And then we tried to 21 make it clear what the court was to instruct the 22 jury when they were called back into open court, 23 and we included that.

24 MR. REASONER: Well, now conflicting
25 answers is in the old rule.

1 PROFESSOR EDGAR: And -- no, it wasn't
2 either. Not in old Rule 295.

3 MR. REASONER: Well, the way I read
4 it, "If it is not responsive to the issue 5 submitted, or contains conflicting findings, the 6 court shall call the jury's attention thereto in 7 writing and send them back for further 8 deliberation."

9 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Well, I apologize.
10 I stand corrected. I'm looking at Rule 295 that 11 we have here on 155. And, David, I had presumed 12 when you typed this the stuff in brackets was the 13 old rule, and I don't see anything there about 14 conflicting answers.

15 MR. BECK: Yeah, that's correct. I 16 don't have a copy of the rules, Harry. If you're 17 referring to --

18 PROFESSOR EDGAR: I'm just simply 19 relying on what we have in the book.

20 MR. REASONER: Well, I think if we're 21 relying on David Beck, we may want to reexamine 22 this entire proceeding.

23 MR. BECK: Thank you, Harry.

24 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Now, the one change
25 the Committee recommended as a matter of policy,

1           though, was that after the second time around, the 2           court would declare a mistrial.

3                     MR. REASONER:   That is intended?

4                     CHAIRMAN SOULES:   May declare a 5           mistrial from the second time, forward.

6                     PROFESSOR EDGAR:   Yes.

7                     MR. REASONER:   Well, the only question
8           I would have is whether it's clear to everybody 9           that the court is not limited on how many times it 10          can send them back.

11                    MR. BECK:   But, Harry, doesn't that 12          vary from case to case, circumstance to 13          circumstance?

14                    MR. REASONER:   I would think so, 15          David. I don't think this rule ought to speak to 16          it one way or another. I mean, once it makes a 17          strained argument that this implies you can only 18          do it once, it seems to me.

19                    MR. MORRIS:   Luke, I kind of like the 20          idea of keeping the concept of a defective verdict 21          because, otherwise, under this rule, you may have 22          -- according to Rusty's scenario, you may have a 23          verdict in which a judgment could be entered, but 24          the court, following this rule, would send it 25          back.

1 MR. LOW: The caption was 2 correcting --

3 MR. MORRIS: It said "Correction of 4 the Verdict," when only a defective verdict should 5 be corrected.

6 CHAIRMAN SOULES: So, you would leave
7 the "defective" word in the title?

8 MR. MORRIS: I think so. I think it
9 makes it more plain. Because if you get a verdict 10 upon which a judgment can be entered, it's not 11 defective.

12 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Is there any 13 controversy over that? David Beck.

14 MR. BECK: Let me just raise a
15 question. At one of our former meetings we had a 16 big debate about what the word "informal" meant 17 and what an "informal verdict" was. And the 18 reason we dropped "defective" out of the title is 19 because the text of the rule refers to both an 20 informal and a defective verdict. So it really 21 was just, basically, a housekeeping matter. We 22 weren't trying to make any substantive change 23 there. But, if somebody can tell me what an 24 "informal verdict" is, maybe we can decide whether 25 that even belongs in the rules.

PROFESSOR DORSANEO: One that's not signed properly. One that's not signed in accordance with the rules on who should sign the verdict.

MR. SPARKS (El Paso): Well, why would that be "informal" rather than "defective"? That's defective.

PROFESSOR EDGAR: We deliberated this at a prior meeting, too, and didn't come up with any better answers.

CHAIRMAN SOULES: How about putting in the caption "Correction of Informal or Defective Verdict"?

MR. BECK: See, that's the debate we had in committee and decided, rather than to lengthen the title, we just not modify verdict at all and let the text of the rules speak for itself.

CHAIRMAN SOULES: Let's just take a consensus on that, because it can't be that controversial what we call this. Shall we leave it like it is? Insert -- or leave the word "defective" there, or modify it by putting both "informal" and "defective" in the caption?

PROFESSOR EDGAR: Or leave both of 1 them out.

2 MR. ADAMS: I think there is another
3 alternative, and that is to strike out the 4 "informal" -- just take that out of there.

5 MR. LOW: Out of the whole rule.

6 MR. ADAMS: I don't know how you are 7 going to distinguish between an "informal" and a
8 "defective."

9 MR. REASONER: But, you know, my --

10 CHAIRMAN SOULES: How much research
11 has been done to determine whether that word 12 "informal" has ever been relied on by an appellate 13 court? I don't think we ought to be voting on it, 14 then, if we haven't thoroughly researched it, 15 because we may be taking out something important.

16 MR. REASONER: That's the way I feel.
17 I never have run into an informal verdict, but I 18 presumed somebody that put it in here thought 19 there was such a thing.

20 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. How many 21 think the caption should be -- Lefty has raised a 22 point here that can't be that controversial, but 23 it does need resolution. How many feel that the 24 --

25 MR. SPIVEY: Go ahead and give us the

1 alternatives you were going to give us before you
2 start asking questions.

3 CHAIRMAN SOULES: I just did, and I'll 4 do it again now.

5 MR. SPIVEY: Thank you.

6 CHAIRMAN SOULES: The first 7 alternative is the caption would be "Correction of 8 Verdict"; second alternative, "Correction of 9 Defective Verdict"; third alternative, "Correction
10 of Informal or Defective Verdict."

11 How many for option one, "Correction of 12 Verdict"? Show by hands. Eleven.

13 How many for "Correction of Defective 14 Verdict"? Six.

15 How many for "Correction of Informal or 16 Defective Verdict"? So there's a majority for 17 leaving it the way the Committee proposed it.

18 MR. TINDALL: What about voting on 19 deleting that term "informal" and killing off that 20 snake? I can't believe that no one in this 21 committee here has ever heard of an "informal 22 verdict," that it must just be --

23 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Have you researched
24 it?

25 MR. TINDALL: No, I haven't.

1 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Has anybody
2 researched it that can give us the law on the 3 subject?

4 MR. SPIVEY: Are you going to let 5 Tindall out of order, because --

6 CHAIRMAN SOULES: No, I didn't -- I
7 don't want to take something out of a rule that we 8 haven't researched to find out if it has a 9 purpose.

10 JUSTICE WALLACE: I'd say if Burt
11 Tunks hasn't seen one, there probably is no such 12 thing.

13 MR. ADAMS: Well, there won't be after 14 the rules are adopted.

15 CHAIRMAN SOULES: All right. We can 16 vote on that, and certainly this committee can do 17 so, but if we --

18 MR. TINDALL: Let's kill off "informal 19 verdict" because, really, no one at these tables 20 has ever heard of one in all of our trial
21 experience. There is no such thing, and I move 22 that we delete "informal or" and just talk about 23 "defective verdict."

24 MR. SPARKS (San Angelo): I'll second
25 that.

1 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Moved and seconded.
2 Any further discussion? All in favor, show by 3 hands? Twelve. Opposed? Twelve to four to 4 delete the word "informal."

5 MR. LOW: No matter what it is, if 6 it's not defective, you don't need to fool with it 7 -- whatever "informal" is.

8 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Maybe "defective 9 verdict" is one that's unreasonably dangerous and 10 an "informal" one is really wrong.

11 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Now, what you've 12 just done -- and let me raise a question here. If 13 the verdict is defective, the court may direct 14 that it be reformed, right then and there, huh?
15 "Defective" now covers a conflict; the jury 16 doesn't have to go back in and deliberate?

17 MR. ADAMS: That's how it's going to 18 be reformed.

19 MR. JONES: I hope to God after 277,
20 there will never be another conflict.

21 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): I hope there
22 will never be another verdict.

23 MR. REASONER: I want to tell you,
24 Sam, Franklin is a lot closer to right than you 25 are.

MR. SPARKS (San Angelo): Sam, so you understand, the purpose of this is so the court can -- if you get a "no" answer where you need a "yes" on the plaintiff's side, the court can send them back and say you've answered "no" here and it should be "yes"; you understand?

MR. SPARKS (El Paso): Maybe I ought -- maybe I ought to --

CHAIRMAN SOULES: We have some more work to do on this rule now because of the last vote. Because we talk about the nature of the unresponsiveness -- or do we -- the nature of unresponsiveness or conflicts? Is there anything else in here that deals with informalities that we need to change?

MR. ADAMS: Well, I have a question in this regard --

CHAIRMAN SOULES: Gilbert Adams.

MR. ADAMS: -- and maybe somebody else can answer it. Suppose the jury did not answer the percentage of fault and it comes -- they have got two parties that were negligent, but they didn't answer the percentage of fault, they answered damages. You send them back to answer the fault, and they want to change the damages.

1 Now, are they going to be able to change other 2 issues in response to their answer to the -- say, 3 the unanswered issue?

4 MR. TINDALL: They can right now --

5 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Well, until they 6 return that verdict --

7 CHAIRMAN SOULES: One at a time,
8 please. We're trying to make a record. Who wants 9 to speak?

10 MR. ADAMS: So is it the consensus, 11 then, that they can change any of the other 12 answers along with the -- say, an unanswered?

13 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Yes, sir, until they 14 have a verdict, it's -- they are in deliberations; 15 is that right?

17 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Mr. Chairman?

18 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Yes, sir, Bill
19 Dorsaneo.

20 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Does -- This 21 second sentence, does it mean to you, Professor, 22 only that an incomplete verdict, if it is not 23 responsive to the questions contained in the 24 court's charge, that the answers to the questions 25 are in conflict?

1           The conflict thing, that's -- we studied that 2           conflict cases, body of law, and then the other -- 3           another group of cases that we had to deal with 4           the verdict, are cases where the verdict is 5           incomplete, where the jury hasn't answered a 6           question that it's meant to answer under the 7           instructions --

8           PROFESSOR EDGAR:   Conditioning
9           instructions.

10          PROFESSOR DORSANEO:  -- and the 11          conditional instructions.

12          Now, really, when we go through this and 13          teach it, those are the two situations we're 14          concerned with, principally.  Do you think that 15          first part makes it plain that it's talking about, 16          you know, if it is not responsive to the -- to the 17          questions, does that mean to you incomplete 18          verdict situation; or should we use those words?
19          Because I'm having trouble figuring out what's 20          going on here in this rule, I'm saying.

21          PROFESSOR EDGAR:  Well, if there is 22          any question about it, I think we could certainly 23          say, "If it is incomplete, not responsive to the 24          questions, or the answers are in conflict, the 25          court shall --"

1                   PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I would prefer to 2 do that. And that leaves me with two things that 3 I'm pretty sure about, and a third possible
4 general category that may cover other problems -- 5 and I don't know what they could be, but -- at 6 this point.

7                   PROFESSOR EDGAR: But we could just 8 simply say, "If it is incomplete, not responsive 9 to the questions."

10                   PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Okay, "or the 11 answers are in conflict." I think that would be a 12 decided improvement.

13                   The next thing I would say, when you say, 14 "explain in writing to the jury in open court," I 15 get the idea that what the judge is meant to do is 16 to read -- is to sit down and write this business 17 out rather than -- rather than to start talking 18 before sitting down and planning out verbatim what 19 is meant to be said; is that clear enough?

20                   PROFESSOR EDGAR: That's right, that 21 was the purpose -- that was what was done under 22 the old rule, and we have simply intended to 23 retain that.

24                   PROFESSOR DORSANEO: But is it clear 25 enough to everybody here that the trial judges are

1 not meant to just go in there and start talking?

2 CHAIRMAN SOULES: What about changing 3 this to read, "instruct the jury in writing in 4 open court." That's what he's going to give them, 5 isn't it, a further written instruction?

6 MR. REASONER: I think that's a good 7 idea.

8 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I mean, the idea
9 is that he's meant to write it down before he says 10 anything, so he doesn't do it wrong. Especially 11 in the case of a conflict, there are problems -- 12 potential problems of comments suggesting how that 13 conflict ought to be resolved. We do the trial 14 judges a favor if we make them right it down 15 first.

16 PROFESSOR EDGAR: You want to say,
17 "shall, in writing, instruct the jury in open 18 court"?

19 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): Why is there a 20 necessity to do it in open court?

21 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Because you don't 22 want -- as I -- the cases say you don't want the 23 judge to go into the jury room, in the absence of 24 counsel and the parties, and instruct the jury.

25 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): Well, of 1 course, nobody wants that.

2 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Well, that's why it 3 says that.

4 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): Well, as a 5 practical matter, a lot of times when you're in 6 trial and you go back and you get a question or -- 7 of course, when a verdict is there you're going to 8 be there, hopefully.

9 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: In this area,
10 it's not a problem. It would be in the other rule 11 that it's a problem.

12 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): I move that we 13 adopt 295 with the modification of -- in the first 14 -- second sentence, "If it is incomplete, not 15 responsive to the questions contained in the 16 court's charge," et cetera. I move that that be 17 adopted.

18 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Do you want to say,
19 "The court --"

20 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): Yes.

21 PROFESSOR EDGAR: "-- shall, in 22 writing, instruct the jury in open court," or do 23 we want to change that language?

24 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): Yes.

25 MR. BECK: Hadley, don't we need to

1 change the second part of that, if we're going to 2 change the first part, to include an incomplete 3 situation?

4 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Yes.

5 CHAIRMAN SOULES: I'm sorry. Judge
6 Tunks.

7 JUDGE TUNKS: Mr. Chairman, I've been 8 measuring some of these suggestions against what 9 is probably the most common example of defect or a 10 judgment informality in the jury verdict. That's 11 in connection with a ten to two verdict where you 12 have ten jurors who agree on all of the verdict, 13 and two who disagree with it. In that case, under 14 the form that we submit, the ten jurors who have 15 agreed to the verdict sign at one given place, and 16 the presiding chairman of the jury -- presiding 17 juror, signs at another place.

18 I've seen verdicts in which there would be in 19 answer to special issue number one, ten "yes"; two 20 "no." They didn't indicate -- didn't identify the 21 jurors who were going to answer it -- those ten 22 issues "yes." And at no other place could you 23 tell which ten jurors voted "yes" on special issue 24 number one and which two jurors voted "no" on 25 special issue number nine, ten, or two. That's

1 the most common example of an informality or 2 defect in the jury. The verdict of the jury is 3 really the jury's opinion as to how an answer 4 [sic] should be asked and how a question should be 5 answered.

6 The way you render it for "formal verdict" is 7 to have it reduced to writing in accordance with 8 the instructions that the court gives them. It's 9 an "informal verdict" if it isn't properly reduced 10 to writing that their holdings indicate.

11 I am not sure that these suggested changes in 12 this rule are going to take care of that 13 situation. There are some situations that I doubt 14 the language of these suggested changes would take 15 care of that situation.

16 Another frequent example of an error of the 17 jury in signing a verdict: If there are ten 18 jurors, those ten jurors are directed to sign at 19 the particular place on the verdict sheet.
20 Frequently when that occurs -- and a foreman of 21 the jury is one of the ten jurors who do agree 22 with all the answers, he doesn't sign it where 23 he's instructed to answer it. He signs it on the 24 line where the signature is permitted for the 25 foreman if there is a unanimous verdict. Is that

1 a defect? I don't know. I can't tell under this 2 rule whether this language that we are using in 3 this rule, now, corrects all those possible 4 defects or errors or informalities in that 5 verdict.

6 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I think I agree
7 with Judge Tunks. We ought to put "informal" back 8 in the first sentence -- makes me happy.

9 CHAIRMAN SOULES: If the word
10 "informal" were left in the rule, would you be 11 more comfortable with those concerns, Judge Tunks?

12 JUDGE TUNKS: I believe so.

13 MR. TINDALL: Well, isn't that a
14 defect, Judge? If it's not signed by the jury, 15 properly, that's a defective verdict and you send 16 them back.

17 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, one
18 distinguished jurist finds that problematical.
19 How many more will?

20 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Now, I think
21 there is a case that was before the Supreme Court 22 last year -- argued last year -- McCauley versus 23 Consolidated Underwriters. It involved these very 24 questions of jurists in a ten-two verdict 25 situation not -- it involved other questions, but

1 not playing by the rules. And I'm straining my 2 brain here trying to remember whether the Court of 3 Appeals opinion out of Tyler -- writ was granted
4 and then it was ungranted.

5 You used the word "informal" -- and I frankly 6 don't remember -- but they may well have. And 7 before I'm going to vote "yes" to deleting the 8 language, I'd like to know how it was construed.
9 Because, to me, if it's a problem of signing, then 10 that's a question of a formality. It may be a 11 defect is something else, technically.

12 CHAIRMAN SOULES: If there is anyone 13 who will vote in the majority on the deletion of 14 the words "informal or," we'll move for 15 reconsideration. If not, we'll move on. Judge 16 Tunks has expressed his concerns, and those 17 concerns will be there for the court as well.

18 MR. RAGLAND: I have a question, Luke.
19 Ordinarily, wouldn't polling the jury in that 20 situation under Rule 294 -- wouldn't that give 21 some indication, in the record, as to whether or 22 not that foreman was voting with the ten, or if he 23 was just signing the verdict? And if it turns up, 24 the court can take care of it at that time. I
25 mean, I can't imagine anyone receiving -- a lawyer

1 receiving a verdict that he had some question
2 about and wouldn't ask the jury to be polled.

3 MR. TINDALL: Yeah, Rule 294, the rule
4 right before that deals exactly with that issue
5 about to poll the jury, and if there is a negative 6 vote, you send them back.

7 CHAIRMAN SOULES: All right. We -- 8 let's see. We need to change, then, by way of 9 grammar, some more words in the last part of this 10 -- Hadley?

11 PROFESSOR EDGAR: All right. I would 12 suggest that in -- the second sentence will read, 13 "if it is not incomplete," would need to be 14 inserted there; "responsive to the questions 15 contained in the court's charge or the answers to 16 the questions are in conflict, the court shall, in 17 writing, instruct the jury in open court of the 18 nature of the incompleteness, unresponsiveness, or 19 the conflicts," and then continue on as it says.

20 CHAIRMAN SOULES: "And provide the 21 jury"?

22 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Yeah, "and provide 23 the jury."

24 MR. REASONER: Could you -- is that -- 25 could you give us an example of the difference

1 between "incompleteness" and "unresponsiveness"?

2 PROFESSOR EDGAR: The jury doesn't 3 answer all the issues is "incomplete."

4 MR. REASONER: Yeah, that's 5 "incomplete," I understand that.

6 PROFESSOR EDGAR: "Conflict" is when 7 the answers are in conflict.

8 MR. REASONER: I understand
9 "conflict."

10 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Now, what was your 11 other question?

12 MR. REASONER: Well, you said there is 13 a third category of nonresponsiveness.

14 MR. BECK: Harry, suppose in a damage 15 issue, the jury is asked to answer in dollars and 16 cents, and they answer it "50 percent of the 17 profit" --

18 MR. TINDALL: Or they answer "yes."

19 MR. BECK: -- is that an 20 unresponsive --

21 MR. REASONER: Yeah, yeah.

22 PROFESSOR EDGAR: We don't put "and"
23 before "provide"; "provide them with such 24 instructions and retire the jury for further 25 deliberations." Somebody said to put "and" before

1 "provide" and it doesn't belong there.

2 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Oh, I see. Okay, I
3 didn't do it, that's right. Okay. Sam Sparks, El 4 -- excuse me.

5 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): The last 6 sentence -- don't you have to make that change, 7 also?

8 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Yes, that -- "should 9 the jury again return an incomplete, nonresponsive
10 or inconsistent verdict, the court may again 11 instruct the jury in the same manner" -- yeah, 12 thank you, Sam.

13 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. As just read
14 by Hadley -- is that a motion, Hadley, that it be 15 adopted, recommended in that form? Is there a 16 second?

17 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): I second.

18 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Sam Sparks seconds
19 it.

20 MR. RAGLAND: I have some questions
21 about -- further down in this rule here before we 22 start voting on it.

23 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. Tom Ragland,
24 further discussion on this.

25 MR. RAGLAND: Fifth line from the

1 bottom we use the word "necessary." It seems to 2 me to be inconsistent with what we have in Rule 3 277 where the judge is to instruct the jury, to 4 give them instructions that are proper to render a
5 verdict. What is necessary to render a verdict, 6 may not necessarily be proper.

7 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Second that 8 motion.

9 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. So you are 10 suggesting that we change the word "necessary" to 11 read "proper to enable the jury to render a 12 verdict"?

13 MR. RAGLAND: Well, just "proper." I
14 think you have to read 295 in connection with 277, 15 but I think you ought to use the word "proper" in 16 place of "necessary."

17 CHAIRMAN SOULES: All right. Any 18 objection to that change? There being none, we'll 19 make that change in the proposal.

20 MR. RAGLAND: Then I have an 21 additional question, Luke.

22 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Yes, sir, Tom
23 Ragland.

24 MR. RAGLAND: Second from the bottom
25 phrase "in the same manner." I assume this means

1 if they are given the supplemental charge because 2 of the conflict -- they go back and deliberate, 3 and they come back with a conflict -- does this 4 limit the judge to giving the same instruction the 5 second time that was given the first time? If he 6 says, "in the same manner" -- it seems to me like 7 we don't need that "in the same manner."

8 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, "in the same 9 manner" is meant to mean instruct the jury in 10 writing in open court, that manner.

11 MR. RAGLAND: Well, I think that's 12 what everyone here understands it to mean, but I'm 13 not sure somewhere else in a different environment 14 that it would not mean -- or the contention could 15 be made that you can only give the same
16 instruction you gave the time before.

17 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: That language has 18 caused trouble, too -- it has.

19 CHAIRMAN SOULES: How could we change
20 it so that we --

21 MR. RAGLAND: I just suggest we just 22 delete the phrase "in the same manner." Have it 23 read, "The Court may again instruct the jury and 24 retire them for further deliberations or declare a 25 mistrial."

CHAIRMAN SOULES: Any -- excuse me.
Any objections to those changes? Harry Reasoner?

MR. REASONER: Well, you know, it seems to me that given its proper meaning, "in the same manner" could not mean that you had to give them the same instruction. I mean, that's not what "manner" means. And if you -- if you have -- if you require a written instruction in the first instance and then don't make clear that you are doing it in the second, I suppose that a judge would be legitimate to take from the literal language that they could do it orally the second time.

MR. RAGLAND: What about saying "The Court may again instruct the matter" or "may again instruct the jury --"

PROFESSOR EDGAR: "In like manner"?

MR. RAGLAND: "-- in accordance with this rule."

CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, if there's -- if that's the problem, that it's unclear, just say "may again instruct the jury in writing in open court."

PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Yeah, that would be better.

CHAIRMAN SOULES: Lefty Morris.

MR. MORRIS: Luke, I'm looking at the existing rule. We don't have a reference to even -- to this matter of them coming back. Has there been some problem created? I haven't had a problem with judges knowing they can repeat it over and over again. And I guess I have some trepidation about venturing into this area unless we know of problems. Just say, "should the jury again return a nonresponsive verdict, then they can instruct them or declare a mistrial."

Well, what if they come back a third time? I don't know that a problem exists under the current rule. The judges that I've been dealing with can figure it out. I think we're getting into some new areas here where it could be argued, "If they come back that third time, judge, we want a mistrial."

CHAIRMAN SOULES: Do you have a motion for an amendment?

MR. MORRIS: I just move that that whole sentence beginning with "should the jury" to the end of Rule 295, as proposed, be deleted.

PROFESSOR EDGAR: Well, I have no pride of authorship here. As I recall, in the

1 committee this was something that Franklin
2 suggested and he is not here right now. Is he 3 still here?

4 MR. TINDALL: It was to preclude the 5 premature mistrial. We wanted to give them
6 another chance.

7 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Well, I know. I'm 8 talking about the subcommittee. I'm trying to 9 think of what the subcommittee was trying to 10 accomplish when this was added.

11 MR. BECK: I think Harry stated
12 accurately what the thought was. The thought was 13 that they wanted to make certain that a trial 14 judge could not declare a mistrial until he at 15 least instructs the jury one time. That's my 16 recollection, Hadley.

17 MR. REASONER: Well, that's clear
18 under the existing rule.

19 MR. MORRIS: That's right. They're 20 going to instruct them one time under current 295.
21 They may not the second time, but, certainly, it 22 seems to me like the judges are competent to make 23 that determination. And this seems to me like it 24 precludes a third time -- or it is certainly 25 arguable. If I was in there wanting to get a

1 mistrial, I would start arguing, "No, judge, you 2 can't do this again. Now, is the time they have 3 come back and the hammer falls. It's mistrial
4 time."

5 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. Motion is to 6 delete this last sentence --

7 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Here's Franklin.

8 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Franklin, Lefty
9 Morris has moved that we delete this last sentence 10 of Rule 295, and some thought that may have been 11 your suggestion that this be included.

12 MR. JONES: Mr. Chairman, I don't have 13 any recollection of that. I don't have any strong 14 feelings either way on that.

15 Who's moving it? If Harry Reasoner or David 16 Beck want to do it, well, I may --

17 MR. REASONER: We got you now,
18 Franklin. I seconded Lefty's motion.

19 CHAIRMAN SOULES: The other way to 20 handle the problem, if we want to make it clear 21 that the judge can instruct as many times as he 22 wants to, we could write it that "should the jury 23 thereafter return, the court may, from time to 24 time, as necessary thereafter instruct," and just 25 make it clear that the court can instruct until

1 he's frustrated in trying to get a verdict and 2 then declare a mistrial. That's an alternative.

3 Excuse me, Harry Reasoner.

4 MR. REASONER: Excuse me, Luke. My 5 reaction -- I thought there was a body of law that 6 was, you know -- I don't see this as a problem
7 under the existing rule, I mean. I would presume 8 it to be a matter of the court's discretion how 9 many times he can send the jury back before he 10 declares a mistrial. I mean, I suppose at some 11 point he's brutalizing the jury and you'd have to 12 reverse it. But by attempting to create a rule, a 13 generic rule in this, that limits his discretion, 14 seems to me we may be making something worse
15 that's working fine now.

16 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. I didn't mean
17 to particularly suggest that. I only wanted to 18 offer that as --

19 MR. JONES: Sounds to me like you may 20 be getting outside of the -- what Carlisle De Hay 21 used to call the Allen charge in federal court, 22 which is "We don't have hung juries in federal 23 court."

24 CHAIRMAN SOULES: David Beck.

25 MR. BECK: I don't think the last

1 sentence was intended to limit the trial judge at 2 all, and I don't think the language, if read
3 properly, would so indicate. But it seems to me 4 there are enough questions raised about the 5 addition of that last sentence; but I don't know 6 if we're not better off just striking that and 7 leaving -- and let's just go with the existing 8 rule.

9 CHAIRMAN SOULES: David Beck, then,
10 seconding Lefty's motion to delete it. Any 11 further discussion?

12 All those in favor, show of hands. Opposed?
13 Okay. Looks like it's about 11 to 1 to delete the 14 last sentence.

15 Anything else now on Rule 295? Okay. With 16 that deletion and the changes that have been 17 mentioned, is there a motion that the balance of 18 it be recommended to the Supreme Court for 19 adoption?

20 MR. LOW: I so move.

21 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Second.

22 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Who made the motion?

23 MR. LOW: I did.

24 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay, Buddy -- and 25 Hadley seconds. Those in favor, show by hands.

1 Opposed? That's unanimous.

2 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Mr. Chairman?

3 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Bill Dorsaneo.

4 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I move that 5 someone go through the other rules relating to the 6 charge and replace the word "issue" with the word 7 "question" when appropriate in the Rules of Civil 8 Procedure, and replace the term "explanatory 9 instruction" with the word "instruction" in order 10 to make what we have just voted on consistent with 11 the remainder of the rules. And I guess I also -- 12 well, I'll just leave it at that.

13 PROFESSOR EDGAR: In seconding that 14 motion, I want to specifically let the record 15 reflect that Rule 294 needs to be changed in that 16 regard, and since the following two rules were not 17 within the scope of our subcommittee's work, I 18 specifically refer to Rule 301 and Rule 324c.

19 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Has anyone ever 20 tried to get from West or Butterworth or any of 21 these publishers any help on where words are in 22 the Rules? Where certain words are in the Rules?
 23 In other words, they probably got these on 24 computers -- I just wonder if anyone has ever --

25 JUSTICE WALLACE: Bill and I talked

1 about that yesterday. I'm going to call Troutman
2 and West and see if they can give us some help on 3 that.

4 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: We can table that 5 "lead counsel" problem, too, that way and ask that 6 computer where that phrase appears.

7 CHAIRMAN SOULES: If we can get it
8 that way, that's best. If not, we may need some 9 help on this edit.

10 MR. LOW: Luke, maybe Bill can go 11 through. There might be a few other words that's 12 the same thing. Maybe after he's had a chance to 13 review he'll see some other words that we changed, 14 and may be others, and he can -- perhaps if he'll 15 give a list of the words --

16 JUSTICE WALLACE: Are there rules on 17 West law? Does anybody know for sure?

18 MR. LOW: I don't know, Judge.

19 MR. REASONER: Yeah, that would sure
20 solve it, wouldn't it?

21 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I'm sure we can 22 prevail on West Publishing Company, though, to 23 provide the Supreme Court with the --

24 JUSTICE WALLACE: We'll just tell them
25 we won't give them any more material if they don't

1 do it.

2 PROFESSOR EDGAR: That concludes our 3 subcommittee report.

4 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Hadley, that's a --
5 Hadley and Franklin and all the people -- David -- 6 the people that worked on this, we are much
7 indebted to you, and we really appreciate the, now
8 over one year, or approximately a year's effort 9 that you gave this. And I express that from the 10 Chair, and I know that other members share that.

11 Thank you very much for dedicating yourselves 12 to this effort to revise the charge rules to try 13 to bring them with the current practice. Much 14 obliged. I know the Supreme Court will be as 15 equally as appreciative.

16 Okay. That brings us -- Harry, you want to 17 give us your report next? It follows in pages --

18 MR. TINDALL: Okay.

19 CHAIRMAN SOULES: -- starting on Page
20 156.

21 MR. TINDALL: Okay. Let me just tell
22 you what this first one is -- and this is not a 23 proposal, it's just a drafting suggestion. It 24 follows from -- let me see if the letter is here
25 that triggered this. Yes, if you will turn to 164

1 a minute.

2 The letter was initiated on -- or the 3 drafting was initiated on response from Richard 4 Kelsey. Kelsey wrote about one matter that Rule 5 200 -- which is not addressed in my subcommittee,
6 but dealt with Rule 324 -- which was that it 7 appears that we have, in reality, reinstated the 8 motion for new trial practice because now, as we 9 amended the rules -- I believe it was in '84 -- 10 matters dealing with factual insufficiency of the 11 evidence against the greater weight and 12 overwhelming preponderance of the evidence,
13 excessiveness of damages, and incurable jury 14 argument, all of those matters are now required as 15 a motion for new trial. And so we really haven't 16 slayed-off the new trial practice. And this guy 17 points out that anyone worth his salt would 18 include those in a motion for new trial.

19 So I went back, and after talking with Rusty
20 -- where is Rusty? He was of the opinion, you 21 know, if there is really grievous error in the 22 trial it ought to be contained in a motion for new 23 trial. So I just went back and redrafted 324 to 24 reinstitute the new trial practice.

25 Now, I wasn't on the committee. I believe it

1 was slayed in '77; was it not? It's been about 2 nine years we got rid of the new trial practice.
3 And I just, you know, redrafted it so we would go 4 back to a new trial practice.

5 Where is Rusty? I would like Rusty to come
6 in here because he's the one -- if you can grab 7 him -- he's the one that is very persuasive on why 8 we ought to go back to the --

9 CHAIRMAN SOULES: You know, the 10 subcommittee chairmen on various subcommittees of 11 this advisory committee are asked to draft rules 12 for us to consider, whether or not they are going 13 to recommend them, so that we have got something 14 concrete here to look at and to work on. This 15 rule was submitted to the -- or the request was 16 submitted to the Committee on Administration of 17 Justice in September of 1985. And the Committee 18 on Administration of Justice recommended that the 19 current practice not be changed. In other words, 20 that this rule not -- that this proposal not be 21 adopted. But when it comes here, in order to get 22 it in form where we can consider it, each of the 23 subcommittee chairmen redraft these. That's what 24 Harry has done, and Rusty is here to speak to it.

25 Sam, you got your hand up?

1 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): I was just 2 going to ask a question because I remember when we 3 went through and changed it, however many years 4 ago, the purpose was to try to get a case into the 5 appellate system more rapidly than we were doing
6 it. That was the overall purpose.

7 I'm just wondering -- my experience has been 8 it hasn't changed the time at all, and I was 9 wondering about everybody else's experience. But 10 I remember the overriding purpose of the people 11 that worked on the -- this elimination of motion 12 for new trial to be a prerequisite in certain 13 cases or certain circumstances, that was the real 14 purpose. But I -- I've not seen it.

15 MR. TINDALL: I don't think it's 16 eliminated in family practice. Even in nonjury 17 cases, motions for new trial are filed, and it not 18 only sharpens your argument, you begin to figure 19 out what the other side is going to say. I'd like 20 to hear from Rusty because he's the one that 21 persuaded me to write this rule.

22 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Rusty, we're looking 23 at Page 156, Rule 324. What's your discussion on 24 that, please, sir?

25 MR. MCMAINS: All I'd -- I think Harry

1 and I talked at either the last meeting or the 2 meeting before last about this -- there was some 3 discussion about it. The question is whether you 4 return to the philosophy that we held for 5 essentially 30 years -- 35 years probably -- and 6 then by statute prior to that -- that the trial
7 judge ought to get a look at what the complaints
8 are against his conduct at the trial before you 9 take him up on appeal and try to reverse it, to 10 give him a last shot.

11 And the thesis being, he's got several 12 opportunities, obviously, to correct the error in 13 terms of granting a new trial, if he committed an 14 error during the course of the trial, and 15 probably, that he is in a better position than 16 anybody else to know how harmful or not that it 17 was.

18 The elimination of the motion for new trial 19 practice largely created, what I personally had 20 predicted at the time, was a backlog in the courts 21 of appeals and the Supreme Court by allowing, 22 basically, people to go back and flyspeck the 23 records after the case is tried, and even after a 24 motion for new trial. You got a long period of 25 time in which the appellant has an opportunity to

1 go back, flyspeck the record and assign 375 or 400
2 errors, as you probably are aware in the Texaco 3 case, that undoubtedly would not have been 4 perceived to be important by the person -- by the 5 losing litigant at the time that he left the 6 courthouse with the verdict against him. He 7 knows, pretty much, why it is he lost and what it
8 is he needs to complain about. But, it allows him 9 an opportunity and it's, basically, an anti-jury 10 verdict bias of the new rule to go back and allow 11 a second guess under the current practice of every 12 ruling that the trial judge conceivably made -- a 13 lot of times which there weren't even rulings.
14 But they'll go ahead and argue that it was kind 15 of, sort of a ruling.

16 Any time anybody makes an objection, you just 17 go catalog it. It has had the effect -- and I 18 think Judge Wallace will probably confirm -- of 19 lengthening briefs. It has lengthened time for 20 submissions in the of courts of appeals, and it 21 has proliferated the writing of opinions on a 22 bunch of immaterial crap that is contained in the 23 briefs. I'm not sure that it has increased the 24 number of reversals, but it has delayed and bogged 25 down the process, in my judgment.

1           And the question is whether you return to the 2 motion for new trial practice of before where you 3 don't have to deal with a lot of things that the 4 people, when they lost a lawsuit and then within a 5 month thereafter -- or however long you want to 6 have to amend the motion for new trial -- were not 7 able to figure out that it was harmful as to 8 particular rulings. And that's --

9           MR. JONES: Might I inquire, is this a 10 matter of history or --

11           CHAIRMAN SOULES: Speak up, Franklin, 12 I can't hear you, please, sir.

13           MR. JONES: I was just interested in 14 what rationale prompted the abandonment?

15           MR. MCMAINS: The rationale was the -- 16 Franklin, I think, actually was generated by Judge 17 Pope in 1976. Judge Pope was antagonistic to the 18 motion for new trial practice just because of the 19 number of times that he would read in the sheets
 20 that the Court of Appeals used it as an out to say 21 they raised this point, but it wasn't raising a 22 motion for new trial and isn't presented anywhere
 23 else by a motion for Judgment N.O.V. or whatever.
 24 So it is waived.

25           CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, it went out at

1 the same time the notice of appeal went out, 2 whenever they -- they said they simplified the 3 appellate process, tried to eliminate traps that 4 could be eliminated and then rewrote the time 5 periods, and had a complete overhaul of the 6 appellate rules that took place in about that 7 time --

8 MR. MCMAINS: 1976.

9 CHAIRMAN SOULES: -- deleted the 10 motions for new trial, almost altogether -- if not 11 altogether. And since that time, the court --

12 MR. TINDALL: They came back in 1984
 13 and added all these post-verdict motions.

14 CHAIRMAN SOULES: -- and added the 15 post-verdict matters where there needed to be some 16 kind of hearing -- or might need to be some kind 17 of hearing because it couldn't be a record, 18 really, without a motion for new trial. So those 19 got back in.

20 MR. MCMAINS: Well, this rule has been 21 tinkered with on a number of occasions --

22 - CHAIRMAN SOULES: Yes.

23 MR. MCMAINS: Since '76, virtually 24 every two years. We've been operating under a new 25 or different motion for new trial practice on the 1 average of every two to three years because things 2 keep happening.

3 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Bill Dorsaneo.

4 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Going back to the 5 old sup-waiver rules, what this really means is if 6 somebody got a ruling during the course of the 7 trial that was wrong, and that would be a basis 8 for reversal of the judgment because it probably 9 caused the rendition of an improper verdict, if 10 they didn't get that in their motion for new trial 11 and put it in there, that they've lost that case.
12 And I think -- I think that it is not fair on 13 lawyers to require them to flyspeck the case 14 within the motion for new trial time period upon 15 pain of waiving a complaint that they should be 16 allowed to make. We're not sneaking up on any 17 trial judges. The judge has already ruled, why 18 should that assignment of error have to be 19 assigned in the trial court? Why isn't it good 20 enough to assign it in the appellate brief?

21 From an appellate specialist standpoint, the 22 complaint that I would have about that is that I 23 would like to know sooner, all right? I would 24 like to know what the assignments of error are 25 sooner. But the practical reality of reinstating

1 the old practice is that a lot of lawyers are 2 going to waive legitimate complaints, and that 3 would probably be a good thing for me, but I don't 4 think it's a good thing for the administration of 5 justice.

6 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Harry Reasoner.

7 MR. REASONER: My concern is I don't 8 think you'll have that much actual waiver, 9 although there may be some cases, particularly 10 lawyers who don't have a daily transcript, or are 11 not going to be able to look at a transcript 12 before they are forced to file a motion for new 13 trial. I think they may be at a serious 14 disadvantage.

15 But isn't what you are really going to wind
16 up with, Rusty, is lengthy boiler plate motions 17 for new trial where a person feels obligated to 18 put in 300 points for everything he can dream up 19 in his motion for new trial? And it really is 20 just another hypertechnical trap for the unwary.
21 I mean, it never is in the interest of justice to 22 require this assignment, to think that a trial 23 judge really might do something about it, or could 24 do something about it, are going to be called to 25 his attention without using this as just one more

1           snare for the unwary.

2                           CHAIRMAN SOULES:   Hadley Edgar, and 3           then David.

4                           PROFESSOR EDGAR:   Let me just second 5           what Harry and Bill have said.   The purpose of 6           modernizing our appellate rules was to keep it 7           from being a trap for the unwary, and this was all 8           part of the -- this was simply a part of the whole 9           in order to accomplish this.   And once the trial 10          court has had an opportunity to rule on a matter, 11          then why should it be subject to further trial 12          court review as a predicate for appellate 13          complaint?

14                          The matters which are now listed in Rule 324, 15          if you will look at them, are only matters upon 16          which the trial court has not yet had an 17          opportunity to rule.   And as to those matters, the 18          trial court should not be ambushed.   The trial 19          court should have an opportunity to review these 20          matters before it is subjected to appellate 21          review, and that's why they are there.

22                          But as to other matters, it seems to me that 23          in keeping with the liberalized appellate practice 24          and we -- really, the appellate practice today is 25          really probably far more technical than we ever

1 intended it to be. I mean, waiver is still just 2 rampant in this area, far more than it is at the 3 trial level at times. And I'm really against 4 doing anything that compounds the 5 hypertechnicality of the appeal. So I'm opposed 6 to the motion.

7 CHAIRMAN SOULES: David Beck.

8 MR. BECK: I'm opposed to the motion,
9 too. I must say that I'm a great believer in 10 setting up pitfalls in the rules, but I think this 11 would represent such a fundamental change in 12 philosophy that I just don't think this committee 13 ought to go on record as flip-flopping back and 14 forth on such a fundamental change. This was 15 debated for years before we made this change, and 16 I think we ought to stick with it.

17 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. What's the 18 recommendation of the Committee?

19 MR. TINDALL: I move that we vote it 20 down.

21 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Move to be voted 22 down. Is there a second?

23 MR. LOW: I second.

24 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. Those in 25 favor, show hands. Opposed? That's unanimously

1 rejected.

2 MR. TINDALL: One other report on our 3 subcommittee, Luke, is -- I think it's got a good
4 point. I'm not sure of the answer. Turn to Page 5 159. I am not experienced in motions for new 6 trial following judgments rendered on citations by 7 publication. If there is someone else here that's 8 got more experience in that area, please let me 9 know. The problem is that I didn't know this was 10 even in the law until I read this Gilbert versus 11 Lobley case that he cited, and it's a writ he 12 refused outright.

13 When you file a motion for new trial as a 14 defendant in a citation by publication case, you 15 have to serve the opposing party, you can't just 16 give notice to the counsel of record. The problem 17 is that under our rules -- let's say, the judgment
18 was on January the 1st of 1985. When you file it 19 here on September the 1st, 1986, that motion is 20 deemed to have been filed on the 30th day 21 following judgment, for appellate purposes. The 22 problem is you then got to have service on the 23 adverse party and have a hearing by the court 24 within the 75th day. Well, there is no way if 25 it's deemed to have been filed on the 30th day

1 following the day of judgment, even though you 2 filed in September, the judge has only got until 3 October the 15th to hear it. How do you get them
4 served in time to have a hearing? Does everyone 5 understand the calculating problems?

6 Well, there's two ways you can deal with it.
7 One I drafted is: You can serve the adverse party 8 under Rule 21a, that would be one suggestion; or 9 another suggestion would be, that it would be 10 before service of completion on the last party 11 adversely interested in such judgment.

12 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Harry, I'm not -- 13 I'm not following -- I don't understand what the 14 problem is exactly. I understand it's in this 15 Paragraph "d"; am I right?

16 MR. TINDALL: That's right.

17 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Would you explain
18 it to me again. I remember when this was added -- 19 when Judge Gittard recommended that it be added, 20 and I didn't exactly follow it then, and kind of 21 took what he did on faith -- good person to follow
22 on that basis ordinarily. But what is the problem 23 with that?

24 MR. TINDALL: The problem is one of 25 calculation. The judge loses jurisdiction on the 1 75th day following the date of judgment, okay?

 2 If, in a citation by publication, when you go 3 under Rule 329d, like Dan -- you see, if the 4 motion is filed more than 30 days after the 5 judgment, all of the period of time specified in 6 Rule 308 shall be computed as if the judgment were 7 signed 30 days before the date of the filing of 8 the motion.

9 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Okay. Let's 10 stop. So if you take the date the motion was 11 filed and you just pretend the judgment was signed 12 30 days before.

13 MR. TINDALL: That's right. And then 14 you've got to get service on the adverse party.
 15 Conceivably, if you've got service the very day 16 you filed it, he would have the right to have an 17 answer on the next Monday following 20 days.
 18 You've got a maximum of 45 days in which to get 19 him served and have a hearing on the motion for 20 new trial.

21 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: That's what I 22 don't see. _

23 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Where does that 45
 24 -- where does that period come from? What part of 25 the rule, Harry?

1 MR. TINDALL: Well, the judge loses
2 jurisdiction of the judgment after 75 days. And 3 for a motion for a new trial following citation by 4 publication judgment, you've already lost 30 days
5 when you file it.

6 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Where did you get 7 the 75-day period? What rule is that?

8 MR. TINDALL: Isn't that 324?

9 MR. MCMAINS: It's 329b.

10 MR. TINDALL: 329b.

11 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Well, the 329b
12 doesn't talk about motions for new trial following 13 citation by publication, does it? That's for a 14 motion to modify corrected reform of the judgment.

15 MR. MCMAINS: Hadley, the way the 16 computation works and the reason for the "d" 17 portion of the rule, is because of the allowance
18 of up to two years, I guess it is, in this rule 19 when you have served somebody by publication to 20 file a motion for new trial.

21 Since all of our periods ran from the 22 judgment, and none run from the motion of new 23 trial, he had to go back and fix it. So what he 24 did was treat the motion for new trial when it is 25 filed within the two years as if it is filed on

1 the 30th day after judgment.

2 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I see, now. On 3 the last day that it could be filed, if it was a 4 regular motion for a new trial.

5 MR. MCMAINS: That's right. And so
6 that then that all of your periods -- you treat 7 the judgment as if it was entered 30 days prior to 8 the date of the motion for new trial, which means 9 that you have lost that 30-day period in the 10 plenary jurisdiction of the trial court. So
11 you're left with 75 days. Their complaint, I 12 gather, is they've got only 75 days to complete 13 their service and get a hearing.

14 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Yeah, that's not
15 right.

16 MR. MCMAINS: I think you can correct
17 that, in all probability, in terms of at least 18 giving another 30 days if you treat the judgment 19 as signed on the date that the motion for new 20 trial is filed.

21 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: But is 30 days
22 going to be enough in this situation?

23 MR. MCMAINS: I don't know.

24 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: It would seem to 25 me this would be a situation where there may be

1 some problems getting service of citation
 2 accomplished.

3 MR. TINDALL: Well, that's the 4 problem, then, and one alternative would be -- or, 5 alternatively, the motion for new trial may be 6 served upon the adverse party or his attorney 7 under Rule 21a. Of course, that's a problem of 8 whether you're still around -- you know, you may 9 have closed your law office or don't want to 10 represent the client.

11 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I don't like 12 serving --

13 MR. TINDALL: I mean, that's an 14 eternal --

15 MR. WELLS: You may not know who his 16 attorney is.

17 MR. TINDALL: Well, that's an eternal
 18 problem. Presumably, you know, there would be 19 something in the court's record to indicate who 20 the judgment holder or attorney was at the time.

21 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I like the second
 22 alternative -- I mean, the "d." Changing "d" 23 seems to avoid the problem of figuring out who 24 this attorney is. I guess we could tell them, 25 "Put your name in there, Harry," and then we'd

1 know who we could serve in all these cases.

2 MR. TINDALL: Sure. Well, before the 3 completion of service -- let's see. Then it would 4 be -- or we could do it -- we could deem that the 5 motion for new trial is filed on the date -- or 6 the judgment is deemed to have been signed on the 7 day the motion for new trial was filed and that 8 would give them 75 days, if we went that approach, 9 rather than 45 days, which is the impossible
10 burden now. That might be a --

11 MR. MCMAINS: Now, Bill, the only 12 problem with the amendment of "d" as it is, is the 13 party -- the last party adversely interested --

14 MR. TINDALL: It could be forever.

15 MR. MCMAINS: I mean, I -- you know, 16 if you've got -- a lot of this, of course, is in 17 land litigation and you may be -- it may be that 18 you've looking for a long -- some of those parties 19 you may have been looking for a long time, or 20 their heirs.

21 MR. TINDALL: We could change "d" then 22 to say, "If the motion is filed more than 30 days 23 after the judgment was signed, all of the periods 24 of time specified in Rule 308a(7) shall be 25 computed as if the judgment were signed." And

1 strike 30 days and put, "on the date of filing the 2 motion." Is there anything wrong with that?

3 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I just like the 4 whole idea of treating this as a motion, thinking
5 -- giving it a timetable like an ordinary motion 6 for new trial. I think what we have here is we 7 have, in effect, a new lawsuit. That's why
8 somebody -- there wasn't a lawsuit -- I mean, it's 9 the same -- the motion for new trial is the 10 vehicle for virtually automatically getting a new 11 trial for setting aside the judgment, because this 12 contemplates that there will be -- somebody will 13 show entitlement that they didn't know about the 14 -- that they were cited by publication, that they 15 didn't know about the judgment within a two-year
16 period, and now they're coming back and satisfying 17 a fairly minimal burden. And what happens is 18 you're going to have the trial. I think this "d" 19 is a bad idea to begin with.

20 MR. MCMAINS: Well, now, I -- it's not 21 a bill of review procedure. You don't have a 22 trial.

23 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: It used to be 24 called a Statutory Bill of Review -- and that's 25 not good to call it that -- and it's a lot closer

1 to a bill of review of procedure than it is to an 2 ordinary motion for new trial.

3 MR. MCMAINS: Well, at any rate, my 4 real -- now that he has mentioned it, Bill, though 5 one of the things that is of significance is that 6 the effect of this Rule, too, is to deny you an 7 ability to amend the motion because, under our 8 current rule, you've got 30 days in which to file
9 or amend. So if you file the motion for new trial 10 and you've left something out, since the current 11 rule deems that as having been filed the 30th day, 12 you don't get a chance to amend it again.

13 So it -- I mean, you know, it actually has 14 two vices. In addition to cutting out the 30 15 days, it also means that you better take your best 16 shot or you don't have any opportunity to amend.
17 And the other side can come in and say, "Well, you 18 forgot to allege X and --"

19 MR. TINDALL: Isn't the real world
20 that if you have a citation by publication and 21 motion for new trial, they are almost always 22 granted? I mean, I never had one. It's just one 23 of those things.

24 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I had one about 25 two years ago and I had some trouble explaining

1 the standard for granting it to the trial judge.

2 MR. TINDALL: But it was granted.

3 Judge Tunks, you've been around, am I not --

4 JUDGE TUNKS: I don't know anything in 5 the world about citation by publication and the 6 acts of following that.

7 MR. REASONER: Well, you know, the 8 rule says "good cause." I think you would have to 9 show something. You'd have to make some showing 10 that you had some basis for --

11 MR. TINDALL: If I was in Europe?

12 MR. REASONER: Well, no, I don't think 13 mere absence -- I think you would have to make 14 some showing you had some basis for hoping to 15 prevail if you got a new trial.

16 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, the case
17 has defined "good cause" in a very generous way.

18 MR. TINDALL: I didn't know about the 19 lawsuit. I had no personal knowledge. That's 20 almost enough, isn't it?

21 MR. REASONER: I don't think that's 22 sufficient.

23 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, if you read 24 the cases to see that that's what it says is 25 sufficient --

1 MR. REASONER: You've now taken a
2 stronger position as we've gotten into this 3 discussion.

4 MR. TINDALL: What is wrong with 5 changing it to say, "that will be computed as if 6 the judgment were signed on the day of the filing 7 of the motion"?

8 PROFESSOR EDGAR: "Of a timely motion"
9 -- "the day of filing a timely motion."

10 MR. TINDALL: Well, sure. I think you
11 are always working within the -- of a timely 12 motion. That --

13 PROFESSOR EDGAR: That at least gives 14 him 30 more days. That may not be --

15 MR. TINDALL: That gives him 75 days
16 in which to get his service and have a hearing.

17 MR. RAGLAND: Would it be simpler just 18 to say he's got 75 days, rather than trying to 19 incorporate the timetables set up with another 20 rule somewhere? This is a different breed of cat, 21 it appears to me.

22 MR. TINDALL: Well, ostensibly there
23 would be -- you kick in, Tom, to the appellate 24 tables. I think they are trying to make them as 25 consistent as possible. It's like the old nunc

1 pro tunc --

2 MR. RAGLAND: Well, I understand that,
3 but wouldn't it be simpler just to say you've got 4 75 days to get your business tended to and to go
5 on about your business?

6 MR. TINDALL: Well, that's what it is 7 when you say, "shall be computed as if the 8 judgment were signed on the date of filing the 9 timely motion."

10 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I think somebody
11 ought to go back and rewrite "d" to explain to a 12 lawyer who is reading it what the timetable is 13 when this procedure is being followed. And this 14 cross-referencing to other things is, I think,
15 frankly, keeping the timetable a bit of a secret 16 from most of the people. And that's --

17 MR. TINDALL: Well, what are you 18 saying to me?

19 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, what I'm 20 saying is that this is a different breed of cat.
21 And the last change that brought it into the fold, 22 brought it into the fold in a confusing kind of 23 way. And if this breed of cat required somebody 24 -- the defendant's previous -- the judgment -- the 25 creditors-to-be, or whoever they are, whether

1 they're creditors or not -- the judgment winners,
2 the judgment holders -- to be served by citation
3 in contemplation of maybe one preliminary hearing 4 on good cause or maybe one new trial that 5 incorporates the elements under the rule, and the 6 new -- the trial on the merits which -- I think, 7 the cases say you can do it either way -- that 8 there ought not to be this short -- maybe there 9 ought not to be this short time span within which 10 the court has to act.

11 And it's a different kind of thing when 12 somebody has been cited by publication and there 13 is a judgment. There really hasn't been a trial, 14 and what we are trying to do now, here, is to have 15 a trial. The showing is, as I read the cases, 16 fairly minimal if you were cited by publication.
17 And imposing this -- this timetable on the matter 18 that is applicable to an ordinary motion for new 19 trial may not be a good idea. It's really,
20 clearly bad in the respect you point out that it 21 may be bad as a general proposition to have that 22 timetable. And I'd like to see somebody study -- 23 think about that. You know, how much time should 24 somebody have to serve, how much time should they 25 -- I mean, should there be any clock running at

1 all on serving citation for this motion for new 2 trial? How much time should they have to have a
3 hearing? Should there be any clock running at all 4 before there is an order signed granting or 5 denying this new trial?

6 MR. TINDALL: Right now, they've got 7 45 days. And if we change it to the date the 8 judgment is deemed to have been signed on the day
9 you file it, that would give them an additional 30 10 days to get their act together and try to get 11 relief. That doesn't seem revolutionary to me.

12 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Let me suggest this:
13 I understand some of Bill's concerns. I'm not 14 sure we can solve all of those and patch up the 15 problem that's been raised here, Harry, but if --

16 MR. TINDALL: Bexar County Legal Aid
17 is who wrote the --

18 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Suppose we say
19 this: We stop there at the word "signed," and in 20 order to try to reveal and not keep secret the 21 time periods, add "So it shall be computed as if 22 the judgment were signed and the time periods in 23 Rule 329b begin to run on the date of filing the 24 timely motion." So that we key them back to the 25 time periods in 329b, we just don't leave it for

1 them to try to conclude what it means as if the 2 judgment were signed. We go ahead and say, "and 3 the time periods begin to run."

4 MR. WELLS: Does this apply in family
5 law matters?

6 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: That's where it
7 comes up. It's the case I had, a family law case, 8 where somebody's parental rights were terminated 9 when they were cited by publication, and they 10 ought not to have a 10,000-mile-an-hour track they 11 have to run.

12 MR. WELLS: But there are some family
13 interests that have developed within that two-year 14 period, ought they to be able to drag things along 15 for how long? The contestant -- the husband comes 16 back after a year and ten months. Isn't there 17 some interest in having a prompt determination?

18 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Well, I don't think
19 Bill is perhaps saying that -- that there 20 shouldn't be a prompt determination. It's just 21 how prompt it should be, and whether he should be 22 placed on a fast track up or out; isn't that your 23 concern, Bill?

24 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Right. If I have 25 X number of days to serve somebody or time is up

1 -- jurisdictionally up -- I have X number of days 2 to convince the trial judge to set this for 3 hearing. My opponent knows that and they may have 4 a different attitude about when the hearing ought 5 to be -- probably never. I just don't like 6 imposing these -- what seem to me to be artificial 7 deadlines borrowed from another subject area,
 8 merely because it's called a motion for new trial
 9 when it is a different breed of cat.

10 MR. TINDALL: Luke, I have some 11 reservation. I don't -- I haven't followed 12 through -- you've got 329b, which is an entirely 13 different creature from 329 -- I mean, 329 is an 14 entirely different creature from 329b. It seems 15 like the rules are structured that the motions 16 following citation by publication are to be 17 handled separately. I don't know what the effect 18 is of kicking them back over to all those things 19 that we have about plenary authority, to correct 20 and modify, and, you know, just on and on and on.
 21 Do we want to vest a court with that or do we 22 really vest a court only with granting a new 23 trial? I'm not sure what those cases hold. I 24 haven't gotten into it.

25 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Harry Reasoner.

1 MR. REASONER: Well, you know, if I
2 could ask Harry, I'm having trouble reading 3 306a(7). As I read it, it says that, "With 4 respect to motion for new trial filed more than 30
5 days after judgment is signed pursuant to Rule 329 6 when process has been served by publication, the 7 periods provided by Paragraph 1 shall be computed 8 as if the judgment were signed on the date of the 9 filing of the motion." Isn't that in conflict 10 with the --

11 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Was that just 12 amended, Harry?

13 MR. REASONER: Yeah.

14 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Yeah, that was 15 changed both there and in the appellate rules for 16 another reason. So you've pointed out another
17 problem.

18 MR. REASONER: Yeah, so, I mean, at 19 least if I'm understanding it, it's in conflict 20 with the existing language. So, at a minimum, we 21 ought to conform it to --

22 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Why don't we 23 conform it and that will be -- do basically what 24 you want to do, Luke, I think, and save the bigger 25 problem for another meeting.

1 MR. TINDALL: Just make the motion as 2 deemed to have been -- the judgment is deemed to 3 have been signed on the day you filed it. Isn't 4 that really what that says, Harry, anyway?

5 MR. REASONER: That's what Paragraph 7
6 of 306a -- that's the way I read it now.

7 MR. TINDALL: Yes.

8 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Is there a motion
9 on the floor, Mr. Chairman?

10 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Why doesn't somebody 11 restate it before we --

12 MR. TINDALL: Well, I would move we 13 change 329d, like Dan, to say, "shall be computed 14 as if the judgment," and try to get the language 15 exactly --

16 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Read the whole thing
17 so I can --

18 MR. TINDALL: All right. 329d would 19 read, "If the motion is filed more than 30 days 20 after the judgment was signed, all periods of time 21 specified in Rule 306a(7) shall be computed as if 22 the judgment were signed on the date of filing the 23 motion."

24 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Harry, why don't we 25 just simply say, "that all periods of time shall

1 be computed as specified in Rule 306a(7)," because 2 that's what 306a(7) says. Because, as amended, 3 306a(7) says, "that it shall be computed as if the 4 judgment were signed on the date of the filing of 5 motion."

6 MR. TINDALL: Well, what if we just 7 deleted "d," then?

8 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, then,
9 nobody will know if --

10 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Then nobody will 11 know when it -- you need to refer back, I think, 12 to the time period in 306a(7). But, you see, it's 13 in looking at Rule 329d -- it is that part of that 14 provision after 7 -- paren 7 -- that creates the 15 ambiguity.

16 MR. TINDALL: All right. That's 17 acceptable.

18 JUDGE THOMAS: So how is it going to 19 read, Hadley?

20 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Well, I would just 21 say, "If the motion is filed more than 30 days 22 after the judgment is signed, all periods of time
23 shall be computed as specified in Rule 306a(7)."
24 Wouldn't that do it?

25 MR. TINDALL: Yes.

1 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Now, I'm just 2 asking --

3 MR. TINDALL: Well --

4 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Is that your motion?

5 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Yes.

6 MR. TINDALL: I'll second that.

7 PROFESSOR EDGAR: I'm asking if that 8 will do it.

9 MR. TINDALL: I think that cures it.
10 Now, we need to go back to the changes --

11 MR. REASONER: Let me ask one
12 question. Hadley, did you say the way it reads 13 now is that "all the periods of time specified" --

14 PROFESSOR EDGAR: No, I said, "all the 15 periods of time shall be computed as specified in 16 Rule 306a(7)."

17 MR. REASONER: Okay. My question,
18 then, is: What is the referent of all the periods 19 of time? I mean, are we talking about periods of 20 time not provided for in Rule 306a? I mean, are 21 there additional periods of time you are 22 purporting to govern?

23 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Yeah, I see what you 24 mean.

25 MR. RAGLAND: It looks like to me that

1 Paragraph 7 of 306a relates only to the motions
2 filed under 329. I don't know how you can be 3 confused if you keep one to the other.

4 MR. REASONER: Well, there would -- 5 you know, I guess you could make an argument that 6 there are other relevant time periods governed by 7 other rules and --

8 MR. RAGLAND: But Paragraph 7 relates 9 only to those motions filed under 329.

10 MR. REASONER: I agree. And the way
11 the rule is presently drafted, it makes clear you 12 are limiting it to those periods of time governed 13 by 306a. It just seems to me that you ought to 14 leave it that way.

15 MR. TINDALL: Well, Harry, how would 16 you do 329d, then, if it's not like Hadley 17 suggested?

18 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Well, to remove any 19 problem, you could just simply repeat here in 329d 20 where it says, "shall be computed as if the 21 judgment were signed on the date of filing the 22 motion." Which is a repeat from 306a(7), which is 23 what I was trying to eliminate. But if that's 24 some problem with that, well, just repeat it.

25 MR. RAGLAND: Of course, then if you

1 -- if the court at some later date amends 306a(7), 2 well, then, you've got to go back and amend 329.
3 I don't know whether it would be a big problem, 4 but it looks like it is just keyed right into 5 Paragraph 7, and you ought to just leave it like 6 that.

7 PROFESSOR EDGAR: That's what --

8 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Harry, if we took 9 the words out "all of the" and just said, "periods
10 of time shall be computed as specified in Rule 11 306a(7)," would that help your concern?

12 MR. TINDALL: I think so.

13 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Harry Reasoner. If 14 we took out "all the periods," and just said 15 "periods of time shall be computed as specified in 16 Rule 306a(7)"? If there's some other period of 17 time, I guess --

18 MR. REASONER: Well, suppose you just 19 -- let me just ask Hadley a thing about this. If 20 you said, "If the motion is filed more than 30 21 days after the judgment was signed, Rule 306a(7)
22 will govern"?

23 MR. TINDALL: It's really -- if you
24 really read 329 in its entirety, "d" is not really 25 very germane to anything else contained in that

1 rule. Nothing else in there really has anything 2 else to do with the appellate timetables except 3 "d." It's really inappropriate there. It ought 4 to just be completely covered under 306a. The 5 question is: Do we want to lead the practitioner 6 from 329 back to 306a?

7 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Well, I would think
8 that's what the scriptors originally intended 9 because then you look at that, then you have to 10 look at Rule 306a(1), and then you have to look at 11 Rule 329b. And that's how you ultimately get to 12 your 75-day max. And that's what Bill was -- I 13 mean, that's the mental route that the 14 practitioner has to take to do this. And that's 15 why Bill was suggesting that what we should do is, 16 perhaps, set up an independent timetable, set out
17 in Rule 329b, to keep the lawyer from having to go 18 through those mental gymnastics. But I think for 19 the time being if we could, in some way, just 20 refer him to the time period in 306a, regardless 21 of how we would do it that would be adequate.

22 MR. TINDALL: Well, without trying to 23 build a clock here, couldn't we just say, Luke, 24 going back and changing "d" only ever so slightly 25 so we don't know what all the periods of time and

1 all that gets him -- just say, "specified in Rule 2 306a shall be computed as if the judgment were 3 signed on the date the motion is filed." It's a 4 repeat of 306a(7).

5 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Yeah, that's right.
6 That's fine.

7 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. One last
8 suggestion -- does anyone else have a suggestion?
9 I've got one last thought on it.

10 What if we say -- I believe this is more or 11 less what Harry Reasoner was suggesting, too -- 12 "If the motion is filed more than 30 days after 13 the judgment was signed, the time period shall be 14 computed pursuant to Rule 306a." Because all 15 we're trying to do is get them back to 306a.
16 That's the whole purpose of this now, isn't it?
17 That's all that's left of the purpose of "d" down.

18 MR. TINDALL: Well, I would put 19 306a(7) You've got --

20 CHAIRMAN SOULES: 306a(7), okay. "The 21 time period shall be computed pursuant to Rule 22 306a(7)."

23 MR. TINDALL: Period.

24 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Period.

25 MR. TINDALL: I so move.

1 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Second? Is there a 2 second to that?

3 JUDGE THOMAS: Second.

4 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Who was that -- 5 seconded by Judge Thomas?

6 JUDGE THOMAS: Yes.

7 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Exactly how is that 8 going to work?

9 CHAIRMAN SOULES: "If the motion is 10 filed more than 30 days after the judgment was 11 signed, the time period shall be computed pursuant 12 to Rule 306a(7)."

13 PROFESSOR EDGAR: "Time periods --"

14 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Yes, sir.

15 PROFESSOR EDGAR: "-- shall be 16 computed --" as what?

17 CHAIRMAN SOULES: "-- shall be 18 computed pursuant to Rule 306a(7)."

19 Any further discussion? In favor, show by 20 hands? Opposed, like sign. That's unanimous.

21 Are we going to permit the service to be made 22 on counsel_of record pursuant to 21a?

23 MR. TINDALL: I wouldn't recommend
24 that.

25 CHAIRMAN SOULES: You don't recommend

1 that.

2 MR. TINDALL: No, because the problems
3 are -- we all know you get the judgment for the 4 client, the client has lost, you and the client
5 have had a falling out -- there could be a million 6 other reasons why service on the attorney would be 7 inappropriate up to two years after the judgment.

8 PROFESSOR EDGAR: I guess what your 9 alternative -- if you couldn't find the original 10 plaintiff, you could go out and get citation by 11 publication, wouldn't you?

12 MR. TINDALL: I guess.

13 PROFESSOR EDGAR: In the family area,
14 Harry, I can see this as a real problem.

15 MR. TINDALL: I've not seen it come up
16 in my practice, and I've been doing family law 17 work for 11 years. Although when you are sitting 18 in the court waiting for your case to be heard, 19 there are scores of default divorces rendered on 20 citation. I thought it was more in land
21 litigation where they can't find the record title 22 holder, and there's a spat over --

23 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Judge Thomas.

24 JUDGE THOMAS: I agree with Hadley and 25 Harry, and I do see it. And particularly in

1 family law, I think that service upon the attorney
2 would be unfair to the attorney and would not do
3 what we're trying to do. That would just scare 4 the blank out of me.

5 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Is there any motion,
6 then, that 21a service be permitted?

7 MR. TINDALL: I move that we not 8 accept that.

9 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): I second.

10 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Moved and seconded
11 that that be rejected. In favor, show by hands.
12 Opposed? That's unanimously rejected.

13 MR. RAGLAND: That means you don't 14 serve the attorney; is that right?

15 CHAIRMAN SOULES: That's right.

16 MR. TINDALL: That's right. The 17 practice is as usual.

18 MR. RAGLAND: I don't want to be 19 forced into filing an answer.

20 MR. TINDALL: Although I'm sure -- how 21 many of you knew that you had to serve the 22 attorney? I mean, that was a revelation to me. I 23 mean, you had to serve the party with citation on 24 a motion for new trial, that's sort of an arcane 25 area of the law.

1 Luke, let me move on --

2 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Yes, sir.

3 MR. TINDALL: Our committee is charged
4 with Rule 315 to 331 and those have been the only 5 two problems that have been addressed to our 6 subcommittee in the last two years -- that is, the 7 new trial issue and then the issue that was raised 8 on 329.

9 I took the liberty of looking at all these 10 other rules -- and I don't want to spend a lot of 11 our time on it -- but if the committee could sort 12 of give me some thought, I will pursue it for our 13 next called meeting. That deals with the issues 14 of remittitur and correction. Rules 315 through 15 319 -- if you're on Page 161, these rules have a 16 lot of -- shall I call it "archaic phraseology," 17 and so forth.

18 For example, I didn't know on a remittitur 19 that you, in placation, you had to go down and 20 sign a written release on a remittitur in front of 21 the court clerk, as opposed to just signing and 22 acknowledging it before a notary public. So, that 23 seemed like something that is probably never done.
24 I don't know if there is any great change being -- 25 yes, Bill?

1 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Harry, we had to
2 make a decision when we were working on the Rules
3 of the Appellate Procedure where appellate 4 procedure would begin and trial procedure would 5 end.

6 MR. TINDALL: Sure.

7 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: And our committee
8 did redraft -- did come to the same conclusion 9 that you came to in reviewing these rules; that 10 is, they needed some work. And we did redraft 11 them all, as a matter of fact, and the draft 12 exists.

13 MR. TINDALL: Well, I'd like to see 14 what you have on that because our committee could 15 review them. I mean, there is -- like I say, 315 16 is an example of the problems you have, the 17 correction of mistakes; 316, which is really our 18 judgment nunc pro tunc --

19 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: 331 is a great
20 rule if you look at that. That's the one that --

21 MR. TINDALL: 331 is -- well, 330,
22 yes, and 331, I'll -- you'll see, I covered those 23 over here. I'm not sure what 330 -- look at 330 24 for a minute. It really is -- administrative 25 rules, I think, are covered under Rule 200a, now,

1 talking about, "The following rules of practice 2 and procedure governing all -- in all civil 3 actions and district courts in the county where 4 the only district court of said county vested with 5 civil jurisdiction, or all the courts having 6 successive terms." I suppose county with more 7 than two district courts -- and it goes into 8 matters that are largely repeated in Rule 200a. I 9 don't know -- it's really not a Rules of Civil 10 Procedure as much as an administrative type thing
11 that judges sit for each other. And 331 -- read 12 that. That is the wildest rule in the whole set.

13 PROFESSOR EDGAR: That's the funniest
14 thing. You can't help but laugh when you look at 15 that rule.

16 MR. REASONER: Yeah, I just read it.
17 I can't read it, it hurts my head.

18 MR. TINDALL: Well, my thought was 331
19 could be repealed and we'd never -- there is no --

20 PROFESSOR EDGAR: I so move.

21 CHAIRMAN SOULES: It reads like a 22 rolling stone.

23 MR. TINDALL: Well, see, I think this 24 was, you know, in 1949 or '41, whenever they did 25 that.

1 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: It is a pre air
2 conditioning rule.

3 MR. TINDALL: That's right. It was 4 late in the afternoon, and they just made that and 5 carried forward.

6 CHAIRMAN SOULES: What are you
7 suggesting here, Harry?

8 MR. TINDALL: Well, I would certainly 9 move that 331 be repealed. I mean, nobody 10 knows --

11 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Second.

12 MR. TINDALL: -- what that thing says
13 and there's never been a case that cites it.

14 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I suggest that 15 the old appellate committee that worked on these 16 send to you the draft and we defer action on these 17 rules. We made fun of Rule 331, but it must have 18 meant something to someone at the time it was 19 written in such an apparently confusing way.

20 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): I would suggest 21 if there's never been a case citing it, that it is 22 a perfectly good rule.

23 CHAIRMAN SOULES: So we're going to 24 defer to the next called meeting these 315 through 25 331?

1 MR. TINDALL: Well, I -- yes.

2 Actually, Bill's work and Rusty's on the appellate 3 really only cover Rules 315 through 3 -- well, 4 actually through --

5 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: We went all the 6 way back and started worrying about it at Rule 7 301, Harry, actually.

8 MR. TINDALL: Right.

9 CHIEF JUSTICE POPE: May I --

10 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Yes, sir, Chief 11 Justice Pope.

12 CHIEF JUSTICE POPE: -- talk about 13 Rule 331. You know, I don't know what they had 14 back before 1941 in the way of exceptional courts, 15 but, thereafter we started in with special 16 district courts that handled juvenile cases, and 17 then special district courts that handled family
18 law cases. And we still have ten, I think,
19 district courts, criminal cases only. But there 20 has been a great movement by the legislature, and 21 by everybody else, to get all district courts in 22 one package so that they are all the same. And 23 very frankly, I don't know of any district courts 24 of exceptional classification or description, and 25 I would recommend we repeal Rule 331.

1 MR. TINDALL: I join Judge Pope in 2 that. As I say, there is no citation of anything 3 of what that court means.

4 CHIEF JUSTICE POPE: We now have 5 juvenile courts under the same rules, domestic 6 relations courts or district courts -- everything 7 is now district courts.

8 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. Motion has 9 been made to repeal Rule 331, and seconded. Is 10 there any further discussions? Okay. All in 11 favor, show hands. Opposed? That is unanimously 12 -- that vote is unanimous to recommend to the 13 Supreme Court to repeal Rule 331.

14 MR. TINDALL: Luke, one correction and 15 then we'll quit. What does Rule -- does anyone 16 know what Rule 330 accomplishes that's not covered 17 under the government -- under -- I guess under -- 18 yes, the Government Code?

19 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, you have to 20 take the Court Administration Act, which is not 21 now in the Government Code.

22 MR. TINDALL: I understand it's 23 200a(1).

24 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: 200a(1)?

25 MR. TINDALL: Right.

1 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: And it has
 2 provisions on transfer in exchange of benches.
 3 But my recollection is that it is not broad enough
 4 to cover all the things covered in Rule 330, I
 5 assume, because the draftsman took the existence
 6 of Rule 330 into account when they did the Court
 7 Administration Act provision.

8 So, somebody needs to decide whether or not 9 Rule 330 says anything that isn't already said in 10 the transfer and exchange of benches provision and 11 I think it's Chapter 7 of -- or Section 7 of 12 Article 200a(1).

13 When I taught it this semester, I felt 14 compelled to teach Rule 330 and the Court 15 Administration Act together. It looked like the 16 latter applied to exchange of benches in lower 17 level -- below district level.

18 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Vertical, rather 19 than horizontal.

20 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Yeah. All the 21 transfer mechanisms are horizontal -- or they are 22 traditionally horizontal.

23 PROFESSOR EDGAR: 201a is vertical.

24 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: And that's in 25 transition -- the whole area is in transition, as

1 everybody knows, but that requires careful look.

2 MR. TINDALL: All right. I'll look at 3 that further. And one other thing that bristles
4 through these is they keep talking about matters 5 that can be done in vacation. And, again, I'm not 6 -- does anyone have any experience about the power 7 of judges during vacation to do anything, or is 8 that just simply, again, a relic we need not 9 concern ourselves --

10 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I don't think -- 11 what we would have to ask, are whether there is 12 any court that doesn't have continuous terms. And 13 I don't think there are any courts at -- county 14 level, district level courts -- that have 15 vacations like in those paucian days of yore when 16 we used to get time off -- or predecessors did. I 17 think all courts have continuous terms and the 18 vacation concept is a relic.

19 MR. TINDALL: Well, see, like Rule 315
20 -- Rule 318 --

21 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Harry, do we have 22 suggested changes on these rules?

23 MR. TINDALL: No, I'm just --

24 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, we've got a 25 lot of work to do here. We really need to -- if

1 we want to come up with new ideas, let's do it for 2 our next meeting.

3 MR. TINDALL: All right, I agree.

4 CHAIRMAN SOULES: I apologize for 5 interrupting, but we do have some requests from 6 the public here.

7 Is that -- have you got any other matters?

8 MR. TINDALL: No, that's our 9 committee.

10 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Thanks for raising
11 those as matters to be addressed in the future.

12 Okay. Sam Sparks, why don't you give us your 13 -- are you ready to give us your report?

14 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): Sure. As they 15 are passing those around, let me just take up 103 16 first. We have done 103 every time we've been 17 here, I think. Let me remind us what we have 18 done.

19 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Harry, while they 20 are passing those out, we do encourage you to 21 review those 300 series rules, if you will, for 22 housekeeping and other changes for our next 23 meeting. Will your committee undertake that?

24 MR. TINDALL: Sure will.

25 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Good. Thank you.

1 MR. TINDALL: All of you should have 2 two 103s. If you don't have two 103s, raise your 3 hand. There should be one that strikes "officer," 4 and then one from Sam that just says -- I think 5 you didn't change the caption.

6 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): That's right, I 7 should have.

8 MR. TINDALL: And then there is a 107
9 I'm passing out.

10 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): Let me briefly
11 go over what we have done. In November of '85, we 12 changed 103 to require the district -- to require 13 the clerk to send out the citation by certified 14 mail mandatory upon the request of the attorney.
15 That has been voted on. Then we got into the 16 103/106 area as to who can serve and who can do 17 that, and I think the only real issue left on the 18 103 is the issue of professional process servers 19 or who, in addition to a sheriff, constable or 20 clerk, can accomplish the service.

21 And there are really two different proposals 22 that come in. One is what I'm going to refer to 23 as purely the federal, the federal rule, which 24 allows anybody over 18 to serve without a court 25 order. And then a lot of proposals came in to

1 allow anybody under the federal rule -- but having 2 it on application of motion and order. So that's 3 -- and then we had several that came in that 4 specifically allowed professional process
5 servers. But it seems to me, anybody over 18
6 years of age, whether they be appointed by motion 7 and order, would take care of that, too.

8 So I really think the only thing remaining on 9 Rule 103 is whether or not you want service by 10 anybody over 18 years of age, and, if so, do you 11 want a motion and an order, or do you want it just 12 like the federal rules? Most of the people that 13 have looked at this rule favor the adoption of the 14 federal practice not requiring a motion or order.

15 MR. REASONER: I move we adopt the 16 federal practice.

17 MR. TINDALL: Well, which one is that?

18 I drafted mine a little bit different --

19 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): It's yours.

20 MR. TINDALL: It's mine. Okay.

21 MR. REASONER: It's the one where you
22 don't have to get a motion or order for anybody 23 over 18.

24 MR. TINDALL: That's right. But you
25 can't have an -- without an order of the court,

1 not anyone can serve. That was the consensus of 2 the committee the last time.

3 CHAIRMAN SOULES: That's right.

4 MR. TINDALL: And that's the way I --
5 and then -- okay.

6 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): It is the 7 single-spaced one.

8 MR. TINDALL: Right.

9 MR. REASONER: I'm sorry. I didn't 10 understand what you said.

11 CHAIRMAN SOULES: The vote -- this 12 committee voted to not permit persons over the -- 13 any persons over the age of 18 to serve absent a 14 court order.

15 MR. REASONER: Okay. I'm moving the 16 other way. I move -- as I understand the federal 17 practice, it seems to me to require to get court 18 orders on this is just paperwork and expense for 19 the parties and just one more hassle for the 20 judges to have to sign orders permitting service.
21 And it seems to me that the federal practice works
22 fine. -

23 MR. TINDALL: Well, Harry, the --

24 CHAIRMAN SOULES: There was a long
25 debate about the reasons why the state practice

1 and the federal practice -- and we can redo it
2 today, if you wish --

3 MR. REASONER: No, no. I --

4 CHAIRMAN SOULES: -- but there was 5 extensive debate in the last -- record of the last 6 meeting.

7 MR. REASONER: I didn't know the 8 committee had debated. I must have missed the 9 last meeting.

10 CHAIRMAN SOULES: All right. It had 11 to do with default judgment, automatic default
12 judgment, as opposed to motion for default
13 judgment. There were -- that -- at the conclusion 14 of that discussion, this committee voted to 15 require court order before anyone over the age of 16 18 could serve -- just anybody could serve.

17 And then we also debated the fact that 18 there's this emerging professional process serving 19 group that, in all likelihood, will get some kind 20 of sanction from the legislature, some kind of 21 probably affiliation with Private Investigator's 22 Commission, and probably will have some kind of 23 bonding that will emerge. And when that is 24 done --

25 MR. REASONER: I didn't mean to reopen

1 it. I thought that Sam indicated that was a live 2 issue.

3 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay.

4 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): I thought it
5 was, but then we're looking at the double-spaced 6 version of 103.

7 JUDGE THOMAS: Well, actually, yours
8 didn't call for a motion in the double-spaced 9 version.

10 MR. TINDALL: No, mine does not call 11 for a motion. I thought the consensus of the 12 committee was you wouldn't have to have a motion 13 to get private service. You had to have an order 14 of the court --

15 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Order of the court,
16 that's right.

17 MR. TINDALL: -- without having to go
18 and present a written motion for it.

19 CHAIRMAN SOULES: That's correct.

20 MR. TINDALL: I wrote here, "The order
21 authorizing a person to serve process may be made 22 without written motion and no fee shall be imposed 23 for the issuance of such order."

24 CHAIRMAN SOULES: That's correct.

25 MR. TINDALL: So it's just like an

1 order for anything the judge would routinely sign.

2 CHAIRMAN SOULES: I misspoke when I
3 said it required a motion; it requires an order.

4 MR. TINDALL: An order, that's right.

5 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. And that was 6 our consensus.

7 MR. TINDALL: Well, I would move the 8 adoption of the single-spaced provision of Rule 9 103.

10 MR. LOW: I second that.

11 PROFESSOR EDGAR: I just have a
12 textual question about it. I presume -- and I am 13 going -- I don't like the way the original rule is 14 written either because it is somewhat confusing, 15 but it is kind of compounded here. You are 16 saying, aren't you, that numbers one and two are 17 when you make service by personal service?

18 MR. TINDALL: That's right.

19 PROFESSOR EDGAR: All right. Now, it
20 doesn't say that. It says, "All process may be 21 served by," without distinction between personal 22 or by mail. And then it comes down and says, "or 23 if by mail."

24 I would just suggest that we start out up 25 here by saying, "All process may be served by

1 personal service, by so-and-so and so and so, or 2 if by mail." And then it really doesn't say who 3 is to serve if it's by mail. It just says "if by 4 mail" either of the county in which the case is 5 pending, but it doesn't say who is to serve in 6 that event by mail.

7 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): Hadley, on the 8 Rule 103 that we're looking at, the single-spaced 9 one, it does not have the change we voted in 10 November of '85, and in that the sentence that 11 begins "service by registered or certified mail," 12 this doesn't speak exactly to yours, but it does 13 -- that should read "Service by registered or 14 certified mail and citation by publication shall, 15 if requested, be made by the clerk of the court in 16 which this case is pending." That should be 17 embodied in the 103 we're looking at.

18 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Let me say that this 19 -- the single-spaced version does not require an 20 order.

21 MR. TINDALL: Yes, it does require an 22 order. -

23 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Where? It says that 24 in the last sentence. It says --

25 MR. TINDALL: "The person authorized

1 by the court -- or any person authorized by a 2 court order," we could say that, if that would 3 make it clear.

4 CHAIRMAN SOULES: How does that differ
5 from Sam's Rule 103?

6 MR. TINDALL: Sam's is that it doesn't 7 require -- well, Sam's requires by motion and 8 order.

9 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, if we just 10 strike out "motion and" doesn't that get us to the 11 same place, and the language is otherwise 12 complete?

13 MR. TINDALL: Well --

14 MR. SPIVEY: Mr. Chairman, are we 15 trying to cover all service of process here?

16 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: No, this is just 17 "who."

18 CHAIRMAN SOULES: This is citation.

19 MR. SPIVEY: Well, but isn't this rule
20 supposed to address the "service of process," 21 period? Why not instead of saying "who may 22 serve," just put "Rule 103. Service of Process."

23 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: But it is only,
24 "who may serve." The other rule is about whether 25 it's this way or that way or later.

1 MR. SPIVEY: Then -- then aren't you
2 using a term that's not appropriate by just saying 3 "officer" -- just put down who may serve?

4 MR. TINDALL: That's the reason on 5 that single-spaced -- look at the single-spaced
6 one.

7 MR. SPIVEY: Yeah. But you've got -- 8 all right. Okay.

9 MR. REASONER: But, you know, we've 10 got a grammatical problem in --

11 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: After "if by 12 mail" we have to decide whether we're going to let 13 this authorized person serve by mail or whether 14 we're only going to let officers do that.

15 MR. REASONER: Well, but you've got 16 the further problem in that these references to 17 county made sense when all you were talking about 18 was sheriffs and constables, but it's not clear 19 what they mean when you are inserting a 20 court-appointed person.

21 MR. LOW: Strike that. You can get 22 the sheriff of one county to go to the other.
23 He's just as good as anybody over 18.

24 CHAIRMAN SOULES: I think we have to 25 discuss that actually.

MR. TINDALL: Now, if a sheriff will go to another county, what's wrong with that?

PROFESSOR DORSANEO: He can only go by mail.

CHAIRMAN SOULES: But then the "of" would need to be changed to "in." If we go with the double-spaced version -- let me see if I could work through the first two or three lines. The first line would be okay. The second is okay. "Eighteen years of age," change that to, "who is authorized by court order."

MR. WELLS: Are there other copies of the double-spaced. I haven't gotten one.

CHAIRMAN SOULES: I'm sorry. Do we have other copies of it?

JUDGE TUNKS: Here -- here are most of them right here.

CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. Starting with the line that says, "Eighteen years of age" change "and" to "who." Change "appointed" to "authorized by." Strike "motion and," put in "court order." Strike "of" and put "in." So it says, "or by a person who is not a party and is not less than 18 years of age who is authorized by a court order, in any county in which the party to be served is

1 found." So that --

2 MR. REASONER: Well, Luke, don't you
3 want to just strike that? What good does the 4 reference to --

5 MR. TINDALL: Yeah, it's a redundancy.

6 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, it does say 7 that any sheriff or any constable can serve the 8 party in any county where he is found. That's not 9 been the prior practice. Used to, the sheriff of 10 the county in which the party is found had to do
11 it.

12 MR. REASONER: But I -- but I'm 13 fearful that it would be read to mean that if I 14 want to serve somebody in Fort Bend County, I have 15 to hire a process server in Fort Bend County 16 rather than hiring one in Houston to go over to 17 Fort Bend County.

18 MR. TINDALL: I think Harry is right.

19 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Well, that's what 20 that "of any county in which the party is to be 21 served" means. It means that all those people 22 have to be in that county and that's not what is 23 intended, I don't think.

24 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, then, let's
25 take it out. That's not what I thought --

1 MR. TINDALL: Couldn't we end it with 2 a period after "order," and then start that thing
3 by mail as a whole other problem?

4 MR. REASONER: I think that would be a
5 cleaner way to deal with it.

6 CHAIRMAN SOULES: That makes sense.

7 JUDGE THOMAS: Luke, can we insert 8 where you're saying "and who is authorized by 9 court order" and put "written court order"?

10 CHAIRMAN SOULES: That's fine with me.
11 Any objection to that?

12 JUSTICE WALLACE: You want to put 13 "any" before "sheriff"?

14 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Yes, sir. "All 15 process may be served by any," instead of "the 16 sheriff" in the first line. In the second line, 17 the same, and add "written court order." Okay,
18 then --

19 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Could you run
20 that --

21 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Let me make a quick
22 suggestion--here -- I mean, Luke, if I may?

23 MR. WELLS: Luke, which one are you 24 working from?

25 CHAIRMAN SOULES: The double-spaced

1 one.

2 PROFESSOR EDGAR: If this is what we 3 mean to say -- well, first of all, we're talking 4 here about personal service, aren't we?

5 CHAIRMAN SOULES: That's right.

6 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Why don't we say
7 "All process may be personally served by any 8 sheriff or constable or by any person not a party 9 who is not less than 18 years old -- 18 years of 10 age and appointed by motion and order."

11 MR. WELLS: It doesn't take a motion.

12 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Well, okay. You've 13 stricken "motion" -- "and is appointed by order."

14 CHAIRMAN SOULES: "Authorized by 15 written court order."

16 PROFESSOR EDGAR: "Authorized by 17 written order."

18 MR. REASONER: That's redundant, isn't
19 it?

20 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, "personally
21 served," I think is, too. Why not "personally 22 served"? -

23 PROFESSOR EDGAR: "May be personally
24 served by any sheriff or constable."

25 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Does that add

1 anything "personally" -- the word "personally"?

2 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Yeah, because then 3 we are going to talk about mail later on.

4 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, that is
5 personal service. Mail is also personal service.

6 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, that's the 7 debate. See, that's the thing.

8 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Well, that's the 9 problem about that. See, really, "personal" is 10 ambiguous to -- it could mean in hand.

11 MR. TINDALL: All right. One
12 suggestion, Luke, that I picked up on mine is, I 13 would delete that "by a person who is not a 14 party." And the reason is that later on, the way
15 this rule is now written, it talks about no 16 officer who is a party to or interested in the 17 outcome of the suit shall serve any process. And 18 I would insert down there where it has "provided," 19 that's where you would put "provided no officer or 20 authorized person." See the single-spaced -- I 21 picked it up down there, and you combined the 22 disqualification into one sentence.

23 MR. REASONER: So it would read, "no 24 officer or authorized person"?

25 MR. TINDALL: That's right.

PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Luke, all of this stuff in the middle comes out until we get to the proviso, right?

MR. TINDALL: That's right. Luke, if I could read back from what I think might be a pretty clear rule -- are you agreeing, Bill, that all that stuff about mail in the middle can come out?

PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Yeah, the only thing I'm worried about is that -- I mean, this is an old notion. This is an old territoriality notion of sheriffs and constables being restricted in their authority to the counties where they function. I think all -- you know, constables is another problem in our county. Constables stay in their precinct.

MR. TINDALL: Oh, sure.

PROFESSOR DORSANEO: And they're still going to stay in their precinct regardless of what this says, presumably.

MR. TINDALL: But there are those horrible cases where they have gone outside their precinct unknowingly and they got service, and that was deemed to be invalid. Now, as a rule, they're not going to go beyond their territory

1 anyway.

2 MR. REASONER: They might mail
3 something.

4 MR. TINDALL: We're not going to have 5 them mail it. Sheriffs or constables or 6 individuals won't be mailing. It will be the 7 clerk only. Isn't that what we're --

8 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): No.

9 MR. REASONER: No.

10 MR. TINDALL: No?

11 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): No. The change
12 that we made in November was that if the lawyer 13 requests, the clerk has to because a lot of clerks 14 were refusing to.

15 MR. TINDALL: Oh, the clerk can, 16 but --

17 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): But you can 18 also have the sheriff do it under --

19 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, you can,
20 but they don't. It's a nice thought, but it 21 doesn't happen. But what I'm wondering about, is 22 there something in some other book, like the 23 Constitution, that imposes a territoriality
24 problem? I would think not, because all we're 25 really saying is that any person, including

1 sheriffs and constables -- oh, no, we're really 2 saying more than that.

3 MR. ADAMS: Well, they're over the age
4 of 18. Well, no --

5 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: They have to be 6 authorized by a court order. I'm just wondering 7 if there's any other reason, other than 8 old-fashioned thinking, for restricting your 9 constable or a sheriff to a particular geographic 10 location as a matter of authority or law. If 11 there is, then we can't solve that problem here.

12 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, there may be 13 some statutes that limit them; but if there are, 14 they are limited, but they are not limited by our 15 rules.

16 MR. TINDALL: No. Luke, let me see if 17 this doesn't sort of get a basis of what we're 18 talking about.

19 CHAIRMAN SOULES: All right.

20 MR. TINDALL: "All process may be 21 personally served by any sheriff or constable or 22 by any person not less than 18 years of age
23 authorized by written court order."

24 JUSTICE WALLACE: Let me run this by 25 you, too -- just the wording of it, Harry. "All

1 process of personal service may be served by any 2 sheriff, constable, or any other person not a 3 party to the suit who is not less than 18 years of 4 age and is authorized by written court order."

5 MR. TINDALL: I took out that "who is 6 not a party to the suit" because later on you'll 7 see, we have a -- provide -- there is a
8 disqualification sentence that follows it.

9 JUSTICE WALLACE: Okay. This was just 10 in structure, "any other person not less than 18 11 is authorized." In other words, instead of any 12 sheriff or any constable or any other you got, 13 either a sheriff, a constable, or another person.

14 MR. REASONER: That's good.

15 MR. TINDALL: That's right. Okay. So
16 it would read, "All process may be personally 17 served by any sheriff, constable, or any other 18 person --"

19 CHAIRMAN SOULES: No.

20 MR. TINDALL: No?

21 CHAIRMAN SOULES: No. You need a 22 disjunctive between sheriff or constable and then 23 a comma.

24 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Because you
25 suggested that "court order" modifies all the way

1 back to "sheriff," otherwise.

2 MR. TINDALL: "Comma," all right.

3 CHAIRMAN SOULES: "All process may be
4 personally served by any sheriff or constable, or
5 by any person not less than 18 years of age
6 authorized by written court order."

7 MR. TINDALL: Right. And then it
8 would seem to me we could skip that -- all that 9 next three lines and pick up where it says, "No
10 officer or authorized person."

11 CHAIRMAN SOULES: "No officer or 12 person who is a party." You don't need to say, 13 "authorized" again, do you?

14 MR. TINDALL: Well, because -- no.
15 We're picking up "No officer or authorized person 16 who is a party to or interested in the outcome of 17 the suit shall serve any process."

18 PROFESSOR EDGAR: If he's a party,
19 he's not going to be authorized, though.

20 MR. REASONER: We're going to make it 21 clear he can't be.

22 MR. RAGLAND: Why don't we just 23 substitute "person" for the word "officer" and go 24 on?

25 MR. TINDALL: All right. "No person

1 who is a --" oh, that's right, that cures it. "No 2 person who is a party to or interested in the 3 outcome of the suit shall serve any process." I 4 don't know why we need the "therein."

5 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Period. That's 6 right.

7 MR. TINDALL: And then the last 8 sentence is typed in the double-space. It would 9 be "service by."

10 PROFESSOR EDGAR: No, we do need 11 "therein," too.

12 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Why?

13 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Because the person 14 who may be a party and interested -- oh, "in the 15 outcome of the suit," all right.

16 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay.

17 MR. TINDALL: All right, "service
18 by." And then the last sentence is typed "Service 19 by registered or certified mail and citation by 20 publication shall, if requested, be made by the 21 clerk of the court and in which the case is 22 pending." _

23 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Okay. Let's go
24 back now that I understand, listening to what Sam
25 said, do we want to say in this first thing

1 "served," any modifier at all? The question I
2 have policy-wise is: Are sheriffs and constables 3 and other persons authorized to mail?

4 MR. TINDALL: No.

5 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Not by this.

6 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: They are not now
7 by this.

8 CHAIRMAN SOULES: They will be. They 9 are now. The sheriff and the constables are now, 10 and another -- if you think that a person who is 11 authorized becomes an officer of the court -- I 12 don't know how that would play out. He also would 13 be because under 106, "citation can be served by 14 any authorized -- officer authorized to serve by 15 mail."

16 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): I think the 17 question is: Are we certain that service by mail 18 is personal service?

19 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: No, as a matter
20 of history, it is not. In Nauer versus Neff, 21 (phonetic) it says "service by mail" is 22 constructed service and it doesn't count.

23 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): So the word
24 "personally" that we are putting in there probably 25 should be removed, or we're changing the practice.

1 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: If we're going to 2 do it all, let's do it like it says in 106. If 3 we're going to give them the whole thing say, "may 4 be served by personal delivery." I think 106a(1)
 5 talks about delivery or by mail in the manner 6 provided by 106.

7 CHAIRMAN SOULES: "Personally"
 8 doesn't appear as a modifier to "serve" at any 9 place that I recall.

10 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: If you ask the 11 question, "Is mail to you directly, personal 12 service on you?" I say historically, no; maybe, 13 yes.

14 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Rusty, do you have a 15 point on something -- on this "personal"?

16 MR. TINDALL: You have to accept it in 17 person is what 106 says.

18 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Rusty has his hand
 19 up, and I have recognized him on this.

20 MR. MCMAINS: Well, all I wanted to 21 find out was, were we intending by this rule, or 22 are we limited in some of the other rules as to 23 whether we are talking only about sheriffs and 24 constables of this state, or is this intended to 25 be -- you can get personally served in any state

1 by a local sheriff or constable because there's 2 nothing here about limiting it to the State of 3 Texas or 4 to --

5 MR. TINDALL: That -- Rule 108 covers
6 defendant out of state. That's a whole
7 different --

8 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: But he's talking
9 about two different -- I think we're obviously 10 talking about Texas constables and sheriffs. The 11 issue that's not addressed is whether they can 12 mail outside the state as well as mail outside -- 13 as well as go outside their counties, and that has 14 never been addressed. That's not addressed in the 15 rules now --

16 MR. TINDALL: That's right.

17 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: -- in so many 18 words. I'm not worried about saying that constable 19 or sheriff --

20 MR. TINDALL: Well, it is addressed
21 under Rule 108, Bill. Any defendant outside the 22 state can be served in the same manner of citation 23 to a resident defendant. So, if we permit mail on 24 a resident defendant, we also will authorize 25 service by mail on a nonresident defendant.

1                   PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I agree with that 2 construction of it, but I have heard a very 3 knowledgeable jurist say that they don't read it 4 that way. There is no need to get into that.

5                   MR. SPARKS (El Paso): Well, Rusty has 6 got a good point, though. We have always had 7 reference of the county of residence, and we might 8 should say, "any sheriff or constable in the State 9 of Texas" or something like that. I don't know 10 how anybody -- why anybody would think the sheriff 11 of Alaska would be embraced, but --

12                   MR. REASONER: Interestingly enough, 13 the way I read 108, you can have any disinterested
14 person make service without even getting a court
15 order. We're making it easier to get service 16 outside the state than we are inside the state.

17                   PROFESSOR DORSANEO: That's right.
18 They take care of it in the return. There are 19 tougher return requirements that have to be sworn 20 to.

21                   MR. REASONER: I don't agree with 22 that. I mean, why --

23                   MR. TINDALL: It has to be sworn to.
24 They have to verify the return.

25                   MR. REASONER: Why? You mean I can

1 just hire any jerk in Alaska, but in Texas I have 2 to go and get a court order?

3 MR. TINDALL: Uh-huh. England has a
4 registered sergeant-at-arms. You never hired one 5 of those?

6 MR. REASONER: I -- well, no. But it
7 just doesn't make sense to me to have more 8 stringent requirements for in-state service than 9 for out-of-state service.

10 MR. TINDALL: Well, Luke, I would -- I
11 think in view of that discussion -- strike -- I 12 would delete the word "personally served," so we 13 don't get into creating problems that we weren't 14 intending to create.

15 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Delete the word
16 "personally," then, in the first line as we read
17 it.

18 MR. TINDALL: Just say, "All process 19 may be served by any sheriff or constable," et 20 cetera, et cetera.

21 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. I guess I'll 22 read the whole thing, then.

23 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: That defers the 24 question until we get to Rule 106, you see. 106 25 needs to be -- now, the problem of mail or

1 personal delivery or whatever is in Rule 106 now.
2 It didn't go away, it just moved to a different 3 number.

4 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. "All process
5 may be served by any sheriff or constable, or by 6 any person not less than 18 years of age 7 authorized by written court order. No person who 8 is a party to or interested in the outcome of the 9 suit shall serve any process. Service by 10 registered or certified mail and citation by 11 publication shall, if requested, be made by the 12 clerk of the court in which the case is pending."

13 The motion is made that we -- are you making 14 a motion that we adopt that?

15 MR. TINDALL: I so move.

16 CHAIRMAN SOULES: That's Harry 17 Tindall's motion. Is there a second?

18 JUDGE TUNKS: I second.

19 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Judge Tunks seconds.
20 In favor, show by hands. Further discussion --
21 excuse me.

22 MR. REASONER: Well, I just -- just -- 23 my only question I have, it's clear that that 24 comprehends service by mail by these people?

25 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: No, but we have

1 more rules -- we have another rule. It is 2 deferred to Rule 106.

3 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): But I think it
4 is clearer they can serve by mail.

5 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, it is under
6 Rule 106.

7 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): Yeah.

8 JUSTICE WALLACE: It says all process.

9 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Those in favor,
10 then, show by hands unless there is further
11 discussion.

12 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I have further -- 13 one further thing. The last sentence -- is the 14 last sentence clear that it doesn't, by negative 15 implication, exclude service by registered or 16 certified mail of these other persons?

17 PROFESSOR EDGAR: That's my concern.

18 MR. REASONER: That's the point I was 19 making, too.

20 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): How could it if 21 you have the phrase "if requested"? I mean, it 22 seems like that is a direct --

23 PROFESSOR EDGAR: The question is by 24 this sentence -- could you argue that this 25 precludes that sheriff or constable from affecting

1 mail service?

2 CHAIRMAN SOULES: In my judgment, that
3 sentence should be Item 3 under 106a because it
4 tells everybody, everybody can serve it by mail.
5 And a clerk, if requested, must serve it by mail,
6 and that's where it really fits.

7 MR. REASONER: Yeah, that would be 8 much better.

9 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): That would do
10 it.

11 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: That's an 12 excellent suggestion.

13 CHAIRMAN SOULES: All right. Could we 14 move that, and then, Harry, would you accept an 15 amendment that we take the second -- no, the third 16 sentence --

17 MR. TINDALL: The last sentence.

18 CHAIRMAN SOULES: -- the last 19 sentence, and move that to a new subparagraph 3 --

20 MR. TINDALL: Yes.

21 CHAIRMAN SOULES: -- under 106a?

22 MR. RAGLAND: I want to raise a
23 question, Luke. These rules, this 100 series 24 here, are really talking about two different 25 things. It's talking about -- in 103, about

1 process, 106 talks about citation, and they are 2 not necessarily the same thing. A citation is a 3 process, but a process is not a citation. You've 4 got show cause. You've got injunction, temporary 5 injunctions and all that sort of thing. If we're 6 trying to get at where all process be served 7 according to this draft of 103, looks like we're 8 going to have to do some housecleaning, especially 9 on 106.

10 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, how about 11 moving that last sentence to the end of 103?
12 Maybe that's still a better place for it because 13 it says "service by registered or certified mail 14 and citation by publication may be made by the 15 clerk in which the case is pending."

16 MR. RAGLAND: And then 106, because 17 you've got "citation" and it refers to "officer."
18 And these people appointed or authorized who are 19 not certified law officers, I don't think come 20 within the term "officer" under Rule 106.

21 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, would it solve 22 your problem if we put this last sentence of 23 proposed Rule 103 --

24 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: You're doing the 25 right thing. The problem he mentions is a bigger

1 problem.

2 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay.

3 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: There isn't any 4 direction in these rules about how this other 5 process is to be served. I mean, there is just a 6 big hole.

7 JUSTICE WALLACE: You can just start 8 out that last sentence with "In addition to the 9 above," and that --

10 MR. TINDALL: That cures it, yeah.

11 CHAIRMAN SOULES: What's that?

12 JUSTICE WALLACE: Start that last 13 sentence, "In addition to the above, service by 14 registered or certified mail and citation by 15 publication, shall, if requested, be made by the 16 clerk of the court."

17 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay, Judge. And 18 where would that -- where would we put the 19 sentence in --

20 MR. TINDALL: Right before "service."

21 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Just leave it where 22 it is in 103?

23 JUSTICE WALLACE: Put "In addition to 24 the above" before "service." Start the sentence 25 with --

1 CHAIRMAN SOULES: And leave it in 103?

2 JUSTICE WALLACE: Yes.

3 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: But that still 4 doesn't -- there still is that big problem overall 5 of how these other orders are meant to be dealt 6 with.

7 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Well, Rule 103 deals
8 with service of process, and 106 talks about 9 citation --

10 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Right.

11 PROFESSOR EDGAR: -- which could be 12 two different things.

13 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: It could be two 14 different things, and there is no 106 for the 15 other process.

16 PROFESSOR EDGAR: That's right, and 17 that's the point Tom is bringing up. And I don't 18 know that just simply adding, "In addition to the 19 above" cures the problem that Tom has raised.

20 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: And that's the 21 issue. Maybe if we change Rule 106 such that it 22 applies, we could consider whether we want to 23 change that --

24 MR. TINDALL: Yeah, broaden it.

25 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: -- to apply to

1 the process.

2 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Why don't we go
 3 ahead and leave this sentence in 103 and change it
 4 as Justice Wallace has suggested. And then,
 5 Harry, again -- of course, your committee has a 6 tremendous amount of work, but would you-all 7 undertake to determine whether Rule 106 and these 8 other rules that talk about citation, whether we 9 could just substitute the word "process" for 10 "citation" or add after "citation," "or other 11 process," so that we broaden those?

12 MR. TINDALL: We can do that, but 13 we're really not changing -- to change the rules
 14 we have discussed here today does not create a 15 problem that's not already there, because Rule 103 16 still talks, today, about process, and 106 is 17 citation. I agree it needs to be worked through.

18 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, but if we 19 leave this language in 103 as proposed --

20 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Then we can go on 21 and save this other problem for later.

22 MR. TINDALL: Yeah, I don't want --

23 CHAIRMAN SOULES: It will be just like 24 I read it, except in the last sentence we will add 25 the word "In addition to the above," before

1 "service."

2 MR. TINDALL: Right.

3 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Those in favor, show
4 by hands. Opposed? Okay, that's unanimously 5 recommended for adoption.

6 Next item.

7 MR. TINDALL: One thing, Luke, if I
8 can just talk because -- I did 107 because I 9 thought it was a mandate from the committee last 10 time, and, frankly, I need to talk to Sam first 11 about this. There was -- were you going to bring 12 up 107, also?

13 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): No, I was going 14 to yield to you.

15 MR. TINDALL: Okay. There was some 16 concern last time about when we start allowing 17 court-authorized people to serve papers that -- 18 what kind of return do they have? And so, if you 19 have the 107 there, I put in that any return by an 20 authorized person, which would be distinguished 21 between a sheriff or constable, shall be verified
22 so that if we did have the true and false service, 23 there would at least be a criminal sanction 24 against them for false swearing. And that would 25 be the only change. And, again, 107 is talking

1 about citation.

2 CHAIRMAN SOULES: But that's the way
3 it is now done and you're going to --

4 MR. TINDALL: That's right. And we're 5 going to address that --

6 CHAIRMAN SOULES: You're going to look 7 at that for --

8 MR. TINDALL: We have in our county a
9 precept, which I am told exists in no other 10 county. You talk to a lawyer in Dallas, and they 11 have never heard of a precept. Do you have them
12 in Lubbock, Hadley -- precepts?

13 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Oh, we speak of 14 little else there, Harry.

15 MR. TINDALL: A precept -- I don't 16 quite know what that creature is, but Ray Hardy 17 issues them frequently.

18 PROFESSOR EDGAR: What is it?

19 MR. TINDALL: It's a show cause. We 20 call them precepts, but -- so I don't know what 21 all that whole area of process includes -- 22 injunctions, TROs, show causes. I mean, that's 23 sort of a lot of loose language.

24 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: All process is a
25 command to act.

1 MR. TINDALL: It should be a summons,
2 but that's --

3 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Those are all
4 just names --

5 MR. TINDALL: That's right.

6 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: -- of things that 7 we used to have around like a show cause order.
8 That just makes me -- when I try to change my 9 forms just to say "order," doesn't say "show cause 10 order," it makes people all kinds of 11 uncomfortable.

12 MR. TINDALL: Yeah.

13 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. Is everybody
14 agreeable to this change in Rule 107? Is there 15 any --

16 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Why don't you just 17 say -- why don't you say, "The return of the 18 authorized person executing the citation"?

19 MR. LOW: It's not really the return 20 of the person, it's the return of citation for 21 that person. It's the return of citation; it has 22 to be.

23 MR. TINDALL: All right, "return of 24 citation by an authorized person shall be 25 verified"? That's --

10
11
12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23
24
25

PROFESSOR EDGAR: Well, I was just suggesting you don't have to say "officer" or "authorized person." You just could say "authorized person."

MR. LOW: The return can only be by those people we've already said who can serve it, so the return has to be.

MR. TINDALL: Well, the policy -- the judgment you've got to make is: You give a sheriff or constable a preferred status by allowing them to continue business as usual. But for these court authorized people, they have to verify that they served. That was the way I drew it.

MR. LOW: Okay.

MR. TINDALL: So that's the reason I put -- but I agree it should be, "The return of citation by an authorized person shall be verified." Sheriff and constable can do it as they always do.

MR. LOW: Of course, there's one little change. It might be a sheriff or constable of another county. Usually, you thought it would be the sheriff or constable of the county where they would be available if you had to call them,

1 and if it's another county, they may not be 2 available. I mean, you know, they have always 3 been the sheriff or the constable. I don't know, 4 that's not true either, it could be service
5 outside. Okay.

6 MR. TINDALL: Well, I move that we 7 take 107 as proposed with changing "any" to read 8 "the return of citation by an authorized person 9 shall be verified."

10 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Well, what are you
11 going to do with executed? Read it as you propose
12 it.

13 MR. TINDALL: All right. It would be 14 exactly as typed except you would strike the word 15 "any" and you would --

16 PROFESSOR EDGAR: In 107?

17 MR. TINDALL: In 107.

18 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): Read -- Hadley, 19 he's got a proposal.

20 MR. TINDALL: Don't you have one?

21 PROFESSOR EDGAR: I'm trying to find 22 where "any" is. I've got all those three 23 paragraphs --

24 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Right against the 25 left-hand margin, right here.

1 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): Fifth line.

2 MR. TINDALL: "Any" would be --

3 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Oh, all right.

4 MR. TINDALL: And just put "The return
5 of citation by an authorized person shall be 6 verified."

7 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Where does it say
8 Rule 108?

9 MR. TINDALL: In 108, it says, "The 10 return in such case shall be endorsed on or 11 attached to the original notice, and shall be in 12 the form prescribed by 107, and shall be signed 13 and sworn to by the party making such service 14 before some authorized -- by the laws of this 15 State to take affidavits under his hand and seal 16 such --"

17 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I think 18 "verifies" is probably good enough, but it 19 doesn't --

20 MR. TINDALL: I agree.

21 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: -- really mean
22 anything, is what I'm telling you. It means --

23 MR. TINDALL: I think "verify" covers
24 it, frankly. But I take no pride in the adequacy 25 of that. We certainly say in other instances "the 1 pleadings shall be verified," and we know what 2 that means without --

3 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: It usually says
4 "verified by affidavit or supported by affidavit," 5 though, in all those other places most of the 6 time. I think "verified" is Texas legal slang 7 like "sworn." And, if we are all happy with that, 8 that's probably okay.

9 MR. TINDALL: I'm happy with it.

10 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. So the motion
11 is that we recommend to the Supreme Court the 12 changes in Rule 107 that Harry has written here, 13 with modification "any" in the underscored portion 14 of the fifth line be changed to "a --"

15 MR. TINDALL: No. "The return of 16 citation."

17 CHAIRMAN SOULES: "A return of 18 citation"?

19 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: "The return."

20 MR. TINDALL: "The return of 21 citation."

22 CHAIRMAN SOULES: "The return of 23 citation," and then pick up "by an authorized
24 person."

25 Any further discussion? All in favor, show

1 by hands. Opposed? That's unanimously approved.

2 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Do you have any 3 changes for Rule 106 recommended, Harry, that 4 conforms?

5 MR. TINDALL: I'm going to defer to 6 Sam Sparks. I did not address 106, but I think 7 we've got a rule suggestion pending in the Supreme 8 Court right now on 106, do we not, Sam, that would 9 delete the -- 106 deals with a whole host of other 10 issues that we have not really addressed here in 11 103 and 107 about authorizing individuals to serve 12 papers. It deals with -- if you have attempted 13 service, then you might try to go ahead and leave 14 it at the doorstep at the place of business. And 15 it goes into other issues that we have not really 16 addressed here.

17 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: But 106 is -- the 18 three rules that work together are 103 -- at least 19 most of the time -- 103, 106, and 107. And the 20 meat in the coconut is in 106.

21 MR. TINDALL: Well, for the difficult
22 defendant who you truly cannot find, the sheriff 23 has been out, and we can't find, we want to leave 24 it on his door.

25 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: That's the second

1 part of 106. You see --

2 MR. TINDALL: The first part of 106 is 3 where a court can authorize an individual to go 4 serve papers because the sheriff has been unable 5 to do so.

6 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: No, 106a sets
7 forth the basic rules on service.

8 PROFESSOR EDGAR: That's right.

9 MR. TINDALL: I understand that.

10 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Then "b" --

11 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: "b" is what all 12 lawyers talk about as using Rule 106.

13 MR. TINDALL: Right.

14 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: 106 contains the 15 main rule and then it contains the -- the 16 so-called 106 practice.

17 MR. TINDALL: Well, I don't think 106
18 needs to be changed. And if you read through it 19 -- in view of what we've just done to Rule 103.
20 Do you agree, Hadley?

21 PROFESSOR EDGAR: No, I don't, Harry, 22 because it says "unless a citation or an order of 23 the court otherwise directs, citation may be 24 served by any officer authorized by Rule 103."
25 You now mean any person authorized --

1 MR. TINDALL: It should be "any." I
2 agree, yes.

3 PROFESSOR EDGAR: All right. And then 4 also you continue down there in subdivision b, and 5 this is now, "the court may authorize service," it 6 says, "by an officer or by any disinterested adult 7 named in the court's order." I think that 8 language should be rephrased to dovetail with the 9 changes we have made in Rule 103. I don't know 10 exactly what at this point, but I think some 11 change needs to be made there.

12 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I would suggest 13 we could take out the "who" in that language and 14 just talk about --

15 MR. TINDALL: I agree.

16 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: "And the court
17 may authorize service at the usual -- or by 18 leaving at the usual place of abode," et cetera.

19 MR. TINDALL: "May authorize service 20 by leaving a true copy," see?

21 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: It talks about 22 the method, you see? It talks about a different 23 method, rather than the authorized methods of 24 personal delivery or mail. And then it would be 25 -- would be is forget about who is doing it --

10
11
12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23
24
25

MR. TINDALL: That's right.

PROFESSOR DORSANEO: -- but would give you a different way to do it by tacking it on their door or leaving it with their kids, et cetera. Now, that would work. And I would move the changes in Rule 106 by changing in the introduction in 106a the word "officer" to "person," and by eliminating in 106b(1) the words "by an officer or by any disinterested adult named in the court's order."

MR. TINDALL: All right, I would -- Luke, let me -- and I think that covers it. Do you not agree, Bill?

PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Yeah. The only thing I'm worried about is whether we need to go back and rethink 107 about this -- there was an additional requirement in 106b about this authorized -- this disinterested person being named in the order, you see? There's a requirement there, not only that there be an order but that the order have the name of the person rather than the XYZ Publication Process Serving Company.

MR. TINDALL: I understand, yeah. Let's take one at a time. The first thing -- I

1 think this may be housekeeping -- on -- does 2 everyone have Rule 106 in front of them to look 3 at? In the third line --

4 CHAIRMAN SOULES: You're not looking 5 at anything other than the rule book, are you?

6 MR. TINDALL: That's right. Does 7 everyone have a rule book they can look at? The 8 third line, strike the word "officer" and replace 9 it with the word "person," and that dovetails with 10 who can serve and then it tells how. And then 11 "b(1)" would strike -- it would -- after the word 12 "by," the first word "an officer or by any 13 disinterested adult named in the court's order," 14 that would be stricken so that it would read "by 15 leaving a true copy of the citation." And those 16 would be the changes to make it consistent with 17 the changes in 103. And I would so move.

18 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Second.

19 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. Restate them
20 again, please, for me, Harry. Let me follow it 21 one more time.

22 MR. TINDALL: On 106, strike the word
23 "officer" and replace it with the word "person."

24 CHAIRMAN SOULES: In the second line
25 of 106a?

1 MR. TINDALL: Yes. And then under 2 106b(1) where we have the word "by," delete the 3 phrase "an officer or by any disinterested adult 4 named in the court's order," so that it would read 5 "by leaving a true copy of the citation," et 6 cetera, so that 103 then becomes who may serve, 7 and 106 really becomes --

8 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Methods, yeah.

9 MR. TINDALL: Method of service. Do
10 you agree, Bill?

11 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Uh-huh.

12 MR. TINDALL: The caption really 13 becomes -- "Method of Service" would be the 14 caption.

15 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Right.

16 MR. TINDALL: And that's, essentially,
17 you've got to serve them in person; or by court
18 order, you can leave it at the doorstep.

19 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: No, that all 20 looks -- we're getting -- oh, to hell with it, be 21 quiet.

22 MR. TINDALL: Okay. And the last
23 change -- the last change would be on 107. I see 24 just one other return, now. We should say -- no, 25 we cured that in the one I had "the return of the 1 officer or authorized person." We can forget

2 that.

3 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Before we vote,
4 we're going to have to have another meeting, so 5 why don't we get as much of a consensus before we 6 reduce our group any much more and try to get a 7 consensus on when we can meet again.

8 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Could we meet for 9 one day -- come early, stay late?

10 CHAIRMAN SOULES: I don't think we can 11 meet -- do this in one evening. I don't know.
12 We're going to have another report from Harry's 13 committee because the best thing to do will be to 14 scrub these things completely through in order to 15 solve the process of citation issue that we just 16 had and organize the rules about who may serve.

17 MR. TINDALL: I'll defer. To me,
18 that's a larger issue that may take a long time 19 to --

20 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, we're not 21 going to get through today, you understand?

22 MR. TINDALL: I understand.

23 CHAIRMAN SOULES: We're going to have 24 to have a meeting between now and the end of the 25 year.

1 MR. LOW: Hadley and I were just 2 discussing a simpler way to do it is to go back
 3 and just talk about who may serve all citations
 4 and just list the persons. And then how, you
 5 know, that person -- and then put in there by, you 6 know, disqualification. And then you've got 7 different rules in 106 that also incorporate 103, 8 and some of them you don't even have to repeat.
 9 And you can say, you know, just start out "in 10 addition," "and to others," when they can't find 11 them. And you could shorten them and just say who 12 and how and then the return.

13 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, there is no
 14 question we can do that, but we need it in writing 15 for the Court to act and we can't get it written 16 today --

17 MR. LOW: That's right.

18 CHAIRMAN SOULES: And for the most 19 part, the members of this committee like to see 20 what's written before they vote.

21 MR. LOW: I understand that.

22 CHAIRMAN SOULES: So we do need to 23 charge Harry's committee with as much information 24 as we possibly can give him so that we do get 25 written proposals on the table for the next

1 meeting.

2 PROFESSOR EDGAR: I further suggest
3 that when we get through with that, we might look 4 and see that Rule 104 needs to be substantially 5 modified, if not deleted.

6 MR. LOW: Deleted, maybe.

7 PROFESSOR EDGAR: But I simply call
8 that to the attention of the committee. And,
9 also, to look at Rule 105 and see if any changes 10 need to be made there, as well.

11 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: That's the thing
12 I was -- I didn't mention when I told myself to be 13 quiet. It would be nice if 103 and 106 were next 14 to each other.

15 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Yeah, just simply 16 rearrange them. Put them in the order in which it 17 happens.

18 MR. TINDALL: Well, let me get the 19 consensus here, and we'll know -- I think we've 20 got an idea on how we want 103 written, and I 21 think we've got an idea on how 106 is written. We 22 will, perhaps, completely delete 104 and 105, or 23 at least incorporate those provisions into other 24 rules so that logically, then, we would have three 25 core rules: Who may serve; how they are to be

1 served; and then the return.

2 CHAIRMAN SOULES: That's make sense.
3 That last part of 103 we just talked about would 4 be under "how."

5 MR. LOW: And then, there is one
6 specific thing that applies to citation that may 7 not apply to other process, and you'd have to take 8 that and specify 106. You know, by giving to 9 somebody that's at that address or person that 10 makes --

11 MR. TINDALL: Well, Luke, I think
12 we've got a pretty clear direction here. We voted 13 on this, I know at least twice now, and I think 14 we've got -- I don't know -- you know, there's no
15 need to just grind and refine on this forever. I 16 think we've got a clear mandate of this committee
17 on the changes we want now. I urge that we go 18 ahead and send those to the Court because --

19 CHAIRMAN SOULES: How are we going to 20 send them to the Court?

21 MR. TINDALL: Well, based on the 22 changes we have approved here today.

23 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, I know, but 24 there is not anything in writing on the table and 25 that is a problem.

1 MR. TINDALL: Well, we voted on 277,
2 and I didn't see all that in writing at the end.
3 And we went through some very serious issues on 4 the court's charge that we are going to send on to 5 the Court without having it finally back here 6 flyspecked once more.

7 MR. REASONER: What about sending them
8 out by mail, Luke? Would anybody have any 9 objections?

10 MR. TINDALL: I'll do that. I just -- 11 I want to see us move forward.

12 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. Let me say
13 this. We are going to have to have another 14 meeting between now and the end of the year. We 15 have covered about half of this book. And I think 16 the reason is because we covered the first half, 17 the half that we have covered very thoroughly, and 18 it took all that work to get it out, no question 19 about it. But we still have matters pending that 20 we have to address. It's not fair to those 21 persons that have asked for our help for us not to 22 get their matters dealt with before the Court 23 promulgates rules and then takes -- in effect, 24 we're going to delay for one or two years, the 25 enactment of other -- of more rules in the regular

1 course.

2 MR. TINDALL: Could we go ahead and 3 vote on the changes to 106? And I think with 4 that, we can complete the real problem dealt with, 5 and then in terms of the fine tuning, get this 6 thing rewritten.

7 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Sure.

8 MR. TINDALL: And I will be glad to 9 take on as a longer term project, because that 10 gets into these issues that I think I'd like to 11 put a law clerk on and tell me about citations and 12 summonses and precepts and all that other.

13 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. Can we get 14 that for the next meeting? We need that for the 15 next meeting.

16 MR. TINDALL: I'll do my best.

17 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay.

18 MR. TINDALL: Sure. But I'd like to 19 go ahead and get our changes approved today. I 20 really would, Luke. I mean, we've had them here 21 -- the only change we have not had before the 22 committee in writing is the conforming change to 23 106 where we put the word "officer" first and we 24 delete --

25 CHAIRMAN SOULES: What do you want

1 approved, Harry? We've approved 103, and we've 2 approved 107. We've talked about -- do you want 3 approved the thought that we reorganized --

4 MR. TINDALL: 106a, which is really a
5 housekeeping change. It's to conform with the 6 change that was made in 103.

7 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Is the committee, in 8 principal, in agreement with the discussion that 9 we just talked about in terms of reorganizing the 10 process service rules and the changes -- the 11 specifics that have been brought up?

12 All who are in general agreement with that,
13 show by hands. Opposed? Okay.

14 PROFESSOR EDGAR: But Harry is going
15 to reorganize it, though, and it's -- is he not?

16 CHAIRMAN SOULES: I don't -- he said
17 he was going to try.

18 MR. TINDALL: I'll do that, but I'd 19 like to go ahead and get this committee's approval 20 on the changes as we discussed them here today and 21 voted on 103 and 107. And if we can get the 22 housekeeping to 106, then we can complete that and 23 I can get off the floor until later on in terms 24 of --

25 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Let me just say,

1 Harry, somebody has to be the bad guy. There are 2 rules in other committees, particularly in the 3 committee on the administration of justice that 4 you can't even take up a matter that's not before 5 the committee in writing --

6 MR. TINDALL: I understand that.

7 CHAIRMAN SOULES: -- in the proper
 8 form and so forth. We are attempting to give you 9 guidance -- all the guidance we possibly can, but 10 the committee can't pass on something in my 11 judgment until it's here and in writing.

12 PROFESSOR EDGAR: For example, Buddy
 13 brought up a good point that maybe we could take 14 and put all of this in one rule and make it very 15 simple and just have everything in chronological
 16 order. Delete Rule 104, which everybody says 17 doesn't mean anything. And I would hate for us to 18 adopt these rules -- have these go to the Court -- 19 have them promulgated with Rule 104 still on the 20 books. I mean, I think there are a number of 21 things that we -- we need to look at this whole 22 thing. And I would prefer to see it all in 23 writing as we are going to approve it, in its 24 entirety, before we let it out of committee. Now, 25 that's my reaction.

1 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Now, we may do
2 markups, minor markups or major markups, on what's 3 here, but everybody, when it's through, has their 4 notes made on a piece of paper that has the text 5 that we passed; and at least, we need to get to 6 that point, and we're not there today.

7 When can we meet again? Who's got a
8 suggestion between now and the end of the year?

9 MR. BLAKELY: Mr. Chairman?

10 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Yes, sir, Newell.

11 MR. BLAKELY: Let me raise this aspect 12 of the thing. I've got a mental picture of what 13 the Court plans to do -- how fast it plans to 14 operate and so on. And it hopes to get the rules 15 settled on in December and then put it into the 16 Bar Journal to be effective before the legislature
17 ends; is that right, Justice Wallace?

18 JUSTICE WALLACE: Well, that was the 19 plan. We thought we were going to get through 20 today.

21 MR. BLAKELY: What will this having a
22 new meeting do if we don't meet until December -- 23 you see -- or if we could meet later this month or 24 early October and still achieve your objectives?

25 JUSTICE WALLACE: If we don't meet

1       until December, I don't think it's going to be 2       physically possible for the Court. In effect, 3       you've got a two-week month in December, is what 4       it boils down to in getting anything done -- a 5       three-week month at the most. And it's going to 6       be very difficult, if not impossible, to get that 7       done and comply with the 60-day requirement of 8       publication in the Bar Journal before we can get 9       an effective date. I say we're going to have to 10      move that effective date down to at least until 11      July 1 if we waited until December.

12                   CHAIRMAN SOULES: Justice Wallace, 13      comment, if you will, on your feeling as to the 14      Court's attitude about such delay on the matters 15      that we have passed on and still have before us in 16      terms of --

17                   JUSTICE WALLACE: There is no real 18      problem. The concept we talked about is to 19      establish a firm practice of amending rules no 20      more frequent than every two years, and have them
 21      set a date, whatever it is, the first of any month 22      you want to mention, but on the first day of 23      so-and-so month -- and this next year will be the 24      odd-number year, is when the lawyers can expect 25      rule changes to be made -- and then stick with

3
4
5
6
7
8
9
10
11
12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19 20
21
22
23
24

that. And that's what we're working toward.

Now, there is nothing magic about any month, except I know the Rules of Evidence have been setting on the table for some time now. We're waiting to get all those approved and promulgated along with these Rules of Procedure. And we're going to have a day when rules are going to be promulgated, and when you get to get the rules of evidence, civil procedure, appellate procedure -- whatever the rules are. This is going to be the time when you expect new rules and give the Bar out there and Bench notice that we're going to start looking for these. This is the date they're going to be published, instead of us going down to the courthouse and come to find out 30 days ago new rules were published and nobody has seen them yet.

MR. BLAKELY: Now, was any of this tied in with the legislative session to get it done?

JUSTICE WALLACE: No.

CHAIRMAN SOULES: And for your work, Newell, I think that the Court could go ahead and do what it may wish to do on the Rules of Evidence, maybe promulgate them in order to take

1 care of those Rules of Evidence before --

2 JUSTICE WALLACE: We could go ahead
3 and work on the Rules of Evidence and prepare an 4 order and promulgate an effective date at a time
5 when these rules would be ready, where we can meet 6 that definite date. And that way, you can get 7 your work done because the order is there; they 8 have been promulgated; and the effective date will 9 just be moved up.

10 MR. BLAKELY: There is one little 11 wrinkle, and that's moving certain Rules of Civil 12 Procedure into the Rules of Evidence. A little 13 suggestion that I think we could deal with in ten 14 minutes today, if we could do that.

15 CHAIRMAN SOULES: I did want to get a
16 report from you today, and I think there is a 17 matter on Rule 202 -- is that -- have you had a 18 chance to see something that got submitted on Rule 19 202?

20 MR. TINDALL: Luke, I think I've got a 21 clear direction, and I think Sam and I have 22 conferred we're going to get together and have 23 this thing -- is it the consensus of the committee 24 that if we lived in a perfect world that all this 25 be combined in one global rule much like our

1 discovery rule? Would that be the way the 2 committee's preference would be? Let me just get 3 some ideal thinking from you.

4 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: My preference for 5 now would be to have Rule 103, as we voted on it,
 6 Rule 107 and Rule 106 as tentative suggestions.
 7 That done, together with looking at Rules 104 and 8 105 and treating that as a package, maybe I would 9 want to go back and look at 101 and 102 and see 10 what in the world they are about.

11 MR. TINDALL: Sure.

12 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: 102 is not about 13 anything --

14 MR. TINDALL: I think everything from 15 99 through 107 --

16 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: -- and get that 17 done because that's a real problem today in law 18 practice on service of citation. And the legal 19 community has wanted that problem to be 20 addressed. And that can be done and it can be 21 completed. It could even be done from my 22 perspective by a subcommittee, somewhat like the 23 way the appellate rules were done at the back end 24 because we don't have any policy issues involved
 25 at all. This is really just a matter of choice.

1 MR. TINDALL: We've agreed on what we 2 want.

3 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: But on the other
4 hand, this larger question of comprehensive look 5 at service of process and the methods, that is 6 going to take a long time to do. And I would 7 rather go ahead and do something that is a lot 8 more than mere patchwork that solves the real 9 lawyer's problem as quickly as possible in a 10 professional way, leaving the larger overall thing 11 to a definite later time. That would be my 12 suggestion.

13 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. We do want to 14 hear from Newell, and Justice Wallace has a couple 15 of things he wants us polled on.

16 But when should we meet again? Can anybody 17 meet before the end of the year? Should we make 18 it a January date?

19 MR. SPIVEY: No, not in January. Some 20 of us will be skiing.

21 MR. REASONER: What about the end of 22 October?

23 JUDGE THOMAS: How about reasonably
24 after November 4th?

25 MR. TINDALL: What about November 8 --

1 7 and 8? That's after election day.

2 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Tom?

3 MR. RAGLAND: I'm in agreement that 4 this whole series -- 100 series ought to be looked 5 at very carefully. But it occurs to me that there 6 are very valuable and substantial rights which 7 hinge upon due process, et cetera, et cetera.

8 And I think that it is significant enough to 9 where this committee, whenever it meets, come here
 10 with the idea of devoting their entire attention 11 to that portion, this 100 series here, because 12 there's a lot of things that I don't know, just in 13 reading this, that raised some questions in my 14 mind. There's a lot of statutes that deal with 15 police officers. There are a lot of other rules.
 16 There is a line of cases, for example, that says
 17 that the statute of limitations is not tolled 18 unless service is requested timely within the 19 two-year period or four-year period of time. I
 20 don't know what effect it might have on Rule 128, 21 for example. It may not have any at all, but I 22 think it merits some real serious consideration, 23 rather than trying to cram it in between 4:00 and 24 5:00 on Friday some afternoon.

25 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): Or 11:00 and

1 12:00 on Saturday.

2 MR. RAGLAND: That's right.

3 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): Which is where 4 these rules have been for six months.

5 MR. RAGLAND: That's right. I think
6 that this is important. I mean, this is not like 7 discovery rules where, you know, the Court could 8 come back and patch it up later on if it's not 9 given the proper attention. I think it is 10 important enough where we have a special session, 11 if you please, to deal with this one portion of 12 the rules.

13 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Tom, are we going to 14 have two more meetings or one?

15 MR. RAGLAND: Well, I don't know,
16 Luke.

17 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, if I make the 18 next one a special session on this, and we've 19 still got work to do on the other --

20 MR. RAGLAND: Well, I understand that,
21 and I'm not saying that the other work is not 22 important. But I think this certainly has 23 constitutional implications -- dimensions here 24 that maybe some of the other rules don't have 25 quite that significance.

1                   CHAIRMAN SOULES: It would be my plan
2 to take up something "noncontroversial" first 3 thing Friday morning, and then put these right 4 where the 270 series rules were on in this 5 meeting's agenda. So as soon as we've got a crowd 6 and we can get to work on these, we'll work on 7 these until we get them done and then do the rest
8 of the rules. And everybody take a look --

9                   MR. RAGLAND: But noncontroversial 10 matters always generate a lot of debate whether 11 it's controversial debate or not.

12                   CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well -- but if we 13 start on these things first, we start before a lot 14 of people get here.

15                   Seventh and 8th -- is that a time that is 16 available?

17                   MR. REASONER: I've got a conflict on 18 the 7th.

19                   MR. RAGLAND: What month?

20                   CHAIRMAN SOULES: November.

21                   MR. TINDALL: First weekend after 22 election. _

23                   PROFESSOR EDGAR: Is the 7th on a 24 Friday?

25                   CHAIRMAN SOULES: Seventh is on a

1 Friday. Harry has got a conflict with that.

2 Harry, do you want to have an alternative to the 3 proposed meeting?

4 MR. REASONER: No, if I'm the only one
5 that's got a conflict, it sounds like a good date.

6 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, you may not be 7 the only one.

8 MR. REASONER: Well, you might move a
9 lot faster if I wasn't here.

10 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: That's -- I was 11 going to say it would probably speed up the 12 meeting.

13 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Judge Thomas?

14 JUDGE THOMAS: How about the next
15 weekend? I don't have a calendar in front of me.

16 MR. TINDALL: I've got a conflict if 17 we're going to -- I'm already committed. The 18 21st, we're getting close to Thanksgiving.

19 CHAIRMAN SOULES: That's the weekend
20 before Thanksgiving. That puts us two short weeks 21 in a row.

22 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Judge Wallace, if we 23 met on the 7th and 8th and perhaps completed our 24 business, do you feel that that would give the 25 Court an opportunity to deal with these matters

1 and to meet the time schedule that you had 2 originally anticipated, or do you think that's 3 still crowding it too much?

4 JUSTICE WALLACE: Well, let me tell 5 you just kind of what was involved in getting to 6 us. First, of course, Luke gets together and 7 sends me an exact form of what the committee has 8 done. I, then, have got to get my secretary to 9 prepare the order for the Court, and then we can 10 get a date set ahead of time to get the Court 11 together to work on these, presuming we can get 12 that done in one or two days -- one or two 13 sessions.

14 So, if we were working toward December 1, I'd 15 say any time past the 7th and 8th of November is 16 going to be impossible. We'd just have to move 17 the effective date forward. That would be the 18 only thing I could consider.

19 PROFESSOR EDGAR: But you think that 20 maybe the 7th and 8th might be within the ballpark 21 to achieve what you had originally --

22 JUSTICE WALLACE: I would hope we 23 could get it done.

24 CHAIRMAN SOULES: I need some 25 direction from the committee on that. We've been

1 working for a year on a lot of rules, and I have 2 pulled them together as best I can. But my plan
3 was to create when we're done -- and I can even do
4 it before that -- I can do it and have it ready 5 for the next meeting -- another one of these 6 that's got all of our recommendations for 7 approval. I'm not going to put in the ones that 8 we've rejected, but whatever we approved, make a 9 book and send it to all of you so that you can 10 look at it and satisfy yourselves that it reflects 11 what we have done.

12 And, if I have missed something -- I'm sure I 13 must have missed something -- then I can get 14 feedback from you, and that's going to be a 30-day
15 process, chances are. I mean, if I send it out 16 for feedback within the week, I think you would 17 feel rushed. Two weeks would probably be the fuse 18 that I would put on it and legitimately get 19 everything back. And then taking your comments
20 and making the corrections is going to take a 21 while. So, you know, to get this done right, 22 carefully, it's going to be hard to meet that 23 December deadline even if we had gotten through 24 today.

25 JUSTICE WALLACE: Well, I think the

1 best thing -- the prudent thing would be to move
2 our effective date forward because, like I say, 3 there is nothing magic about it. One date is as 4 good as another. I just feel very strongly that 5 the lawyers out there and the judges should have a 6 date. This is the date, the first day of this 7 month. Whatever the date is, that every two 8 years, that's going to be the date when new rules 9 are promulgated, if there are any, and stick with 10 it and there is nothing magic. I know we need to 11 get some evidence matters -- or get as soon as 12 possible because of that; and that's the only 13 thing.

14 And I think -- Mr. Blakely, do you see any 15 reason why we can't have the Court go ahead and 16 promulgate the rules, and you would know exactly 17 what they are as an accomplished fact, except the 18 question of when the effective date is going to 19 be? Would that interfere with your work in any 20 way?

21 MR. BLAKELY: No, that would be fine.

22 JUSTICE WALLACE: Okay. Well, let's
23 just plan to do that. And when we get it all 24 together, then let's do it and give ourselves 25 enough time to do it right, and we'll pick it up

1 when the committee gets through --

2 CHAIRMAN SOULES: All right.

3 JUSTICE WALLACE: -- because I don't 4 know of anything that the Bar out there is just 5 waiting for us to do this, so they can do things 6 the right way. There is nothing I don't think 7 that we're doing that is that much of an 8 emergency.

9 CHAIRMAN SOULES: So if we don't do it
10 in early November, we're going to be --

11 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Well, let's do it in 12 early November, and give us more time to 13 double-check and make sure there are no mistakes
14 in there.

15 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Beg your pardon?

16 MR. SPIVEY: We all can't be here on 17 any one day, so let's just pick a date and --

18 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. Let's -- 19 whatever date is proposed then -- 7th and 8th or 20 the 14th and 15th are the dates.

21 JUDGE TUNKS: Fourteenth and 15th of 22 November?

23 MR. TINDALL: I urge the 7th and 8th.
24 It will give us more time to -- if we have to call 25 another meeting after that.

1 MR. SPIVEY: That's a good idea. The 2 earlier, the better.

3 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, let's just 4 take a poll on how many want to start the meeting 5 on the 7th, and how many want to start it on the 6 14th?

7 How many on the 7th? Show by hands. Eleven.
8 How many want to start on the 14th? Well, of 9 those that are here, the preference is pretty 10 significant that it start on the 7th.

11 MR. EDGAR: 8:30?

12 CHAIRMAN SOULES: 8:30. We're going 13 to work from 8:30 till --

14 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: 6:30.

15 MR. TINDALL: Luke, I suggest we 16 commit both full days until we get ground through 17 this. Is that too oppressive to say we'll work 18 late Saturday afternoon rather than noontime?

19 MR. SPIVEY: That's a very good 20 suggestion, with the exception there is a heck of 21 a football game that afternoon.

22 MR. TINDALL: Is there? Well --

23 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Well, then, you've 24 got to make a plane reservation, too, in advance, 25 and you've got to get out of here when your plane

1 leaves.

2 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I would rather 3 work Friday later and go home in time to watch a 4 real football team.

5 CHAIRMAN SOULES: What if we go ahead
6 and schedule to work from 8:30 to 6:30 on Friday
7 and from 8:30 to 1:30 on Saturday? Does anybody
8 know what the plane schedules are after 1:30?

9 PROFESSOR EDGAR: On Saturday?

10 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Yes, sir.

11 MR. SPIVEY: We can schedule it at 12 1:30, and then if we have to adjust it, we can 13 just make a short adjustment.

14 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. Newell,
15 you've got some -- well, let me get these matters 16 for Justice Wallace, first of all. We need to get 17 polls on a couple of things.

18 One of the matters that the Court wants 19 guidance on is the prospect of shortening briefs
20 to 30 pages unless special leave of the Court is 21 given. Since we are not going to have another 22 meeting, we may have -- of course, we will have 23 one now on the 7th -- get the committee's feelings 24 and the Court's proposal to, one, limit briefs to 25 appellate courts to 30 pages, double-spaced, typed

1 or equivalent, on 8 1/2 by 11 paper, exclusive of 2 index and table of cases. The party may petition
3 the Court to permit additional briefing.

4 What discussion do we have on that? Harry?

5 MR. REASONER: What is the federal 6 appellate rule, Luke, do you remember?

7 CHAIRMAN SOULES: I don't know.

8 MR. WELLS: Fifty pages.

9 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Why have all
10 these -- why don't we just make one for the same 11 bright-colored paper, too. I'm against the -- 12 imposing these arbitrary limitations on briefing.
13 I don't write -- I write a lot of appellate 14 briefs, ordinarily, not any longer than 30 pages, 15 exclusive, et cetera; but my attitude is that that 16 is a bad idea to start imposing limitations across 17 the board.

18 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Harry?

19 MR. REASONER: Luke, I think it's a 20 good idea because I think it's a good discipline 21 for all of us. And the only question I would 22 have, Judge Wallace, is that I'm used to the 23 federal rules except that I'm not so used to it 24 that I can remember what it is. But that -- and 25 that seems to me that's an ample length. Thirty

1 pages, double-spaced sounds too short to me for 2 the average case.

3 MR. SPIVEY: Is this rule trying to 4 satisfy the lawyer or trying to satisfy the Court?

5 JUSTICE WALLACE: Trying to satisfy
6 the Court. There is nothing more disheartening, 7 as Judge Pope can tell you, when most of these 8 briefs are read at home anyway -- you don't find 9 time to read them -- and you get there about 9:30 10 and you pick up this brief, and it's 150 pages and 11 it could be written in about 25, and it's the same 12 thing over and over again.

13 As Harry said, it's the exception, and if 14 that limit is in there, I found, and I think all 15 of you find, that if you got that limitation, you 16 are going to go over it again and knock out that 17 excessive wording and say what you have to say, 18 and you can say it adequately, and everybody is --

19 MR. SPIVEY: As an advocate, I'd like 20 to see the other side file 150-page brief because 21 I think the court probably won't read it as 22 carefully as they would a 12-page brief. But my 23 personal preference is -- but I wasn't sure 24 whether the request was coming from the Supreme 25 Court or --

JUSTICE WALLACE: Well, it is from the Court, and the 30-page is no magic -- I understood that was the federal limitation.

MR. TINDALL: I thought -- Luke, I have it right here. It's Rule 28g. It says, "Except by permission of the court or as specified by local rules, the Court of Appeals' principal brief shall not exceed 50 pages and reply briefs shall not exceed 25 pages excluding the pages contained in the table of contents, citations, and any addendum containing statutes, rules, regulations."

MR. WELLS: I think that's a reasonable rule. I think 30 is a little tight sometimes.

JUSTICE WALLACE: Okay.

MR. RAGLAND: Judge, doesn't the Court of Criminal Appeals have a rule -- briefing rule, that limits it to 60 pages and --

JUSTICE WALLACE: I don't know.

MR. RAGLAND: -- I was just wondering what their_experience was on that.

MR. REASONER: Well, it's not double-spaced either, is it?

MR. TINDALL: It's just -- well,

1 that's another --

2 MR. MCMAINS: There are spacing
3 requirements.

4 MR. TINDALL: Well, I hate to get into 5 the federal rules on spacing. It just says 50 -- 6 50 pages is all --

7 MR. WELLS: The federal rule talks
8 about the type of type and all that.

9 MR. MCMAINS: No, specify printing and 10 type and everything else.

11 MR. TINDALL: Oh, they got everything 12 in the world in --

13 MR. MCMAINS: Margins --

14 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Where is the Federal 15 Rules of Procedure referenced?

16 MR. MCMAINS: 28g.

17 MR. TINDALL: 28g in the Rules of 18 Appellate Procedure.

19 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: But you really 20 have to look at the local rules. You have to look 21 at the Fifth Circuit.

22 MR. TINDALL: Yeah, the Fifth Circuit
23 has got local rules and they have got operating 24 rules. They are -- it's layer upon layer of 25 rules.

CHAIRMAN SOULES: How much for the reply brief -- how many pages?

MR. TINDALL: Fifty and 25.

MR. REASONER: Well, I would urge consideration of the federal rules or something like them, Judge, because it seems to me those work pretty well.

PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, what happens if the brief is too long then, if we contemplate that? Do you just throw it away after you read the first 50 pages?

MR. REASONER: Well, they strike it in the Fifth Circuit and people don't file briefs
that are too long.

CHIEF JUSTICE POPE: You just quit
reading at page 50.

PROFESSOR DORSANEO: That's what I was saying. You could do that anyway.

CHAIRMAN SOULES: Rusty McMains.

MR. MCMAINS: I've got to leave to catch a plane, but my only concern is more in the Supreme Court than in the Court of Appeals in the sense that -- particularly if the Court of Appeals has given you an extension of additional page length, you know, so that you've got a bigger

1 brief to start with -- you obviously have to make 2 an application for the petition for the writ of 3 error for extension of your briefing in the 4 Supreme Court -- to the Supreme Court, much like I 5 assume that the motion of extension practice has 6 to be directed to the Supreme Court even though 7 you are filing it in the Court of Appeals. And 8 you are on a short time fuse for 30 days, after 9 the motion for rehearing is overruled, to get the 10 motion for extension filed -- acted on, et cetera, 11 which requires some pretty expedited action on the 12 part of the Court.

13 And I just -- I question how -- you know, if 14 the Court waits a week -- I mean, it may well be 15 that you're trying to beat the time limit and you 16 don't find out you really can't get it into 50 17 pages until you're two weeks into it, and you are 18 on an awful short time fuse to require that motion 19 to be both filed and granted before you file the 20 brief; and I don't know how you handle that 21 question.

22 _ MR. SPIVEY: Why don't you put some 23 common sense rules in there and say that it shall 24 be -- let's take 50 pages, for instance. And then 25 if it is -- if it exceeds that, that you could ask

1 permission of the Court, and if the Court doesn't 2 grant it, you withdraw that brief and reduce it.

3 MR. MCMAINS: Yeah. Well, all I'm 4 saying is that I think the short time fuse in the 5 Supreme Court is something we ought to give 6 credence to, to adjust the time period because the 7 Feds will not let you -- theoretically don't let 8 you file a brief that is longer than that unless 9 you have got authority to do it before you file
10 it.

11 MR. REASONER: But I think, Rusty, 12 don't they send it back and give you an 13 opportunity to refile it?

14 MR. MCMAINS: As a general rule, they 15 will send it back if you've got the wrong cover or 16 they've done anything else. They don't have to do 17 that, but they do do it. And unless you are going 18 to set up just a continuous -- just build in a new 19 motion practice that's routine, which I don't 20 think is going to help the Court any in terms of 21 just ignoring a lot of the extra pages in the 22 brief that they could do now, I just think it 23 makes some sense to allow some leeway there as to 24 what happens when you file it or get into that 25 short time fuse situation.

1 I don't have any specific recommendation 2 without anything in front of us, but it seems to 3 me that it would be appropriate, you know, to 4 virtually specify in the rule that if you have 5 made -- if you certify to the Court that you made
6 a good faith effort and can't do it in less than X 7 number of pages, then that certificate or 8 something ought to be good enough to get you -- at 9 least until the opportunity -- if the court
10 disagrees with you and sends it back -- that you
11 should have two weeks in which to comply, or, you 12 know, ten days or something like that.

13 MR. WELLS: Well, I don't think we can 14 go into all the details of that at this point. I 15 think it's the consensus of the group that a 16 50-page limitation -- application of the federal 17 rule would make sense.

18 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. What I
19 haven't heard is -- or we have heard a lot of 20 people talk about 50 pages. Are we talking about 21 50 pages to a side or 50 pages for the appellant
22 and 25 pages for the appellee?

23 MR. MCMAINS: No, no. The 50-page
24 limit applies to both. The reply brief which is 25 the -- see, there is a specific reply procedure.

1 That's the second brief. So it's actually 75
2 pages total that --

3 MR. SPIVEY: Why don't we have 4 somebody draft a proposed rule and we've got 5 something to argue from.

6 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I'll volunteer to 7 draft.

8 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. Will you
9 work with Rusty?

10 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Yeah, because I
11 have questions about points of error, and also 12 because bench trials, you were going to have to 13 put in a lot of extra points of error on findings 14 of facts and a lot of garbage that maybe shouldn't 15 be counted as a page limit. You have a practice 16 of restating points, maybe -- that's a dumb -- 17 that's stupid anyway. So maybe we could work out 18 something that would, in fact, be helpful and not 19 just some arbitrary --

20 CHAIRMAN SOULES: And that would be 21 amendments to the Rules of Appellate Procedure
22 anyway.

23 MR. REASONER: I think the suggestion
24 that we eliminate the practice -- of course, I 25 would like to eliminate points of error myself.

1 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: So would I. But 2 we are not going to do that, probably.

3 MR. REASONER: But, at least, we ought 4 to get out of restating them. I wouldn't ask 5 Justice Wallace, but I would be suspicious if 6 anybody reads "Restated Points of Error."

7 JUSTICE WALLACE: There is really no
8 point in it. If you read the points of error, you 9 know what points they are talking about.

10 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. The second 11 point that Justice -- okay. So the -- is it the 12 consensus that 50 and 25, the federal rule in 13 terms of page limitation, is workable? Okay, 14 anyone feel that --

15 MR. SPIVEY: You're talking about as a 16 general instruction to -- that somebody ought to 17 draft from?

18 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Yes.

19 MR. SPIVEY: I think so, with the 20 other suggestion that he's going to take this up 21 that it not be a nit-picking or a -- I certainly 22 agree with him that the color of the briefs is 23 such a ridiculous thing, and I've gotten 24 caught --

25 CHAIRMAN SOULES: I'm not talking

1 about colors or anything just -- I guess maybe 2 print size or type size, or how many words on a 3 page has got to be controlled because otherwise, 4 judges burn their eyes out reading the fine print,
5 I would think.

6 JUSTICE WALLACE: Just recently, I got 7 one of the worst briefs I have ever seen yet. It 8 was almost 200 pages. I sent it back and told 9 them to shorten it and make it concise, and all 10 they did was put it on a reducer and sent the same 11 material back. It took up less pages, but you 12 could hardly read it because it was so small.
13 People like that you're -- are hopeless anyway.

14 CHAIRMAN SOULES: So, we were really 15 talking about pages and some control of the number 16 or words on pages -- however it is controlled.

17 The second question here is that we want to 18 get a consensus on -- or issue -- whether all 19 points of error raised in the Court of Appeals and 20 not addressed by that court and its opinion, are 21 overruled as a matter of law -- or to be 22 considered overruled as a matter of law.

23 JUSTICE WALLACE: The rules say that 24 the Court of Appeals shall rise on all points 25 before it.

1 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): We debated that 2 several times last year, even, and it seems to me 3 we were always -- the majority was in favor of 4 maintaining the rule that we had.

5 JUSTICE WALLACE: Well, here's the 6 problem you run into. The Court of Appeals -- 7 some of them will take one dispositive point and 8 they are right on it. They don't take up 9 insufficiency points or anything like that. When 10 it comes to us and we need to overturn it on that 11 one dispositive point, and then you've got the 12 whole process to go through again because the 13 Court of Appeals didn't address all points like 14 the rules say they should.

15 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): Well, Judge,
16 I've even had cases where the Court of Appeals 17 will have one dispositive point that goes to the 18 Supreme Court and then it's a remand. And if you 19 get it back because they haven't addressed that 20 point -- I have had two that they end right there, 21 and you don't have to try it again. I mean, you 22 know, it's_just -- I would be more inclined to say 23 that the Court of Appeals has to rule on the 24 others. I just -- I have always favored that 25 rule, but I remember we have debated this several

1 times.

2 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Broadus Spivey.

3 MR. SPIVEY: I have had that 4 experience recently where the lawyers on both 5 sides have joined asking the appellate court to 6 rule on those issues because both of us felt that 7 would be dispositive, and the Court simply refused 8 to do it. That puts us in the position of almost 9 guaranteeing that the Supreme Court will remand it 10 unless the Supreme Court can get as irritated with 11 the Court of Appeals as we are.

12 I would like to see a rule that says, as you 13 suggested, that if they don't rule on them, they 14 are overruled as a matter of law. It seems to me, 15 that gives the respondent at least something to 16 appeal on, you know, because we feel it should be 17 preserved. The mere fact that the -- that the 18 Court of Appeals didn't rely on them -- didn't 19 touch it, doesn't deprive him of the opportunity 20 to argue it.

21 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Anyone else?

22 MR. WELLS: I agree with that.

23 PROFESSOR EDGAR: I feel the request
24 is a reasonable one. I think the Court should be 25 able to have all those points before it and decide

1 it without having to send it back to the Court of 2 Appeals.

3 CHAIRMAN SOULES: What if they -- what 4 if they reserved the insufficiency points? They 5 would have to expressly reserve the insufficiency
6 points. They pass on all the law points and say 7 they think that disposes of the case.

8 MR. SPIVEY: Yeah. That's just giving 9 them a way out. I'm saying they need to rule on 10 it, or it's overruled as a matter of law.

11 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, what if the 12 Court legitimately feels that the law disposes of 13 the case, but they do want them to take another 14 look at it, if that's disagreed with, because of 15 the insufficiency points which may be voluminous
16 -- may be big problems. But then --

17 MR. SPIVEY: Well, as a matter of 18 housekeeping, it is all before us --

19 JUSTICE WALLACE: The place is where 20 the problem is coming from, and I don't think it 21 would do any good at all.

22 - CHAIRMAN SOULES: I'm just raising a
23 question. I don't know the answers.

24 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Well, frequently, 25 though, the -- what happens is the Court of

1 Appeals will rule on the legal sufficiency point
 2 and never reach the factual sufficiency point.
 3 And then on application for writ of error, the 4 Supreme Court reverses on the legal sufficiency
 5 point and in doing so, clarifies some of the law
 6 and some of the evidence so that then upon remand, 7 the Court of Appeals can legitimately exercise its 8 fact finding function.

9 MR. SPIVEY: But don't you allow them
 10 the opportunity to second guess their way around?
 11 Don't you give the Court of Appeals an unfair two 12 bites of the apple?

13 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: It doesn't really 14 happen that way. In a lot of cases that I see, 15 they have decided that the evidence is legally not 16 -- I don't mean a lot -- but in a number of cases, 17 they decide the evidence is legally insufficient.
 18 They get reversed. Presumably, they would have 19 found that it was factually insufficient, too.
 20 And then they find that the evidence is factually 21 sufficient based upon looking at it the right way.

22 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Once they find out
 23 the evidence was good evidence instead of not good 24 evidence, then they weigh it and find that it 25 supports the verdict.

MR. REASONER: Well, but -- and let me just -- I'm not sure I understand this. It seems to me, as a general proposition in the administration of justice you ought to avoid the additional appellant consideration. But with what Justice Wallace is suggesting, it would be nothing that would preclude the Supreme Court from remanding cases where a change in the legal standards might indicate a different result on factual insufficiency points. The Supreme Court would still have that discretion if it seemed appropriate.

PROFESSOR DORSANEO: If they said the judgment was erroneous and then remand it to the Court of Appeals in the interest of justice to redetermine the factual insufficiency thing that's impliedly determined the first time around?

MR. REASONER: Right. Well, but I mean -- I mean, now rather than having a mechanical rule -- I mean, I sympathize with the courts of appeals when lawyers file 200 points of error. I don't blame them for not wanting to write on them when 190 appear to be irrelevant. And in the rare case where it would appear that the interest of justice would be served by remand,

1 I would suppose the Court would have the 2 discretion to do that even if they treated all the 3 points as overruled in the first opinion.

4 MR. SPIVEY: But, Harry, don't you
 5 have the same -- if they are really irrelevant -- 6 the other 190 points are irrelevant by overruling 7 them by operation of the law, doesn't that give 8 you the same effect and give you more of a 9 finality of a decision?

10 MR. REASONER: You and I are on the 11 same side. I just didn't articulate my position 12 very well.

13 MR. SPIVEY: You have a neat way of 14 sticking the dagger in a guy.

15 MR. REASONER: I think -- I don't 16 think you ought to have a practice where every 17 time the court finds -- the Supreme Court finds 18 the Court of Appeals hasn't clearly done it's job 19 that it has to remand it. I mean, in the federal 20 practice, now, you have the rare remand from the 21 Supreme Court of the United States if they decide 22 they want to look at some other issue.

23 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: We have a special
 24 problem because of the factual insufficiency --

25 MR. REASONER: I understand.

1 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: -- and complaints
2 of jurisdiction that complicates the overall
3 thing.

4 MR. REASONER: I agree, but if the 5 Court has discretion to remand it when it wants 6 to, it seems to me it ought to be able to treat
7 them as overruled, except in the instance where it 8 would be some use to remanding it.

9 JUSTICE WALLACE: Well, recently, we 10 pretty much had taken the idea that in those 11 points that the Court of Appeals did not rule on 12 if we have jurisdiction of them, we can go ahead
13 and address them, period. But, of course, 14 insufficiency is a big one and they -- some of 15 them just don't like to get into it, it seems 16 like, and there is nothing we can do but remand.

17 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: But our 18 discussion would indicate, Your Honor, that that 19 problem would probably continue to be a problem 20 because it is a problem, and that practice makes 21 sense. But there are a number of cases where the 22 insufficiency ruling is affected the second time 23 around by what the high court did on the legal 24 insufficiency thing.

25 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): But, you know,

1 I've had two cases -- I don't do a lot of 2 appellate work. I usually try to get some smart 3 lawyers in our firm to do it.

4 But I've had two cases that have gotten to 5 the Supreme Court and they have gotten there with 6 the Court's of Appeals opinion that really don't 7 have anything to do with the briefs of either 8 party. They get a theory in the appeal and it's 9 gone to the court and now it's back in the Court 10 of Appeals, really, to write on the questions that 11 we've had. And it seems to me when you are trying 12 to preserve those points and the Supreme Court 13 says, "Well, if they are overruled by operation of 14 law, then you really -- you never had an 15 intermediate appeal," you're making those points, 16 really as far as the record goes, directly to the 17 Supreme Court.

18 MR. REASONER: Well, but to me --

19 MR. WELLS: Well, that's all right,
 20 isn't it?

21 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Justice Wallace had 22 a reply to that.

23 JUSTICE WALLACE: Of course, the idea
 24 of this is not to prevent you from getting a 25 hearing, it's to get the Court of Appeals to do

1 what the rules say they should do now, and that 2 is: address all points.

3 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): Oh, I
4 understand that that's the problem.

5 PROFESSOR EDGAR: How would you handle
6 the situation, Judge Wallace, if the Court of 7 Appeals did not write, for example, on the legal 8 and factual sufficiency points, simply reversed 9 the case on some other point that was not, and 10 didn't write on the legal and factual sufficiency?
11 So then the Court, then, would assume that both of 12 those had been overruled by operation of law and 13 then concluded that the Court of Appeals was 14 incorrect on its -- on the legal -- that the legal 15 sufficiency standard was incorrectly applied.

16 JUSTICE WALLACE: If they brought it 17 up -- if they had that point, then we would 18 address that, right.

19 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Then what would the 20 Court do with that factual sufficiency point, 21 which you have also implied that the Court of 22 Appeals overruled, which is final in the Court of 23 Appeals? How would you handle that type of 24 problem? Would you have to send that back then to 25 the Court of Appeals, or since the Court of

1 Appeals overruled it and it's final in the Court
2 of Appeals, would you then have to automatically 3 remand it to the trial court?

4 JUSTICE WALLACE: That would be a
5 problem.

6 PROFESSOR EDGAR: That would be a
7 problem.

8 MR. REASONER: Well, but, Hadley, 9 wouldn't they be free to make the determination as 10 to whether there appeared to be any point in 11 sending it back to the Court of Appeals?

12 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Let's assume that 13 the point on appeal is both legal and factual
14 insufficiency. The Court of Appeals does not ride 15 on the point.

16 Now, the only thing that can come to the 17 Supreme Court is the implied overruling of the 18 legal insufficiency point. The Court concludes 19 that was -- that implied overruling was incorrect.

20 Now, does it remand it back to the Court of 21 Appeals because the Court of Appeals has already 22 concluded by implication that the factual
23 insufficiency point is good, or does it simply 24 remand to the trial court?

25 JUSTICE WALLACE: Well, now, if we --

1 wait a minute. The appellant came up on factual
 2 and legal insufficiency. In other words, the 3 Court of Appeals didn't rule on either one of 4 them. A point of error to us brought the legal 5 insufficiency. We say if the evidence is legally 6 insufficient, that takes care of it. The 7 appellant is right if his legal insufficiency
 8 point failed. If the Court of Appeals had ruled, 9 we would presume that the factual insufficiency 10 point that the Court of Appeals overruled, that 11 there was factual insufficiency in what they 12 ruled, and it would stand.

13 In other words, we find if there is no legal 14 sufficiency, then we take care of it. If we rule 15 -- well, there is legal sufficiency and the -- no
 16 factual sufficiency point was overruled, then you 17 would have a finding of factual sufficiency, would 18 be what remained, wouldn't you?

19 CHIEF JUSTICE POPE: Judge, if you've 20 got a lazy Court of Appeals and you've got six 21 factual insufficiency points in the Court of Civil 22 Appeals and a statute of limitations point, and 23 the Court of Appeals takes the easy way out and 24 writes only on the statute of limitations, and 25 erroneously so. Now, I'm not saying anything

1 about the factual insufficiency. There is an 2 implied finding that there is sufficient evidence 3 from which there is no appeal, and the Court has 4 not addressed those points at all and really 5 hasn't had a fair review.

6 CHAIRMAN SOULES: That's my concern --
7 what you are suggesting, Harry -- Harry Reasoner, 8 I mean. If those factual insufficiency points are 9 presumptively overruled by the Court of Appeals, 10 the Supreme Court can't even look at them. They 11 are final there. And we're deeming that the Court
12 of Appeals has looked at them and decided them 13 consistent with this judgment.

14 So it's not a matter of sending them back to 15 look at those for the first time since they never 16 have looked at them yet. It's a matter of, "it's 17 all over." It was final in that court when that 18 deemed ruling fell in place.

19 PROFESSOR EDGAR: All I'm suggesting,
20 Luke, is that such a rule would cover a lot of the 21 problem and I think would, perhaps, stimulate the 22 courts of appeals to comply with the rule. But I 23 can see this one instance in which that might not 24 work and it might work adversely, too. Well, 25 there might be an out because of the holding in

1 Pool versus Ford where, now, the Court of Appeals, 2 in order to perform its function, must detail the 3 evidence and show wherein it is factually
 4 insufficient to overturn the verdict.

5 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: So their implied
 6 holding would always be wrong.

7 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Then their implied
 8 holding would always be wrong and the case would 9 have to be reversed to the Court of Appeals to 10 comply with the mandate of Pool versus Ford; that 11 might be the out.

12 CHAIRMAN SOULES: That's pretty 13 convoluted --

14 JUSTICE WALLACE: You always got -- 15 where you've got error below -- if you found 16 erroneous judgment, you can remand an interest in 17 justice, as Bill said, until you get their 18 attention. I don't think you would have to do it 19 more than once or twice to get it, but --

20 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Broadus, this seems 21 to me like serious points of insufficiency that 22 are dealing with maybe quite a bit of evidence 23 that would have a hard time getting reviewed once 24 you get this, and we may be locking ourselves out 25 of a review with those points.

1 Broadus Spivey.

2 MR. SPIVEY: How about putting a very 3 simple admonition that the Court of Appeals shall 4 ride on every point raised and, perhaps, make a 5 limitation on the number of points raised.

6 MR. REASONER: But, you know, to me --
7 I mean, I guess I'm really troubled by the whole 8 notion that our appellate courts have to do this 9 mechanistically because a lot of the briefs -- 10 like I say, I don't blame judges. A lot of these 11 points of error are unworthy of wasting a sentence 12 on, you know.

13 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: You see a lot of 14 opinions where they say we considered Points 74
15 through 78, and they were without merit.

16 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Chief Justice Pope.

17 CHIEF JUSTICE POPE: Well, a good 18 judge would include in his opinion all points not 19 discussed or overruled.

20 MR. REASONER: Well, I agree with 21 that, Chief Justice, but, you know -- I guess one 22 thing that troubles me about Pool from the 23 viewpoint of administration of justice, it seems 24 to me it is a tremendous burden on the appellate 25 court if every time some lawyer irresponsibly

1 raises insufficiency points, they are then -- the 2 mandate is then that they've got to write a very 3 detailed opinion.

4 PROFESSOR EDGAR: No, only if they 5 find that there is factual insufficiency. If the 6 evidence is factually insufficient and they affirm 7 the judgment, you don't have to do that.

8 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: How about this:
9 How about saying you could imply that each one is 10 overruled, what they are doing now, except where 11 the Supreme Court has the jurisdiction to consider 12 the point even though it wasn't addressed 13 specifically in the Court of Appeals. But for 14 insufficiency complaints not addressed 15 specifically, that presumption or implication is 16 not appropriate.

17 MR. REASONER: But you were just 18 leaving open the only thing that's a problem.

19 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Sam Sparks.

20 MR. SPARKS (El Paso): The problem, as 21 I understand it is, some courts of appeals are not 22 putting in their opinion that points of error 20 23 through 100 are overruled because they are without 24 merit. If we come in with a rule that says they 25 are overruled presumptively, we're just giving

1 more strength for those same courts not to ride on 2 the points of error. I mean, I think the rule 3 we're thinking about just further excuses the 4 courts of appeals from not looking at points of 5 error.

6 CHIEF JUSTICE POPE: I -- it frightens
7 me to think that one's right to have points 8 considered depends upon a court -- a court of 9 appeals that, either through ignorance or 10 laziness, does not talk about good points, and 11 then those automatically are overruled. It just 12 bothers me.

13 Now, what you are talking about, Judge, I'm 14 sure, is the rule which the Supreme Court, if they 15 disagreed with what the Court of Appeals has 16 raised, then they are under the burden to look to 17 the other points and there may be a whole
18 independent ground for sustaining that judgment.
19 And I think that's a good rule -- that the Supreme 20 Court should look to the other points to see if 21 the judgment can be upheld.

22 JUSTICE WALLACE: You're right. And 23 as I say, two or three opinions recently are 24 "Okay, these are properly raised in the Court of 25 Appeals, should have been addressed by them, but

1 wasn't, and since it's within our jurisdiction,
2 we're going to go ahead and decide them. If all 3 the points raised below and not considered are 4 within our jurisdiction, we can dispose of the 5 case and that's no problem."

6 The problem is judicial economy or diseconomy 7 of having to send a case back to the Court of 8 Appeals for rehearing rather than getting it 9 disposed of. And that was what concerned the 10 Court and why I was asked to submit this to you.

11 CHIEF JUSTICE POPE: Judge, don't you 12 find some occasions when you have seen courts of 13 appeals that just dodge things?

14 JUSTICE WALLACE: Yeah, sure do.

15 CHIEF JUSTICE POPE: And then you get 16 the -- you get a point on appeal to the Supreme 17 Court. And there have been some times when we 18 found error and we sent that back to the Court of 19 Appeals just so they will do their work. And I
20 think that has some place, too. In other words, 21 it's easy for them to just say, "Well, we'll just 22 shift this--right on through up to the Supreme 23 Court and let them worry about all these things."

24 MR. REASONER: Well, I wonder if 25 consideration should be given to just changing the

1 jurisdiction of the Supreme Court so they have 2 jurisdiction over factual insufficiency points.

3 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Do you want that,
4 Judge?

5 CHIEF JUSTICE POPE: Well, you've got 6 to amend the constitution for that.

7 PROFESSOR EDGAR: The constitution is 8 the only impediment to that.

9 JUSTICE WALLACE: Well, we've taken
10 enough time, and I appreciate it. I'll report 11 back to the Court pretty much what I've heard in 12 here.

13 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, do we want to 14 get a consensus then? How many feel that the 15 points should be considered overruled if the Court 16 of Appeals doesn't address the points? Show by 17 hands. How many feel they should be considered 18 overruled by operation of law? One.

19 How many feel they should not? Looks like 20 one feeling they should, and seven feel they 21 should not.

22 - MR. REASONER: I have a third
23 position. I think the Court ought to scope some 24 nonmechanical rule so that it has discretion on 25 whether to remand or not.

1 CHAIRMAN SOULES: If we could get 2 around the problem that insufficiency points may 3 be precluded from review by the rule, that they 4 were overruled by operation of law -- if we could 5 get around that, how many feel that the Supreme 6 Court should be able to deem them overruled?
7 Probably everybody feels that way.

8 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Yeah, I don't have 9 any problem with that.

10 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Yeah.

11 CHAIRMAN SOULES: I think pretty much
12 there's no -- no one disagrees really with that.

13 MR. REASONER: I mean, to me, Justice
14 Pope raises the case where it clearly should be 15 remanded, where you've got the statute of 16 limitations to consider, and that's obviously the 17 statute. But, you know, the run-of-the-mill case 18 where you have looked at the legal insufficiency, 19 and it's very clear from your analysis of that 20 that there is nothing to the factual insufficiency 21 either. Then it seems to me, it's just a great 22 waste to remand a case like that.

23 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: The other way is 24 a problem. The other way, assuming that somebody 25 -- where the complaint is that the evidence was

1 sufficient, legally sufficient, then --

2 MR. REASONER: I'm sorry?

3 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: When the 4 complaint is that the evidence was legally 5 sufficient, and you shouldn't have granted in the 6 trial court, a motion for instructed verdict, or 7 shouldn't have been reversed and rendered in the 8 Court of Appeals, to imply the Court of Appeals 9 logically would say the evidence is legally
10 insufficient, we believe, and it's factually
11 insufficient, too. And the other side appeals -- 12 the Supreme Court thinks the evidence is legally
13 sufficient --

14 MR. REASONER: Right. But now the 15 Court of Appeals has looked at it in your 16 hypothetical?

17 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: No, they haven't 18 said anything about factual insufficiency in my 19 hypothetical. It just kind of slid over that.

20 There are cases when it is remanded to the 21 Court of Appeals that they do something that looks 22 like it's uncharacteristic. They found that the 23 evidence was legally insufficient on the way up 24 and they find that it's factually sufficient on 25 the way down. Do you understand what I'm saying?

1 Because of the way they are looking at the 2 evidence is different after the Supreme Court's 3 opinion has explained the proper approach to the 4 problem.

5 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Could we 6 constitutionally -- or could we have a rule that 7 says the Supreme Court may, in its discretion, 8 deem overruled by operation of law points not 9 written on by the Court of Appeals?

10 CHIEF JUSTICE POPE: Well, what's 11 wrong with the present rule? What we're thinking 12 about is some people down there that are trying to 13 get justice. And I don't think that even 14 efficient administration of justice -- a system 15 should sacrifice that thing. I mean, it's the 16 people that are entitled to the fair 17 considerations of their points, and for us to 18 presume good points out of being, I don't think 19 that's right.

20 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Judge, that's where 21 I was trying to come at. If, from the record, it 22 appears that the insufficiency points are really 23 not good points, but since they haven't been 24 addressed by the Court of Appeals, the case is 25 going to have to be remanded back --

1 CHIEF JUSTICE POPE: Judge, the 2 Supreme Court doesn't even have jurisdiction to 3 think about that. That's just not a thing they 4 can consider.

5 CHAIRMAN SOULES: All right. That 6 answers my other question then. Can -- could we 7 have a rule that says the Supreme Court, in its 8 discretion, may consider points not addressed by 9 the Court of Appeals as having been overruled by 10 that Court.

11 CHIEF JUSTICE POPE: I thought that's 12 what we voted on?

13 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, we were 14 talking about not a discretionary rule, but an 15 absolute rule.

16 Okay. That's -- Newell, did you need any 17 guidance now for any work that you have before the 18 Court or need to get before the Court?

19 MR. BLAKELY: Well, I would like to 20 report, if I can hold you for 60 seconds.

21 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Yes, sir, please do.

22 - MR. BLAKELY: At the March meeting of 23 the advisory committee, the committee asked the 24 evidence subcommittee to look at a series of Rules
25 of Civil Procedure entitled "Evidence" to see

1 whether some or all of those ought to be 2 transferred into the Rules of Evidence. Two of 3 the rules -- now, these are Rules 176 through 4 185 --

5 PROFESSOR EDGAR: What page are we on?
6 Oh, I'm sorry, in the rule book.

7 MR. BLAKELY: Hadley, I'm sorry. It's 8 not in the rule book. I got my report in late. I 9 circulated a two-page report which you got in the 10 mail within the last ten days.

11 PROFESSOR EDGAR: I got it. I just 12 wanted to know what file to look in, thank you.

13 MR. BLAKELY: Two of the rules in this 14 group under the heading "Evidence," 184 and 184a,
15 "Determination of the Law of Other States"
16 and "Determination of the Law of Foreign 17 Countries," the advisory committee itself 18 repealed, or recommended to repeal to the Court at 19 that March meeting because they are already in the 20 Rules of Evidence. So we, the subcommittee, 21 didn't consider that referred to us at all.

22 All of the balance of these rules, the 23 committee -- at least the majority of the 24 committee, recommends the status quo and no
25 transfer. We considered them in five groupings.

1 About six of the rules are purely procedural and 2 should be left in the Rules of Civil Procedure,
3 the committee unanimously said. Those are: 176,
4 "Witness Subpoenaed"; 177, "Form of Subpoena";
5 177a, "Subpoena for Production of Documentary
6 Evidence"; 178, "Service of Subpoena"; 179,
7 "Witness Shall Attend"; 180, "Refusal to Testify."

8 Unanimously, the committee said status quo.
9 185 is sued on account, and it involves 10 sufficiency of evidence, and the Rules of Evidence 11 have run from sufficiency problems. We have tried 12 to deal solely with admissibility and the 13 committee unanimously recommended status quo in 14 that regard -- leave it in the Rules of Civil 15 Procedure.

16 Now, here come three groupings where the 17 committee was split: four for status quo, two for 18 change, 181 and 182. 181, "Party as a Witness"; 19 and 182, "Testimony of Adverse Parties in Civil 20 Suits" could be moved to rule 610b. 610 deals 21 with mode and order of interrogating,
22 interrogation and presentation, and, the courts -- 23 deals with cross-examining adverse parties and 24 that sort of thing. Those two rules could be put 25 there as an additional subsection.

1 One of the change votes, L. N. D. Wells, who 2 is here, would set those up as a new rule, 614, in 3 the Rules of Evidence. So we split on that, but, 4 as I say, it was four to two for status quo.

5 182a, "Court Shall Instruct the Jury on 6 Affects of Article 3716," that's the dead man's 7 statute which is now in the evidence rule. Again 8 the committee voted four-two for status quo. But 9 if you did move that into the Rules of Evidence, 10 it could be simply put in there as the last 11 sentence in the dead man statute. That's now in 12 the Rules.

13 183, "Interpreters," could be left alone, and 14 the committee votes four-two to leave it alone.
15 But two people would move "Interpreters" into the 16 rules. And if the committee wants to do that, 17 they could put that in -- could be made the first 18 sentence of 604, Evidence Rule 604.

19 So I move, on behalf of the committee, that 20 we make no change, status quo.

21 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Any second?

22 - JUDGE TUNKS: I second.

23 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Discussion?

24 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Newell, I certainly 25 defer to the expertise and the time that your

1 committee has put into this. Could you explain
2 though, just a little further, the reason why
3 these -- the rules on -- that you have listed here
4 under subdivision C, D, and E really don't 5 logically belong in the Rules of Evidence?

6 MR. BLAKELY: Yes. The general
7 philosophy was the status quo philosophy. If it
8 ain't broke, don't try to fix it. And if any time 9 you make a change, someone in the future then may 10 argue that something different is meant because of 11 that change and that sort of general philosophy.

12 PROFESSOR EDGAR: But logically
13 speaking though, don't those three categories 14 perhaps more logically belong in the Rules of 15 Evidence than in the Rules of Procedure? That is, 16 what was the consensus of the committee on that?

17 MR. BLAKELY: Well, I think it was a 18 close question, and they could be, but when you 19 say more logically in the evidence rules, I'm not 20 sure that you can say that.

21 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I have a remark
22 about -- it's a different question. Rule 182, in 23 my judgment, is at variance with the Rules of 24 Evidence, specifically Rule 607 and 610 of the 25 Rules of Evidence. Rule 182 acts as if there is a

1 voucher rule still existing under which you are 2 bound by the testimony of someone you would call 3 as a witness, and it imposes limitations that are 4 different on leading questions, impeachments and 5 all of that, that are different fundamentally from 6 Rule 607 and 610 of the Rules of Evidence.

7 MR. BLAKELY: Well, Bill, if that's 8 so, it's so wherever 182 is, whether it is in 9 evidence or whether it is in the Rules of Civil 10 Procedure.

11 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Oh, that's what 12 I'm saying.

13 MR. BLAKELY: Yeah, if you feel there 14 is a conflict of some kind, that they are 15 inconsistent, then that should be addressed 16 whether you leave it in the Rules of Civil 17 Procedure or put it in the Rules of Evidence.

18 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Okay. Well, I
19 understood the charge of your group was to see 20 whether -- not only whether this should be in one 21 book or the other, but to see whether something in 22 the Rules of Procedure, that have been left in the 23 Rules of Procedure that should have fallen by the 24 wayside when the policy decision was made, to 25 change the rules to adopt the Federal Rules of 1 Evidence with respect to interrogation of 2 witnesses. And I really do see that 182 is at 3 variance with --

4 MR. BLAKELY: I suggest this, then, as 5 a way out of it. That we deal with the balance of 6 it, that we resubmit 182, not for hurried -- on 7 any hurried basis, not with the expectation that 8 that would be resolved here before -- in the 9 November meeting, but the next time, 1987 or 10 whenever we get to do it again.

11 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, I would 12 certainly recommend that.

13 CHAIRMAN SOULES: If we got language
14 in 182 that's at variance with the Rules of 15 Evidence, we ought to take it out next time, in my 16 judgment.

17 MR. WELLS: I think we ought to 18 examine it between now and November.

19 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, now, that 20 doesn't change the Rules of Evidence. Let's work 21 toward harmonizing 182 with the Rules of Evidence.
22 That keeps--the information that you are relying on 23 constant, and then we can vote on whether to 24 modify 182 which won't change the Rules of 25 Evidence work that you're doing right now. And if

1 we reject that, we won't bury the Rules of
2 Evidence --

3 MR. BLAKELY: So the objective would 4 be to harmonize 182 with the Rules of Evidence?

5 CHAIRMAN SOULES: That's right.

6 MR. BLAKELY: All right.

7 CHAIRMAN SOULES: By changing language
8 or deleting language that is inconsistent, 9 whatever the method would be.

10 MR. TINDALL: But that's different 11 from the charge, I think that Bill spoke of, and 12 that is to purge the Rules of Civil Procedure of 13 evidentiary rules. Wasn't that what we decided at 14 our last meeting, Luke?

15 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, these are 16 mixed problems. For example, the Court is 17 supposed to instruct on the dead man statute.
18 That's procedure. Suppose to tell the jury 19 something, or maybe, it's not. Maybe it's 20 evidentiary. I mean, either place where they kind 21 of fit.

22 - MR. BLAKELY: I don't understand that 23 the subcommittee was directed to set out to purge, 24 but simply to consider whether as a kind of a 25 neutral mind, whether it seemed advisable to 1 transfer.

2 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Chief Justice Pope.

3 CHIEF JUSTICE POPE: This is the thing
4 back when we adopted the Rules of Evidence, and I 5 remember Judge Wallace was handling that for the 6 Court, and I was handling the Rules of Procedure.
7 And Rules of Evidence, you know, were -- there 8 are many rules -- 184 is a good example.

9 And Jim and I went to great pains to see that 10 the same identical wording, say, of Rule 184, 11 appeared both in the evidence rules and the civil 12 appeals rules. There is some instances where both 13 appeared at different places for the convenience
14 of the Bar.

15 MR. WELLS: Judge, in that connection,
16 I think it was implicit in the whole subcommittee
17 that whoever -- however this is published, there 18 ought to be a note referring to the rule in the 19 other book.

20 MR. BLAKELY: Which is the 21 recommendation of Tom Ragland that I've got here a 22 footnote on this.

23 Well, where does that leave us with respect 24 to the other rules, Luke, or -- should we vote on 25 that or --

1                   CHAIRMAN SOULES: Let me say that we 2 are current now with the changes that we've 3 addressed and recommended as far as Rules of 4 Evidence are concerned. We have nothing left 5 pending before us on the Rules of Evidence. Those 6 rules could be promulgated for an effective date 7 at any time, either -- whatever our projected 8 future date is for these rules or for an earlier 9 date. And if the committee could act now, at 10 least for this session -- this part of it -- and 11 delay until another couple of years. If we're 12 going to make any moves -- moving anything out of 13 the Rules of Civil Procedure and into the Rules of 14 Evidence, just, in effect, adopt this committee's 15 recommendation that nothing be moved -- the status 16 quo as to location.

17                   But we do have a real problem if 182 is 18 inconsistent with the Rules of Evidence. Let's 19 address that and change it in the Rules of Civil 20 Procedure and that -- what I'm saying by way of 21 reference, we may not be able to change the Rules 22 of Evidence for them to reference the Rules of 23 Civil Procedure because we are going to leave them
24 alone, presumably. But at least, we can change 25 the Rules of Procedure to reference the Rules of 1 Evidence because we're not quite through with the 2 Rules of Procedure.

3 So what I'm suggesting is that we approve
4 this committee's report and charge Newell's 5 subcommittee to make adjustments in 182 and to put 6 cross-references in the Rules of Civil Procedure 7 where they would be appropriate. And that would 8 dispose of this report and then everything would 9 be cleaned up at the end of the next meeting in 10 early November. Is that acceptable with you, 11 Newell?

12 MR. BLAKELY: Yes.

13 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Do you so move?

14 MR. BLAKELY: Yes.

15 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Is there a second?

16 JUDGE TUNKS: Second.

17 CHAIRMAN SOULES: All in favor, show
18 by hands. Opposed?

19 Okay. Harry, did you get a chance to 20 discuss --

21 MR. REASONER: I just, you know --
22 Luke, I guess my principal concern is that I think 23 182a where it is now is really a snare. I mean, I 24 think that somebody getting ready to deal with 25 601b -- and I have to say it never would have

1 occurred to me to go back and discover that I was 2 entitled, or should consider whether I could seek 3 an instruction where it is in 182a.

4 MR. BLAKELY: We have lived under that 5 situation for a long time because you have had the 6 dead man's statute -- what is it, 3716?

7 MR. REASONER: Yeah.

8 MR. BLAKELY: And it said nothing
9 about an instruction. But over here in the Rules
10 of Civil Procedure, it is said that the Court
11 shall instruct. So it's not something you --

12 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Maybe without a 13 written proposal -- this is contrary to what I've 14 done. We could ask Newell to submit a change in 15 addition to Rule 60lb that says the Court shall 16 instruct the jury pursuant to Texas RCFP 182a -- 17 just add that to the end of 60lb and then get that 18 to the --

19 MR. REASONER: The Court may instruct 20 -- did you say "shall"? In other words, this 21 appears to me to be discretionary, I mean.

22 - CHAIRMAN SOULES: That's right. It is 23 discretionary. The court may instruct to the jury 24 pursuant to Rule 182a concerning the effect of 25 Rule 60lb, or language to that effect. And if we

1           approve that, Newell, you could write that 2           directly to Justice Wallace so that whenever the 3           Rules of Evidence are promulgated that could be a 4           part of them. At least, Harry, that would snare
5           both places until we could deal with it in a 6           couple of years.

7                   MR. REASONER: Yeah, that should solve 8           my problem.

9                   MR. BLAKELY: Now, I'm not sure what 10          you're concluding.

11                   CHAIRMAN SOULES: What we are doing
12          is, we are adding something to it. We got a 13          consensus to do what we just said. But then Harry 14          raised the point that this is a snare not to have 15          the right to instruct shown at Rule 601b in the 16          Rules of Evidence.

17                   So what I would ask you to do would be to 18          write a letter to Justice Wallace memorializing the 19          act of this committee today, with a copy to me, to 20          add to Rule 601b language to the effect that the 21          trial court may instruct the jury on the effect of 22          Rule 601b pursuant to Texas RCFP 182a.

23                   MR. BLAKELY: All right.

24                   CHAIRMAN SOULES: Are we in agreement?
25          Show by hands who will recommend that change to

1 60lb. Okay, that's unanimous. And it's simple,
2 and we don't have anything else really agonizing
3 about the Rules of Evidence? Does anyone else see 4 anything? Okay.

5 Does anyone need any further guidance or help 6 from us to get ready for the next meeting? Any 7 reports that are pending for the next meeting?

8 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Let me just raise a 9 question, and we may not want to take it up. But 10 yesterday we resolved the recommended Supreme 11 Court order relating to the retention and 12 disposition of exhibits, and you have before you 13 an identical recommendation relating to the 14 disposition of depositions. Do you want to take 15 that up? It shouldn't take -- we have already 16 resolved it as a matter of policy. So maybe 17 that's something we won't have to take up next 18 time.

19 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Where is it in the 20 book?

21 PROFESSOR EDGAR: If you'll look on 22 Page 117 -- 116 and 117 of the book.

23 Now, actually, what I did, beginning here on 24 Page 113, I tried to distinguish based upon what 25 we had earlier talked about recognizing that a

1 deposition is really an act -- that the transcript
2 is really the document. And -- but all I've done
3 is simply include those terms on Pages 113, 114, 4 115. Then Rule 209, beginning on page 116, I was 5 asked to come up with a rule and I, as Linda did 6 on hers, just simply directed an order as directed 7 by the Supreme Court. Then the order that I
8 recommend appears over here on Page 117, which -- 9 and Linda actually used this as a guide for hers, 10 which we basically adopted yesterday.

11 Now, the only question I have is, in looking 12 at my copy of our treatment of her order, I notice 13 that we struck "as provided by Rule 356." But 14 Bill says that we -- numerically, we referred 15 specifically back to the corresponding appellate 16 rule rather than eliminating it in its entirety.
17 I don't know what we did there.

18 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Then Harry said
19 that's not good, and we left it out altogether.

20 PROFESSOR EDGAR: I thought the 21 treatment -- if we offered treatment, it should be 22 consistent, is all I'm suggesting. So I think we 23 need to look, Luke, before we go any further, to 24 see exactly what treatment we gave that language 25 in her -- in the order which she proposed.

CHAIRMAN SOULES: All right.

PROFESSOR EDGAR: It's what was here, third paragraph.

CHAIRMAN SOULES: We took out "as provided in rule." We debated around if we were going to use the Appellate Rules or not, and we took it out.

PROFESSOR EDGAR: All right. Then I think we ought to be consistent and remove that language from this paragraph as well. Either there is no perfection of appeal, or there is perfection of appeal.

CHAIRMAN SOULES: So we would strike
"as provided by Rule 356," that language appearing in the text of the proposed rule in the third line of the second paragraph --

PROFESSOR EDGAR: Proposed order.

CHAIRMAN SOULES: Proposed order,
that's right.

PROFESSOR EDGAR: In the last paragraph of hers, before you put that up, how does hers read?

CHAIRMAN SOULES: We -- the subcommittee was going to write something that gave notice to a party that the disposition was

1 going to be made within 30 days if they didn't 2 pick them up, and then -- but we did not get the 3 language on it.

4 PROFESSOR EDGAR: All right. Then 5 perhaps we cannot complete this then, because, 6 again, she copied mine, and ours may be -- my 7 suggestion may not be proper.

8 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, this is -- you
9 can mail depositions. I never have put an exhibit 10 to a deposition that couldn't be mailed. But I 11 guess there conceivably could be a deposition that 12 couldn't be mailed.

13 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Well, anyhow, I
14 recommend that that provision simply being made to 15 the clerk to mail the deposition transcript, et 16 cetera, to the attorney asking the first 17 deposition question is what our committee earlier
18 suggested that I include; and then if the attorney 19 cannot be located, get the clerk to send written 20 notice and so on. And if there's no response, 21 then the clerk may dispose of it.

22 - CHAIRMAN SOULES: I think that will 23 work with depositions, don't you? How does the 24 committee feel about returning the deposition to 25 the lawyer who asked the first question by mail?

1 You're going to have the same problems.

2 MR. REASONER: Say that again.

3 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. Harry, in 4 trying to determine how to dispose of exhibits, we 5 determined that the clerk would just give notice 6 to the party that the exhibits would be disposed 7 of if they weren't picked up, because we talked 8 around about mailing and delivering and the cost 9 and all. Now, when you get over to depositions, 10 won't it work to have the clerk mail them back to 11 the party?

12 MR. REASONER: Are you looking at some 13 page?

14 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Yeah, I'm looking at 15 Page 117, excuse me. It's the last sentence. Or 16 should we go to the same rule that we had, that 17 the clerk notifies that party that he can retrieve 18 the deposition if he cares to and then 30 days 19 later make such disposition? That's the way we 20 handled exhibits.

21 My preference would be that they would be 22 mailed as a matter of course, because then they 23 are out of the clerk's office and maybe somewhere, 24 as opposed to being disposed of.

25 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Why don't we give

1           them to the deponent?

2                   CHAIRMAN SOULES:   Because you may not 3           even know where he's at.

4                   PROFESSOR DORSANEO:   The first -- the 5           first attorney that asked the first question, that 6           seems a bit of an odd --

7                   MR. REASONER:   Well, yeah, it would be 8           nice when you get these multiparty cases.   You 9           know, it might be a guy who had a minimal 10          interest.

11                   PROFESSOR EDGAR:   We debated that 12          issue at great length, and it was my recollection 13          that our decision at our last meeting was it would 14          be very easy to administer -- the clerk could 15          simply readily identify the addressee by seeing 16          who asked the first question.

17                   MR. REASONER:   Yeah, I understand.

18                   CHAIRMAN SOULES:   You couldn't tell 19          who notice of deposition, particularly if it was 20          by agreement, and there had to be something in the 21          clerk's office that gave him a reference point.
22          And that was one good, clear reference point, 23          which, for the most part, identifies the guy who 24          wanted the deposition to begin with.   Most of the 25          time, he's the person who will start the

1 questioning. And that was the discussion that we 2 reached after some debate: How could the clerk
3 have a ready reference on disposition?

4 MR. WELLS: I don't understand why you 5 couldn't treat them any different than the 6 exhibits. I think you just put everybody on 7 notice, and if they want them, they can come get 8 them; and if they don't, they are disposed of.

9 CHAIRMAN SOULES: All right. There
10 are the two alternatives. Judge Thomas.

11 JUDGE THOMAS: Luke, I want to argue 12 to do it consistent, and recognizing that 13 depositions can be mailed, even in little baby 14 divorce cases, you get voluminous depositions.
15 There is a tremendous cost, and I just think it 16 would be better to be consistent about what the 17 clerk's obligation is and what the attorney's 18 obligation is. And I would argue in favor of 19 doing it like we did exhibits.

20 MR. REASONER: What the Judge said
21 seems persuasive to me. I mean, Luke, suppose you 22 had a case--and some young lawyer who is with you 23 took the deposition and then he left your office.
24 And the way I would read this, the clerk would 25 have to find that lawyer -- I mean, couldn't send

1 it to your office, he would have to find that 2 individual lawyer who would probably have zero
3 interest in receiving it.

4 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: You know, most 5 depositions somebody has said, "What's your name?
6 Where do you live?"

7 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, how does --
8 the clerk needs to have -- still have clear 9 reference as to who is entitled to pick up the 10 exhibit. We do -- I mean, the deposition -- in 11 exhibits, it's the party who offered the exhibits
12 that identifies the party. The clerk can send out 13 a notice to every party and say come and get the 14 exhibit, and then what's he going to do when they 15 all show up at the same time? How does he pick 16 and choose who gets them?

17 MR. WELLS: I suppose he can pick in 18 terms of who asked the first question.

19 CHAIRMAN SOULES: That does give the 20 clerk a clear reference. We couldn't think of 21 another clear arbitrary reference.

22 - CHAIRMAN SOULES: Or the attorney who 23 asks the first question or his nominee, I guess 24 you could say.

25 CHIEF JUSTICE POPE: What about law

1 firms? People hire -- when they go, they hire a 2 law firm or maybe a veteran attorney. It could be 3 an attorney or law firm. But that law firm has a 4 likelihood of having some continuity, whereas the 5 personnel of the law firm may not.

6 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Or a representative
7 of that attorney's firm at the time the deposition 8 was taken.

9 Well, I guess what we are trying to resolve 10 here is that the attorney or a member of the 11 attorney's firm when he took the deposition. Does 12 that satisfy your concerns, Harry?

13 MR. REASONER: It seems to me that 14 Judge Pope is right. You'd have a lot more 15 continuity it seems to me if you just -- you can't 16 say -- could you say the attorney taking the 17 deposition? Of course, the first one -- get --

18 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Of course, you're 19 presuming that the attorney that took the 20 deposition will not continue to be the attorney 21 for that party just because that attorney left the 22 firm. -

23 MR. REASONER: Well, that's right.
24 And, I guess, what really --

25 PROFESSOR EDGAR: And he might take

1 that deposition with him.

2 MR. REASONER: I guess, in my own
3 unhappy experience of taking depositions,
4 normally, I have to share with three or four other
5 lawyers or -- and I, you know -- who happens to go
6 first just may be arbitrary. I don't know if it 7 makes any difference.

8 CHAIRMAN SOULES: How about the 9 attorney asking the first deposition question or 10 successor to that attorney.

11 PROFESSOR EDGAR: But, Harry, what we 12 are saying here it's -- the case is over. Now, 13 it's either mailing it to you or having it remain 14 in the clerk's office, so what difference does it 15 make?

16 MR. REASONER: I agree with you. Why
17 don't you just throw them away? Why don't you 18 just have the rule that once the case is over, 19 unless somebody comes and gets the depositions,
20 the clerk can throw them away?

21 MR. WELLS: Well, the clerk gives 22 notice as they would give with respect to the 23 exhibits.

24 MR. REASONER: That they are going to 25 be disposed of and then whoever wants them can

1           come get them.

2                   PROFESSOR EDGAR:   And then you have to 3 provide -- the clerk then has to provide for 4 getting notice to everybody, and we are trying to 5 avoid that.   And we talked about all of this at 6 our last meeting.   And it was the consensus that 7 this type of procedure is the one that would 8 probably serve everybody's purposes as adequately 9 as anything else.

10                   MR. REASONER:   Well, you know, just 11 thinking about it mechanistically, it seems to me
12 it might be easier for the clerk to send a 13 postcard to all of the parties of record in a case 14 that all exhibits and depositions in this case are 15 now going to be disposed of in 30 days, and if you 16 have any interest in them you better come get 17 them.   Because with the rule you've got -- say 18 you've got 20 depositions.   The clerk is going to 19 have to go through and look at each one of them 20 and may come up with a list of 20 different 21 people.

22                   MR. WELLS:   That's the way they do it 23 in federal court, in terms of notice and 24 disposition of exhibits.

25                   MR. REASONER:   I hadn't thought about

1 it, but just one postcard to everybody involved in 2 the case saying in 30 days they're gone?

3 CHIEF JUSTICE POPE: Yeah. But I may 4 be interested in the deposition I took, and I'm 5 probably going to be the one that asks that right 6 question and the other side may want that 7 deposition because they want it for the next 8 lawsuit.

9 I think if I took a deposition and I paid for 10 it and I asked the first question, just this 11 general notice to people to come pick out what you 12 want because I'm going to throw them away, I think 13 that fellow is the fellow who ought to have first 14 "takes" on that deposition. He paid for it.

15 CHAIRMAN SOULES: The clerk has got to 16 -- take Ray Hardy. You tell Ray Hardy to send out 17 notices to tell people to come get their stuff.
18 He'll write us back and say, "You have given me no 19 guidance between mixed demands. How am I supposed 20 to act?" And that's probably -- but, you know, 21 even David Garcia, who is a pretty good district 22 clerk, is going to have the same problem and we 23 need to have some -- and then, anybody that wants 24 to copy it can copy it?

25 MR. REASONER: Well, probably the

1 people have copies of the deposition anyway.

2 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Maybe not. A lot
3 of lawyers --

4 MR. REASONER: What about having the 5 lawyer who paid for it do it then?

6 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I like the 7 deponent the best, but the lawyer who paid for it 8 is the next best.

9 MR. REASONER: Well, the deponent is 10 exactly the opposite of Judge Pope's point because 11 the deponent is the adversary.

12 PROFESSOR EDGAR: If you really don't 13 know who paid for it, though, you've got to go 14 back and see against whom costs were adjudged.

15 CHAIRMAN SOULES: That's right because 16 whoever paid for it --

17 MR. REASONER: Who paid for it 18 initially.

19 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: What if we do -- 20 this is related to the problem of using 21 depositions, and as Judge Pope pointed out a 22 minute ago, using depositions in other cases -- 23 that is, it could be a problem if the depositions 24 are sent to somebody who would dispose of them or 25 hold them in reserve for their own personal use.

1                   PROFESSOR EDGAR: But if you intend to 2 use a deposition in another lawsuit, and you wait 3 forever just thinking you can go over to the 4 clerk's office someday in the future, I really 5 don't have much sympathy with you if when you get 6 over there you find it's no longer there. I would 7 expect you to use a little more diligence than 8 that. And that -- the likelihood of that 9 occurring really doesn't bother me very much.

10                   JUSTICE WALLACE: And by using the 11 last known address that is set out in your present 12 draft, you are probably going to get it back to 13 the law firm the lawyer is working with at the 14 time, anyway. The case is still there, and he'll 15 know it. And if not, they can send it on to the 16 lawyer wherever he is. So that's at least some 17 shield to one being interested in it and not 18 getting it.

19                   PROFESSOR EDGAR: I mean, we can't sit 20 down here and protect against every conceivable, 21 possible situation that can arise, and it seems to 22 me that this is as good a middle ground as any.

23                   CHAIRMAN SOULES: How about saying,
24 "The attorney asking the first deposition question 25 or the nominee or successor of that attorney"?

1 MR. REASONER: What if the party
2 changed lawyers -- fired the lawyer?

3 CHAIRMAN SOULES: It would be the 4 successor.

5 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: So then you're 6 going to have to look to the judge in order to get 7 that done all the way down to the judgment.

8 CHAIRMAN SOULES: You're first going 9 to look at the lawyer that asked the first 10 question and you've got clear authority to deliver 11 it to him. If you can't find him, you can try to 12 find out who his successor was. If you do find 13 him, and he's not interested any more, but Harry 14 is, Harry can come -- can get authority. Doesn't 15 most of your former attorneys, whenever they are 16 gathering notice of something they handled while 17 they were with your firm, somehow communicate back 18 to the firm that they have gotten some 19 information?

20 MR. REASONER: I'd like to think so, 21 but -- wouldn't it be the simplest thing to just 22 send a notice saying that all the depositions are 23 going to be disposed of, and if you wish any of 24 the depositions that you took, come and get them;
25 otherwise, they are gone?

1 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: The "come and get 2 them" is the hard part because if it -- what if 3 you and I get a notice and we both want them, and 4 I come and get them before --

5 MR. REASONER: No, I say the ones you 6 took.

7 JUSTICE WALLACE: Well, let's look at 8 the problem. The problem is on the district 9 clerks with all those rooms and rooms of 10 depositions. Now, the problem is not attorneys.
11 If they want the depositions, they've either got a 12 copy or they can go down and get one. And all 13 you're trying to do is help the district clerks
14 dispose of all this stuff. So you send a notice 15 to everybody, all the attorneys of record.

16 MR. REASONER: Right.

17 JUSTICE WALLACE: These depositions
18 will be disposed of within 30 days, period. If 19 someone comes down and wants one, which is going 20 to be a rare occasion, they get it. And they can 21 dispose of the rest of them, and the problem we 22 are addressing is taken care of. I haven't heard 23 anybody talk about a problem with attorneys who 24 want the depositions not being able to get them 25 now.

MR. REASONER: I think that's a good point.

CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. So we'll rewrite that there will be some notice given of destruction and if they are not picked up within 30 days, mailed to all counsel of record?

MR. REASONER: It seems to me that would be the easiest thing for the clerk to do. They've got a docket sheet and they can just look and see who's on the docket sheet and send notice that they are disposing of them.

CHAIRMAN SOULES: Mail one to each counsel of record for each party.

JUSTICE WALLACE: And if those clerks say, "I don't know who to give them to," let them keep them. We've given them a way to dispose of them if they want to.

CHAIRMAN SOULES: Or go see the judge.

JUSTICE WALLACE: Yeah.

CHAIRMAN SOULES: Tom Ragland.

MR. RAGLAND: Luke, I assume -- I wasn't at the last meeting, but I assume it was the committee's opinion that depositions should continue to be filed with the clerk.

CHAIRMAN SOULES: No.

1 MR. RAGLAND: Was that not right?

2 CHAIRMAN SOULES: No, that's not 3 right. The only thing we were going to -- of 4 course, we never did get to those rules.

5 PROFESSOR EDGAR: We haven't decided 6 that yet.

7 MR. RAGLAND: So this proposed order
8 only deals with depositions that are presently on 9 file, is that --

10 PROFESSOR EDGAR: In cases which have 11 been terminated.

12 MR. RAGLAND: Yes, that's what I'm 13 talking about. But it doesn't deal with in the 14 future whether or not they may be filed?

15 CHAIRMAN SOULES: That's right.

16 JUSTICE WALLACE: If they are not 17 filed, then the clerks don't have the problem.

18 CHIEF JUSTICE POPE: Mr. Chairman?

19 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Yes, sir.

20 CHIEF JUSTICE POPE: Give the Court of 21 Appeals a little more tinkering with that. And 22 this all sounds good to me, but in the second 23 paragraph, I wonder if we could say this: "In all 24 cases, except those in which citation is by 25 publication, in which judgment hasn't been

1 entered," and so forth. Otherwise, we are going 2 to be destroying those kinds of depositions before 3 there is even time for a motion for new trial 4 before it's expired.

5 You've got two years to file a motion for a 6 new trial. And surely, we would not want to be 7 destroying depositions. It is indeed 180 days
8 after the judgment, but still it's open for a 9 motion for a new trial within two years.

10 And if I were -- like a lot of these citation 11 by publication cases involving land suits, they 12 cite by publication on the theory that they don't 13 know who the owners are. They don't want to know 14 who the owners are. And as a matter of fact, this 15 family has got kinfolks right here in the county 16 and they know it. So they cite them by 17 publication, and those people find out about it 18 and they've got two years to do something about 19 it. But we would be destroying the depositions 20 before the case was over.

21 PROFESSOR EDGAR: And I suppose there 22 would be instances in which depositions had been 23 taken in citation by publication.

24 CHIEF JUSTICE POPE: Could be.

25 PROFESSOR EDGAR: I mean, I could

1 imagine that some of the heirs -- you could locate 2 some of them and you took their deposition, but 3 then there was some that you didn't know whether 4 you had all of them. So to those -- to the 5 balance you cited by publication.

6 JUSTICE WALLACE: Then you are going
7 to have witnesses as to procession and causation
8 and all that, that might be in Timbuktu by now.

9 CHAIRMAN SOULES: "In all cases --"
10 state that again, Judge.

11 CHIEF JUSTICE POPE: "In all cases, 12 except those in which citation is by publication."

13 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay.

14 MR. REASONER: Well, do you need to 15 add a sentence in then, Judge, saying that in 16 cases where citation is by publication, they may 17 be disposed of after two years.

18 CHIEF JUSTICE POPE: I should think
19 so. It needs something to button it up.

20 PROFESSOR EDGAR: I'll work on that,
21 that's okay.

22 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. Are you going 23 to do a rewrite on that?

24 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Well, I have to.

25 JUDGE THOMAS: Luke, here, again, to

1 keep it consistent, would it be the consensus that 2 we want to do the same thing on the exhibits?

3 CHAIRMAN SOULES: To trial. Would you
4 think, Judge Pope, that the same would apply?

5 CHIEF JUSTICE POPE: I would think so.

6 JUDGE THOMAS: Because I do get a
7 number of exhibits in citation by publication 8 cases. That probably comes up much more than 9 depositions.

10 CHAIRMAN SOULES: So, we need to go 11 back to your proposed order and make a note on 12 that, too.

13 PROFESSOR EDGAR: Well, she's got to 14 do a rewrite on that, anyhow, Luke.

15 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. All right,
16 with those adjustments, how many believe this 17 deposition instruction would be the recommendation 18 of the committee? Show of hands. Opposed? We've 19 got a consensus on that subject to rewrite, and 20 the same with yours, Judge Thomas, on the 21 exhibits.

22 Okay, is there any other business that we 23 want to address today before we adjourn until 24 November 7th? Justice Wallace, do you have
