1 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Richard,
2 you're next on the agenda with Rules 15 to 3 165a. Why don't you orient us as to where you
4 want us to be and then we'll get started. You 5 can take the floor and we'll begin.

6 MR. ORSINGER: Okay. What 7 we're going to discuss today, I believe, is 8 the changes that the subcommittee has made to 9 "Pleadings and Motions" and "Claims and 10 Parties."

11 We also have some work in process on the 12 rules that relate to the government officials 13 like the clerks of the court and the parties 14 who effect service of process and whatnot.
15 That's in process right now, and I think what 16 I'd like to do with the part I'm talking 17 about, the issuance of citation and the 18 service of citation and whatnot, Bonnie has 19 been consolidating and rewriting those rules, 20 and I'd like for her to speak maybe just two 21 minutes about what we're doing.

22 And while I put a stack of those out over 23 there, I think it's premature for you to look 24 at them, unless you just have a burning desire 25 to let your input be had. And if you do, then

1 we're happy to have it, but we're not going to 2 discuss it today and it's just a preliminary 3 thing, so let's take it up first.

4 Bonnie, can you for about two minutes
5 just scope out what we're doing in terms of 6 consolidating and moving those rules.

7 MS. WOLBRUECK: Basically what 8 we have done is we have identified about 65 9 rules that have to do with duties and 10 requirements of the clerk of the court, and 11 these have to do with filing, the keeping of 12 the record, the issuance of anything from 13 citations to writs, notice requirements,
14 requirements in transfers, change of venues, 15 disposition of exhibits. We have added into 16 this also rules regarding fax filing and 17 electronic filing. So we're trying to combine 18 all of these rules into a section called the 19 Duties of the Clerk, so basically a review of 20 all of these rules is being done.

21 We still have about 20 rules in regards
22 to some of the issuance to continue to review, 23 but that's basically what's being done, so 24 that there will be a complete section on 25 everything regarding a duty of the clerk or a

1 requirement by the clerk of the court.

2 MR. ORSINGER: Okay. So this
3 is basically causing us to pull selected rules 4 from different places and consolidate them all 5 and put them at the end, because we think that 6 the practitioner really shouldn't have to even 7 browse through them really. And that's going 8 to cause a reordering of the whole first 9 alignment of rules, because they're not all in 10 the same place and we're pulling them out from 11 all over. And hopefully if we've reached out 12 beyond 165a we're not going to get into too 13 much trouble, but we can't -- they've just 14 been stuck here and there, and that's part of 15 the problem and that's part of what we're 16 trying to solve.

17 Now, then we've also independently had 18 two projects going parallel. One is in your 19 handout here as Section 3 on Pleadings and 20 Motions, and one is Section 4 on Claims and 21 Parties. And while we do have a disposition 22 chart --

23 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Is that all
24 you've got with Bonnie?

25 MR. ORSINGER: That's all I've

1 got with Bonnie.

2 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Let me just 3 throw one thing out for any sort of 4 consideration: Some of the clerk stuff helps 5 practitioners; like the extraordinary writs, 6 there's sort of a step-by-step process. And 7 when you need a writ of sequestration, you
8 need it usually pretty fast, and this is a -- 9 this steps a person, a stranger, through that 10 procedure through the rules. The rule steps 11 you through pretty much what you have to do.
12 You can go file, get an order, go to the 13 clerk, get a writ, go to the sheriff and get 14 it served.

15 And it may be that there's some value in 16 leaving some remnants or something in some of 17 those rules, particularly the extraordinary 18 writ rules, to give the practitioners some 19 direction, if that can be done. That's all I 20 have to say about that.

21 MS. WOLBRUECK: I think, Luke, 22 that the subcommittee had the same concern and 23 felt that possibly some of this information
24 would be repeated in the regular rules, so 25 that the practitioner had that information

1 also. So I'm not sure if that will be vital 2 for this committee to make that decision, but 3 it was real difficult referencing back and 4 forth, you know, exactly how that should be 5 done, but I certainly understand that.

6 And for practical reasons the clerk also 7 needs that other information to know that all 8 of this has to be done before the clerk issues 9 this writ, and so the references will have to 10 still be back and forth instead of repeating 11 the entire content of the subject matter.

12 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, some of 13 the rules are just scattered for no reason.
14 They just somehow got salted and peppered in 15 in different places and they don't need to be 16 anywhere much better probably. Others may 17 have a reason for being where they are. Just 18 keep your eye out for that, if you don't mind, 19 and then let us know what you think.

20 MR. ORSINGER: Well, I mean, 21 one perfect example would be with 22 depositions. We've actually taken the nuts 23 and bolts part of what the clerk does with 24 depositions and put that back in the clerk 25 section while leaving the lawyer part of

1 depositions in the lawyer part, and so now 2 it's treated in two different places, but it's 3 two different people that are going to be 4 looking, so why muck each of them up with the 5 others stuff. That's an example of the kind 6 of concept that we have.

7 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. Next.

8 MR. ORSINGER: Now, the work
9 we've been doing on "Pleadings and Motions"
10 versus "Claims and Parties" is not strictly 11 just responding to the letters in our agenda.
12 We have a disposition chart and we've gone
13 through it, but in reality what we've done 14 with this broad body of rules in there between 15 15 and 165a is that we've looked at the 16 skeleton or the spine of the Task Force Report
17 on Rules and the recommendations they made 18 about logical areas. And rules that relate to 19 an area will migrate into that area, and that 20 has caused us to define for ourselves what the 21 difference is between, say, something that 22 relates to pleadings and motions and something 23 that relates to claims and parties. They are 24 actually treated in separate subchapters now.
25 And Bill can explain some of the logic behind

1 that, but we think it's more workable. They 2 are kind of mixed in right now and we're 3 segregating them out, and as a result of that 4 process sometimes you have to debate whether 5 something goes in the chapter on pleadings and 6 motions, like a motion to sever a party, or 7 whether that ought to go into a chapter on 8 claims and parties.

9 Then you also have a set of rules 10 relating to trial which are not part of our 11 domain and some of these things that started 12 out in our area might more appropriately fit 13 over in that other area. And since we don't 14 have any overall authority, ultimately we'll 15 probably just come back with the 16 recommendation that in particular instances a 17 certain rule maybe ought to move out of the 18 domain of our committee and into another 19 locale.

20 And so kind of by default, because our 21 committee seemed to have the broadest scope, 22 even though it was just narrow in some 23 respects, is that we're probably going to end 24 up promulgating a sequence for the entire set 25 of rules from Chapter 1 through Chapter 12, or

1           whatever it is, even though it's really not 2           our prerogative to do that. But we ended up 3           being the committee that had to deal with the 4           Task Force on Rules and all their 5           recommendations, and so we're just kind of 6           doing that, and that's the process that you'll 7           see going on here.

8                         So my proposal, Luke, is that we go 9           forward not with the agenda first, let's do 10          that, the disposition table, let's do that 11          last. We've already been through "Pleadings 12          and Motions" twice. My recommendation would 13          be to go through Claims and Parties, 14          Section 4, unless you feel, Bill, that we 15          ought to do Pleadings and Motions first. We 16          could do Section 3, which is Pleadings and 17          Motions, or Section 4, Claims and Parties. I 18          feel like we've been already been through 19          Pleadings and Motions several times, and a 20          preference would be to go to Claims and 21          Parties. But if you feel differently, we'll 22          do the reverse.

23                                 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I think we 24          ought to do Claims and Parties because we went 25          through a good bit of that at the last

1           Advisory Committee meeting and then there
2           would be some continuity in going back to it 3           and finishing it up, if we can.

4                       MR. ORSINGER:   Okay.   Let's do
5           it.   We're talking now about the handout, 6           Section 4.

7                       PROFESSOR DORSANEO:   It's the 8           redraft with the date at the top of July 15th, 9           1996.   Now, to give you kind of a tiny bit 10          more information so you can get your bearings, 11          as I understand it, and Lee Parsley can 12          correct me if I'm wrong, in terms of what the 13          Court is thinking about, the promulgation of 14          new rules will involve the Appellate Rules 15          perhaps, if not probably, together with the 16          rules presented by Don Hunt's subcommittee on 17          judgments and postjudgment motions, because 18          those subjects, you know, do go together and 19          it's kind of a package.

20                      As far as the Appellate Rules are 21          concerned, we have received back, how many, 22          49 rules from Bryan Garner, and last week we 23          went over, during the day that we spent on the 24          redraft, six of them.   We plan on going a 25          little more rapidly through the rest of them,

1 but we only have 49 to start with and we have 2 a promise that the rest will be forthcoming 3 quickly, but this takes longer than you would 4 think. But that's, you know, one package and 5 kind of where that stands.

6 The Discovery Rules that we've gone
7 through also may be part of a package
8 involving pleadings and motions and perhaps 9 claims and parties, because when you start
10 talking about discovery you start talking 11 about motions, pleadings and motions, and then 12 when you talk about parties you think about 13 pretrial and then you get to be thinking about 14 discovery and deadlines. So this may be part 15 of a second package or group of rules that 16 would logically get promulgated together or 17 maybe they would, and that's kind of where 18 things stand in terms of groupings, except I 19 will finish in that respect by saying this:
20 If we get through pleadings and motions, 21 claims and parties, and marry that up to 22 discovery, we will have done basically a very 23 large number of the rules. If we get the 24 service and clerks material finished,
25 essentially we will have covered up through

1 Rule 165a from one. That takes us to the 2 Discovery Rules up through 215, and we have a 3 few little rules in between, but we pretty 4 much quickly get to the Jury Charge Rules and 5 then we get to the Judgment Rules and the 6 whole thing is done. It's a tedious process, 7 but these bits and pieces are kind of coming 8 together into an overall structure.

9 The overall structure the task force 10 recommended to be the one or essentially the 11 one contained in the Federal Rules with the 12 book beginning with a short section on General
13 Rules; a section on -- Section 2 on service, 14 commencement of suit, service of process and 15 other papers; Section 3, pleadings and 16 motions; Section 4, claims and parties;
17 Section 5, discovery; leading up to Section 6, 18 trial, and that's kind of where we stand in 19 the overall picture. All right? So it's 20 possible we're further along in some respects 21 than you might have thought.

22 It's also probable that if we follow the 23 same process that we followed with the 24 Appellate Rules that this will take a long 25 time before we get to the end.

1                   So Parties --

2                   CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, you're 3 not going to say it, but I will for you; that 4 our prose man apparently knows a lot about 5 prose but not very much about appellate 6 procedure, and so when the prose comes back, 7 the appellate procedures sometimes are in 8 disarray or at least not intact.

9                   PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, he 10 wasn't part of our intense and lengthy 11 discussions during the preceding period and 12 that makes it about double the work for the 13 rest of us. We thought we were finished, and 14 we were starting over.

15                   CHAIRMAN SOULES: Prosaically.

16                   MR. ORSINGER: Now, let's see,
17 we -- it is more readable. The first seven 18 rules or six rules are more readable, but we 19 found -- how many inadvertent substantive 20 changes?

21                   PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Two big 22 ones.

23                   MR. ORSINGER: Two large ones, 24 but some small ones too.

25                   MR. HUNT: But it read well.

1                   PROFESSOR DORSANEO: It will be 2 better going through this process, but it's 3 disappointing that it's such a tedious 4 process.

5                   MR. ORSINGER: And another 6 problem is that every single rule is being 7 rewritten by LawProse, whereas we only debated 8 the rules that we wanted to change, so some of 9 the rules we're looking at in the subcommittee 10 we've not ever looked at even in the last four 11 years. And so when the words get changed, all 12 of a sudden you say, "Wait a minute, I didn't 13 realize that about that," now that you see 14 different language. And so we've actually 15 been having some arguments over some stuff
16 that we've never even discussed.

17                   PROFESSOR DORSANEO: All right.
18 On to Claims and Parties, since we went over 19 that before. And the beginning part goes 20 pretty quickly. I made changes corresponding 21 to what was considered and voted on last 22 time. Rules 30 and 31 do not need, I believe, 23 to be discussed, because the changes were 24 voted on and the specific language was voted 25 on last time.

1           Rule 32, Permissive Joinder of Parties,
2           is where I will start. The first 3           recommendation that we have is that in the 4           internal order, which in terms of claims and 5           parties is essentially the internal order of 6           the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, not 7           merely the overall order of sections. We 8           strayed from our idea to stick with the same 9           order that the Federal Rules followed because 10          we thought it's better to talk about 11          permissive joinder of parties before talking 12          about joinder of persons needed for just 13          adjudication, so we reversed that order in 14          this draft. It's not a big deal, but it just 15          seemed more logical to us.

16                 The last time that we met we considered 17                 in this permissive joinder of parties rules 18                 the elimination of Rule 37 and voted to 19                 eliminate it. Judge Brister mentioned that 20                 there was a part of Rule 37, the current 21                 rules, not what you're looking at, that trial 22                 judges particularly like where it ends "but 23                 not at a time" -- this is when we're talking 24                 about joinder of additional parties -- "but 25                 not at a time nor in a manner to unreasonably

1 delay the trial of the case." And the 2 committee voted to add that back in.

3 I at the meeting last time was concerned 4 about where it should go. Our subcommittee
5 considered that point at some length last week 6 or earlier this week, I forget which 7 subcommittee met on what date, and the last 8 sentence of 32(a) is certainly a good place 9 for this idea to be expressed. And as 10 redrafted the sentence reads, "Permissive 11 joinder of additional parties in accordance 12 with this rule may be disallowed by the court 13 on the motion of any party if joinder will 14 unduly delay or prejudice the adjudication of 15 the rights of another party."

16 Now, the language is not the same as the 17 language that appears in current Rule 37. The 18 language for the most part was taken from very 19 similar language in terms of the idea being 20 expressed that is contained in the Federal 21 Rules of Civil Procedure involving permissive
22 intervention, or rather, I should say, 23 involving intervention altogether, Federal 24 Rule of Civil Procedure 24.

25 The committee believed that the language

1 "will unduly delay or prejudice the 2 adjudication of the rights of another party" 3 was expressing the entire idea better than "at 4 a time nor in a manner to unreasonably delay 5 the trial," because we're talking about 6 adjudications and not necessarily about 7 conventional trials and perhaps giving a
8 little more opportunity to disallow if there 9 would be prejudice to the rights of another
10 party.

11 Now, the other thing that's added is "on 12 the motion of any party," which was passed by, 13 I believe, a divided vote of the subcommittee 14 as being language that should be in there as a 15 limitation on the court doing it on its own 16 initiative.

17 I'm going to finish up pointing that out
18 by saying that we decided not to add the same 19 type of sentence in Rule 33, Joinder of 20 Persons Needed for Just Adjudication,
21 primarily because paragraph (b) of proposed 22 Rule 33 does the same thing, quoting in part, 23 "the court shall determine whether in equity 24 and good conscience the action should proceed 25 among the parties before it," et cetera, seems

1 to provide Judge Brister with what he would 2 need if the joinder of a person for just 3 adjudication was not feasible in line with 4 paragraph (a). And so that's, you know, the 5 first thing.

6 That's kind of, Mr. Chairman, what was 7 already voted on, but it's different from what 8 was already voted on and it probably ought to 9 be voted on again.

10 CHAIRMAN SOULES: That's 32 and 11 33?

12 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Yes,
13 putting the sentence in 32. And that really 14 is all we need to vote on right now, because I 15 almost need to talk about intervention before 16 the thought is complete.

17 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. Any 18 opposition to that addition to Rule 32? Judge
19 Brister.

20 HON. SCOTT A. BRISTER: Yeah.
21 The motion of any party. Ever since 22 Dickens -- somebody give me the name of the 23 case where the two lawyers were milking --

24 MR. ORSINGER: Jarndyce.

25 HON. SCOTT A. BRISTER: There

1 are really cases where both attorneys want the 2 case to last forever, and I am the only one 3 that can stop it. Second, the Rules of 4 Judicial Administration, which don't apply to 5 lawyers, they apply to the judges, give me as 6 the guideline that I'm supposed to dispose of 7 cases in a certain amount of time. Now, we 8 can argue whether that's a good enough reason 9 or not, but that's my duty, not your duty.
10 And there literally will be cases which will 11 stay forever which I cannot make them go away 12 if this is limited to motion by party, because 13 if both attorneys want a continuance, add 14 another party, six months from now they want 15 another continuance, add another party, as 16 long as nobody objects, I've got to add them, 17 give them 45 days' notice of the trial
18 setting, enough time to do discovery,
19 et cetera. And I would strongly oppose 20 limiting -- you know, as long as nobody 21 objects, you can just add parties whenever you 22 want for as long as you want, put it off as 23 long as you want.

24 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Paula.

25 MS. SWEENEY: The case does,

1           however, ultimately belongs to the litigants,
2           and if all of the parties believe that another
3           party should be added and there's no 4           objection, guidelines aside, it would seem 5           that the parties ought to be able to control
6           their destiny, which is what the rule 7           permits. If everybody agrees that that's how 8           they want to conduct the litigation, where is 9           the problem?

10                           CHAIRMAN SOULES: Steve.

11                           MR. SUSMAN: Well, I disagree, 12           Paula. I think the system belongs to the 13           people. We no longer can afford the notion 14           that attorneys in a given case have some kind 15           of proprietary right to judges.

16                           CHAIRMAN SOULES: Speak up,
17           Steve. I'm sorry, we can't hear.

18                           MR. SUSMAN: They don't have 19           any proprietary right to judges or space at 20           the courthouse. It belongs to the people and 21           to other litigants who have equally as 22           pressing problems.

23                           And if two lawyers -- I mean, in the 24           situation that Scott poses, and I think it 25           does happen periodically, both lawyers will

1 view the case as kind of a career annuity and 2 are looking just for opportunities to join.
3 They never want to go to trial, they just want 4 to keep on doing discovery. Well, maybe that 5 won't be too possible now, but they want the 6 case bigger and bigger and bigger. I just 7 think the judge ought to be able to say no to 8 certain things.

9 I mean, even in the Discovery Rules there 10 are certain things which cannot be, not many, 11 but a few things that the judge can say, "No.
12 This impinges upon my docket and my time and 13 how I use the courtroom." And you know, I 14 think there is this problem of not ever being 15 able to get the case ready for trial, getting 16 on that old list, and I think it's a good 17 point. So I don't know what the harm would be 18 to say that, you know, the court on its own 19 motion can disallow a permissive joinder.
20 That's all.

21 MS. SWEENEY: The harm --

23 Sweeney.

24 MS. SWEENEY: -- if I may,
25 comes if -- if you have a situation where the

1 parties -- I'm not talking about lawyers
2 wanting a career, I'm talking about the 3 parties, the people who are paying those 4 annuity bills. If the parties feel that they 5 can't get a fair adjudication, and all parties
6 agree, without X being at the courthouse, then 7 it's a real shame if it causes an 8 inconvenience to the schedule, but I don't 9 think we can let schedule inconvenience run 10 rumpshot over the parties' rights.

11 And if -- I'm not talking about lawyers
12 pulling a fast one on their clients, and I
13 don't think that's what the rule contemplates 14 either. I'm talking about the issue where the 15 actual litigants, the plaintiff, the 16 defendant, the intervenor, everybody who is 17 there agrees we need someone else in here for 18 this to be fair and just. Then, you know, 19 whether it's outside the 18-month guideline or 20 whether there's other folks who want to be 21 there, I think it's wrong to say, well, 22 it's -- we're just going to at some point 23 allow a judge to decide that she has had 24 enough, end of story, you can't add anyone 25 else, we're going to try you whether you think

1 you've got everyone here you need or not.

2 I have recognized the countervailing 3 considerations, but fundamental fairness and 4 due process seems to say that we have to allow 5 parties, especially when they all agree, to 6 have a full slate.

7 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Judge
8 Brister.

9 HON. SCOTT A. BRISTER: We're
10 way down the road past there, I think. I 11 mean, we have court mandated, law mandated 12 reports we have to go submit that are public 13 records of how old my cases are. And we're 14 still elected, and that makes a difference, 15 and that is the number one thing thrown in the 16 teeth, how many old cases have you got lying 17 around. What does this -- this will mean no 18 docket control orders about joining parties.

19 MS. SWEENEY: Right.

20 HON. SCOTT A. BRISTER: This 21 will wipe that out, which is a foundation.
22 Every judge in Harris County will tell you the 23 main problem in delaying trial is people add a 24 party a year -- they want to add a party a 25 year, a year and a half, two years into the

1 litigation, which means putting off the trial 2 for another year, which we don't have that 3 many discretionary times for a trial with our 4 other toxic tort kinds of cases.

5 This -- if you want to go to a system
6 where the judge cannot control the docket, 7 this will do it, but I think that decision has 8 been made a long time ago and the Court is not 9 interested, in anything I've read recently, in 10 going back to that kind of a system.

11 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Paul Gold.

12 MR. GOLD: Judge Brister, the 13 situation that I have seen develop with that 14 docket control system now, where you've got 15 the time limit on adding additional parties, 16 is what happens if somebody says, okay,
17 they -- the statute obviously hasn't run, so 18 you're assuming that they file a new lawsuit.
19 And I've contemplated that, contemplated or I 20 maybe even have done that recently, where 21 you've got a situation where for whatever 22 reason there's a deadline in that case for 23 joining parties, you're beyond it, you've 24 got -- you believe you need to bring that 25 party in, so now you've got another lawsuit.

1           How do those -- how do you reconcile the 2 need for -- I understand your desire to 3 maintain control over your court and your 4 docket, but with the multiplicity of lawsuits,
5 then, that the concept of that then engenders?

6           HON. SCOTT A. BRISTER: It
7 depends on the facts of the case. I mean, the 8 language, current rule, not to unreasonably 9 delay, if this was some -- if we sued the 10 wrong corporate name but it's going to be the 11 same insurance company defending the claim and 12 everything, you just add them late because 13 it's no big deal. It's not going to delay 14 anything. The same discovery is going to be 15 done and will apply.

16           But if this is adding the product
17 manufacturer on what had been a car wreck case
18 and we're ready to try the car wreck case, I'm 19 inclined to say try the car wreck case. If 20 you want to do a product liability, that's an 21 entirely different deal. Do it in a different 22 suit with different parties. So it depends on 23 the circumstances.

24           But this rule means if nobody says
25 anything I cannot do anything about it.

1 That's the -- this is not the direction we're 2 headed in these days with putting control of 3 how long a litigation lasts back into the 4 lawyers' hands.

5 MR. GOLD: I just wanted to ask
6 one other thing, since I was out. Was there a 7 discussion about how this rule interfaces with 8 the new joint and several rule?

9 MR. ORSINGER: No.

10 MR. GOLD: Well, I'm just 11 throwing that out. I don't know whether it 12 impacts it or not, you know, these things 13 about being able to add parties and extending 14 the statute and bringing people in. It seems 15 to me like that may cause some problems with 16 this rule as well.

17 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: No, it 18 won't.

19 MR. GOLD: It won't?

20 MS. SWEENEY: How come?

21 MR. GOLD: Who said that? Oh,
22 okay.

23 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Because 24 those problems, if they come up, will come up 25 later.

1 MR. GOLD: Okay.

2 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Rusty.

3 MR. McMANS: I don't know that 4 I understood these proposed changes to really 5 adversely affect the judge's ability to enter 6 a docket control order.

7 CHAIRMAN SOULES: They don't.

8 MR. McMANS: I mean, the 9 suggestion by Judge Brister is that somehow 10 because of the provisions made to this rule or 11 the requirement of the party that you're going 12 against what you can do under the docket
13 control rule. And I know the docket control
14 rule took precedence over kind of everything 15 in terms of you've got the power to do these 16 things, put this scheduling order in place and 17 so on.

18 MR. KELTNER: Rusty, they do, 19 and we thought they did when we drafted the 20 rule. So in other words, the docket control
21 order, if it is entered under the pretrial
22 rule, would have precedence over this rule.

23 HON. SCOTT A. BRISTER: That's 24 news to lots of attorneys, because I have to 25 cite them, when they do this, to Rule 37.

1           They think they've got an absolute right to 2           add somebody that we just discovered and it's 3           a denial of their rights not to add them, and 4           I point to Rule 37 and I say no, not if it
5           delays the trial.  If you extend it for a 6           month or two, you know, that's a scheduling 7           matter that we can negotiate, and I look at 8           how hard you try to find them and stuff like 9           this.  But this doesn't say "except for docket 10          control order," this says --

11                       MR. KELTNER:  Well, I think the 12          docket control order rule that we are thinking 13          of --

14                       MR. McMAINS:  -- is our rule.

15                       MR. KELTNER:  -- yeah, is the 16          rule that did say that that rule says that it 17          takes precedence over the other rule.

18                       CHAIRMAN SOULES:  Well, we 19          really ought to -- let's focus in on what 20          Judge Brister has raised.  We only have one 21          real issue over the rule and that is whether 22          or not the denial of joinder can be done on 23          the judge's own initiative.

24                       HON. SCOTT A. BRISTER:  Sua
25          sponte.

1                   CHAIRMAN SOULES:  And if anyone
2                   has anything else to say about that, anything 3                   new, let's hear it and then vote.

4                   Does anyone have anything else?

5                   Okay.  Those who -- let's see how to 6                   state the question.

7                   PROFESSOR DORSANEO:  Let's vote
8                   on whether we should keep in or take out "on 9                   the motion of any party."

10                  CHAIRMAN SOULES:  Okay.  "On 11                  the motion of any party," those in favor of 12                  taking it out so that the judge would have the 13                  initiative to do so as well as the parties, 14                  show by hands.  12.

15                  Those who favor leaving it in show by 16                  hands.  One more time.  Eight.  Okay.  So 12 17                  to eight it comes out.

18                  PROFESSOR DORSANEO:  Now, I 19                  would say that judges should not do that, 20                  because there are these other mechanisms, you
21                  know.  You don't have to delay the trial.

22                  MR. KELTNER:  Right.

23                  CHAIRMAN SOULES:  How do you
24                  add a party 30 days ahead of trial and not 25                  delay the trial?  Do you mean severance?

1                   PROFESSOR DORSANEO:  It's just 2                   a permissive joinder situation.  You don't 3                   need to try that party's claims or any claims 4                   against that party in the same trial.  You can 5                   just do it in another trial.

6                   CHAIRMAN SOULES:  Join them and 7                   sever them?

8                   PROFESSOR DORSANEO:  Just try 9                   them separately.  Just administer it 10                  separately.

11                  CHAIRMAN SOULES:  Okay.  We've 12                  voted.  What's next, Bill?

13                  PROFESSOR DORSANEO:  All right.
14                  The next thing really is whether this same 15                  sentence ought to be included in the 16                  compulsory joinder rule, proposed Rule 33.  It 17                  is not in the federal compulsory joinder
18                  rule.  It's not in our compulsory joinder
19                  rule.  It is the case that Rule 37 talks about 20                  in its first part "additional parties 21                  necessary or proper may be brought in, but not 22                  at a time nor in a manner to unreasonably 23                  delay the trial of the case."

24                  When I went back after the last committee
25                  meeting, I redrafted what is now draft Rule 33

1 adding the same idea into the compulsory 2 joinder rule. And after discussing it for 3 about three hours at the committee level, the 4 committee decided that it was a good concept 5 when we're talking about a proper party, but 6 not as good a concept when we're talking about 7 somebody who will be prejudiced as a practical 8 matter or who is otherwise needed for just 9 adjudication,; that it may be under those 10 circumstances, you know, appropriate to join 11 them even if that will involve some delay.

12 A companion idea, to show you how quickly 13 we're moving along here, is in the 14 intervention rule. Everything between 15 Rule 33, Joinder of Persons Needed for Just 16 Adjudication, and proposed Rule 38, the 17 intervention rule on Page 10, having already 18 been considered by the committee last time -- 19 I've kind of lost -- I should ask you to read 20 that back. I've lost the thread of that.

21 (Continuing) -- is --

22 MR. ORSINGER: This has to do
23 with striking for undue delay.

24 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: -- is 25 finished.

1           The same idea is over here in 2 Intervention of Right or Permissive
3 Intervention. What the committee basically 4 decided is that the concept of disallowance 5 should be in the proper party rule, not in the 6 compulsory joinder rule, but that in the 7 intervention rule the idea would apply to 8 intervention of right and permissive
9 intervention, because the sentence that talks 10 about striking an intervention and what the 11 court may consider is in (c), Procedure. That 12 would apply to both intervention of right and 13 permissive intervention.

14           So if you kind of get our thinking, we 15 were thinking that if it's proper parties, 16 permissive joinder, the court has a lot to say 17 about it, if there would be delay; if it's 18 intervention, in deciding whether to strike an 19 intervention, on motion of any party, which is 20 what our intervention rule says now, that the 21 court can consider undue delay or prejudice 22 both when it's intervention of right and when 23 it's permissive intervention; but in the 24 situation where it's compulsory joinder, that 25 that idea ought not to be expressed.

1           So the two things -- the thing to vote on 2 right now is whether a similar sentence or 3 concept should or should not be in the 4 compulsory joinder rule similar to the last 5 sentence of paragraph (a) of Rule 32. If we 6 put it in, and I drafted it in, I would 7 propose to put it in paragraph (a) as 2(a), or 8 (b) and (c) with it being in (c). Okay? So 9 that's really the vote, and that's almost a 10 mystical kind of thing, frankly.

12 are other --

13                   MR. GOLD: I felt mystified.

14                   CHAIRMAN SOULES: There are 15 other standards for not allowing joinder of a 16 person needed for just adjudication already 17 built into this Rule 33.

18                   PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Yes.

19                   CHAIRMAN SOULES: It's a 20 different standard.

21                   PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Yes.

22                   CHAIRMAN SOULES: And you're 23 saying there should be a different standard 24 for this rule?

25                   PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well,

1           there's a different standard for -- but 2           there -- it's a strict -- there are fewer 3           people who are in this kind of situation, and 4           their rights are such that it probably ought 5           not to be expressed very forthrightly that the 6           judge could just keep them out, even though 7           they will be prejudiced and the litigation 8           will be screwed up.

9                           CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, this 10           imposes a stricter standard on the judge in 11           cutting them out. That's the way it was 12           drafted.

13                           PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Yes.

14                           CHAIRMAN SOULES: Does anyone 15           disagree with that?

16                           HON. SCOTT A. BRISTER: Well, I
17           think that's probably all right. I mean, this 18           is somebody -- this is when you would grant a 19           continuance and later trial anyway.

20                           PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Yes.

21                           HON. SCOTT A. BRISTER: So 22           yeah, I think that's all right.

23                           CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. So no 24           disagreement, then, with that concept in 25           Rule 33.

1 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: So then
2 let's go over to the intervention rule.

3 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Did you say
4 you had already drafted that discretionary 5 piece into 33?

6 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I drafted
7 it, and then at the committee meeting when we 8 considered it, it was voted down, so I took it 9 out.

10 CHAIRMAN SOULES: It's gone
11 from here?

12 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Yes.

13 CHAIRMAN SOULES: So 33 as 14 shown here is okay.

15 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: So please
16 turn to Page 10, Intervention. At the last 17 meeting we decided to stick with our motion to 18 strike procedure, and it was voted that I 19 add --

20 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Sever?

21 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Huh?

22 MR. ORSINGER: I don't think 23 the full committee voted to sever. I think,
24 as I read the transcript, Rusty made an issue
25 about severance versus striking on the grounds

1 that a strike might let someone's limitations 2 lapse, and we debated that for a long time on 3 our subcommittee and decided to go with 4 strike. For what reason?

5 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Why?

6 MR. ORSINGER: I'm trying to 7 remember the discussion.

8 MR. KELTNER: It was a really 9 fine reason.

10 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: I thought
11 we voted to sever.

12 CHAIRMAN SOULES: We voted in 13 this committee to substitute severance for 14 striking so that the case would not suffer any 15 limitations.

16 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: And at our 17 committee meeting the idea was expressed as 18 well that if it's severed, then there will be 19 this other case involving --

20 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Which is why
21 we voted for severance, so that there would be 22 a case and not a limitations question.

23 PROFESSOR CARLSON: No. The 24 discussion at the subcommittee was what if the 25 intervention is not proper maybe due to a lack

1 of standing --

2 MR. ORSINGER: -- or a venue
3 problem.

4 PROFESSOR CARLSON: -- or a
5 venue problem, and then severance wouldn't be 6 appropriate in that situation and would 7 dismiss --

8 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: No, it's 9 essentially we concluded that starting this 10 other case may cause -- may be a good idea, 11 but it may, as often as not, be a bad idea.
12 And you know, it could say "stricken or 13 severed," as far as I'm concerned, you know, 14 because sometimes it will be sensible to 15 strike it; sometimes sever it.

16 MR. McMains: Well, the problem
17 is, though, that if you intervene, whether 18 you're entitled to, it's permissive or 19 whatever, and then somebody waits until the 20 limitations run or maybe you've been in the 21 lawsuit for a year and a half and then they 22 decide to move and strike, and this -- and you 23 basically have a provision in here which says 24 this is what happens, is you move to strike 25 it. There's nothing in here that requires any

1 timely motion to strike. It just -- there's 2 no time limitations, like there's no within 3 the first 30 days.

4 I mean, it's one thing if somebody wants 5 to take their chances when they're that late 6 in the game. But it's another thing to just 7 say that we're going to say that your only 8 remedy is if somebody moves to strike the 9 intervention, then that's it. It's gone. It 10 doesn't exist anymore.

11 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well,
12 certainly the first issue is do we really want 13 to put "severed" rather than "stricken" or 14 leave it up to the court. Obviously, if you 15 say to -- I think if you intervened and you're 16 in that situation and you told the judge, 17 "Well, Judge, if you'll just strike me, then 18 my case is over," and you've just -- because 19 my limitations clock has run. And most judges 20 will then sever it, one would think, if they 21 think you have any kind of a case, but they 22 might not if they thought your case was 23 baloney.

24 CHAIRMAN SOULES: We voted to 25 sever. Why did we go back to strike? The

1           Committee voted to use the word "sever."

2                           PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well,
3           Richard -- we read it, and we weren't exactly 4           sure that it was actually voted on.

5                           MR. ORSINGER: I didn't think 6           it was a vote, Luke. Now, I don't have the 7           wording in front of me, but we looked at it in 8           the subcommittee, and I identified it as being 9           a suggestion by Rusty, which Bill said that we 10          would take it back to subcommittee. Now, I 11          may stand corrected, in which event we don't 12          have to redebate it.

13                          PROFESSOR DORSANEO: We're 14          happy to put "severed" in here.

15                          CHAIRMAN SOULES: If the 16          subcommittee in the interim has unearthed 17          reasons why "severance" won't work in some 18          cases --

19                          PROFESSOR DORSANEO: The 20          subcommittee was divided on this too, quite 21          frankly.

22                          MR. ORSINGER: I mean, I was --

23                          CHAIRMAN SOULES: And if --

24                          MR. ORSINGER: Personally I'm 25          in favor of severance. But the arguments

1           were, some of the procedural difficulties we 2           have with venue and some other things when you
3           order a severance rather than striking, it
4           ended up being striking. We even discussed
5           putting both in there and letting the court
6           decide which was appropriate, but I'm a little 7           concerned about the limitations issue.

8                         MR. KELTNER: Yeah. Here was 9           the discussion: One of the things that we 10          discussed is, let's assume that the reason 11          that the intervention was no good was a lack 12          of standing, among other things, so you 13          sever. Well, then you've severed into another 14          cause of action, and then once again you're 15          going to have to have another motion in the 16          severed cause of action to accomplish what you 17          really should have accomplished in the 18          intervention motion. But the way to do that, 19          of course, is to file the motion to sever. So 20          in other words, you duplicate it. You 21          duplicate the process time and time again.
22          The same would be true on venue and the like.

23                         I think all of us were sensitive to what 24          Rusty said, because you're right, a striking, 25          if it did have -- especially under the

1 circumstances that Rusty says, it's been on 2 file for a year, now the statute has run, is a
3 problem.

4 I don't think we mind going back to 5 sever, but if we do go back to sever, realize 6 that we're going to duplicate some work in a 7 significant number of intervention cases. And 8 it might be that we give the judge a choice.

9 HON. SCOTT A. BRISTER: And
10 duplicate all the paperwork. Severance in a 11 big case is an expensive and time consuming 12 proposition copying all that stuff twice.

13 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Elaine
14 Carlson.

15 PROFESSOR CARLSON: David, 16 didn't we discuss also the problem of 17 potentially forum shopping by jumping into a 18 case knowing that you would be severed and now 19 you are in the court that you --

20 MR. KELTNER: Yeah. In fact,
21 you brought that up, and I thought that was a 22 good point. The point would be that what 23 would happen is, if you had a colorable claim 24 and you had the right judge, you would move to 25 intervene. Well, you can't properly

1 intervene, but you're severed now so you're in 2 that judge's court --

3 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: -- anyway.

4 MR. KELTNER: And that -- quite 5 frankly, that's happened in some mass tort or 6 litigation stuff. But let's remember the big 7 injustice here would be to strike something 8 causing a statute of limitations to run, so 9 that we've got to cure that or this is an 10 unjust rule. So I think the question has got 11 to be either do we do "strike or sever" under 12 the appropriate circumstances, or do we just 13 leave it "sever" and deal with the problem.

14 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, there
15 are the two of them. No one can intervene 16 unless they can establish independent venue,
17 right?

18 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Right.

19 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Under Texas
20 Practice -- Civil Practice and Remedies.

21 MR. ORSINGER: Right.

22 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: All right.

23 CHAIRMAN SOULES: If somebody
24 doesn't want to use that, well, they can use 25 that as a -- a defendant can use that in order

1 to accomplish what in effect is a severance, 2 because once that intervention is shown to 3 have no venue in the present county, that goes 4 to another county. That piece of it goes
5 to -- transfers to another county. It 6 effectuates a severance.

7 If the defendant -- and we don't have 8 anything in the Rules of Civil Procedure that 9 say that. That's over here in the Practice
10 and Remedies Code.

11 MR. KELTNER: That's a good
12 point.

13 CHAIRMAN SOULES: If the 14 defendant doesn't choose to use that tool and 15 files a motion to sever without identifying 16 the venue problem, they're just like everybody 17 else that hasn't identified a venue problem.
18 They've got themselves stuck where they are.

19 MR. KELTNER: You would have a 20 different result with standing, but still, 21 I --

22 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, but
23 standing, that's pretty quick. That's not a 24 complicated thing. I realize that what Judge 25 Brister is talking about, though, that is, how

1 much of a case has to be duplicated and 2 transferred --

3 HON. SCOTT A. BRISTER: However 4 much the attorneys ask for.

5 CHAIRMAN SOULES: -- is how 6 much the attorneys ask for. And it can't --

7 MR. ORSINGER: Well, that's 8 something that we can draft.

9 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Pardon?

10 MR. ORSINGER: That's something 11 that we can draft. In other words, I think we 12 even have some language in Bonnie's rules 13 about copying the contents and moving them to 14 another. We can change that. If that helps 15 this problem, we can change how much you have 16 to copy.

17 CHAIRMAN SOULES: I'm not sure 18 we even need to speak to it, because of just 19 what Judge Brister said. It's how much the 20 lawyers say.

21 MR. ORSINGER: Well, I'm not 22 sure that that's right. I think it's more 23 likely that the entire file will be copied and 24 put over in the other folder.

25 MR. KELTNER: Well, I certainly

1 think the sense of the committee is to take 2 "strike" out at the very least.

3 CHAIRMAN SOULES: It doesn't 4 make any -- the plaintiff's original petition 5 may or may not have anything to do with 6 cause B. If it doesn't, it doesn't need to be 7 copied and put into cause B in a severance 8 situation.

9 MR. ORSINGER: What vehicle
10 tells the clerk what records to copy?

11 CHAIRMAN SOULES: There is 12 none. There's none now, I mean, unless Bonnie 13 wants to draft one. We don't have one now.

14 MS. WOLBRUECK: No, we don't.

15 MR. ORSINGER: What is the 16 convention, in your experience, Bonnie, what 17 is the convention when there's a severance?
18 What does the clerk do?

19 MS. WOLBRUECK: Either of two 20 things, either as directed in the order or 21 else anything pertaining to those parties 22 particularly.

23 MR. ORSINGER: Well, that's 24 going to be everything in the file.

25 MS. WOLBRUECK: It could be.

1 It could be. It may not be. Those particular 2 parties may have been brought in later in the 3 file.

4 CHAIRMAN SOULES: If I
5 intervene against you, I've got the right to 6 your interrogatory answers, but I can't use 7 anybody else's interrogatory answers because 8 that's the interrogatory answers of another
9 party. I can use yours against you, but now
10 it's just me against you. These other people 11 are not in our case. I mean, the right thing 12 to do is the one we do and have done, is you 13 go through the docket sheet or your own index 14 and check off what it is that needs to go and 15 give to the clerk, just the same as you 16 designate the transcript, you designate the 17 papers to be copied and transferred.

18 MR. ORSINGER: Do you think we 19 should write a procedure to that effect?

20 CHAIRMAN SOULES: I don't think
21 so. I mean, I don't think it's necessary, 22 frankly. But I'm not the one to give the 23 answers. The committee here should be doing 24 that. Judge Brister.

25 HON. SCOTT A. BRISTER: I would

1 move it should be "strike or sever," because 2 there's just too many circumstances that might 3 apply either way. For instance, I mean, one 4 of our big things for the district clerk and 5 counties is the case where you have 10,000 6 lawsuits filed as an intervention and you get 7 one filing fee. And that's -- you know,
8 that's the kind of thing that drives county 9 commissioners crazy. So I can sever those, 10 and do what? Now I have 10,000 lawsuits that 11 got filed, 9,999 of them without paying a 12 fee. There are too many abuses if the only 13 thing is sever. I agree, I think it would be 14 an abuse of discretion if the statutes run.
15 The only problem is, I don't think it should 16 be tried with this first case. Just dismiss 17 it and let -- and throw you out of court. I'm 18 not sure that that would be the result in any 19 event, but I agree that would be a problem.
20 But there's going to be plenty of 21 circumstances where that ain't a problem, and 22 what ought to be done to you is struck and do
23 it the right way. Do it like everybody else 24 does, just file a separate suit.

25 CHAIRMAN SOULES: What is

1 strike, stricken or struck?

2 HON. SCOTT A. BRISTER: It's 3 the same as dismissal.

4 MR. KELTNER: And we came to 5 the same conclusion.

6 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Then we 7 shouldn't even have those words in there.
8 Everything just ought to be "dismissed." Then 9 you've got 165a to get back in. Whether you
10 do a strike or not, I don't know. I mean, I
11 just -- if we say severed or stricken, Judge, 12 and you strike and limitations has run, then 13 I'm in an abuse of discretion appeal and I am 14 in deep trouble with that standard to try to 15 overcome that standard.

16 If it says sever, then I know I'm going 17 to be all right, because my case is still 18 going to be on file. I may not -- I may get 19 bumped on standing, and I may get bumped on 20 venue. There may be a lot of things that can 21 happen.

22 MR. KELTNER: It's safer --

23 HON. SCOTT A. BRISTER: Nothing 24 personal, but --

25 CHAIRMAN SOULES: I don't know,

1 I'm very sensitive to this. Maybe I shouldn't 2 be.

3 HON. SCOTT A. BRISTER: How do
4 we -- you know, there are fee rules that can 5 be run around. There are forum shopping rules
6 that can be run around, and the way to do it 7 is intervention. And if the only thing that 8 can be done is a severance, then you're just 9 saying go ahead, forum shop all the want, save 10 all the money you want. That ain't right.

11 CHAIRMAN SOULES: The 12 Legislature has tried to cure the forum
13 shopping. I don't know if they've got it done 14 or not, but it looks like they've done 15 something towards that way.

16 The fee aspect is --

17 HON. SCOTT A. BRISTER: Some 18 people don't think that.

19 CHAIRMAN SOULES: It's cheaper
20 to intervene than it is to file a new lawsuit, 21 but there's still a fee for an intervention.

22 MS. WOLBRUECK: $15.

23 CHAIRMAN SOULES: And how much
24 to file a lawsuit?

25 MS. WOLBRUECK: It depends on

1           which county.

2                           HON. SCOTT A. BRISTER: 150.

3                           MS. WOLBRUECK: It's 150.

4                           PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Yeah, with 5 the citation and all that.

6                           MR. ORSINGER: I think you
7 eliminate service too when you intervene. You
8 don't have service charges. You just send it 9 certified.

10                          CHAIRMAN SOULES: First class
11 mail.

12                          MR. ORSINGER: Yeah, first 13 class mail.

14                          CHAIRMAN SOULES: Or certified
15 mail.

16                          MR. ORSINGER: It's going to be 17 first class after these new rules, we think.

18                          CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, I've 19 said enough.

20                          MR. KELTNER: Well, what Scott
21 I think has suggested is that it be stricken 22 or severed, or maybe using the term 23 "dismissed" might be better, dismissed or 24 severed. The other situation might be to use 25 "severed" and then put a time period upon

1 which the motion to sever has got to be 2 filed.

3 That does -- well, Bill, here is the 4 reason for that. That takes away part of 5 Bonnie's problem in that the file isn't going 6 to be -- we don't have Rusty's problem where 7 you wait a year and you're duplicating the 8 entire file. It's got to be filed within a 9 particular period of time. And it seems to me 10 that you know everything to sever out of an 11 intervention within a pretty tight time
12 period.

14 Brister, on your -- you get a lawsuit filed 15 and then you have got 99 plaintiffs -- that's 16 99 parties intervene. Why don't you sever the 17 99 parties together into cause B?

18 HON. SCOTT A. BRISTER: Well,
19 it depends on -- you know, these days, say, 20 you have 10 people that have gotten fired from 21 Exxon. Totally unrelated. Why should they 22 get to because somebody does a volume 23 business? 10 car wrecks that have nothing to 24 do with each other, so they -- you know,
25 there's 10 car wrecks that happened all over

1 town. The plaintiff's attorney does a volume
2 business. You're getting sued in one case.
3 You sever them out into 10 cases, no filing
4 fee. I mean, that's crazy.

5 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Nine of them
6 don't have to pay a filing fee if he files 7 them altogether.

8 HON. SCOTT A. BRISTER: Yeah.
9 But I strike them. I say, "These car wrecks
10 are different car wrecks. They have nothing 11 to do with each other. Go downstairs and file 12 a new lawsuit for each one."

13 You're saying take that option away, and 14 all we can do is sever them and all of a 15 sudden -- or make it 100 car wrecks, you
16 know. Somebody that advertises gets a 17 thousand car wrecks, and all of a sudden all 18 car wrecks are in Judge X's court from now on 19 in Harris County through a balloon 20 intervention which has been severed into 21 10,000 car wreck cases. That's going to be 22 crazy.

23 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Steve Susman.

24 MR. SUSMAN: I don't think
25 Judge Brister has much to worry about in terms

1 of plaintiffs shopping for him. I do think it
2 is a valid point, though. I mean, we're not 3 talking about forum shopping as we are judge
4 shopping, that is. But I don't see how you
5 can't deal with it in a simple -- why can't 6 the judge -- why don't we just say the judge
7 says that that's an equivalent to a separately
8 filed lawsuit. It goes back to the clerk's 9 office, you pay a regular filing fee, and it 10 gets assigned, so you don't have the statute 11 of limitations problem because you haven't 12 stricken it and you haven't dismissed it.
13 It's still filed. It just goes back as if the 14 litigant filed the case as an original case, 15 which a litigant could do at any time they 16 wanted to anyway, right? So why don't we just 17 handle it that way.

18 HON. SCOTT A. BRISTER: Or
19 another way around it is the Civil Practice 20 and Remedies Code, you know. You've got 21 60 days if it's dismissed for lack of 22 jurisdiction or refiled and the statute is 23 extended. If you make this a dismissal for 24 lack of jurisdiction of the intervention,
25 16064 of the Civil Practice and Remedies says

1 after it's dismissed you've got 60 days to 2 refile it in the right court.

3 CHAIRMAN SOULES: But you have 4 jurisdiction over the intervention, subject
5 matter and personal jurisdiction.

6 HON. SCOTT A. BRISTER: I
7 understand that, but --

8 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: If we did 9 "severed or stricken" and then changed the 10 last sentence so you take into account not 11 only the rights of the other parties but the 12 rights of the intervenor, why wouldn't that be 13 enough?

14 MR. McMANS: It's still 15 discretionary.

16 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, you
17 take out --

18 MR. McMANS: Because basically 19 you still have a situation where what's your 20 relief if the judge decides, regardless of 21 what the circumstances are, I'm going to 22 strike it, so you're gone. The limitations
23 have run. What's your complaint on appeal?
24 That he abused his discretion by choosing one 25 versus another?

1 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Without
2 considering your --

3 MR. McMAINS: -- your 4 limitations issue?

5 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: -- your 6 limitations problems.

7 MR. McMAINS: There's no court
8 in this state that will reverse a judge on 9 that.

10 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: There are 11 some that they wouldn't surely.

12 HON. SCOTT A. BRISTER: You
13 would be surprised what they reverse.

14 MR. McMAINS: Yeah. If you're 15 a plaintiff.

16 CHAIRMAN SOULES: All right.
17 Maybe we need to -- why don't we -- I guess 18 let's vote three ways and then we'll take the 19 top two and vote again. Strike, severance, 20 and either. So unless somebody has got 21 something else they want to say --

22 MR. ORSINGER: Well, I think 23 Steve's suggestion that the severance be 24 treated as the filing of a new suit with a 25 full filing fee would eliminate some of the 1 abuses that Judge Brister was concerned about.

2 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, that's 3 going to ripple back through so many rules,
4 how do we get time to do that? We're doing 5 intervention. Now we're going to have to have 6 rules on unintervention, not severance, not 7 strike, but --

8 MR. ORSINGER: We've already
9 got a rule in Bonnie's set here on what you do
10 when a suit is severed. You haven't even seen 11 it. All we have to do is change it according 12 to this vote.

13 HON. SCOTT A. BRISTER: No. I
14 think in the Government Code fees are 15 covered -- is determined by the Legislature.
16 I don't know that we can change that by a
17 rule.

18 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay.

19 MR. SUSMAN: That's one
20 problem. But how about the other problem, 21 which is the judge shopping, can't we change 22 that and just have the equivalent of a new 23 petition? Why don't we do that? I mean, that 24 just seems to be the real problem here. Just 25 like you, Judge, I never really thought about

1 this, but Judge, it's a great idea.

2 I mean, in a place like Houston or Dallas
3 where you like a particular judge, you can 4 take a completely unrelated case and you go
5 try to intervene in a case in that judge's 6 court. The judge denies your intervention but 7 severs you. There you are. Lovely.

8 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, that 9 can be -- you know, as much as I despise local 10 rules, those matters are handled by local 11 rules, this idea that you file a case and then 12 nonsuit it, file it again and nonsuit until 13 you get the judge you like, you know.

14 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: What 15 distinction are you drawing between --

16 CHAIRMAN SOULES: They can make 17 a local rule that any case where the 18 intervention is severed will be reassigned on 19 the rotating docket.

20 HON. SCOTT A. BRISTER: Oh, so
21 in cases that are closely related, if I sever 22 it three different ways, who is going to 23 decide whether those go back in the hopper and 24 get passed back around again, because it was 25 really forum shopping, or it was just a good

1 idea to do separate trials on them. That 2 ain't going to work.

3 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: My comment
4 was I don't understand the distinction you're 5 drawing between local rules and Rules of Civil 6 Procedure. I don't see this as any less a 7 matter for the Rules of Civil Procedure than 8 any other type of procedure mechanism.

9 CHAIRMAN SOULES: The 10 assignment to cases in -- the assignment of 11 cases to courts is altogether done by local 12 rules among the courts.

13 MR. GOLD: Luke?

14 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: But we're 15 talking about a rule that may or may not 16 engender assignment problems for various 17 localities, and it seems to me that we 18 shouldn't write a rule that we already know is 19 going to cause assignment problems in 20 particularly the larger metropolitan areas and 21 particularly within that category of those 22 which operate under centralized dockets.

23 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Bonnie
24 Wolbrueck.

25 MS. WOLBRUECK: I was just

1 going to comment in regards to the fee. The 2 clerks would be happy to address that with the 3 Legislature. Possibly the statute -- I mean, 4 the rule could just say that all fees allowed 5 by statute for the filing of a new suit shall 6 be applied to the severed case, or something 7 in that reference which would take care of the 8 fee problem. And clerks, you know, we 9 historically address the fee situation before 10 the Legislature during every session.

11 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay.
12 Anything else on this before we vote? Paul 13 Gold.

14 MR. GOLD: Judge Brister, I
15 didn't follow the point that you were making 16 at the end. Go back to the issue about if the 17 case is severed it would just go into the 18 rotating docket. Now, I understood you to be 19 saying that, well, there may be some cases 20 that you had severed that were closely 21 connected that didn't --

22 CHAIRMAN SOULES: I'm talking
23 about the severance of an intervention.

24 MR. GOLD: Right.

25 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Not just any

1 case. The severance of an intervention.

2 MR. GOLD: Right. But it would 3 seem like that, regardless, that putting it
4 into the rotating docket wouldn't unbalance,
5 wouldn't be that harmful, and it would resolve 6 a major problem here.

7 MR. SUSMAN: Because if it were 8 closely enough connected wouldn't it go --

9 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Steve.

10 MR. SUSMAN: I mean, when you
11 file an independent lawsuit that's closely 12 connected within a case in your court, isn't 13 there a way I can get into your court? I 14 mean, what do you have to do? Do I move to 15 transfer or something like that? It's in the 16 Rules of Procedure, so it's just like we're 17 beginning from scratch.

18 MR. GOLD: Yeah, I think the 19 best thing --

20 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. We're 21 not getting a transcript on this.

22 MR. GOLD: I'm sorry.

23 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Who wants to 24 speak?

25 MR. GOLD: Well, I think

1           what -- Paul Gold. I think that the rule<sup>1</sup> 2           could be written where the judge would 3           maintain some discretion or some plea could be 4           made to the judge to maintain that case in 5           that particular court or have the court have 6           some discretion to retain that case in that 7           particular court or transfer the case back to 8           that court. But I think the idea of, if 9           you've got an intervention that is severed, it 10          goes into the rotating docket is -- the 11          benefits of that far outweigh the problems 12          that you're pointing out. I think the 13          problems that you're pointing out could be 14          added to the rule and resolved, I think. I 15          don't know.

17          Orsinger.

18                                   MR. ORSINGER: I'd like to ask 19          Bill or anyone here that has an opinion on 20          this. If we put the word "severance" in here, 21          do we then adopt the standards for severance 22          which are set out on the top of Page 6? If 23          this is not a striking or this is a severance, 24          does that mean that we sever according to our 25          normal severance standards as opposed to 1           whatever our current strike standards are?

2                           CHAIRMAN SOULES:   Page 6?

3                           MR. HAMILTON:   I don't think 4           you can sever according to the definition of 5           severance, because it's just the opposite of 6           the permissive and intervention as a matter of 7           right. Under the definition of "severance," 8           it has to be not so interwoven. But if you 9           have permissive intervention, it has to be.
10          So I think if you sever that, you're changing 11          the definition of severance.

12                          MR. ORSINGER:   But this might 13          be someone who didn't meet the standards for 14          proper intervention and therefore they are 15          being severed out. But I'm not exactly clear 16          what the standards are for striking an 17          intervention. We're talking here, we've -- 18          the only ones we've specified are undue delay, 19          but we don't say that it's limited to that.
20          We say in your discretion, and you can 21          consider delay as part of your discretion.
22          But when we change the word from "strike" to 23          "sever," we are probably borrowing the 24          severance concept with all of its baggage or 25          whatever you want to call what goes along with

1           it, and I don't know if that's what we intend 2           to do. Perhaps it's harmless; maybe the 3           standards are the same. But if the standards 4           are different, perhaps maybe we ought to be 5           consciously aware that we might be changing 6           the standard for striking an intervention.

7                           CHAIRMAN SOULES: Anyone else?
8           David.

9                           MR. KELTNER: Well, the problem
10          is that intervention is used primarily in two 11          ways. One, some party that has a subrogation 12          type interest coming in and trying to collect, 13          like a medical health care provider or 14          workers' comp carrier and the like, and that's 15          one thing that we deal with well. The second 16          is somebody coming in to try to piggyback on 17          the lawsuit, and it's the second that we're 18          concerned about really.

19                          And it seems to me we haven't had any 20          great problems with intervention rules to 21          date, but I am worried about-- I mean, the 22          severed issue, we can go to sever, we protect 23          everybody, but doggone it, we create some 24          other problems.

25                           CHAIRMAN SOULES: Let me -- all

1 right. I don't care whether it's subject to a 2 severance or a separate trial, and the court
3 has absolute discretion on separate trials.

5 point.

6 CHAIRMAN SOULES: There are no
7 standards on that, if you go back and look on 8 page 5, Rule 34(b). Whether it's severed or 9 separately tried, it does not die.

10 MR. KELTNER: The only problem
11 it doesn't rectify is the potential forum
12 shopping with the piggyback filing. I'm not 13 so sure how big a problem that is. I haven't 14 seen that problem, just the possibility, and I 15 guess we haven't because of strike, so we only 16 have the possibility of the problem.

17 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, it was 18 a huge problem on the venue issues. It was a 19 pretty big problem on the venue issues, but 20 the Legislature at least tried to fix that, 21 because they were an intervening -- pick your 22 kind of case, breast implant cases and old 23 cases where venue was already established in 24 favorable venues. Other than that, I have not 25 seen massive interventions. I don't know if 1 somebody else has.

2 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: For that
3 matter, has anybody ever really had a case
4 where they've run into this limitations
5 problem?

6 HON. SCOTT A. BRISTER: Yeah,
7 is there a huge groundswell of problems with 8 cases being severed and thrown out beyond 9 limitations? I mean, it's always been 10 strike. And my experience has been always you 11 don't have to throw somebody out of court.
12 You just sever him rather than strike him, so 13 what's the big deal? If it's not a problem, 14 let's not create more problems.

15 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Anything
16 else? Okay. We'll vote whether we -- whether 17 the consequences of -- whether the judge's 18 order to get rid of an intervention will be to 19 strike, to sever/separate trial, or either at 20 the judge's discretion.

21 MR. GOLD: Luke, can I comment
22 on that?

23 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Paul Gold.

24 MR. GOLD: Am I correct that 25 there is no definition of the word "strike"?

1 Is that --

2 CHAIRMAN SOULES: That's right.

3 MR. ORSINGER: That's true.

4 MR. GOLD: So by its ambiguity
5 it leaves the discretion to sever, to dismiss 6 or what?

7 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, if you
8 analogize to your favorite area, discovery,
9 "strike" means it's gone, and the consequence 10 is it's no longer in the case.

11 MR. GOLD: I understand that,
12 but it's kind of interesting. When you look 13 at it, you ask yourself, well, what does 14 "strike" mean? And Judge Brister is saying 15 it's always been strike, but he's severed, so 16 it seems like if you've got the word "strike" 17 there and no one really knows what it means, 18 then the judge is within its -- it's in the 19 judge's discretion to dismiss it, to sever it, 20 or whatever. I don't know. I just throw that 21 out, because you were saying use the word 22 "dismiss," and maybe the option should be 23 strike, sever or dismiss, because strike and 24 dismiss may not mean the same thing.

25 MR. KELTNER: Why don't you

1 make a motion to smush?

2 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Does anybody
3 want to vote on this at all? I don't care.

4 HON. C. A. GUITTARD: We could 5 use the journalistic term "throw out."

6 MR. ORSINGER: Thrown out of 7 court.

8 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Let's vote
9 on your three options, what the heck. What 10 else could they be?

11 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. Strike
12 is one; sever/separate trial is two; or either 13 of those at the judge's discretion is three.

14 Those in favor of strike show by hands.
15 Any hands?

16 MR. ORSINGER: Not a single 17 person.

18 CHAIRMAN SOULES: No hands.

19 MR. ORSINGER: Wow.

20 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Those in 21 favor of sever/separate trial show by hands.
22 One, two.

23 MR. GOLD: Actually, three.

24 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Three. And 25 those that would leave it to either strike,

1 sever or separate trial up to the court. 14.

2 Okay. I know what I'll do if it happens
3 to me. I'll file a lawsuit too and move to 4 consolidate, and then at least that case would 5 be on file, and I will spend a heck of a lot
6 of money at the clerk, because I can't --

7 MR. GOLD: It seems if you
8 start running around with the clerk --

9 CHAIRMAN SOULES: I sure can't 10 afford to wait a year to find out if my 11 pleadings are going to get struck. But I can 12 figure a way to fix that. I don't know, I 13 hope everybody else can too. At least we're 14 sharing it among ourselves here today, and 15 notify your carriers. Bill.

16 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Now, on 17 this severance/separate trial idea, probably 18 we're the only ones in most modern procedural 19 systems that draw such a big distinction 20 between separate trials and severance. We 21 make a big deal out of it. It's not that big 22 of a deal normally. In this context I guess 23 if somebody intervenes in my case, my judgment
24 is not final if it's just tried separately
25 until all that comes to an end. And I don't

1           like this. I don't think there are any 2           benefits to the separate trial option that you
3           wouldn't also get from the severance option,
4           and I don't see the severance rule as being a 5           trial.

6                           CHAIRMAN SOULES: Leave that 7           out. Leave separate trials out. Any 8           objection to that? So it would be sever or 9           strike?

10                          MR. KELTNER: That's right, 11           yeah.

12                          CHAIRMAN SOULES: I've got 13           sever or dismiss. Does anybody -- you don't 14           like -- you would rather have strike than 15           dismiss?

16                          MR. GOLD: I kind of like the 17           term --

18                          MS. SWEENEY: Well, "dismiss" 19           means something.

20                          MR. GOLD: Well, I kind of like 21           the fact that "strike" doesn't mean anything.

22                          PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well,
23           "dismiss" is kind of ambiguous too. You have 24           to say dismiss somehow or else you're going to 25           worry about whether it can be with prejudice

1 not with prejudice.

2 CHAIRMAN SOULES: It cannot be 3 done with --

4 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Huh?

5 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Quote,
6 striking an intervention, can't be done with 7 prejudice.

8 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I think
9 that's right, and I think everybody knows 10 that. We're very comfortable with that.

11 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Because it's 12 not on the merits.

13 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: And there
14 are all kinds of -- in some systems there are 15 rules that if there are two dismissals you're 16 out. I mean, like if a Texas case is 17 dismissed and then there's another dismissal, 18 a voluntary dismissal of a federal case and 19 you try to refile that case, you may have a 20 problem.

21 CHAIRMAN SOULES: I think
22 that's a rule in federal court, isn't it?

23 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Most other 24 states have two-dismiss rules. They're not 25 like us.

1 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. Well,
2 we've got that resolved now. It will be --

3 MR. ORSINGER: In light of the 4 debate, this is again upon motion of any 5 party? In other words, I think that since we 6 voted before that we wanted the court to have 7 the initiative to do what it wanted on its 8 own, we have a limitation here. I think it's 9 already in the rule.

10 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: It's
11 already in the rule.

12 MR. ORSINGER: But I think 13 everyone should recognize that this language 14 suggests only upon motion of a party.

16 not a change.

17 MR. ORSINGER: That's not a 18 change, but that is a difference.

19 MR. KELTNER: And somebody
20 voluntarily coming can't ask you for relief, 21 such as, delay the trial, I just got joined.

22 HON. SCOTT A. BRISTER: Yeah.

23 MR. KELTNER: So I think that's 24 a good distinction.

25 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I want to

1 add to the last sentence "or the intervenor"
2 too, such that the whole thing reads, "A 3 person may intervene by filing a pleading 4 subject to being stricken or severed" -- that 5 may be a little inartful. "In exercising its 6 discretion to strike," or maybe "strike or 7 sever an intervention, the court must consider 8 whether the intervention will unduly
9 prejudice, delay or prejudice the adjudication 10 of the rights of the other parties or the 11 intervenor."

12 MR. ORSINGER: Why not just say 13 "the parties"?

14 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Because 15 I'm not sure that you're a party if you're 16 trying to become a party.

17 MR. ORSINGER: But under our 18 rule, you're a party and you can only be made 19 an unparty.

20 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I guess
21 that's right.

22 HON. SCOTT A. BRISTER: How 23 about "including the intervenor"?

25 Richard is technically right, that "parties"

1 without "other" would include the intervenor,
2 but maybe somebody would prefer to spell it 3 out absolutely clearly.

4 PROFESSOR CARLSON: I would.

5 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Okay.

7 that emphasizes the limitations problem.

8 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Yeah. And 9 I think Rusty is right. It's possible that 10 some court would say, "I don't care. Your 11 claim is no good." And it's possible that 12 some appellate court would think the same
13 thing, but probably under those circumstances 14 it wouldn't be worth pursuing anyway.

15 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. Bill,
16 what else on 38?

17 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Nothing.
18 Oh, 38, yes. We did one other thing. This 19 (a) and (b) were taken from the Federal Rule,
20 Intervention of Right and Permissive
21 Intervention. Our rule is just completely 22 silent on it, although our case law is 23 consistent with the division between somebody 24 who is needed for just adjudication in 25 Intervention of Right and then somebody who is

1 merely a proper party.

2 In (b)(2), though, in order to make it
3 like our current Texas law, which the idea is 4 that proper parties, that you need to be a 5 proper party in order to intervene, we added 6 some language. We added the "arises out of 7 the same transaction, occurrences, or series
8 of transactions or occurrences" language that 9 also appears in the permissive intervention
10 rule -- I mean, permissive joinder rule.

11 For permissive joinder there are three 12 requirements. Let me focus on plaintiffs.
13 The action has to be brought by the plaintiffs 14 jointly, severally, or in the alternative, and 15 that's not much of a requirement because 16 there's no other way to behave. Then the 17 claims have to arise out of the same 18 transaction, occurrence, or series of 19 transactions or occurrences, and there needs
20 to be a question of law or fact in common.

21 What we did by adding that language is to 22 basically codify in more clear terms that a 23 person has to be a proper party in order to 24 intervene permissively.

25 PROFESSOR CARLSON: Which is

1 the case law.

2 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Which is
3 the case law.

4 Under federal practice, they appear to 5 think that if we already have a case, anybody 6 who has a common question ought to be able to 7 intervene, because if we have a lawsuit, who 8 cares how many people we have. And I guess a 9 federal judge can handle it, (indicating), or 10 in the case of out west, a water pistol.

11 CHAIRMAN SOULES: So you're 12 asking for a debate on whether or not the --

13 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I'm really 14 just pointing out that the debate last time
15 was that -- we were sent back to the drawing 16 board last time to tighten up permissive 17 intervention, and it's tightened up by adding 18 this "same transaction, occurrence, or series 19 of transactions or occurrences" language that 20 is already part of current Texas law because 21 it's part of the definition of who is a proper 22 party.

23 And it's tightened up as well by the 24 sentence that we just changed about "unduly 25 delay or prejudice the adjudication of the 1 rights." So we did what we thought you 2 wanted, but you didn't see the language until 3 now.

4 MS. SWEENEY: Could you --

5 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Paula.

6 MS. SWEENEY: If we talked
7 about it while I was out of the room, don't 8 bother, but why are we saying "person" as 9 opposed to "party" or "entity"?

11 you're not a -- well...

12 MR. ORSINGER: If you say 13 "party," you're not a party until --

14 MS. SWEENEY: But a corporation
15 is not a person.

16 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: It is.

17 MR. ORSINGER: Yeah, it is.

18 MS. SWEENEY: Is there a 19 specific definition from which we are working 20 that provides for that?

21 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Probably 22 not.

23 MS. SWEENEY: I just wonder. I
24 mean, shouldn't -- is there not a reason to 25 use "entity" or some other term that doesn't

1 get you into that problem?

2 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: It would 3 be better to define "person," if we needed to 4 define "person" somewhere or other in these 5 rules.

6 MR. GOLD: Is a corporation a
7 person or an individual?

8 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: An 9 individual is a person, and a person is a 10 corporation.

11 MS. SWEENEY: But I guess since 12 that's so clear, we probably don't need to 13 spell it out.

14 MR. ORSINGER: Well, we don't 15 have a definitional rule in these rules, do 16 we?

17 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: No. Most 18 other codes -- and the Code Construction Act, 19 which I don't think applies to this but I may 20 be surprised to find that it does, does have 21 those definitions.

22 MR. ORSINGER: Maybe we could 23 write our own, or if we don't write our own, 24 Bryan Garner may write one for us.

25 HON. PAUL HEATH TILL: Wouldn't

1 a lot of our discussions be cleared up if we 2 wrote our own definitions particularly? We're 3 arguing about what "dismissal" means and what 4 "person" means and what all these other 5 things mean. Why not define it and then we'll 6 be clear on at least what we intended.

7 MR. ORSINGER: That's not a bad
8 idea.

9 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. You
10 all try to write a rule that defines -- in the 11 General Rules, I guess, write a definition of 12 whatever.

13 MR. ORSINGER: Okay.

14 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: The 15 problem is we end up having, as Judge Till 16 points out, a large glossary for these rules.
17 And if you look in a legal dictionary at the 18 term "person," it won't be individual; it will 19 be legal person as well as natural person.

20 CHAIRMAN SOULES: The Code of 21 Construction Act has a definition that's real 22 broad. It's everything for person.

23 So Bill, under (b) now you've got 24 permissive intervention requires that a 25 person's claim or defense arises out of the 1 same transaction or occurrence or series of 2 transactions or occurrences of the main action

3 and has a question of law or fact in common 4 with the main action.

5 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: As far as 6 the relationship of these rules to each other,
7 the intervention of right standard is the same 8 as the compulsory joinder standard; the 9 permissive intervention standard is the same
10 as the permissive joinder or proper party
11 standard. They match exactly. They fit 12 together, and that's of particular interest to 13 somebody trying to teach a beginner.

14 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, isn't 15 that a -- that seems a very tight limitation 16 on intervention.

17 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: It's 18 tighter than in most systems, but that's I 19 believe our current law right now. Don't you 20 think, Elaine?

21 PROFESSOR CARLSON: Yeah,
22 right.

23 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Any party may 24 intervene. Is there a standard for 25 intervention?

1 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: The case
2 law standard is you have to be a proper party.

3 MR. ORSINGER: No. That's for 4 staying in. There's no --

5 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: No, not 6 for getting in.

7 MR. ORSINGER: You can
8 intervene if you're from Alaska and do nothing 9 but fish.

10 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Right.

11 MR. ORSINGER: But the question 12 is whether you can stay in after there's been 13 a motion to strike you.

14 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Yeah. And 15 we're talking about permitted to intervene in 16 the sense of staying in.

17 MR. ORSINGER: Well, that's not 18 in the rule. It doesn't say that.

19 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Maybe we 20 shouldn't say "permitted."

21 MR. KELTNER: Yes. But that's 22 the standard for proper party.

23 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I guess,
24 no, we should say permitted, because it 25 doesn't -- yeah.

1 MR. ORSINGER: But I would say
2 since we're using the word "severance" here in 3 the rule now that the standards of severance 4 will apply if severance is what the court is 5 going to do. And separate trials, if the 6 court orders a separate trial, the standards
7 for separate trial are what's going to apply, 8 and if the court strikes, then once you figure 9 out what "strike" means, the standards that 10 apply to strike would apply to striking.

11 CHAIRMAN SOULES: I don't 12 understand. A person may be permitted to 13 intervene. That's (a) and (b). And (c), I 14 have an absolute right to just step in and 15 intervene.

16 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: No. (c)
17 is just procedure.

18 CHAIRMAN SOULES: But I don't 19 have to have permission. And I think the 20 implication of 38(a) and (b) is you've got to 21 have permission.

22 MR. BABCOCK: That's the 23 difference between the state and federal 24 practice. In federal practice you've got to 25 get permission to get in; in state you don't.

1 MR. ORSINGER: Really we should 2 say that an intervenor may be permitted to 3 remain in the suit if. That's really what 4 we're saying, even though that's not what the 5 rules say.

6 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: That's
7 correct.

8 PROFESSOR CARLSON: That's what 9 we meant.

10 CHAIRMAN SOULES: That's good.

11 MR. ORSINGER: And we debated
12 last time whether you ought to file a motion 13 first, and the vote was you can intervene 14 first and ask questions later.

15 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Right.

16 MR. ORSINGER: So do you want
17 us to revise that where an intervenor may 18 remain a party to an action, number one, 19 when?

20 CHAIRMAN SOULES: I think it
21 has to be, because otherwise you've got an 22 ambiguity here with (a) and (b) suggesting 23 that an intervenor has to have permission and 24 (c) indicating otherwise.

25 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, we

1 can rework that, you know. A person -- by 2 referencing (a) and (b) in some manner.

3 MR. KELTNER: Right, or by just 4 saying any intervening party shall be 5 permitted to remain.

6 MR. BABCOCK: Well, which way
7 are we going?

8 MR. ORSINGER: We're -- if -- 9 you have a matter of right that you can 10 intervene subject to being -- but I think the 11 standards are different now. We now have 12 three standards in this rule, not just one.
13 We used to have a standard for striking an 14 intervention, and now we're ordering severance
15 and separate trials --

16 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Not separate 17 trials, just severance.

18 MR. BABCOCK: Just severance.
19 We struck separate trials.

20 MR. ORSINGER: Pardon me.
21 Okay, okay. So then we have I think a 22 separate standard now if the remedy is 23 severance rather than a strike, don't we?

24 CHAIRMAN SOULES: It's either
25 or.

1 MR. ORSINGER: But the
2 standards are different, aren't they?

3 CHAIRMAN SOULES: The standards
4 are different between striking and severance,
5 right.

6 MR. ORSINGER: I think they 7 are.

8 CHAIRMAN SOULES: There are 9 standards for severance and no standards for 10 striking.

11 MR. BABCOCK: Luke, under the 12 rules, we've written it if a party moves to 13 strike but not to sever. Does the judge have 14 authority under this rule to sever?

15 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Yes, I think.
16 I haven't read severance. But the current 17 rule has always been a judge had the right
18 sua sponte to sever whenever, and I guess 19 we -- has that been maintained?

20 MR. BABCOCK: Well, it's just 21 that this procedure in (c) talks about it has 22 to be by filing of a pleading by a party; that 23 is, if a party chooses to move to strike, as 24 opposed to moving to sever.

25 MR. ORSINGER: Does that limit

1 the court's choices?

2 MR. BABCOCK: Does that limit
3 the court?

4 MR. ORSINGER: In answer to 5 your previous question, our rule on severance
6 doesn't say that it's only upon motion, so 7 presumably it's not.

8 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: It's not by 9 case law.

10 MR. ORSINGER: It is?

11 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: It is not 12 by case law.

13 MR. ORSINGER: It is not by 14 case law.

15 CHAIRMAN SOULES: It is not 16 now. Let's see, severance is, what, 41?

17 MR. GOLD: I think, Chip, yours 18 would be that you have to file a motion to 19 sever.

20 MR. BABCOCK: Which it probably 21 shows -- in your response you would say don't 22 strike me, but in the alternative, sever me.

23 MR. GOLD: I don't even know if 24 you need to do that. If severance requires a 25 motion, then I can see where your dilemma

1 would come up. But if the judge has 2 discretion to sever without motion, 3 sua sponte, then the court would have the 4 problem.

5 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, but I
6 mean, we've changed that.

7 MR. BABCOCK: We've written it
8 differently, is the problem.

9 CHAIRMAN SOULES: The current 10 rule says any claim against a party may be 11 severed and proceeded with separate. It 12 doesn't say on a motion, and that's been 13 construed to include the judge --

14 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: It's 15 my understanding that a trial judge can 16 sua sponte sever. Is that right, Scott?

17 MR. GOLD: So if someone moves 18 to strike, the judge would always have the 19 discretion to sever whether severance was 20 requested or not.

21 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: Maybe.

22 CHAIRMAN SOULES: How do you
23 get there?

24 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: He's making 25 his legislative history, that's how he gets

1 there.

2 CHAIRMAN SOULES: No, this is 3 old Rule 41, Any claim against a party may be 4 severed and proceeded with separately. It
5 doesn't mean -- you're right, the judge can do
6 anything, can sever or whatever the judge
7 wishes. Maybe these other -- it's got to be a 8 cause of action. But now we're revising the 9 rule that says anytime to say when a party 10 moves.

11 MR. GOLD: Oh, okay. Then 12 yeah, I do see your problem.

13 MR. ORSINGER: Furthermore, by 14 putting severance in this rule, we are adding 15 a ground for severance that's not in the 16 severance rule, and that is the undue delay 17 ground, because that's -- we specify the three 18 bases for severance in our severance rule on 19 Page 6, which is new Rule 34(c). But when the 20 severance relates to an intervention, the 21 court can consider in its discretion undue 22 delay or prejudice, which is not one of the 23 three grounds specified for a severance of a 24 cause that's been plead by a party that did 25 not intervene, so actually we give the court

1 an additional basis to rest the discretion for 2 severance when it's an intervention.

3 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, I
4 don't think the severance rule is a problem,
5 because even if it means exactly what it means 6 in proposed 34(c), 34(c) will be satisfied in 7 circumstances when the intervention is 8 disallowed.

9 MR. ORSINGER: Not if it's 10 disallowed on the grounds of delay.

11 CHAIRMAN SOULES: One answer to 12 that is just to put in the severance rule that 13 the court may order a severance of an 14 intervenor.

15 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Or we can 16 just call it a different thing, you know.
17 Instead of using the word "severance," use a 18 different word and it's docketed as a separate 19 action.

20 MR. GOLD: Let's use the word
21 "strike" and define "strike" to mean sever or 22 dismiss, and then you don't have any of these 23 problems.

24 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, it's 25 always a bad idea to define a word to mean

1 something that it doesn't mean in English,
2 like "court records." You're into tremendous 3 difficulties forever.

4 MR. BABCOCK: Now, now.

5 MR. GOLD: Let's call it
6 "quash." No one understands quash either.

7 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Let's get 8 focused here. Richard.

9 MR. ORSINGER: Do we want the 10 court to have greater latitude to sever an 11 intervention than it does to sever a cause 12 plead by an already joined party?

13 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Yes, I think
14 so, for the reasons that Judge Brister
15 articulated.

16 MR. ORSINGER: Then let's take 17 the word "sever" out of the rule and use 18 something like "redocketed as a separate 19 cause" or some other language that doesn't 20 carry the definition of severance with it.

21 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I agree
22 with that. You're convincing me that the word 23 "severance" may at least in some minds convey 24 a lot of extra inappropriate information in 25 this context. "Docketed as a separate action"

1 or some such language, we'll write it. We 2 understand what you're saying.

3 MR. BABCOCK: Wouldn't an 4 intervenor's claim, Luke, always be one that 5 would be the proper subject of a lawsuit if 6 independently asserted?

7 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Yes.

8 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: No, no.
9 What if he's got a derivative claim that 10 doesn't exist but for the claim into which the 11 intervention is being made?

12 MR. BABCOCK: Well...

13 MR. KELTNER: Let's think about 14 this.

15 CHAIRMAN SOULES: That's really
16 (a)(2).

17 MR. KELTNER: Yeah. And I 18 think that --

19 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Maybe
20 (a) --

21 MR. BABCOCK: Yeah, that would 22 be (a)(2).

23 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: And I
24 think the requirements are going to be 25 satisfied, you know; it involves another

1 claim; severed claim would be the proper 2 subject of a lawsuit if independently
3 asserted.

4 CHAIRMAN SOULES: But "not so 5 interwoven" is a problem.

6 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, if 7 it is so interwoven, the --

8 MS. SWEENEY: Not inextricably
9 intertwined.

10 MR. ORSINGER: See, the 11 perception is that you have greater latitude 12 to strike an intervention now than you would 13 if a party who was already there amended their 14 pleadings. And I think there's a consensus 15 here that we don't want to constrain the 16 court's power to sever just because we put the 17 word "severance" in a rule that never 18 contained it before.

19 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Which what 20 you think will happen is it will be stricken 21 rather than severed because it doesn't satisfy 22 the severance rule.

23 MR. ORSINGER: Or somebody may 24 get reversed because they severed a claim that 25 was inextricably intertwined.

1 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: We can't 2 use the word "severance."

3 MR. KELTNER: That's a good
4 point.

5 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I think
6 only a mad person would strike it when it's so 7 interwoven because it couldn't be severed. I 8 think you would have to be mad to think like
9 that.

10 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: No, there 11 are other words besides "mad" that one could 12 use.

13 CHAIRMAN SOULES: All right.

14 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: But we 15 could use just "docketed as a separate 16 action."

17 MR. ORSINGER: Only a mad
18 person or a court of appeals judge would.

19 MR. BABCOCK: Now, now.

20 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Now,
21 Mr. Chairman, with the common consent of the 22 committee, I'd like to change the severance 23 thing to make it perfectly clear that the 24 court can do it on the court's initiative.
25 The court may order upon the motion of any

1 party or on the court's initiative a 2 severance.

3 CHAIRMAN SOULES: That's --

4 MR. ORSINGER: -- 34(c).

5 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: That was 6 an inadvertent change, not really a change,
7 but an inadvertent ambiguity.

8 MR. KELTNER: Are we going to 9 use "docketed as a separate cause"?

10 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Yes.

11 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, do you
12 need -- well, okay. I have no problem with 13 that. But it doesn't say that severance can 14 only be -- can only occur on a motion.
15 However, under 38, if severance was used 16 there, it would have been on a motion. 34 is 17 okay, it seems to me. It doesn't say one way 18 or the other.

19 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: But it
20 does in -- in an earlier place there is a 21 slight suggestion that it might mean something 22 else, because in the misjoinder of parties 23 section it says any claim against a party who 24 has been improperly joined may be severed and 25 proceeded with separately. There's a --

1 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well,
2 whatever you all think. If you think it's for 3 clarity --

4 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Yeah, I
5 think it's better.

6 CHAIRMAN SOULES: -- that 7 you -- well, you need to say that the judge
8 can do it, but -- okay. That's draftsmanship.

9 MR. HAMILTON: Luke, I have a 10 question about (a) and (c).

11 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Which one?

12 MR. HAMILTON: (a) and (c).
13 (a) says intervention of right. Then it says 14 a person shall be permitted. And then the 15 procedure of (c), does that only apply to the 16 (b) part? If you have the right to intervene, 17 then how can the judge throw you out?

18 MR. ORSINGER: The answer is 19 that we debated that and intended for 20 Procedure, (c), to apply, so that even someone 21 who had intervention as a matter of right 22 could be stricken or redocketed as a separate 23 cause because of delay. Now, that's a very 24 debatable proposition, because we debated it.

25 MR. BABCOCK: Ergo.

1 MR. ORSINGER: I meant to say
2 "and we debated it."

3 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: You know,
4 at some point you're going to get a case where 5 somebody has strong rights that should have 6 been brought up earlier in the case, and the 7 judge is going to have to decide whether to 8 delay it because of the nature of the rights, 9 even though that's annoying.

10 MR. GALLAGHER: Did anybody
11 look at the standards that were established in 12 Chapter, I think it's 15, 16, of the Civil 13 Practice and Remedies Code by the last session 14 of the Legislature as to the standards for 15 intervening plaintiffs when they were 16 residents of different counties but had a case 17 that involved common questions of law and 18 fact? Because there are very definite 19 standards incorporated within the venue
20 section of the Civil Practice and Remedies
21 Code where you have one act that creates 22 causes of action amongst plaintiffs who live
23 in various counties. And there was a major 24 legislative battle over that, and that was 25 incorporated, Luke, into our Civil Practice

1 and Remedies Code, and it's in the new 2 version. I don't have mine with me, nor does 3 anyone else.

4 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: No, it's 5 here.

6 PROFESSOR CARLSON: Here it
7 is. It's 15.003.

8 HON. C. A. GUITTARD: I'd like
9 to ask why that word "permitted" is used. Why 10 not just start these paragraphs (a) and (b) by 11 saying a person may intervene, any person may 12 intervene in an action, (1) and (2) and so 13 forth?

14 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Yeah, I
15 think that may be right, Clarence. The reason 16 it's in there is because those paragraphs were 17 taken from the federal rule and the federal 18 rule has that language in it.

19 HON. C. A. GUITTARD: Oh, my 20 goodness, then I shouldn't have said it.

21 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: And in 22 thinking about it independently, you know, 23 you're ultimately permitted to intervene when 24 you're not stricken. Maybe we ought to say
25 "intervene".

1 MR. GALLAGHER: I don't think
2 we're running into any trouble here.

3 MR. GOLD: I think Judge
4 Guittard's proposal makes sense.

5 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I'll take 6 "be permitted to" out.

7 MR. ORSINGER: Well, you can't 8 do that with (a). You can't say "a person 9 shall intervene."

11 take that to mean --

12 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, you and 13 Richard are going to rewrite that, because 14 Richard has got a concept that says a person 15 may stay in the case and so forth.

16 MR. ORSINGER: Mike has 17 something to report on the Civil Practice and 18 Remedies Code.

19 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. Mike, 20 have you got something for us?

21 MR. GALLAGHER: I don't see -- 22 the part I recall now is where it's 23 maintaining venue. If you're an intervening 24 party, you have to establish that it won't 25 unfairly prejudice another party to the suit.

1 I think just perhaps you need to look at that 2 language when you're refining this.

3 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: I guess I'm 4 a little confused.

5 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Justice
6 Duncan.

7 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: If 8 intervention of right is subject to the same 9 procedure in subsection (c) as permissive 10 intervention, why are some interventions of 11 right and some permissive, and what is that 12 intended to convey?

13 MR. BABCOCK: Because you may 14 have guessed wrong when you intervened and 15 said you had a right to do it and the opposing 16 party is entitled to say, "You don't have a 17 right to intervene. You don't meet the 18 standards of (a). I want you out of here."

19 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: But either 20 way it's a permissive intervention and it's 21 subject to the same procedure and apparently 22 the same test. They're both permissive 23 interventions, and I don't understand the 24 gradation between (a) and (b). I understand 25 that (a) looks like the intervenor may have

1 greater rights than the intervenor in (b), but 2 since they are subject to the same procedure
3 and the same test, I'm not understanding what 4 those greater rights really are.

5 MR. GALLAGHER: In (a) aren't 6 we saying --

7 MR. GOLD: Perhaps we're messed
8 up by adopting the federal rule, which 9 requires court permission and it just has no
10 meaning in a Texas context, and what we really 11 just have is one intervention, at least from 12 what Sarah says.

13 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: No, I
14 don't think so, because the dichotomy between, 15 you know, what used to be referred to as 16 proper and necessary parties, some of whom 17 would be classified as not just conditionally 18 necessary but indispensable, is in the federal 19 formulation in our rules right now and has 20 been ever since we adopted Federal Rule 19 as 21 our Federal Rule 39.

22 It's also in the case law, where we talk 23 about people who have -- who it would 24 ordinarily be an abuse of discretion to strike 25 because their rights are such that they would

1 be prejudiced, not as a legal res judicata
2 matter necessarily, but as practical matter, 3 if the matter would proceed without their 4 joinder.

5 So those categories of people who exist
6 in the legal universe that are in the Federal 7 Rules and that are reflected here in 8 paragraphs (a) and (b) are in our 9 jurisprudence already.

10 Now, we don't ever talk about, except in 11 case law, these things when we're talking 12 about intervention, and we could talk about 13 less of it than this rule talks about, but it 14 would still be the kinds of situations that 15 you would deal with.

16 MR. GOLD: But isn't the 17 issue -- if I may, isn't the issue not whether 18 someone is permitted to make the intervention, 19 the issue is whether they stay in the case?
20 And if that -- if I'm right in that regard,
21 then you don't need this dichotomy. All you 22 need is a structure for what the court is to 23 consider in allowing the implanted party,
24 person or whatever to remain, so you don't 25 need this right, permissive, because that's a

1 federal concept based upon whether the court 2 allows you or whether the court has to allow 3 you or whatever. All we're talking about is 4 anybody can implant themselves; the question
5 is whether the court allows them to remain.

6 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well,
7 maybe the heading "Intervention of Right" and 8 the heading "Permissive Intervention," maybe 9 those headings are not good. Maybe it should 10 say something like persons needed for just 11 adjudication and proper -- and you know,
12 proper parties. I mean, maybe we could even 13 use some kind of older language.

14 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Bill, let me
15 ask you this: Why don't we -- I mean, we've 16 got this Rule 33, Joinder of Persons Needed
17 Just Adjudication, and it's complicated
18 because it's a complicated problem. It's not 19 so complicated if feasible, but it becomes 20 somewhat complicated if not feasible, because 21 you're really subjecting parties to the 22 prejudice of somebody else who should be a 23 party and you don't know when that person is 24 going to show up, so we -- and this is not 25 bad. Rule 33 is probably about as -- it

1 treats that problem about as well as it can be 2 treated and still get a case tried. Do we 3 need much more than this to --

4 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: You wrote
5 an article about that one time.

6 CHAIRMAN SOULES: What's that?

7 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: You wrote
8 an article about that one time.

9 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, I don't
10 remember that. That's too far back.

11 All right. Can't we say in 38(a),
12 Intervention of Right, that that is governed 13 by Rule 33? This is real shorthand.

14 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, I
15 think it says it already. I think the 16 language borrowed from 33 is the exact 17 language.

18 CHAIRMAN SOULES: But you don't 19 have if -- well, of course, "if not feasible" 20 doesn't count because they're there.

21 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Right.

22 CHAIRMAN SOULES: So you don't 23 have to worry about (b).

24 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: But 25 claiming an interest relating to the property

1 or transaction and being so situated that your 2 interest would be impaired, you know, is the 3 part that's most relevant from the standpoint
4 of somebody who wants to join in the action.

5 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. I had 6 this wound up in my mind and lost it for a 7 minute. If they meet 33(a), you can only 8 throw them out if the rest of the case meets
9 33(b).

10 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: Right.

11 CHAIRMAN SOULES: That's what 12 I'm thinking. If they're 33(a) and they're 13 there, they're in.

14 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, we 15 debated about whether this sentence at the end
16 of "Procedure" ought to be at the end of (b).

17 HON. C. A. GUITTARD: Right.

18 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I mean, 19 that was the big debate we had.

20 CHAIRMAN SOULES: On 33(b)?

21 MR. ORSINGER: Yes.

22 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: No, 38(b).

23 CHAIRMAN SOULES: You're not 24 following. You're not following me.

25 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Okay.

1                   CHAIRMAN SOULES: I'm saying --
2                   okay. Rule 38, Intervention. Rule 38, 3                   Intervention, Intervention of Right. The 4                   structure of intervention of right is if 5                   you're a 33(a) you have the right. And you
6                   can't be, whatever, gone, unless you're a 7                   33(b), unless the case is a 33(b) case.

8                   PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Yes.

9                   CHAIRMAN SOULES: So they have 10                  to leave you in.

11                  HON. C. A. GUITTARD: I have a 12                  suggestion.

13                  CHAIRMAN SOULES: That's what 14                  I'm talking about.

15                  PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, that 16                  doesn't relate to where -- I think that does 17                  relate to the issue of whether the last 18                  sentence in 38(c) covers (a) and (b) cases or 19                  only (b) cases. And we kind of in the 20                  committee decided that, you know, maybe it's 21                  splitting the vote. We kind of decided, well, 22                  if it's intervention, most people that 23                  intervene are bollixing up the works, frankly, 24                  or a lot of them are, if not most, the second 25                  category perhaps that David Keltner was

1 talking about; and that there ought to be the 2 ability of the judge to consider -- especially 3 now that we have this "docketed as a separate 4 action," you know -- to consider keeping them 5 out of this other lawsuit that they weren't 6 invited to join; they just kind of jumped in.

7 CHAIRMAN SOULES: But they're 8 needed for just adjudication.

9 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, but 10 they may be needed for, absolutely needed for 11 just adjudication in the sense that they 12 should be regarded as indispensable, or they 13 may be needed for just adjudication less than 14 that, and maybe you can fool with it. And 15 really this massaging it and the complexity
16 issue and the relationship of the intervention 17 rule to the other rules is the reason for 18 having intervention of right and permissive, 19 so that you can get your bearings. I mean,
20 everybody should know that this person up here 21 in 38(a) is a person needed for just 22 adjudication under that other rule and we're 23 going to think about this person that way, and 24 this person in paragraph (b) is merely a 25 proper party.

1 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Then why
2 don't you say it?

3 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: To me it
4 says it. To me, you know, being a procedure 5 teacher and being familiar with the federal 6 system and going through it over and over 7 again, we teach everybody that that's what it 8 means. Okay? I mean, we teach that already.
9 And it doesn't say it clearly, I agree.

10 And I do think that the titles are not 11 very good, based on what Paul Gold said. We 12 could just do a cross-reference.

13 CHAIRMAN SOULES: In essence --

14 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: It might 15 be better to do a cross-reference. Okay.
16 I'll be happy to draft it again.

17 CHAIRMAN SOULES: And you can't 18 get thrown out unless you're -- unless the 19 court can go forward under the same standards 20 as 33(b) and just about everything we've 21 talked about as being a problem, if you look 22 here at "factors to be considered by the court 23 include: first, to what extent a judgment 24 rendered in the person's absence might be 25 prejudicial to him" -- it? I don't know --

1 "or those already parties."

2 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: It is true
3 that this cross-reference is very abbreviated 4 and not all of the compulsory joinder rule is 5 expressly articulated here, and perhaps it 6 should be. I thought about that after our 7 last meeting. But you know, if the committee
8 wants us to draft it over again, we'll draft 9 it over again.

10 CHAIRMAN SOULES: All right.
11 As I understood the subcommittee report, it 12 was that this matter of right was to take care 13 of the persons needed for just adjudication 14 category of intervenors. Then they ought to 15 be -- the persons needed for just adjudication
16 ought to be the same whether they're missing 17 parties, intervenors or whatever.

18 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Maybe it
19 would be just as simple to say that -- just 20 take out (a) and (b) altogether and just say 21 one little simple thing that cross-references 22 32 and 33: A person who is needed for just 23 adjudication in accordance with Rule 32 or -- 24 I'm going to use the term "proper party" even 25 though that's not the title of the rule -- or

1 a proper party satisfying the requirements of 2 Rule 33 may intervene by filing a pleading
3 subject to being stricken or severed.

4 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: But that 5 doesn't import the test from 33(b) into 38(a), 6 and I thought what we were talking about is 7 that the test from 33(b) ought to apply to 8 those who intervene as of right, whereas the 9 "unduly prejudice or delay" ought to apply to 10 the people who intervene permissively.

11 MR. ORSINGER: We can change
12 that.

13 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: We could 14 do it like that too.

15 CHAIRMAN SOULES: And you've 16 got a strike test in 32 and 33. In 32 it's 17 "if joinder will unduly delay or prejudice
18 the adjudication of the rights of another 19 party." I don't know. I mean --

20 HON. C. A. GUITTARD: Mr.
21 Chairman.

22 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Yes, sir,
23 Judge Guittard. And then I'll get to Chip
24 Babcock. I'm sorry to have taken up so much 25 time. Go ahead.

1                   HON. C. A. GUITTARD: I have a
2 suggestion. If our philosophy is, as contrary 3 to the federal rule, that a person should just 4 have the right to intervene without any 5 adjudication as to whether or not he should 6 stay there or not, then we ought to sort of 7 turn this thing around and say -- use -- the 8 current (a) should be taken from (c), a person 9 may intervene and so forth; and then (b) says 10 an intervenor may be permitted to continue or 11 shall be permitted to continue in the 12 litigation if it meets the requirements of the 13 required joinder clause. And then the next 14 one, the person may be permitted to continue 15 in the lawsuit if the requirement for a 16 permissive joinder applies, that would seem to 17 me to be much clearer than going through on 18 this.

19                   CHAIRMAN SOULES: Chip Babcock.

20                   PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Here is 21 what I'm going to do, with the committee's 22 permission: I'm going to rewrite this and I'm 23 going to refer to 32 and 33.

24                   When it's a 32, a permissive intervention 25 case, I'm going to pick up the idea that is

1 also in 32 based on our last vote about unduly 2 delaying or prejudicing the adjudication of 3 the rights of other parties.

4 When it's a 33 case, a person needed for 5 just adjudication, I'm going to go to 33(b) 6 and use that more complicated razzmatazz in 7 the intervention rule as well.

8 I'm confident about the first two steps 9 in that process being easy to do and that 10 being a relatively straightforward
11 undertaking. I may run into trouble with 12 33(b) and intervention, but we have enough 13 guidance now and I think it's been very 14 beneficial to get all of these views. Again, 15 it takes a lot longer than you think, but you 16 end up in a better place.

17 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Since we're 18 going back on the language, which I agree, and 19 picking up "docketed as a separate cause," if 20 there was some way to put a filing fee on that 21 docketing, and if not paid, dismissed, you 22 would still need to --

23 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: There is a
24 way. There is a way, but just go read Rule 89 25 on venue transfers which goes into all of that

1 in great detail about, you know, making files,
2 paying fees, dismissing if you don't pay fees,
3 you know. When you read it, it seems like a 4 good idea, but after you get through it 5 there's a sense of dissatisfaction in it being 6 part of the rulebook.

7 CHAIRMAN SOULES: All right.
8 Well, the only idea I was -- this probably 9 doesn't meet Judge Brister's concern about 10 striking, but couldn't we just have docketed 11 as a separate cause similar to a venue
12 transfer?

13 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I'll do
14 that. I could do that, if you like.

15 CHAIRMAN SOULES: And you pay
16 the filing fees and cover the clerks and all 17 that sort of thing.

18 Judge Cornelius.

19 JUSTICE CORNELIUS: I'd like to 20 ask the question, do you intend to give the 21 judge the power to strike or sever an 22 intervention that is an intervention of 23 right?

24 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Only if the 25 test of 33(b) is met.

1 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Sometimes.

2 JUSTICE CORNELIUS: What is 3 that? Is that undue delay?

4 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: No, it's 5 "whether in equity and good conscience."

6 CHAIRMAN SOULES: It's on 7 Page 4. And it will have to be massaged some, 8 because this is how you go on without that 9 person who is needed for just adjudication.

10 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: You take a
11 closer look at their interest and see if you 12 can go on without really either wasting your 13 time or hurting somebody badly.

14 CHAIRMAN SOULES: You start 15 right here about in the middle of the 16 paragraph. Do you see "The factors to be 17 considered" on Page 4, the bottom of Page 4?
18 That would be the test.

19 JUSTICE CORNELIUS: But it
20 seems to me that if you're doing that then you 21 really should not have an intervention of 22 right.

23 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: We won't.

24 MR. BABCOCK: Unless the 25 statute gives it to you.

1 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Yes.

2 JUSTICE CORNELIUS: If you're 3 going to keep the distinction between
4 intervention of right and permissive
5 intervention, then I think (a) ought to say 6 that the court shall permit a party to 7 intervene when thus and so occurs. (b) ought 8 to say the court may permit a person to 9 intervene when certain things occur. And then 10 (c) ought to apply only to (b) and not to (a).

11 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: That's the 12 direction we're moving in, Judge. We're 13 moving in that direction, but we'll have to 14 bring this language back one more time to see 15 if it passes muster, maybe one more time.

16 JUSTICE CORNELIUS: You can 17 tighten it up a little bit if you say the 18 court shall permit the party to intervene 19 or -- and the court may permit. That gets 20 your as a matter of right and your permissive 21 interventions distinguished.

22 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: Except that 23 based on our meeting last week, Chief Justice 24 Cornelius, we can't use "shall" anymore. And 25 I'm saying this with a laugh.

1 JUSTICE CORNELIUS: Okay.

2 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: We can't 3 use "shall." We have to use "will" now.

4 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: No,
5 "must."

6 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: Must. I'm 7 sorry, must.

8 CHIEF JUSTICE CORNELIUS: All
9 right. Must permit.

10 MR. BABCOCK: We can't 11 eliminate the procedure whereby a party
12 contesting an intervention, whether it 13 purports to be as a matter of right or 14 permissive, moves to strike or to sever or 15 whatever we're going to call it, that 16 intervention, you can't eliminate (c) from 17 (a). There still has to be a mechanism 18 whereby I say, "No, that statute doesn't give 19 you the unconditional right to intervene," or 20 under (a)(2), "The parties that are already in 21 the case adequately protect your interests.
22 We don't need you. Get out of here." There 23 still has to be that right for me to contest
24 that.

25 JUSTICE CORNELIUS: Maybe so.

1 But that makes it no longer an intervention of 2 right.

3 MR. BABCOCK: Well, that's 4 right. There are two -- well, not necessarily 5 so. There are two components to it. One is I 6 say, "You have misinterpreted the fact that 7 you have a 38(a) intervention. You're wrong
8 about that, and I need to go to the court and 9 convince the court you're wrong about that."

10 Or secondly, as you'll see in 38(a)(2), 11 it is not an all-or-nothing thing, because it 12 says unless the person's interest is 13 adequately protected by existing parties, so 14 that's something you can fight about. And 15 there are many, many federal cases where that 16 is fought about. And there are many, many 17 federal cases where the party who has sought 18 to intervene as a matter of right and is 19 intimately bound up with the facts of the case 20 is kicked out of the case or not let in the 21 case.

22 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: It's a
23 drafting problem.

24 MR. BABCOCK: Yeah.

25 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. Well,

1 we've got a lot of ideas for you. I guess one
2 that I did not hear you carry forward, I'm 3 sure it's in your notes, is in deciding 4 whether to strike or redocket, we have to 5 consider the "prejudice the adjudication of 6 the rights of the other parties."

7 MR. ORSINGER: We added, Luke,
8 at the end of 38(c), actually we took out the 9 word "other," so it's "unduly delay or 10 prejudice the adjudication of the rights of 11 the parties," the conception being that the 12 right of the intervenor to bring the claim 13 without having it lost to the limitations, by 14 striking the word "other," I think Bill
15 thought the prejudice to the intervenor is a 16 factor to consider now. Is that specific 17 enough, or do you --

18 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Sure. I
19 just -- when Bill was --

20 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Yeah. I
21 was going to be more explicit than just 22 referencing -- than saying go read 32 and 33, 23 which economically you could write it just 24 like that. You could just say, "Go read these 25 other rules. They're the ones that you'll be

1 using in deciding about this intervention."

2 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: I don't 3 know if that's such a --

4 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Judge
5 Cornelius, in thinking about what you were 6 saying, of course, there's a range of these 7 parties needed for just adjudication that go 8 from the old concept of indispensable to,
9 what, necessary, I guess, are the old terms.
10 And it may be that to add 33 picks up all of 11 those, not just those that are so-called 12 indispensable.

13 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: This is 14 really a very interesting history lesson,
15 because now I understand why our Texas rule 16 was a one-sentence rule, because everybody is 17 meant to know that all of this other 18 information is pertinent to intervention. But 19 if you don't say so --

20 CHAIRMAN SOULES: And it may be
21 that --

22 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: It's also 23 an interesting drafting lesson.

24 CHAIRMAN SOULES: -- there are 25 some circumstances where a not indispensable

1           intervenor, just in the course of managing the 2           court's docket trying to get other parties to 3           trial, can be part, even considering all of 4           the factors of 33(b). Now, you're right that 5           that doesn't make intervention as a matter of 6           right literally a right.

7                           JUSTICE CORNELIUS: Well, if 8           you wanted to keep it literally a right, 9           except when a person misconstrues his right, 10          then it seems to me that the exception ought 11          to be placed in (a) rather than in (c). It's 12          true that sometimes they will think maybe they 13          have the right to intervene when they don't, 14          and the court will have to determine that.
15          But by putting the exception down in (c), it 16          seems to me to render intervention as a matter 17          of right a nullity. It changes it to 18          permissive intervention.

19                          MR. BABCOCK: And I wonder if 20          somebody that has got an unconditional right 21          to intervene by statute, whether a judge has 22          the discretion to boot you out of the case.
23          That doesn't seem to follow.

24                          CHAIRMAN SOULES: No. He may 25          have the power to sever, but he's got to meet

1 the severance standard.

2 JUSTICE CORNELIUS: Or a party
3 may claim that he has a right under a statute 4 but he in fact doesn't.

6 Duncan.

7 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: Are there
8 any cases involving children where there's not 9 an absolute right to intervene?

10 MR. ORSINGER: I think you have 11 the duty to join everybody that probably has a 12 right to intervene.

13 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: I think if 14 the biological father comes in, there might be 15 a mandatory intervention in an adoption 16 proceeding.

17 MR. ORSINGER: But you know,
18 I'm not necessarily troubled by the concept 19 that (c) is a restriction, because in 20 exercising discretion to strike an 21 intervention, if the court has no discretion 22 to strike somebody with an unconditional 23 right, then the sentence doesn't apply to 24 them. It's only in those areas where the 25 court has discretion that the description of 1 what the court can consider in its discretion

2 even has an impact.

3 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: But again,
4 we're going to have such a different draft the 5 next time that it doesn't profit to talk about 6 it anymore.

7 MR. ORSINGER: Well, it does 8 suggest that. But the standard is -- the 9 standard might be different between someone 10 that's intervening under 33 and someone that's 11 intervening under 34. But certainly the 12 standard is different for an unconditional
13 statutory right. They have no discretion 14 probably if it's an unconditional statutory 15 right. They might have more discretion of a 16 33 who they say is adequately protected by 17 someone that is a party to the suit, and then 18 they probably have very broad discretion under 19 38(b).

20 CHAIRMAN SOULES: The problem
21 with all of that, though, is that in a 22 partitioned case, not joined, he joins up, 23 intervenes, he can't be stricken. There's 24 nothing they can do about that. They've got 25 to have -- they can't make him go away. He

1 has a right to be in that lawsuit.

2 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I know.

3 MR. ORSINGER: But we don't 4 even mention the existence of that category of 5 people who have that right.

6 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Why don't 7 we schedule the Cesarean section on this for 8 the next meeting.

9 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. Let's
10 take a break for about 10 minutes.

11 (At this time there was a 12 recess.).

13 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay.
14 Rule 39.

15 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: The first 16 thing, and this is in part for the 17 subcommittee and for David Keltner to hear 18 too, on 39, at our meeting we noticed that 19 substitution of parties based on our Texas
20 rules dealt only with the subject of death.
21 Since then I've redrafted it such that it
22 covers death; and then in paragraph (b), 23 "Public Officers: Death or Separation From 24 Office," which is covered in the federal rule; 25 and (c), Substitution for Other Reasons.

1           Today we're only really prepared to 2 present to you (a) in the sense of, you know, 3 to look at it and give us your advice. It's 4 been submitted to a very fine retired probate
5 judge who is now with Haynes & Boone to look 6 it over for us.

7           I changed the citation thing, David, if 8 you want to --

9                         MR. KELTNER: Yeah. Yeah. I 10 like that.

11                        PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Okay. And 12 I think that's right, but we would be better 13 saving that until we get a read on it from 14 somebody who really knows.

15                        MR. ORSINGER: We took out
16 "scire facias."

17                        PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Yeah, and 18 made it "citation."

19                        MR. ORSINGER: We're using 20 "citation" in lieu of it, but that means 21 you're serving a citation on the executor of a 22 plaintiff sometimes.

23                        PROFESSOR DORSANEO: So I said 24 in this draft, "a citation requiring the 25 personal representative of the decedent's

1 estate or the heirs to appear and prosecute
2 the action must provide notice that the action
3 may be dismissed for want of prosecution if a 4 timely response is not made." So the citation 5 will say something other than you'll be 6 subject to default.

7 MR. KELTNER: And we took out
8 "suggestion of death," our theory being that 9 death is one of those things in the main that 10 is pretty black and white and one need not 11 suggest it; one may give notice of it.

12 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: So with 13 your permission, Mr. Chairman, we'll save that 14 death thing, which I think is probably fine, 15 until we get validation on that or some 16 further suggestions.

17 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Good enough.

18 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Suit
19 Against Dissolved Corporation, which is listed
20 erroneously over here as (7), I guess I don't 21 really want to put that under "Death." We'll 22 just call that (b), you know, Suit Against 23 Dissolved Corporation.

24 And what we decided to do was to change
25 our current Rule 160 into a rule that says go

1 read the Business Corporation Act, which is 2 where this subject is dealt with expressly and 3 in detail. We don't really need current Texas
4 Rule 160 or this (7) to become subdivision (b)
5 because the Business Corporation Act is 6 complete and needs no assistance from the 7 Rules of Procedure, except for the fact that 8 it might be a good idea to tell somebody that 9 this is covered over there, so that's what we 10 recommend on that.

11 Public Officers: Death or Separation
12 From Office. We have a provision in our 13 Appellate Rules dealing with this subject. I 14 read the provision in our Appellate Rules and 15 I read Federal Rule 25(d), and I think that I 16 prefer 25(d), but we've had no committee 17 action on this, so I'll just mention it, and 18 you know, ask for input.

19 This 25(d) basically says that the 20 successor is automatically substituted, okay, 21 and just deals with it that way.

22 Paragraph (c)(2), listed here as (b)(2), 23 is perhaps more problematic and needs further 24 checking because there is some case law about 25 suing a public officer in an official capacity

1 and whether you use the official title or the 2 name or both, and I really think that our law 3 is too complicated on that. And whatever our 4 law is, we'll probably come back and recommend 5 this language, but it hasn't been done by the 6 committee.

7 Substitution for Other Reasons is taken 8 right from Appellate Rule 9. The Federal 9 Rules have a provisions in Rule 25 for 10 transfers of interest. In the Federal Rules, 11 despite the fact that there is a real party in 12 interest rule, the transfer of interest
13 provision in Federal Rule 25 is such that you 14 don't have to prosecute in the name of the 15 real party in interest transferee if the 16 transfer occurs after suit has been filed.
17 And it just struck me that we may or may not 18 want to do that, but we'll be better off
19 looking at Appellate Rule 9. If substitution 20 in the trial court is necessary for some other 21 reason, the court may order substitution on 22 any party's motion at any time, which is 23 exactly the same as our appellate rule, except 24 instead of saying "appellate court" it says
25 "trial court."

1           So I recommend (7) at the top changed to 2           (b), and (c) at the bottom changed to (d), 3           Suit Against Dissolved Corporation and 4           Substitution for Other Reasons, to this 5           committee to vote on right now. And I think 6           that we should save the remainder of this rule 7           to be considered after further consideration 8           by the committee.

9                         CHAIRMAN SOULES: All right.
10           So we're now voting to approve Rule 39(b) and 11           (d) on Page 13 of the materials. (b) is Suit 12           Against Dissolved Corporation and (d) is 13           Substitution for Other Reasons. Any 14           objection? Carl Hamilton.

15                        MR. HAMILTON: I have a 16           question on 39. It says, "Absent a timely 17           appearance and suggestion." What is a timely 18           appearance and suggestion?

19                        PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, that 20           would be in accordance with the citation. Oh, 21           no, no, no.

22                        MR. ORSINGER: It's not
23           defined.

24                        PROFESSOR DORSANEO: It's not 25           defined.

1 MR. HAMILTON: Why do we need
2 "timely"?

3 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, we 4 have "timely" with "appearance" --

5 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Where are you
6 reading?

7 MR. ORSINGER: He's on (a)(1).
8 He's in the contents of (a)(1).

9 MR. HAMILTON: It's on the 10 sixth line down.

11 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Are we 12 passing on that today?

13 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: No.

14 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Right now,
15 Carl, and we may want to go back and talk 16 about these rules that are not under 17 consideration for action because they're -- 18 the motion or the action is on Rule 39.
19 Okay? Turn to Page 11. Nothing on that.
20 Turn to Page 12. Nothing on that. Then we 21 get to what was (7), that's now (b), on 13.
22 And what was (c) at the bottom is now (d).

23 And all we're -- all I'm asking is does 24 anyone have any objection to 39(b), Suit
25 Against Dissolved Corporation or 39(d),

1 Substitution for Other Reasons? Okay. No
2 objection. Those will be recommended by the 3 Committee.

4 MR. ORSINGER: Can we also note
5 that we're going to change (b), Public
6 Officers, into (c) just to keep the 7 nomenclature?

8 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Sure. And to 9 make that change.

10 Now, do you want anything else discussed, 11 not as an action item but as a discussion
12 item, on Rule 39?

14 would like help for the public officers, if 15 anybody is in the habit of suing public 16 officers and is conversant with that 17 complicated law, to step forward so I don't 18 have to go dig it out.

19 Well, it won't be that hard to find.

20 CHAIRMAN SOULES: I don't know.

21 MR. ORSINGER: Look it up in 22 Dorsaneo's Litigation Guide.

23 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: That's 24 where it is, but I don't have that memorized.

25 MR. ORSINGER: Have you read

1 it?

2 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Yeah, most 3 of it.

4 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Is there
5 anything else you want discussed on Rule 39, 6 Bill?

7 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: No,
8 because we'll get Judge Burnett to give us the 9 death stuff. And any input would be 10 appreciated, because it is tricky stuff.

11 I'm ready to go to Voluntary Dismissals
12 and Nonsuits.

13 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. On to 14 Page 14, Voluntary Dismissals and Nonsuits.

15 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: And I
16 redrafted this I hope in the way that you
17 wanted it. We spent a good bit of time 18 discussing paragraph (a) last time. I also 19 added paragraph (b). That shouldn't be 20 controversial, because it's in the rulebook 21 right now. I inadvertently left it out in the 22 draft that was presented at the last committee
23 meeting. It deals with a common situation. I
24 have cases right now where I have defendants
25 who have not been served and I'm not planning

1 on serving them at this point, and it deals
2 with that. Okay. It doesn't keep me from 3 moving forward and it doesn't prejudice me.

4 But in that paragraph (a) we had, you
5 know, that first sentence, and I did not add 6 the words "or nonsuit" after the word
7 "dismiss" every time it appears in this 8 rule. You may -- I'm not -- I wasn't sure 9 whether that's what you wanted me to do, if 10 you wanted to change the first sentence.
11 That's what you would tell me to do based upon 12 the discussion last time, which was less than 13 completely clear. Remember, when I had it in 14 here, I had it just called "voluntary 15 dismissals," and people said, well, we want it 16 to cover nonsuits. So I changed the title to 17 "and Nonsuits," but I didn't use that string 18 of words, "dismissal and nonsuit," over and 19 over and over again. Maybe you want to tell 20 me to just put "nonsuit."

21 MS. SWEENEY: Could we put it 22 back in over and over and over again? The 23 reason --

24 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I'm happy
25 to do that. It's like a lot of things that I

1 don't like doing, I can do it and I can live
2 it.

3 MS. SWEENEY: Okay.

4 JUSTICE CORNELIUS: But it's 5 still in the last sentence at least.

6 MS. SWEENEY: Yeah, it crops
7 back up later.

8 MR. KELTNER: There's no reason
9 not to.

10 JUSTICE CORNELIUS: I have a
11 question about the second sentence, if I may.

12 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Yes. Then 13 the second sentence is new. You did not see 14 that last time. That was something that was 15 added in committee. This draft, which is a 16 little bit -- has got the hiccups a little 17 bit, has slightly different wording from what 18 was even recommended in committee, so open 19 season on this one.

20 JUSTICE CORNELIUS: Is it
21 intended to prohibit a nonsuit when there are 22 separate trials? It says, "If the trial is 23 bifurcated or a court has ordered separate
24 trials, the plaintiff cannot dismiss or 25 nonsuit any claim on which the plaintiff has

1 introduced all of the plaintiff's evidence
2 other than rebuttal evidence."

3 MR. ORSINGER: Judge, it's 4 intended to keep you from nonsuiting a 5 separate trial on which you have rested, but 6 not the untried separate trial. In other 7 words, if you were ordered to have a separate 8 trial on A and B and you've gone ahead with A 9 and you've rested in A, you can no longer
10 nonsuit separate trial A, but you could 11 nonsuit separate trial B which has never 12 started again.

13 JUSTICE CORNELIUS: I don't 14 believe the sentence says that.

15 MR. ORSINGER: It doesn't say
16 that?

17 MR. GALLAGHER: It doesn't say
18 that.

19 MR. ORSINGER: It doesn't say
20 that?

21 MR. GALLAGHER: I agree with 22 Judge Cornelius.

23 MR. ORSINGER: Okay.

24 MR. GALLAGHER: The plaintiff
25 can close under this reading before a verdict

1 is returned, before the case is even submitted
2 to the jury. And if it's bifurcated, as I
3 read this, he couldn't nonsuit the case.

4 MR. ORSINGER: Well,
5 bifurcation and separate trials are 6 different. Bifurcation is more like a Moriel
7 type where you --

8 MR. GALLAGHER: I understand.

9 JUSTICE CORNELIUS: This says
10 the plaintiff cannot dismiss any claim --

11 MR. GALLAGHER: -- any claim --

12 MR. ORSINGER: -- on which -- 13 on which --

14 JUSTICE CORNELIUS: -- on which 15 he has introduced all of the plaintiff's 16 evidence other than rebuttal evidence. There 17 may not be any rebuttal. He may have rested.

18 MR. GALLAGHER: The 19 plaintiff --

20 CHIEF CORNELIUS: But you just 21 said he could nonsuit if he had rested on that 22 claim, but he couldn't on the other one.

23 MR. KELTNER: I see your 24 point.

25 MR. GALLAGHER: The defendant

1           could -- you -- a plaintiff can take a
2           nonsuit. Just say it's a straight-up case. A 3           plaintiff can take a nonsuit anytime prior to 4           verdict being returned. And whatever the 5           consequences might be, if there's a statute 6           or --

7                           MR. ORSINGER: No. Under 8           Rule 162, "At any time before the plaintiff 9           has introduced all of his evidence other than 10          rebuttal evidence," we haven't changed that 11          language from the current rule.

12                           PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Okay. You 13          can't nonsuit after you rest.

14                           MR. GALLAGHER: This doesn't 15          change that then. It does not.

16                           PROFESSOR DORSANEO: That's 17          cumbersome language, I agree, but it's 18          cumbersome language because it's patterned on 19          the first sentence.

20                           HON. C. A. GUITTARD: Why don't 21          we change the title by saying instead of 22          "Voluntary Dismissals and Nonsuits" it's 23          "Voluntary Dismissals (Nonsuits)," and then 24          just strike "nonsuit" everywhere else.

25                           MR. ORSINGER: I like that.

1 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, does
2 that --

3 CHIEF CORNELIUS: That's all
4 right, but that doesn't take care of the 5 second sentence.

6 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Paula is 7 not going to like that.

8 MS. SWEENEY: I wasn't
9 listening. Someone tell me.

10 MR. GALLAGHER: He struck your 11 "nonsuit" everywhere else.

12 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. Let's
13 get focused here and talk one at a time here.

14 Judge Cornelius has raised a point. The 15 first sentence is -- well, the first sentence 16 isn't exactly the rule because you've got the 17 rule divided into two pieces. This is -- the 18 first sentence says -- it applies when the 19 plaintiff is going to dismiss the entire case 20 or a party, one or more parties.

21 MR. ORSINGER: That's right.

22 CHAIRMAN SOULES: But it does
23 not apply to dismissing one or more claims 24 short of the entire case.

25 MR. ORSINGER: Unless the claim

1 is tied solely to one party.

2 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. And
3 then the next to the last sentence says, "A 4 party who abandons any part of a claim or 5 defense contained in the pleadings may have 6 that fact entered of record during a hearing 7 or trial." So I guess that's where you get 8 the authority to nonsuit a claim, one of the 9 claims.

10 MR. ORSINGER: Well, the reason 11 that sentence you just read is required is 12 because we're now requiring notice of nonsuit
13 in writing in the circumstances when a party 14 is omitted, because the committee voted that 15 you can't drop a party by merely amending a 16 pleading. You have to file some kind of 17 document saying that you intend to drop the 18 party. But Rusty, I think it was, made a 19 comment, "I want to be able to stand up and 20 say I'm nonsuiting my negligence and I'm just 21 going with fraud," or something like that.

22 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. You
23 cannot -- all right. So that sentence is 24 where you get that authority, that next to the 25 last sentence?

1 MR. ORSINGER: We feel like
2 we've got to give you that sentence in order 3 for you to still be able to stand up without 4 having to file a separate document.

5 MS. SWEENEY: Why does it have 6 to be in writing?

7 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. Then
8 the next sentence is the one that's bothering
9 Judge Cornelius.

10 MR. ORSINGER: Now, the 11 purpose-- if I may, the purpose of the second 12 sentence is to handle two problems, the Moriel
13 problem; and Justice Hecht wrote us a letter 14 saying handle the problem of the fact that in 15 a bifurcated trial you're not actually resting 16 on all of your evidence until you're finished 17 with the second phase of the trial.

18 And so this major Committee has already 19 decided that once you close out and go to 20 the -- once you rest on your first phase of 21 the trial, it's too late for you to back out 22 of the first phase but you could always back 23 out of your punitive damage claim until you 24 rest on the punitive damage. That's the 25 bifurcated concept.

1           But then separate and apart from the 2 bifurcated concept is bona fide traditional 3 separate trials where claim 1 is being tried 4 separately from claim 2. And in that 5 sentence, if you rest in -- if you're trying 6 claim 1 and you rest, you are stuck with your 7 result in claim 1 but you are still free to 8 nonsuit claim 2.

9           PROFESSOR DORSANEO: And we 10 believed that it was the sense of our 11 jurisprudence generally that if something is 12 tried completely then you're stuck with the 13 result.

14           MR. GALLAGHER: With the 15 result, yeah.

16           JUSTICE CORNELIUS: I don't 17 believe that second sentence says that, 18 though.

19           MR. ORSINGER: Okay. It's 20 supposed to say that.

21           JUSTICE CORNELIUS: It looks
22 like it just contradicts the first sentence.

23           PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I thought
24 the second sentence could be said in a more 25 straightforward manner by a reference to the 1 concept of something being tried.

2 MR. KELTNER: It needs to be 3 clarified.

4 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: In the 5 bifurcated trial or separately, rather than by 6 the reference to "on which the plaintiff has 7 introduced all of the plaintiff's evidence
8 rather than rebuttal evidence."

9 MR. ORSINGER: Judge Cornelius,
10 is your only concern --

11 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Wait a 12 minute, if you put -- if you started the 13 second sentence with the word "however," and 14 I'm not suggesting you do that because that's 15 probably a poor choice of words, then it
16 doesn't contradict. It's saying --

17 JUSTICE CORNELIUS: It doesn't 18 contradict, but it doesn't make sense to me 19 even with that, because --

20 MS. SWEENEY: Well, could you
21 start the first sentence with "In any case
22 other than a bifurcated case," or "In a 23 nonbifurcated case," or something like that?

24 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: What if you
25 changed the second sentence to read -- and I

1 agree with Luke, there needs to be some 2 introductory signal used to say that there's 3 going to be an exception. Bryan Garner would 4 say that you use "but." But if we change the 5 second sentence to say, "But if the trial is 6 bifurcated or the court has ordered separate 7 trials, the plaintiff cannot dismiss or 8 nonsuit any of the claims being tried and on 9 which the plaintiff has introduced all of the 10 plaintiff's evidence other than rebuttal
11 evidence."

12 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well,
13 don't we mean that you can't dismiss or 14 nonsuit any claim that has been tried?

15 JUSTICE CORNELIUS: Right.
16 That would be clearer.

17 MR. ORSINGER: But "tried"
18 could mean submitted to a jury.

19 JUSTICE CORNELIUS: But you're 20 saying that in the negative. You say on any 21 that he hasn't introduced all of the evidence.

22 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, how 23 about tried in the first phase of the 24 bifurcated trial, or separately?

25 MR. ORSINGER: Why don't we

1 write two sentences, one for bifurcated trials
2 and one for separate trials. Then we don't 3 have to balance both in the same sentence.
4 Then when we have a bifurcated trial we could 5 just say, "has introduced all of the 6 plaintiff's evidence in the first phase of the 7 trial" or something.

8 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I don't
9 really know why we need to even reference 10 separate. I would have thought it would have 11 applied to separate trials only; maybe not.

12 MR. ORSINGER: You're saying
13 that you should be able to nonsuit trial A 14 just because you haven't finished trial B?

15 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: No. I'm 16 saying that it never would have occurred to me
17 that this sentence would be necessary given 18 the first sentence.

19 JUSTICE CORNELIUS: That's
20 right.

21 MR. KELTNER: I tend to think 22 that's right, but since we were specifically 23 asked to address it --

24 JUSTICE CORNELIUS: I think the 25 second sentence just confuses the issue.

1 MR. ORSINGER: Well, Justice
2 Hecht's letter only asked us to address the 3 bifurcated trial. It didn't mention the 4 separate trial problem.

5 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, tell me
6 what you think if we say, "But" -- suppose we 7 start with the word "But if the trial is 8 bifurcated or a court has ordered separate 9 trials," on that condition, if you have that 10 condition, the plaintiff cannot dismiss or 11 nonsuit any claim on which the plaintiff has 12 introduced all of the plaintiff's evidence.

13 MR. ORSINGER: It's too bad we 14 just can't say "rested."

15 CHAIRMAN SOULES: What that 16 says to me and what they're trying to say 17 is -- see, what I'm trying to do is get to 18 where the ambiguity is, because I want to fix
19 it.

20 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I think
21 the way to fix it isn't the way that I
22 suggested a moment ago. I mean, the problem 23 is when somebody gets a bad result in the 24 first and then they have the second case 25 planning probably in the first 10 seconds of

1 the second case to nonsuit the entire 2 litigation on the theory that someone would 3 buy that as a proper interpretation of our 4 Rules of Procedure. Now, I personally would 5 not buy that you could do that.

6 But you could just simply say, "But if 7 the trial is bifurcated or the court has 8 ordered separate trials, the plaintiff cannot 9 dismiss or nonsuit any claim tried in the 10 first phase of the bifurcated trial or any 11 claim tried in the first separate trial," and 12 that covers it.

13 MR. ORSINGER: So if you --

14 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: You don't 15 need to be talking about resting, because it's 16 going to be tried all the way to the end.

17 MR. ORSINGER: As long as 18 you --

19 CHAIRMAN SOULES: One at a
20 time. Richard Orsinger.

21 MR. ORSINGER: As long as you
22 define the word "tried" to mean rest, because 23 when you say "tried," I think closed, gone to 24 the jury and got a verdict. And we're not 25 actually talking about trying, we're talking

1 about resting.

2 JUSTICE CORNELIUS: Well, say
3 "on which he rested."

4 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, the 5 only situation where you would run into that 6 is where somebody managed to get two of these 7 separate proceedings running simultaneously 8 and they rested in one of them and they had 9 the other one going --

10 MR. ORSINGER: No, I don't 11 agree.

12 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well,
13 that's the practice.

14 CHAIRMAN SOULES: We're going
15 to have to let everybody talk one at a time.
16 If somebody jumps in and says, "I disagree," 17 whenever somebody has got a sentence half 18 completed, we can't make a record that way, 19 and I'm not sure that the person who is 20 disagreeing has heard everything that has been 21 said. So let's talk one at a time. Who would 22 like to speak first? Sarah Duncan.

23 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: I'd just 24 like to say that it seems to me that we're 25 making this a whole lot more complicated than

1 it is, and I think maybe the reason we're all 2 kind of going down that complicated route is 3 that we are not thinking about singular
4 claim.

5 As I understand it, I, as a plaintiff,
6 can dismiss or nonsuit a claim at any time
7 before I have put on all my evidence other 8 than rebuttal evidence on that claim. Well, 9 if that's true as to a claim, it certainly 10 becomes true as to all claims and all evidence 11 on those claims. The same is true with 12 bifurcation and separate trial.

13 And I guess I don't understand why we 14 need anything other than that one sentence, 15 because when you take that sentence as to a 16 claim, you then move from a claim against one 17 party or a claim against all parties or all 18 claims against one party or all claims against 19 all parties or all claims being tried in the 20 first phase of the trial or all claims being 21 tried in separate trial 1 through separate 22 trial infinite. It's the same principle in 23 all of those situations.

24 And I think we're complicating it by 25 trying to pluralize it into claims, parties,

1 cases, claims being tried in the first phase 2 of a bifurcated trial, claims being tried in 3 one or more separate trials.

4 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: We 5 probably are complicating it, but part of the 6 reason is that we're really not quite sure 7 about the preclusive effect of litigating one 8 claim on other claims that could be in the 9 same litigation but that aren't necessarily 10 part of the same transaction.

11 If you start thinking about claims, you 12 get this sentence that does think about 13 claims: "A party who abandons any part of a 14 claim or defense contained in the pleadings
15 may have that fact entered of record during a 16 hearing or trial." Well, that will only work 17 if, when you abandon the claim, you aren't 18 already precluded by preclusion principles, 19 which you might or might not be depending upon 20 the relationship of the claims that were 21 actually tried and this one that you say,
22 "Pardon me, we didn't try this and I want it 23 entered of record my such and so claim."

24 Now, maybe when you say that that doesn't 25 do you any good under res judicata, but

1 maybe --

2 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: Well, we 3 know it doesn't.

4 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: -- res
5 judicata doesn't head you off.

6 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: Right.

7 CHAIRMAN SOULES: One at a
8 time.

9 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: If res
10 judicata applies, that doesn't do you any 11 good.

12 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: But res
13 judicata, although it applies more often than 14 it did a couple of years ago because the test 15 is broader, doesn't apply --

16 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: -- always.

17 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: -- across 18 the board. So our thinking is you should be 19 able, if you're not barred by res judicata, to 20 in a case at any point have it entered of 21 record that this claim was not tried with the 22 view toward maybe litigating it at some later 23 time.

24 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Richard
25 Orsinger.

1                   MR. ORSINGER: The thing that 2 concerns me, and this is not in direct
3 response to the sentence Bill is talking
4 about, it's more in response to what Sarah 5 said, the thing that bothers me about separate 6 trials language is that we need to be certain 7 that someone cannot say, "Because I haven't 8 rested on my last claim to be tried, I'm 9 therefore free to nonsuit a claim that I have 10 tried."

11                   CHAIRMAN SOULES: First of all,
12 rested is not -- I just tried to check it. I 13 don't think there's anyplace in the rules
14 we're talking about rested.

15                   MR. ORSINGER: I know that, but 16 that's a hell of a lot easier to say than 17 "concluded all of my evidence except for 18 rebuttal evidence." Now, I'm not writing the 19 statute, I'm just trying to get the concept 20 across.

21                   CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay.

22                   PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well,
23 Rule 265 does mention "rest," I believe.

24                   CHAIRMAN SOULES: No. It says
25 introduces as evidence --

1                   PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Ah, that's 2 right. You're right, Mr. Chairman. I stand 3 corrected.

4                   MR. ORSINGER: See, to me the 5 problem with the separate trials is that the 6 normal statement of the rule that you have 7 rested on your case in chief or whatever might 8 leave the door open so long that something 9 that should have been shut off is not shut 10 off.

11                   CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well,
12 separate trials are created by orders.

13                   MR. ORSINGER: True.

14                   CHAIRMAN SOULES: And if I've 15 got 10 causes of action or 10 defenses, 16 whichever, I don't know, well, it's got to be 17 the plaintiff who nonsuits or counter-18 plaintiff, so whichever side I'm on, I've got 19 10 claims and I rest. Any five of those -- I 20 can't nonsuit them anymore, and the five on 21 which I introduced no evidence, they've been 22 tried to a directed verdict, no evidence.
23 They don't -- you can't carve them out at that 24 point. If you announce ready on your 25 pleadings with 10 claims and you put on all

1 your evidence and you're done, you can't carve
2 out half of your claims at that point, can 3 you?

4 MR. ORSINGER: Well, let me ask
5 you, Luke, if the rule said nothing more than 6 the first sentence of (a), do you feel like we 7 have no problem with separate trials? Is it 8 apparent to you that each separate trial is 9 treated as if it's a standalone lawsuit and 10 that you're cut off when you rest in that 11 separate trial, or does the fact that these 12 are all claims under one cause keep that door 13 open after you rest on the first trial?

14 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well,
15 separate trials complicates it.

16 MR. ORSINGER: So if --

17 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Let me finish
18 this thought. I can have 10 claims and I can 19 say before I rest, "I nonsuit five of them."
20 Okay? That's --

21 MR. ORSINGER: Sure.

22 CHAIRMAN SOULES: But if I rest
23 before I nonsuit the five, I'm stuck.

24 MR. ORSINGER: True.

25 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Now, your

1 question, though, has to do -- well, separate 2 trials can be a small piece.

3 MR. ORSINGER: True.

4 CHAIRMAN SOULES: The judge can 5 say, "Well, I'm going to try liability. I'm 6 going to try only the liability question,
7 strict liability. I'm not even going to try 8 negligence" or whatever.

9 HON. SCOTT A. BRISTER: Or I'm 10 going to try reasonable diligence on whether 11 your service -- because I think you've got a 12 problem showing reasonable diligence. That's 13 quick and easy, and if you don't show
14 reasonable diligence, we don't do anything 15 else. That can be a real small thing, very 16 short or very long, and in that particular 17 circumstance you don't get anything by 18 nonsuiting if that's the -- if you've got a 19 limitations problem on it.

20 MR. ORSINGER: But the 21 pertinent question is, does our general 22 statement of the rule cover us or do we have 23 to specifically craft a rule for separate 24 trials?

25 MS. SWEENEY: I think we're

1 making it a lot worse with the additional 2 sentence. We're raising all kinds of 3 potential problems that the existing rule 4 makes pretty clear.

5 HON. SCOTT A. BRISTER: Is the 6 only problem we're trying to address the one 7 Bill says, that somebody might be confused if 8 you nonsuit during the second trial whether 9 you resurrect the first trial?

10 MR. GALLAGHER: Moriel.

11 MS. SWEENEY: It's been tried.

12 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Taking your 13 example, Judge, because I've been trying to 14 think of one, we just tried reasonable 15 diligence after filing a lawsuit to get 16 service, and the jury says no, and I say 17 nonsuit. I haven't tried my whole case. I've 18 only tried that separate trial, only tried a 19 piece of it, and I nonsuit the whole thing.
20 Now, do I get a new jury on the first tried 21 issues?

22 MR. ORSINGER: You have to 23 refile a new case.

24 CHAIRMAN SOULES: I know. But 25 do I get a new jury? Do I get to retry that

1 separate issue?

2 MR. ORSINGER: You shouldn't be 3 able to.

4 CHAIRMAN SOULES: We say you
5 shouldn't, but I don't think there's any law 6 on that. I don't know of anyplace where 7 there's a line of demarcation. The line of 8 demarcation seems to be when the plaintiff has 9 tried his case on the merits to the point of 10 resting, as it were. Now, that is a place
11 where we clearly have a line of demarcation.
12 You can't nonsuit after that. But short of 13 that in a separate trial context I've never 14 seen any decision.

15 MS. SWEENEY: Luke, could I ask 16 Lee, maybe you remember, and maybe this is the 17 genesis of the Justice Hecht's letter. I 18 think there is a recent case or else somebody 19 has just lectured about it or something where 20 in a Moriel context the negligence case was 21 tried. They lost, the plaintiffs lost. And 22 they said, "Well, our statute hasn't run yet.
23 We haven't tried punitives so we haven't tried 24 our whole case. We haven't put on all our 25 evidence. We want to nonsuit the whole

1 thing." I think that's -- I mean, I think 2 this has just happened. Do you remember?

3 MR. PARSLEY: Well, they -- 4 some amicus briefed at Moriel, I believe. And 5 then the only recent case I recall was a
6 summary judgment case where somebody -- a 7 summary judgment on part of their claims and 8 they tried to nonsuit the whole thing.

9 MS. SWEENEY: So it was --

10 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: That was 11 the Hyundai case.

12 MR. PARSLEY: That's the only 13 recent one, but there may be others.

14 MR. ORSINGER: Luke, it seems 15 to me that the first thing we have to decide 16 is whether we want to permit a nonsuit and a 17 refiling under your hypo. I thought that you 18 couldn't do that. If you tried it and you
19 lost, even if it was a separate trial, I 20 thought you were bound by that result. You're 21 saying there's no case law saying that, and 22 I'm getting the feeling that there may be some 23 people here that feel like you should be able 24 to bail out anytime before you finish the last 25 separate trial.

1                   CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, you
2 could analogize to the summary judgment case
3 that Justice Duncan is talking about and say, 4 well, once you have -- you know, a summary
5 judgment may be a trial. Once you have had 6 that trial, if you nonsuit, then that piece of 7 it is dismissed with prejudice. Of course, in 8 is the case of reasonable diligence, the tail 9 shakes the dog; the whole thing is gone. But 10 that would only be by analogy. I don't know 11 of any decision.

12                   HON. SARAH DUNCAN: That was 13 part of the problem with the Hyundai case, I 14 think, both for the court of the appeals and 15 the litigants; that there just wasn't a whole 16 lot of law that really told anybody what the 17 answer was.

18                   CHAIRMAN SOULES: Oh, yeah.
19 That was a revelation. That's the decision 20 we're talking about, the summary judgment.
21 That was a revelation at least to me when I 22 read it.

23                   So by analogy the Supreme Court would 24 seem to be lining up along the lines of this 25 sentence. If you've had a trial, if there's 1           been a disposition on the merits of any 2           particular question and you nonsuit, then 3           that's -- that is dismissed with prejudice.

4           That nonetheless become dispositive on that 5           issue.

6                           MR. ORSINGER:   The nonsuit rule 7           goes further than that, because this is -- our 8           rule is imposed even before disposition.  Our 9           rule is imposed that when you have put all 10          your evidence before the fact finder and rest, 11          even though you don't have a summary judgment, 12          directed verdict, nothing, you have crossed 13          the point of no return.  You are now in the 14          litigation system and you will live with the 15          result.  So actually the Supreme Court ruling 16          on a summary judgment would be like, you know, 17          once you have filed your motion for summary
18          judgment and have all your affidavits in, you 19          can't back out anymore.

20                          CHAIRMAN SOULES:  And the way
21          this reads, just to complicate it further, 22          suppose I say -- I get to the point of needing 23          to rest and I say, "Okay.  I want to dismiss 24          counts -- five of my 10 counts."

25                          The judge says they're dismissed, and I

1 say, "I rest."

2 Well, I better put on some more evidence
3 first, because I've already put on all my 4 evidence before I took my nonsuit. And this 5 says when your evidence is complete it's 6 over. You can't wait until you put on your 7 last piece of evidence to nonsuit your five -- 8 the five claims you've still got in the case
9 under the test of this rule.

10 MS. SWEENEY: That's the 11 existing law, though.

12 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, and it
13 may --

14 MS. SWEENEY: Well, you all are 15 reading the existing rule. That's what it 16 says.

17 CHAIRMAN SOULES: That's 18 right. And that may be the consequence of 19 it. I was wondering about that.

20 MR. ORSINGER: Well, you always 21 nonsuit before you --

22 CHAIRMAN SOULES: I better put 23 in another document or something. I've got 24 one more exhibit.

25 MR. ORSINGER: No. As long as

1 you rest before you nonsuit -- I mean, nonsuit
2 before you rest, you don't have a problem.

3 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, even if 4 you put on all your evidence. The test here
5 is have you put on all your evidence, not 6 whether you've rested.

7 MS. SWEENEY: But once you have 8 nonsuited it, you can't put in more evidence 9 about it. The judge won't let you.

10 CHAIRMAN SOULES: I'm going to 11 put on one more --

12 MR. GALLAGHER: -- piece of 13 evidence on the non-nonsuited claims.

14 CHAIRMAN SOULES: -- piece of 15 evidence on the five I've got left.

16 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: He's right.

17 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Judge
18 Cornelius.

19 JUSTICE CORNELIUS: I think we 20 need the second sentence in there, but I just 21 think it needs to be clarified some.

22 And I have a trouble with the term
23 "claim." That's going to give rise to a lot 24 of dispute as to what constitutes a claim. I 25 would suggest that we use -- that we simply

1 say that if a person has tried one separable 2 or bifurcated issue by putting on all of his 3 evidence on that issue, then he cannot nonsuit 4 the entire cause of action, or he cannot 5 nonsuit as to any other separable or 6 bifurcated issue. Would that clarify that?

7 MR. ORSINGER: But he can
8 nonsuit as to the other issues. He just can't 9 nonsuit as to that one.

10 JUSTICE CORNELIUS: Okay.
11 Well, he can. But he cannot nonsuit the 12 entire case.

13 MR. ORSINGER: That's for sure.

14 CHAIRMAN SOULES: That's 15 exactly what this is getting at, but it's not 16 getting at it in exactly those words.

17 JUSTICE CORNELIUS: And I think 18 if you use the word "claim" in there, you're 19 going to get yourself into a lot of trouble 20 about what constitutes a claim. It seems to 21 me that a separate issue or a bifurcated issue 22 would be more clear.

23 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Yeah. Go
24 ahead, Justice Duncan.

25 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: I agree.

1 Except that we don't nonsuit issues, we 2 nonsuit claims and defenses, counterclaims.

3 MR. ORSINGER: Actually we 4 nonsuit cases according to Rule 161.

5 MR. GALLAGHER: That's what has 6 been plaguing me, is whoever stands up and -- 7 Mike Gallagher, I'm sorry.

8 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Mike
9 Gallagher.

10 MR. GALLAGHER: (Continuing) -- 11 and says, "I'm nonsuiting my negligence claim, 12 but I'm maintaining my intentional tort claim 13 or my defect, my marketing defect or design 14 defect claim," with an intent to preserve that 15 cause of action for a later date.

16 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: We actually 17 had this in a case where the guy nonsuited 18 his -- tried his breach of contract claim and 19 put of record that he was nonsuiting his 20 derivative negligence claim. In that one it 21 was clearly barred by res judicata, and Judge
22 Chapa wrote an opinion that was refused
23 saying, "You can't do that."

24 The question that I think Bill raised is 25 but what if it's not barred by res judicata

1 even under the broader bar test than what we 2 used to have.

3 But the problem with -- if I separately
4 try reasonable diligence on service, it's not 5 that I would nonsuit, try to nonsuit the 6 service issue, it's that that is an essential 7 element to my underlying claims and I've 8 already tried it.

9 JUSTICE CORNELIUS: Well, I
10 understand, but that's why I use the term 11 separable or bifurcated. But instead of 12 "issue" we could use "claim," I guess, so 13 long as you have "separable or bifurcated 14 claim." What I'm trying to avoid is just 15 having nonultimate issues --

16 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: Well, but 17 you can --

18 JUSTICE CORNELIUS: -- inserted
19 as a claim for the purposes of the nonsuit.

20 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: You can 21 separately try, though, issues; for instance,
22 as Scott said, the reasonable diligence
23 issue. And that might be dispositive of your 24 claim, but it's not a separable claim in and 25 of itself.

1 MR. ORSINGER: I can give you
2 another example. In PJC 5 they make the 3 recommendation that if you're trying the 4 enforceability of a premarital agreement that 5 the court order a separate trial on the 6 premarital agreement, because you don't know
7 what law to charge the jury on unless you know 8 whether the agreement is enforceable or not.
9 And so they actually recommend that the court 10 consider a separate trial, and yet whether the 11 agreement is enforceable or not is just one 12 little part of the property division and it's 13 not severable in any sense and it's not a 14 separate issue really. It's a question of 15 whether the law we charged the jury on has 16 been modified by contract. So it's as part 17 and parcel of the ultimate claim as you could 18 possibly get.

19 So if I try the enforceability of my 20 premarital agreement to a jury and the jury 21 finds that it's not enforceable, I shouldn't 22 be able to nonsuit my divorce at that point, 23 because we've already invested all of this 24 time and energy into getting a jury verdict on 25 this important issue. And yet I wouldn't even

1 call that a claim. That's less than a claim.
2 That's a part of a claim, I guess.

3 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: It's an
4 issue.

5 PROFESSOR CARLSON: It's an
6 issue.

7 MR. ORSINGER: It's an issue.
8 Okay.

9 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Carl
10 Hamilton.

11 MR. HAMILTON: We're talking
12 about nonsuits and dismissals of suits. It 13 seems to me that it ought to read, "Anytime 14 before plaintiff has introduced all of 15 plaintiff's evidence other than rebuttal
16 evidence, plaintiff may dismiss his entire 17 suit or that part of his suit being tried in a 18 separate or bifurcated trial." We're talking 19 about dismissing the suit, not talking about 20 claims.

21 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Bill
22 Dorsaneo.

23 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I thought
24 about putting a reference to the trial in the 25 first sentence, Carl, and the problem that I

1 have is that you're going to be nonsuited 2 things before trial more frequently than at 3 trial, so that didn't work out.

4 But I do think I can draft this second
5 sentence now based upon what Justice Cornelius 6 said about separate claim, bifurcated claim or 7 release at issue and then when to claim, and I 8 can draft it pretty clearly incorporating the 9 concept of introduction of the plaintiff's 10 evidence. I'm confident that I can draft it, 11 but I need to know what the committee thinks 12 about whether it should say "claim" or "issue"
13 or both. That's really the one that I don't 14 have worked out yet.

15 I mean, trust me, the language -- it's 16 possible to draft the language clearly based 17 upon what I've heard so far, but I don't know 18 whether it should say issue, you know, 19 separate claim or bifurcated claim or separate 20 issue or bifurcated issue or some combination 21 of the two.

22 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, this
23 isn't responsive to that, but it adds another 24 complication. Frequently at the discovery 25 stage of the case the judge will rule that

1 something is discoverable that I don't want 2 discovered, and my reaction to that may be to 3 drop an element of damages; for example, an 4 element of damages on which my client's mental 5 health records are going to be germane, and I 6 don't want those discovered or used in 7 evidence, and they would be only relevant to 8 an element of damages. And so I say, "Well, 9 that's out now," so it's no longer relevant to 10 the cause.

11 It's pieces of pleadings that are dropped 12 that are -- I don't know whether they're 13 issues, claims, elements or what the right 14 word is, but I guess we need to work that out.

15 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: The 16 committee thought that if it's just amending a 17 pleading to take out a claim and not closing 18 the entire case, and not a party but just a 19 claim, that this wasn't even really about 20 that; that that's covered by the pleading
21 rules.

22 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay.

23 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: But that's 24 not --

25 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. You

1 show up -- let me take it to -- let me put it
2 in another context. You show up for a motion
3 in limine and you get some bad rulings and you
4 nonsuit.

5 JUSTICE CORNELIUS: Doesn't the 6 rule on separate trials refer to issues rather 7 than claims?

8 CHAIRMAN SOULES: The rule
9 doesn't. The rule is so short. It's just the 10 court may order separate trials or make other 11 orders to prevent delay or prejudice.

12 MR. ORSINGER: What rule is
13 that?

14 CHAIRMAN SOULES: It's 15 Rule 40(b).

16 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: And then
17 there's 174 that has additional information.

18 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Is it in 19 174? But you clearly can separately try
20 issues.

21 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: It's 22 "claims or issues" in 174(b).

23 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Is that what
24 it says?

25 JUSTICE CORNELIUS: "Claims or

1 issues."

2 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Uh-huh.
3 So I think it ought to be "claims or issues."

4 JUSTICE CORNELIUS: Then let's
5 use the same language in this rule.

6 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: It has to 7 be, if it's going to --

8 MR. ORSINGER: Well, I mean, in 9 family law cases we use "issues" because we 10 might try custody to a jury -- well, no, 11 that's probably a claim. That's a bad
12 example.

13 But on a premarital agreement it's 14 clearly an issue. It would sure help us if 15 you use the word "issue" or "claims and 16 issues."

17 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: Or on the 18 separate or community nature of property, 19 don't you go ahead and try that and then the 20 court still makes the division based upon what 21 the jury finds maybe?

22 MR. ORSINGER: Yes. But I
23 would say if you rest during that process --

24 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: Oh, I
25 agree. I'm just saying we've got to include

1 issues. I don't think there's anybody here
2 that's advocating that issues that are 3 separately tried shouldn't be subject to the 4 limitation on your right to nonsuit.

5 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, "claims
6 or issues" are used under 174, if that's going 7 to survive.

8 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Yeah.

9 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Let's use
10 them both.

11 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I now know
12 that it should be claims or issues, so I
13 have -- in this -- I have enough information 14 now to redraft that second sentence.

15 On this claims/issues thing altogether,
16 though, I'll ask Rusty to explain to me again
17 what current Rule 165 is meant to be about.

18 I'm still troubled by this sentence that 19 we have as the next to the last sentence, "A 20 party who abandons any part of a claim or 21 defense contained in the pleadings." If all 22 that means is somebody who amended the 23 pleadings, and you know, did what you said,
24 can then say at the trial --

25 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: But you can

1 do it without amending your pleadings.

2 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Yeah,
3 well, I don't know whether it means -- the 4 current rule says that, "may have that fact 5 entered of record so as to show that the 6 matters therein were not tried." And frankly 7 until our last meeting I didn't have much of 8 an idea of what that was about or how it 9 relates to res judicata or nonsuits or any of 10 the rest of it. It's just kind of there.

11 And Rusty said something at the last 12 meeting that I thought made me understand what 13 it was about, but it's kind of like when I 14 read Stephen Hawking; I have it for a little 15 bit, but then I have to go back and get tuned
16 in again because I can't --

17 MR. GOLD: I'm glad somebody
18 else has that feeling.

19 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. Bill,
20 what additional assistance do you need?

21 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I just 22 think we'll be back talking about that "the 23 party who abandons" sentence again. I'm not 24 sure whether it's a good idea to have it in 25 here, because if it is normally the case that

1 you can't do that without getting into 2 trouble, then I'm not sure I want a sentence
3 in the rulebook that suggests to somebody that 4 they can abandon claims and then bring them
5 back again later.

6 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: That was 7 definitely what this lawyer thought he could 8 do.

9 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: That 10 lawyer may have been following this 11 sentence --

12 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: He was.

13 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: -- off
14 into res judicata land.

15 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: He did.
16 That's all he briefed, was that sentence.

17 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: It's not a 18 good sentence if it suggests to somebody that 19 they should abandon claims on the theory that 20 they're going to come back and do something 21 later. We would be better off without the 22 sentence from the plaintiff's side if the 23 sentence is just, you know, a land mine.

24 MS. SWEENEY: And the other
25 question would be what good does it do. It

1 allows you that you may have it entered of 2 record. I mean, what -- "Judge, write this 3 down."

4 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, "may 5 have it entered of record," and then the 6 current rulebook says, "so as to show that the 7 matters therein were not tried." Well, but 8 that, I took that out, because that's even 9 worse.

10 CHAIRMAN SOULES: I agree.

11 MR. GALLAGHER: That is worse.
12 That's a real trap.

13 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Does anybody
14 see any reason for maintaining that language?

15 MR. GALLAGHER: No.

16 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: We can ask 17 Rusty what his reason was and evaluate it when 18 we get it from him.

19 MR. ORSINGER: My recollection
20 of what Rusty said was that he wanted to be 21 able to drop a claim out of the lawsuit 22 without have to amend his pleadings as long as 23 he did it in open court.

24 MR. HAMILTON: Why do you have 25 to do it?

1 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Why?

2 MR. GALLAGHER: Yeah, why.

3 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: Well, it
4 does sort of clarify things.

5 MR. GOLD: Well, I think you
6 can do that. That's a judicial admission 7 isn't it?.

8 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: No, it's 9 not an admission.

10 MR. GALLAGHER: No.

11 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, I mean,
12 you can do it -- why do it --

13 MR. GOLD: I'm dropping this 14 claim --

15 CHAIRMAN SOULES: The question
16 was why do you do this. Do you mean by that 17 why would you do it strategy-wise; why would 18 you do it --

19 MS. SWEENEY: Because the judge
20 is fixing to let in some real bad evidence 21 that only goes to that one thing.

22 CHAIRMAN SOULES: That's right.

23 MS. SWEENEY: And you're going 24 to spike him.

25 MR. ORSINGER: There's another

1 time where you really want -- you want a 2 negligence finding because you've got 3 insurance, but you want to inflame the jury so 4 you have an intentional tort in there.

5 CHAIRMAN SOULES: That's right.

6 MR. ORSINGER: And so you pour 7 all of this horrible evidence in on the 8 intentional tort, and then right before you go 9 to the jury you drop your intentional tort and 10 you channel all of that anger into a
11 negligence finding. That's a routine --

12 MR. GALLAGHER: Well, but you
13 do that on submission. I mean, the plaintiff 14 controls the -- well, to some extent controls
15 the submission, and if you don't -- you know, 16 if I don't draft -- prepare an issue as to the 17 intentional tort, then I can submit it on 18 negligence only. I can choose the theory 19 under which I'm going to submit the case to 20 the jury --

21 MS. SWEENEY: So for --

22 MR. GALLAGHER: -- still.

23 MR. ORSINGER: So you don't 24 need to -- you can waive your claim by failing 25 to submit it. You don't have to, quote,

1 abandon it.

2 MR. GALLAGHER: No, correct.
3 That is correct.

4 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: And I
5 suppose you may want to abandon it to avoid 6 the rebuttal evidence, even though you may 7 have introduced evidence on it. Your bad
8 rebuttal -- your same thought process 9 happens. You say, "Oh, my God, they're just 10 about to -- not just about, they have 11 discovered this other bad evidence and I 12 didn't know about it. They discovered it on 13 their own and now they're starting to 14 introduce it." Well, I would just like to 15 slam that door shut by saying, "This claim to 16 this type of damage, we're dropping it, 17 Judge." If it means that, I guess that's 18 okay.

19 MR. GALLAGHER: There may be a 20 circumstance in which you would want to, but 21 this has not been a big part of most of our 22 practice.

23 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, it's 24 used strategy-wise quite a bit, Brother
25 Gallagher.

1 MR. GALLAGHER: No. I tell
2 you, Luke, in 35 years of trying lots of 3 multiparty litigation, maybe I'm trying to get 4 somebody's strikes, but I thought Sarah's fix 5 awhile ago pretty much addressed the issue, 6 maybe not as to the claim, but certainly as 7 to -- not as to separate trials, but certainly 8 as to bifurcation.

9 Abandoning a negligence theory or a 10 contract theory might in some circumstances be 11 of strategy benefit, but it's not a big deal.

12 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: But do we 13 really need a rule to say you can do that?
14 Can you enter it of record without a rule?

15 MR. GALLAGHER: Sure, you can.

16 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: You just 17 say it and it's on the record, right?

18 MR. GALLAGHER: I would think 19 so.

20 MS. SWEENEY: The area that's 21 of concern is not the ability to, you know, 22 quit doing some part of your case. It's the 23 ability -- in my view it's the ability to 24 nonsuit the whole thing at any time up until, 25 you know, the end as a matter of right.

1 That's the area that is critical and is 2 central, and the rest of this that we're 3 having all this discussion about --

4 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I could 5 write it now. What I would propose to say is 6 something like this, is that before trial you 7 can abandon any part of a claim or defense by 8 amending your pleadings, and then continue 9 with this thought, a party who abandons any 10 part of a claim or defense, speaking about 11 during trial, without amending the pleadings, 12 if that's what we're trying to say.

13 MR. GALLAGHER: But this 14 Rule 165 is very, very -- it can be 15 misleading.

16 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: It's very
17 misleading.

18 MR. ORSINGER: Well, it's only 19 the last phrase that's misleading, "so as to 20 show that it wasn't tried."

21 MR. GALLAGHER: Because they 22 were tried.

23 MR. ORSINGER: It's not
24 misleading to say that you can abandon it in 25 open court on the record. That's simple and 1 straightforward.

2 MS. SWEENEY: Yeah.

3 MR. ORSINGER: What's 4 misleading is to say "and therefore that means 5 you didn't try it."

6 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Correct.

7 MR. ORSINGER: All we need to 8 do is drop that off and the rule is probably 9 okay.

10 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well,
11 don't you think it's a good idea, though, to 12 spell out that you can abandon a claim before 13 trial by amending, you know, your pleadings?

14 MS. SWEENEY: Or in open court
15 on the record.

16 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Now, you're 17 not talking about that being the only place 18 you can abandon a claim, are you?

19 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: No. And 20 then during trial you can just stand up and 21 say, "I did that," without amending pleadings.

22 MS. SWEENEY: Or at any time
23 you're on the record, at a hearing, at a 24 summary judgment.

25 MR. GALLAGHER: Why not just a

1 period, if that's what you want to say, after 2 "record," and as Richard says, delete the 3 rest of it. Doesn't that have that same 4 effect?

5 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: Luke.

6 CHAIRMAN SOULES: I don't see
7 any reason -- I'm sorry. Sarah Duncan.
8 Excuse me.

9 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: Well, the 10 one -- it may be clear to everybody in the 11 room that if you do this you're still subject 12 to res judicata, but you all aren't -- I don't 13 think you all are representative of most 14 lawyers at all. And I like -- it's fine with 15 me to have it in a rule, and all you would 16 have to put in is "subject to the doctrines of 17 collateral estoppel and res judicata," just so 18 that people understand that this is not an 19 exception to res judicata and collateral 20 estoppel law, because I do think it trips some 21 people up who may not understand the 22 ordering. And supposedly you only waive 23 claims hopefully intentionally and knowingly.

24 MR. GALLAGHER: Knock out 25 everything after "record" and then put in

1 "subject to" or however you dress it up, 2 "subject to the applicability of the 3 doctrines of res judicata and collateral 4 estoppel" --

5 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: That gives 6 them a hint to go look and find out what that 7 means.

8 MR. GALLAGHER: -- "statute of 9 limitations or" --

10 MR. ORSINGER: See, I mean,
11 that's not a rule of procedure now. That's a 12 kind of rule of procedure mixed with some 13 commentary on the rule of procedure. Maybe we 14 ought to put it in a comment instead of in the 15 rule.

16 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: It's easy
17 to put it in the rule. It's real short.

18 MR. ORSINGER: Well, there are 19 a lot of rules in here that have a lot of 20 effects and we're not telling anybody what the 21 effects of it are.

22 MR. GALLAGHER: The nonsuit
23 rule certainly has an effect in a circumstance 24 in which the statute has expired. And that's 25 the only problem I see with that kind of fix,

1 is that you say, "subject to collateral 2 estoppel, res judicata, statute of 3 limitations, Article 4590(i)." I mean, it's 4 trying to -- when you begin to enumerate, then 5 you exclude.

6 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: That's 7 right. And the one question I had in the 8 margins about the draft was the Hyundai 9 exception or extension or whatever one would 10 classify it as.

11 MR. GALLAGHER: It could say, 12 "In any suit or" --

13 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: Because 14 that's another instance where most lawyers who 15 have been through a summary judgment
16 proceeding I don't get the feeling at least 17 that they think they've been through a trial, 18 and they sure don't think they've put on all 19 their evidence.

20 MR. ORSINGER: Well, Luke,
21 should we leave it in there or bring it back 22 next time or should we vote in our dwindled 23 numbers on whether to drop abandonment 24 altogether from the rule or --

25 CHAIRMAN SOULES: I don't think

1 we can do that.

2 MR. ORSINGER: You don't want
3 to do that?

4 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Drop
5 abandonment altogether?

6 MR. GALLAGHER: Well, but Luke,
7 don't you think --

8 CHAIRMAN SOULES: I don't see
9 any -- I haven't heard anyone suggest that we 10 drop all of it. The suggestion is do we keep 11 the "so as" clause or phrase, whichever it is.

12 MR. GALLAGHER: That almost 13 sounds like --

14 CHAIRMAN SOULES: And no one
15 has come up with a reason for keeping it
16 except for something that Rusty may have said 17 that we can't remember, and I think we ought 18 to leave it. I mean, as I'm hearing the 19 debate, that sentence would stay in as it is, 20 but it's not really a dismissal or a nonsuit.
21 It's not subject to the same timing. That's 22 the biggest issue.

23 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I think we 24 should say "at any time" if we mean at any 25 time.

1                   CHAIRMAN SOULES: That's 2 right. And a party may be entitled to have a 3 jury, where their case is -- where the 4 evidence is closed, may be entitled to have 5 the jury instructed that claims have been 6 abandoned that have been tried because a lot 7 of prejudicial stuff is coming in that may 8 neutralize it. The plaintiff may not object 9 to that, if he drops intentional and leaves in 10 negligence. Carl Hamilton.

11                   MR. HAMILTON: Luke, I thought 12 that under the permissive joinder of claims 13 rule that you could join claims against a 14 defendant that were unrelated, not in same 15 transaction, under the permissive joinder.
16 And then you may decide later you don't want 17 to try that claim so you dismiss it. I don't 18 think that precludes you from bringing it 19 later, does it?

20                   PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Not in 21 that situation, no.

22                   CHAIRMAN SOULES: Not unless 23 jeopardy is attached.

24                   MR. HAMILTON: Well, isn't that 25 what that rule is talking about, that if you

1 abandon it --

2 MR. ORSINGER: Or double 3 jeopardy.

4 MR. HAMILTON: -- that if you
5 abandon that claim, then under Rule 165 then 6 that's the reason for that language "as though 7 it were not tried."

8 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, let me
9 see if I can encapsulate this. There can be 10 all kinds of consequences to abandonment. It 11 depends on when the abandonment occurs. It 12 can occur in the discovery stage. It's gone.
13 That claim -- and if it's an unrelated claim 14 that just happens to be between the same 15 parties, then that claim is never going to be 16 tried unless it's put back in.

17 On the other hand, if it's abandoned at 18 the charge stage and has stayed in the 19 pleadings all the way along, it's probably 20 precluded. And if we start trying to say at 21 which point what the consequences are of 22 abandonment at each stage of the litigation --

23 MR. ORSINGER: We'll have a
24 Law Review article about it.

25 CHAIRMAN SOULES: -- we'll

1 never -- you know, I don't think we'll ever 2 cover the waterfront then.

3 HON. SARAH DUNCAN: You're
4 right.

5 MR. ORSINGER: Luke, while 6 we're focused on this rule, there are two 7 other things in here that are important. Can 8 we talk about them?

9 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, let me
10 see if we can bring it into focus here. It 11 appears to me that we should leave abandonment 12 in there as something that a party can do, 13 either a claim or a defense or an issue. But 14 we should not state whether or not it's been 15 tried or any other consequences; and that that 16 should not be temporal. That should not have 17 any anchor at any particular time or any 18 cutoff. Is there any disagreement with that?

19 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I think it
20 should say "At any time during a hearing or 21 trial without amending the pleadings."

22 MS. SWEENEY: There you go.

23 PROFESSOR CARLSON: Why don't 24 you make it a subsection?

25 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I think it

1 should be a separate subsection.

2 MS. SWEENEY: And actually you
3 don't need to amend the pleadings. You can 4 just -- I just send out a notice of nonsuit
5 and I leave my pleadings alone until the next 6 time I get to them, but it's effective when it 7 hits the courthouse.

8 CHAIRMAN SOULES: That's 9 probably right, the way this is written.

10 MS. SWEENEY: Yeah. You don't 11 need to amend your pleadings.

12 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Do you have a 13 question that that may not be right?

14 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, as 15 to claims I do, as opposed to entire cases and 16 parties.

17 MS. SWEENEY: Parties.

18 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, if --

19 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I think
20 that will work, but I think that's kind of a 21 bad way to amend your pleadings.

22 MS. SWEENEY: Yeah.

23 CHAIRMAN SOULES: The way this
24 is --

25 MS. SWEENEY: I kind of -- it's

1 like a little present to whoever you're 2 letting out, you know. They like that notice 3 of nonsuit.

4 CHAIRMAN SOULES: The way this
5 is written, you either dismiss the action or 6 one or more parties by nonsuit and everything 7 else is abandonment, which also may be subject 8 to -- it's something that maybe you ought to 9 take a look at that too.

10 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I'm going
11 to make it a separate subdivision.

12 JUSTICE CORNELIUS: Where is 13 that now?

14 CHAIRMAN SOULES: See, the 15 operative first sentence says, "At any time 16 before the plaintiff has introduced all of 17 plaintiff's evidence other than rebuttal
18 evidence, the plaintiff may dismiss an entire 19 case or dismiss the action as to one or more 20 or several parties." So it's got to be that a 21 party is gone or the case is gone.

22 MR. ORSINGER: Not just one
23 claim.

24 CHAIRMAN SOULES: All of it.
25 All of it.

1 JUSTICE CORNELIUS: Well, do
2 you want to change that to claim --

3 MR. ORSINGER: I don't know.

4 CHAIRMAN SOULES: A party may
5 dismiss --

6 JUSTICE CORNELIUS: I think
7 that sentence about abandonment ought to be 8 deleted entirely.

9 MS. SWEENEY: Mr. Chairman.

10 JUSTICE CORNELIUS: I think
11 it's going to confuse people and confound the 12 law of res judicata, because somebody is going 13 to get the idea that they can go through a 14 trial and right at the end of the trial 15 abandon a claim and escape res judicata. And 16 I don't believe they can, because the rule of 17 res judicata is if you tried it or if it could 18 have been tried in that suit, it's foreclosed 19 by res judicata.

20 MS. SWEENEY: Confusion is why
21 my hand is up.

22 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Paula
23 Sweeney.

24 MS. SWEENEY: At the risk of 25 being annoying after all of this discussion,

1 this ain't broke. There are no problems
2 currently existing in Texas practice having to 3 do with nonsuits and voluntary dismissals. We 4 have just created the possibility of hundreds 5 of appellate opinions. Isn't this something
6 we should just leave be? I mean, it sounds 7 like we're making a lot more mess --

8 MR. ORSINGER: Luke, let me
9 respond.

10 MS. SWEENEY: -- with the 11 changes. All right.

12 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Richard
13 Orsinger.

14 MR. ORSINGER: We've been 15 requested to fix a Moriel problem.

16 MS. SWEENEY: Aside from 17 Moriel.

18 MR. ORSINGER: That Moriel
19 problem raises the separate trial problem. We 20 have also been requested and have voted to 21 keep people from inadvertently dropping 22 defendants by amending their pleadings. And 23 we've also undertaken to include in here that 24 while a nonsuit may be effective immediately 25 for purposes of the trial court, it has no

1 effect for purposes of appeal until there's an 2 order confirming it, which is what the Supreme 3 Court held.

4 Now, none of that is apparent in the 5 rules as currently written. So we have four 6 things that we have to do, and then the rest
7 of it we don't have to do. But if we're doing 8 those four things, this isn't going to look a 9 thing like what it looks like already.

10 MS. SWEENEY: Okay. You're 11 right. I was just being annoying.

12 CHAIRMAN SOULES: All right.
13 Another alternative may be to say in that 14 first sentence, "At any time before the 15 plaintiff has introduced all of his evidence 16 other than rebuttal, the plaintiff may dismiss 17 any claims or issues as to one or more of 18 several parties." That's really what the 19 practice is now.

20 MR. ORSINGER: That's true. Do
21 you want to say "any or all claims or issues"?

22 CHAIRMAN SOULES: That's fine
23 with me if that adds clarity.

24 MS. SWEENEY: Claims, issues or 25 parties.

1                   CHAIRMAN SOULES: Any or all 2 claims or issues as to one or more of several 3 parties.

4                   MR. HAMILTON: You don't 5 dismiss issues, you dismiss claims.

6                   MR. ORSINGER: Well --

7                   CHAIRMAN SOULES: I don't have 8 a problem with that unless somebody else does.

9                   MR. ORSINGER: Yeah, the 10 problem I have with that concept is that we 11 might have a separate trial on an issue but we 12 haven't completed our trial of the claim. I 13 don't like the outcome of my separate trial on 14 my issue, and I say, "Ah, but you nonsuit 15 claims, not issues." And therefore, since I 16 haven't completely tried my claim, I can 17 nonsuit now.

18                   CHAIRMAN SOULES: All right.
19 Leave it "claims," as Carl suggested, in the 20 first sentence and then pick up in the second 21 sentence, "But if the trial is bifurcated into 22 separate trials, the plaintiff cannot dismiss 23 or nonsuit any claim or issue." Put it 24 there. That's where we need to talk about it, 25 because issues would be tried separately on

1 that rule.

2 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I don't
3 think you want to say "claims" in the 4 beginning, Luke, because you want to be able 5 to abandon the claim after you've rested
6 because the rebuttal evidence is messing up
7 the rest of your case

8 MR. ORSINGER: We can't mix up
9 abandonment and nonsuit, though. The first 10 sentence is a nonsuit sentence, isn't it, and 11 not an abandonment sentence?

12 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, but
13 if we're talking about claims, then it's both.

14 MR. HAMILTON: You're talking
15 about the whole suit, aren't you? On a 16 nonsuit you're talking about the whole suit.

17 CHAIRMAN SOULES: No, we're --

18 MR. HAMILTON: And if it's 19 bifurcated, you're talking about the whole
20 bifurcated part or the whole separate part.

21 MR. ORSINGER: Well, what is 22 the difference --

23 CHAIRMAN SOULES: All we're 24 really talking about, it seems to me, are 25 three things. And I do believe that we

1 nonsuit claims without nonsuiting the entire 2 case.

3 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I thought
4 it was parties. I think it's parties.

5 CHAIRMAN SOULES: All right.
6 Parties. Claims and parties.

7 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: No, I just 8 think it's just parties, you know; entire 9 case, nonsuit all the parties or nonsuit one 10 party. I think with claims we're talking 11 about amending pleadings. Now, maybe that's 12 just --

13 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, if 14 you're right --

15 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: -- too
16 technical.

17 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. Then
18 we still need the second sentence to have a 19 preclusive effect on whatever has actually 20 been tried. Whether it's in the right words 21 or not I'm not suggesting. And then we need 22 abandonment to take care of relinquishing --

23 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: --
24 relinquishing claims --

25 CHAIRMAN SOULES: -- issues or

1 claims, things smaller than the entire cause 2 of action.

3 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, I
4 think that I'm going to take abandonment out 5 of here.

6 CHAIRMAN SOULES: And Judge
7 Cornelius, Chief Justice Cornelius feels like 8 that the abandonment thing I guess should be 9 ignored altogether, should be deleted
10 altogether.

11 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Because 12 the little bit of benefit -- I would think the 13 argument would be that the little bit of 14 benefit that it confers is far outweighed by 15 the mischief that it could create.

16 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well --

17 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Maybe we 18 ought to draft it and see if you think that 19 afterwards.

20 CHAIRMAN SOULES: It could be 21 pretty beneficial if your case is -- if you 22 need to start doing something to shape your 23 case --

24 JUSTICE CORNELIUS: But you can 25 do that anyway, can't you, by just announcing

1 it into the record?

2 CHAIRMAN SOULES: That you
3 abandon that element of damages, yes. But 4 there has to be a mechanism, and this is the 5 mechanism that we're on.

6 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Somebody
7 could say, Judge, that you can't do it without 8 leave of court because you're amending, 9 because you have to do that by amending your 10 pleadings and you can't amend your pleadings, 11 you know, during trial even to take something
12 out.

13 JUSTICE CORNELIUS: I would 14 think that if the attorney stood up and 15 announced in open court that he was abandoning 16 his claim as to a particular issue that that 17 would be a judicial admission.

18 MR. LATTING: It's always 19 worked for me.

20 JUSTICE CORNELIUS: And that 21 would be it.

22 MR. LATTING: I never had any 23 trouble doing that.

24 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: When you
25 would do it, though, is when you were hearing

1 this rebuttal evidence that you think is going 2 to cause you to lose your entire case that you 3 can keep out if you abandon a claim that is 4 still in your pleadings. And I can hear
5 somebody saying, "They can't do that, Judge."

6 JUSTICE CORNELIUS: Does it
7 have to be entered of record in the court --

8 MS. SWEENEY: They opened the 9 door. They can do it.

10 CHAIRMAN SOULES: It would be 11 on the record. I mean, it sure should be in 12 the court reporter's notes.

13 JUSTICE CORNELIUS: It would be 14 on the court reporter's notes, but this 15 says --

16 MR. GALLAGHER: You would keep 17 165 --

18 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: -- but 19 make it clear --

20 MR. GALLAGHER: Yes.

21 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: -- as to 22 what it's about. And I would write it to talk 23 about before trial and during trial.

24 JUSTICE CORNELIUS: They have 25 the fact entered of record.

1 MR. GALLAGHER: Yes.

2 MS. SWEENEY: A big difference.

3 CHAIRMAN SOULES: "Entered of 4 record" is also a poor choice. "Entered" is 5 what the clerk does after judgment and with 6 orders. We're really talking about --

7 MR. ORSINGER: We're talking
8 about three things.

9 CHAIRMAN SOULES: We're saying
10 it's in open court --

11 MR. ORSINGER: We're talking
12 about in the statements of facts, in a docket 13 entry probably, and by the signed order.
14 That's really what we're talking about, isn't 15 it?

16 MS. SWEENEY: No, we mean on 17 the record.

18 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, what if 19 we add a sentence "while on the record"?

20 MS. SWEENEY: On the record.

21 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Judge
22 Cornelius says let's just get a show of hands 23 on those who think that the concept of --

24 MR. ORSINGER: In the court
25 reporter's notes.

1 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Those who
2 feel we should keep the concept of abandonment
3 in the rules show by hands. Keep it.

4 MR. GALLAGHER: In the rules,
5 period?

6 JUSTICE CORNELIUS: In this
7 rule.

8 CHAIRMAN SOULES: In the rules.

9 MR. GALLAGHER: In the rules,
10 period?

11 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Anywhere.

12 MS. SWEENEY: Somewhere there 13 is permission to abandon things.

14 MR. GALLAGHER: Okay. Yes.

15 CHAIRMAN SOULES: In addition 16 to the concept of --

17 MR. ORSINGER: -- nonsuit.

18 CHAIRMAN SOULES: -- nonsuit.

19 14.

20 Those opposed. Two.

21 Okay. Well, it stays in.

22 Does that pretty well wrap this up in 23 terms of our assistance?

24 MR. ORSINGER: No. I've got -- 25 there are two things that I feel like we ought

1 to talk about while we're focused on it. Do 2 you want to do that?

3 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. Let's
4 do. Let's talk about it.

5 MR. ORSINGER: Okay. We have a
6 sentence here, "Omission of a party from the 7 pleadings does not dismiss the action as to 8 the omitted party." We put that in there 9 because of people that inadvertently drop 10 defendants when they amend pleadings.
11 However, it may result in a party having a 12 judgment entered or rendered against them when 13 they're not in the pleadings. And I have due 14 process problems with that. If no one else 15 does, let's move on.

16 But if I'm dropped from somebody's
17 lawsuit, I'm not in the pleadings, I'm not 18 getting certified mail notices of anything 19 else, and then all of a sudden a judgment is 20 rendered against me because this rule says 21 that they have to file a separate piece of 22 paper saying I was dismissed, I've got a 23 problem with that.

24 Number two, the next sentence, "Notice of 25 voluntary dismissal of the entire case or one

1 or more parties is immediately effective
2 without necessity of court order if the notice 3 is filed separately from the pleadings," that 4 kind of follows from the previous one that if 5 we're going to dismiss everybody or if we're 6 going to dismiss one party, we have to do it 7 in some manner other than by filing -- by just 8 filing an amended pleading. But it also makes 9 it look like you cannot become immediately
10 effective unless you file the separate 11 notice. You see, it becomes immediately
12 effective if the notice is filed separately.

13 Those of us who have nonsuited, it's 14 critically important to know that your nonsuit
15 is effective before the other side can race 16 out and file a counterclaim, so we want to be 17 careful that the immediately effective part is 18 upon oral utterance of the nonsuit and that 19 the requirement of a separate document to tell 20 everyone that they've been dismissed is just 21 more of an administrative thing rather than a 22 condition for the nonsuit. The way this is 23 written, it makes it a condition of the 24 nonsuit.

25 CHAIRMAN SOULES: The way this

1 is written you can't have a nonsuit except in 2 writing.

3 MR. ORSINGER: Well, if the 4 nonsuit entirely removes a party, that's 5 true. You can nonsuit a claim, but if you try 6 to take a party out --

7 CHAIRMAN SOULES: That's 8 abandonment.

9 MR. GALLAGHER: You don't 10 nonsuit a claim, Richard.

11 MR. ORSINGER: I think you can 12 nonsuit claims. And I think that as long as 13 you don't take a party out entirely --

14 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, where 15 were you 15 months ago?

16 MR. ORSINGER: I'm sorry.
17 Okay. You can't nonsuit a claim.

18 What do you do when you decide to --

19 MR. GALLAGHER: -- not pursue
20 it?

21 MR. ORSINGER: Yeah.

22 MR. GALLAGHER: You don't say
23 you nonsuit it.

24 CHAIRMAN SOULES: That side of 25 the table says that you can't nonsuit it

1 because you can only nonsuit parties and --

2 MR. GALLAGHER: -- and cases.

3 MR. ORSINGER: Look, I heard
4 Bill's speech, but he's a procedure
5 professor.

6 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, Carl is 7 down there too. He's --

8 MR. ORSINGER: I'm a trial
9 lawyer; I nonsuit claims all the time.

10 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Carl is a
11 real lawyer. Now -- Bill, excuse me.

12 MR. ORSINGER: Maybe you can't 13 nonsuit a claim.

14 MR. HAMILTON: I'm just going
15 by what the rule says.

16 MR. GALLAGHER: Well, if we're 17 using "dismissal" and "nonsuit" in the same 18 phrase, it talks in terms of dismissing or 19 nonsuiting a case, not a claim.

20 CHAIRMAN SOULES: That's what
21 it says.

22 MR. GALLAGHER: And that's what 23 the rule has always said.

24 MR. ORSINGER: Well, I would 25 like to at least have someone think about the

1 wisdom of the requirement that you can't 2 nonsuit a party -- pardon me. Yeah -- no.
3 That would be correct. You can't nonsuit a 4 party without filing a written notice of it.

5 MR. GALLAGHER: I agree with
6 that.

7 MR. ORSINGER: And if that 8 written notice is in fact something we're 9 going to require, I would like it to be clear 10 that the nonsuit is effective the instant you 11 utter it regardless of the fact that it may 12 take you a day to confirm it by a written 13 document.

14 I also want to make it clear that when 15 the day comes that somebody who has been 16 dropped from the pleadings and doesn't show up 17 for trial has a judgment entered against them 18 because the separate piece of paper was never 19 filed, there's going to be some angry
20 defendant. And I think we're writing that 21 into this rule.

22 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, that's 23 two things.

24 MR. GALLAGHER: But first can I
25 just respond real quick?

1 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Mike
2 Gallagher.

3 MR. GALLAGHER: To the first 4 point, if a party is omitted from the 5 pleadings, Richard, and subsequently the case
6 is set for trial and that party is not 7 notified of the trial setting or not notified 8 of any other proceeding that's taken in 9 connection with that case, they have a lot of 10 due process with --

11 MR. ORSINGER: --
12 constitutional arguments, but not rules that 13 help them. Our rule doesn't help them. Our 14 rule says you're still a party. The 15 constitution says --

16 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Richard, you 17 can't do that.

18 MR. ORSINGER: Am I wrong?

19 CHAIRMAN SOULES: You're doing
20 the same thing. You're jumping right on top 21 of Mike's words.

22 MR. ORSINGER: I'm sorry.
23 Sorry, sorry, sorry.

24 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: On the one 25 part, the notice of voluntary dismissal, we

1 could approach this a different way by 2 reference to a relation back concept. The 3 Supreme Court case that said when somebody was 4 in the case and then they got dropped out and 5 then they got added back in, I think, does 6 require them to be added back, all right, 7 before they're in the judgment. But it thinks 8 about relation -- it talked about it in terms
9 of relation back. Now, that complicates it 10 perhaps unnecessarily.

11 What we're trying to do is to save
12 somebody who amends, does the fifth amended 13 petition, leaves some people out and then 14 realizes it before trial and then puts them
15 back in. And the people who were dropped out 16 say, "Ha-ha, when you dropped me out, your 17 clock starts all over again from when you add 18 me back in," and limitations bars the claim, 19 even though it was an inadvertent omission.

20 But relation back takes care of 21 thinking -- it complicates this from a 22 drafting standpoint, but it takes care of some 23 of your conceptual problems.

24 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Paula.

25 MS. SWEENEY: Well, as to the

1 one problem, I think if you provide, with 2 regard to speaking it versus writing it, that 3 it is effective upon either a written notice 4 or being spoken in open court, you know, on 5 the record, or on the record as opposed to 6 being entered in the record or of record or 7 whatever that was, if it's on the record or 8 it's in writing, it's effective, and that 9 solves that problem.

10 And as to the other, if they're 11 inadvertently omitted and you realize it and 12 you put them back, we've added that sentence 13 that says that doesn't constitute a nonsuit.
14 And of course, anything that happened that 15 they didn't have notice of isn't going to be 16 binding against them. And all of the rules 17 that we already have drafted and argued about 18 forever about notice and mailing and three 19 days and all of those things already covers
20 that.

21 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: This says
22 it's immediately effective, which you wanted 23 me to add back in and I may have 24 misunderstood, if the notice is filed 25 separately from the pleadings, if and only if

1 notice is filed separately from the 2 pleadings.

3 MS. SWEENEY: Or made in open
4 court -- sorry.

5 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: But what
6 I'm hearing people saying now is you want it 7 immediately effective. But if it's 8 inadvertent, you want the new pleading that 9 adds the person back in to relate back to the 10 pleading that included that person to begin 11 with.

12 MS. SWEENEY: Because you're 13 mixing concepts, because the one is an 14 affirmative "I nonsuit you," whether it be in 15 writing or orally. I am doing this. You are 16 out of here. The other is, gee, my secretary 17 didn't put it in the pleadings, and two weeks 18 later somebody notices it, which is an 19 entirely -- it is not an affirmative, overt 20 act of nonsuit; it is an omission from a
21 pleading.

22 And the two are totally distinct, and all 23 the omission from the pleading language is 24 meant to do is say that does not constitute a 25 nonsuit. It's not a nonsuit. It's just an

1 omission. It's a typo.

2 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, I
3 can understand what you're saying, but I think 4 people should read their pleadings, not let 5 somebody else just type them up.

6 MS. SWEENEY: Every time?

7 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Yeah.

8 MR. BABCOCK: But suppose it's 9 not an inadvertent two-week deal, but that 10 I've been in this case and then all of a 11 sudden I get a pleading that omits my client 12 and omits all of the allegations to him and 13 that goes on for a year, and then in month 13 14 all of a sudden I'm back and the trial is in 15 month 14. Do you want to allow that to 16 happen?

17 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: If we 18 write it in relation back terms, we could 19 provide some protection. But it's a very --

20 MR. BABCOCK: I know that's a 21 way-out example.

22 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Maybe it's 23 so complicated it's just very hard to --

24 MR. BABCOCK: But I've now gone
25 a year thinking I'm out of the case, and so

1 I'm not doing anything.

2 MS. SWEENEY: Oh, you did not 3 think that; you just hoped that they wouldn't 4 catch it.

5 MR. BABCOCK: Or I'm hoping. I
6 hope that I'm out of the case.

7 MR. GALLAGHER: Yeah.

8 HON. SCOTT A. BRISTER: Or
9 you've had an oral conversation where you were 10 told, "I'm going to drop you" --

11 MR. GALLAGHER: Yeah. And that 12 does happen.

13 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Now, one at a 14 time. Okay. What?

15 HON. SCOTT A. BRISTER: If you
16 have an oral conversation saying, "I'm going 17 to probably drop your client," and then you 18 get a petition that does drop your client, is 19 that going to satisfy Rule 11? Not if they 20 come back in and say it was inadvertent.

21 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, does -- 22 didn't we get a show of hands once before that 23 omission of a party from -- I guess it should 24 say amended pleadings, does not dismiss --

25 JUSTICE CORNELIUS: It really

1 should say -- it presupposes that, but you
2 might ought to say "amended or supplemental 3 pleading."

4 MS. SWEENEY: And if you forgot
5 to put it in your original petition --

6 CHAIRMAN SOULES:
7 (Continuing) -- does not dismiss the action as 8 to the omitted party. We had a division of 9 the house on that, and the majority was for 10 this rule. Now, we -- I don't recall whether 11 the debate included the points being raised 12 now by Richard. Do we want to change that?

13 MS. SWEENEY: No.

14 CHAIRMAN SOULES: We've never 15 voted on the rule as a whole, so if we need to 16 adjust it, we can.

17 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: The 18 Supreme Court opinion assumes that when you're 19 getting down to the trial and judgment that 20 the person will be in the pleadings, I think.
21 And it does try to analogize this to a 22 relation back concept, and maybe we ought to 23 give it another try and stay closer to the 24 Supreme Court opinion.

25 CHAIRMAN SOULES: What relates

1 back?

2 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: The --

3 MR. ORSINGER: The finally 4 amended pleading relates back to the 5 previously correct pleading.

6 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: You skip
7 the one --

8 MR. ORSINGER: There's a gap.

9 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: You skip
10 the one that you don't like because it left 11 out your plaintiffs or defendants.

12 MR. ORSINGER: Your final 13 amendment relates back to your last pleading 14 where the party was mentioned because they 15 inadvertently dropped them and then added them 16 later, but there was a gap and their 17 limitations ran, and so they're saying your 18 finally amended pleading related back to your 19 third most recent pleading, which was your one 20 accurately stated.

21 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. This 22 will work whether it's an omitted plaintiff or 23 defendants?

24 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Uh-huh.

25 CHAIRMAN SOULES: So if you

1 fail to name a plaintiff in that amended
2 pleading, it's not a dismissal?

3 MR. ORSINGER: We better say
4 "amended," because what if we fail to mention 5 them in the original pleading and come in and 6 add about 15 parties after the limitations has 7 run.

8 MR. BABCOCK: It relates back.

9 MR. ORSINGER: It's 10 inadvertent. We have to say amended.

11 JUSTICE CORNELIUS: Obviously 12 if he's omitted from the initial pleading he 13 is --

14 MR. ORSINGER: He's out of 15 luck.

16 CHAIRMAN SOULES: So omission
17 of a party from amended pleadings does not 18 dismiss. How many agree with that, that it 19 does not? Four.

20 Okay. How many say it does? Five.

21 MS. SWEENEY: There were 22 actually five hands the first time, if you 23 want to do that again.

24 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. Oh,
25 you counted five the first time?

1 Does not dismiss.

2 MR. HAMILTON: We're talking
3 about an inadvertent --

4 MR. GALLAGHER: Yes, sir.

5 MR. HAMILTON: -- omission?

6 MR. ORSINGER: Well, we don't 7 know if it's inadvertent or not.

8 CHAIRMAN SOULES: How do I know
9 when I get it whether it's inadvertent?

10 MR. GALLAGHER: I will tell you
11 as soon as I find out.

12 CHAIRMAN SOULES: It has to be 13 as soon as somebody figures it out. I think 14 it's got to be on the face of the pleadings, 15 either there or not there.

16 HON. SCOTT A. BRISTER: On the 17 initial pleading?

18 MR. ORSINGER: No, only 19 amended.

20 CHAIRMAN SOULES: We're -- the 21 initial pleading -- we're starting with an 22 initial set of parties, plaintiff and 23 defendant. Now we're getting to amended
24 pleadings. The amended pleadings omit either 25 a plaintiff or a defendant. That does or does

1 not dismiss as to the omitted party. Okay.

2 Those in --

3 MR. GALLAGHER: Does not 4 dismiss first?

5 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Does not 6 dismiss, right. Six.

7 Okay. Now, who would say that it does?
8 Who would hold that it does? Five.

9 All right. Six to five it does not.

10 MR. HAMILTON: Luke.

11 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Carl
12 Hamilton.

13 MR. HAMILTON: Suppose you have 14 him omitted in an amended pleading and then 15 the next pleading puts him back in. That's 16 one scenario. Clearly --

17 CHAIRMAN SOULES: You've got to 18 serve him again.

19 MR. HAMILTON: Huh?

20 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Under this 21 vote you've got to serve him again.

22 MR. HAMILTON: Well, I was 23 saying that clearly under that scenario it was 24 an inadvertent omission which doesn't dismiss
25 him. But if he never gets put back in and you

1 go to trial, then that could clearly be a
2 dismissal. So you've got different scenarios
3 as to what could happen.

4 MR. ORSINGER: And the problem
5 I have with what Carl just said is that we may 6 have an excellent 14th Amendment argument, but 7 our Rules of Procedure shouldn't just break
8 down and our safety net is the 14th Amendment.
9 Our Rules of Procedure should require that if 10 someone is going to trial against you, you 11 know it.

12 CHAIRMAN SOULES: I think so
13 too.

14 MS. SWEENEY: Luke.

15 CHAIRMAN SOULES: How can you
16 get a jury question if --

17 MR. GALLAGHER: You can't get 18 an issue --

19 CHAIRMAN SOULES: -- if the 20 person is not named?

21 MR. GALLAGHER: You cannot get 22 an issue against that party. That party's 23 name will not be in the charge if they are 24 omitted from the pleadings and remain omitted.

25 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Unless

1 there's a trial by --

2 MR. GALLAGHER: The problem
3 they were trying to address is a problem that 4 we all face, particularly if you're suing a 5 defendant that has many different corporate 6 shells, all of which look and appear very 7 similar to one another. And I think you've 8 done it.

9 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Paula
10 Sweeney.

11 MS. SWEENEY: You all are doing
12 angels dancing on the head of a pin here.

13 MR. GALLAGHER: Sure.

14 MS. SWEENEY: This rule was 15 never meant to contemplate I leave you out of 16 the pleadings, I try the case against you, I 17 get a verdict, and then I execute, and you 18 first realize, gee, you weren't dismissed.

19 It was meant to contemplate a situation 20 where you get left out, nothing happens that's 21 prejudicial, and you come back in. That's 22 what it's about.

23 MR. LATTING: Yes.

24 MR. GALLAGHER: The rule,
25 Chapter 32 or 33 of the Civil Practice and

1 Remedies Code says that the only persons whose 2 conduct would be submitted to the jury are 3 those from whom the plaintiff is seeking 4 relief at the time of submission of the case
5 to the jury.

6 If a party is omitted, they're not a 7 person from whom the plaintiff or claimant is 8 seeking relief at the time of submission of 9 the case to the jury.

10 MR. ORSINGER: I disagree, if 11 this is our rule, because our rule says don't 12 look at the pleadings, look to whether they 13 were in prior pleadings and there's a separate 14 document dismissing them. If they were in 15 prior pleadings and there is not a separate 16 document dismissing them, they're still in the 17 lawsuit even though their name isn't in the 18 pleadings. That's what this rule would do.

19 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: It does.
20 It has to be written, again, in terms of 21 relation back. This, our committee draft, is 22 no good.

23 MR. BABCOCK: Says the author
24 who drafted it.

25 MR. ORSINGER: That's pride of 1 authorship talking there.

2 MR. GALLAGHER: But when we 3 took our vote a moment ago, we were only 4 voting on the question of whether or not what 5 we all recognize we're trying to deal with 6 here, an inadvertent omission --

7 MS. SWEENEY: Exactly. A
8 temporary inadvertent omission.

9 MR. GALLAGHER: -- would have 10 the effect of a nonsuit.

11 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, I don't 12 know.

13 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I'm going 14 to --

15 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, if
16 we're going to talk about relation back, I
17 guess we ought to raise it. How long does it 18 relate back; how does it -- what triggers 19 relation back?

20 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I don't
21 know whether we're -- the only thing we know 22 now from the opinion is like what's called 23 inadvertent -- whatever the opinion says, but 24 I think it is inadvertent, nonintentional 25 omission.

1 MS. SWEENEY: Nonprejudicial.

2 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: And
3 nonprejudicial. And I think we're back to the 4 drawing board on this, and it doesn't really 5 profit to -- it was profitable to go back to 6 learn that we need to go back to the drawing
7 board, and that this approach has the problems 8 that Richard mentioned. We don't have 9 pleadings -- I mean, maybe you could just do 10 it without -- have no pleadings at all, but 11 there's no notice of -- no notice of 12 separately filed, but you still have a case.

13 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. Then
14 the next thing is notice of the voluntary 15 dismissal is effective immediately without the 16 necessity of court order. I thought that was 17 in the rule, but apparently it's not. I can't 18 find it.

19 MR. BABCOCK: There's case law.

20 CHAIRMAN SOULES: There is case
21 law.

22 MR. ORSINGER: But we get 23 tripped up because of the "if" clause that 24 follows that.

25 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: It is

1 in --

2 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Where?

3 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Without
4 necessity of court order is in rule one --

5 MR. GALLAGHER: -- sixty-two.

6 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Yeah,
7 Rule 162 in the second unnumbered paragraph.

8 CHAIRMAN SOULES: It just says
9 notice shall be served on any party without 10 necessity of court order. It doesn't say that 11 the nonsuit is effective without necessity of 12 court order.

13 MR. ORSINGER: Well, the 14 Supreme Court has clearly said that.

15 MR. BABCOCK: They have said
16 that.

17 MR. ORSINGER: They definitely
18 have said that, because I have saved my butt 19 many times.

20 CHAIRMAN SOULES: So --

21 MR. ORSINGER: But the "if"
22 clause makes that absolute right to verbally 23 nonsuit conditional, and it makes it look like 24 it is effective immediately only upon the 25 filing of a separate notice. And that bothers

1 me, because now you'll announce a nonsuit and 2 if they can get a counterclaim on file before 3 you can get your separate written nonsuit on 4 file --

5 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: The 6 redraft will not say that, because the 7 relation back concept replaces that.

8 Paula's idea about --

9 MS. SWEENEY: -- or in open
10 court.

11 CHAIRMAN SOULES: We haven't 12 talked about that, relation back.

13 MS. SWEENEY: No, this doesn't 14 have to do with relation back. This is where 15 you're going to put in the "or in open court." 16 You can do it in writing or in open court, and 17 that solves his problem.

18 CHAIRMAN SOULES: It should be 19 either filed of record or announced in open 20 court on the record.

21 MS. SWEENEY: Exactly. And 22 that solves Richard's problem; that if you say 23 it and there's a court reporter there, then 24 you don't have to write the piece of paper; or 25 you can write the piece of paper from your

1 office and send it, and then you don't have to 2 say it.

3 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Or by 4 amending your pleadings, too.

5 MR. ORSINGER: Yeah, yeah. But 6 we're forgetting something here. The "if"
7 clause is in there to pick up the same concept 8 that you can't -- you might inadvertently be 9 nonsuiting somebody, so we're asking for 10 written confirmation. Perhaps we shouldn't.
11 But this "if the notice is filed separately 12 from the pleadings" I think follows from the 13 same concept that we want to know the names of 14 the people that you're nonsuiting.

15 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: "Written 16 confirmation" is out of the redraft.

17 MR. ORSINGER: Out of the 18 redraft.

19 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Because
20 it's going to be relation back. When you 21 amend your pleadings and drop somebody out, 22 they are out, you have nonsuited them, but 23 you're going to get to add them back in. It's 24 going to relate back under a relation back 25 concept.

1 MR. ORSINGER: I follow you. I
2 follow you.

3 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: So the 4 approach is wrong here. And if you change the 5 approach, you satisfy almost all of the other 6 things you people are talking about.

7 CHAIRMAN SOULES:
8 Notwithstanding limitations, you get to add 9 them back.

10 MR. ORSINGER: That's what the 11 Supreme Court has said.

12 MR. GALLAGHER: Yes.

13 MS. SWEENEY: Yes.

14 HON. SCOTT A. BRISTER: That's 15 the law.

16 MR. HAMILTON: But what Richard
17 is --

18 CHAIRMAN SOULES: I mean,
19 the -- okay. Go ahead.

20 MR. HAMILTON: But what Richard
21 is suggesting does not cover that. He's 22 saying that -- I mean, Paula is saying that 23 you can make your nonsuit in open court or by 24 filing something, so that doesn't have 25 anything to do with relation back.

1 MR. GALLAGHER: This is the 2 intentional -- this is the nonsuit with an 3 intent to get the party out of the case --

4 MR. HAMILTON: Right.

5 MR. GALLAGHER: -- for whatever
6 reason.

7 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. We're
8 talking about two different things.

9 MR. GALLAGHER: And then when 10 we're talking about omission, you're talking 11 about a circumstance in which there has been 12 an inadvertent failure to include a party in a
13 pleading.

14 CHAIRMAN SOULES: We're talking
15 about two different things. This pleading 16 thing, the omission from a pleading, Bill is 17 going to write it.

18 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Right.

19 MR. GALLAGHER: And you're 20 right, it should be amended pleading.

21 CHAIRMAN SOULES: That's a dead
22 issue right now. As far as this meeting is 23 concerned, that's history. Bill is going to 24 rewrite that and we're going to look at it 25 again.

1           The other thing, though, however, is when 2 is a nonsuit effective. And that should be --

3           MS. SWEENEY: Instantaneously.

4           CHAIRMAN SOULES: -- either 5 when it's filed or made in open court on the 6 record.

7           MR. ORSINGER: Whichever is 8 first.

9           MR. HAMILTON: Except that you
10 may not want to limit it to on the record
11 unless that includes a docket entry, because a 12 lot of times you may not have a court reporter
13 there.

14          MS. SWEENEY: That's true.

15          PROFESSOR DORSANEO: There are 16 cases which are pretty broad, and I don't 17 think you're probably going to want to depart
18 from them, that indicate as to how you go 19 about doing a nonsuit, and they're very 20 liberal and they include all of these. And 21 what you want added into the rule, I'm 22 hearing, is you want the rule to the say how 23 or what the various ways are doing this 24 nonsuit, which it doesn't say now.

25          MS. SWEENEY: Right. It just

1 needs to be real clear what the law is now,
2 which is you can speak it, you can write it,
3 you know.

4 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: And
5 Mr. Chairman, I will put those in from the 6 cases, and then when we review it again, if 7 somebody doesn't think that they're sufficient 8 or doesn't like one, then we can change it 9 then.

10 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. And 11 then you're going to struggle with what is 12 this thing that we call -- that we do that 13 releases part of a cause of action.

14 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I'm 15 pretty -- in my head I think I have it. If I 16 go back and do this pretty quickly, I don't 17 think it will take me that much time.

18 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. Now, 19 then that pretty well wraps up (a), is that 20 correct?

21 MR. ORSINGER: Yes.

22 CHAIRMAN SOULES: We're going
23 to go to 5:30, so let's try to get (b) out of 24 the way too, if there's anything here to 25 discuss.

1                   PROFESSOR DORSANEO: (b) should 2 be easy. The only change -- (b) is a very 3 good rule. The only thing I did with the rule 4 was take out some archaic word that was in 5 here. And this basically says that if you 6 don't serve somebody, you can keep going or 7 stop.

8                   MR. BABCOCK: Why don't we just 9 say that?

10                  MR. LATTING: That's a great
11 rule.

12                  CHAIRMAN SOULES: But there's 13 another issue here as to where it says, "but 14 no dismissal shall be allowed as to a 15 principal obligor without also dismissing the 16 parties secondarily liable except in cases 17 provided by statute." Now, there are a lot of 18 contractual provisions that permit that.

19                  PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well,
20 true. And that's really part of the next rule 21 that you haven't seen either, Actions
22 Against -- I don't know what it will be 23 titled, but now it says Actions Against 24 Accommodation Makers and Endorsers, which has 25 been added.

1 MR. HAMILTON: Is (b) a new 2 rule or is that an old rule?

3 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: That's an 4 existing rule almost verbatim. And it's a
5 very good rule considering that you have a 6 case and you've named an individual and four 7 corporate shells as parties and you don't ever 8 serve one of the corporate shells because 9 frankly you end up reaching the conclusion
10 that it may not even exist as a corporation, 11 but you thought it might be one when you 12 started.

13 This says that you can proceed against 14 those who are served -- no. The plaintiff may 15 either dismiss as to those not so served and 16 proceed against those who are, or take new 17 process against those not served, or obtain 18 severance. And then the last sentence
19 indicates that there's no exoneration.

20 Maybe the rule could be improved on, but 21 it seems like a pretty good rule, and when I 22 left it out, it was completely inadvertent.

23 MR. HAMILTON: Does it give one 24 a right to a severance even though he might 25 not otherwise be entitled to it?

1 MR. ORSINGER: Sure. In other
2 words, you probably wouldn't meet the regular 3 standards of severance because the claims 4 probably are intertwined and all of that, but 5 you can't proceed against them without service 6 and you can't say that the ones who are in 7 court don't ever have to go to trial until 8 they find this missing person. To me this 9 supplants the ordinary severance standards.

10 CHAIRMAN SOULES: We don't have 11 clerks here, do we?

12 The citations no longer have times, do 13 they? It used to be they lasted for 90 days, 14 but I think that's been changed.

15 PROFESSOR CARLSON: No, that's 16 gone.

17 CHAIRMAN SOULES: What?

18 PROFESSOR CARLSON: That's 19 gone.

20 CHAIRMAN SOULES: That's gone.
21 So this "with process in due time," that must 22 be what that means.

23 MR. ORSINGER: We certainly 24 don't need to take new process against those 25 served then, do we, Luke, because our process

1 doesn't expire now.

2 CHAIRMAN SOULES: That's
3 right. That change was made some time ago.

4 MR. ORSINGER: Then in the 5 fourth line we can take out "he may take new 6 process against those not served."

7 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: No.

8 MR. ORSINGER: Why not?

9 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: No, you
10 shouldn't -- well, take out "he" and fix 11 that. And I think "in due time," you're 12 probably right, Luke, probably that could come 13 out.

14 But you may have served somebody, and you 15 need to -- because of this corporation you 16 need to serve them again because your first 17 service was ineffective because you had some 18 misinformation about the home office or the 19 principal office, you know, or some other 20 problem, which can happen a lot.

21 HON. SCOTT A. BRISTER: I'm not 22 sure about the 90 days anymore, but I know 23 that constables after two or three tries send 24 it back to the court. And if you want them 25 served, you're going to have to call the 1 constable again.

2 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Right, or get 3 a court order.

4 MR. ORSINGER: Do you have to 5 get a new citation out under those 6 circumstances?

7 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Let's go 8 through this first before we --

9 HON. SCOTT A. BRISTER: Or at 10 least a new request.

11 CHAIRMAN SOULES: No, you don't 12 have to get a new citation. Well, I'm not 13 sure of that. I guess if the citation is 14 returned --

15 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Unserved.

16 CHAIRMAN SOULES: -- with some 17 notation that it can't be served, you may have 18 to get a new citation, because that one may be 19 canceled by that sheriff's notation or some 20 server's notation.

21 But let's see, just tracking through it, 22 "When some of the several defendants in a 23 suit are served with process" -- I think "in 24 due time" should come out unless you all come 25 up with a reason for it -- "and others are not

1 so served, the plaintiff may either dismiss as 2 to those not so served and proceed against 3 those who are, or he may serve those not 4 served."

5 That doesn't require -- it may or may not 6 require a new process, right? Take out the 7 words "take new process against," but insert
8 "served."

9 MR. ORSINGER: Why do we need
10 to say that he can serve them? He knows he 11 can serve them. He tried to get them served 12 the first time. If he hasn't served them, he 13 can serve them? We all know that.

14 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay.

15 MR. ORSINGER: Do we need that 16 clause that if he hasn't got service he can 17 still serve them?

18 HON. SCOTT A. BRISTER: Is this 19 just a nonsuit rule for nonserved parties?

20 MS. SWEENEY: Or severance.
21 That's the other part of it.

22 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, I guess
23 it says --

24 HON. SCOTT A. BRISTER: Why
25 doesn't nonsuit cover everybody served or not

1 served, and severance cover severance?

2 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Richard, I
3 think it's an either/or. He can either
4 proceed against those -- he can either dismiss 5 those that aren't served and proceed against 6 those who are, or he can get service.

7 MS. SWEENEY: Is this a new
8 rule?

9 MR. ORSINGER: No. This is an 10 old rule.

11 CHAIRMAN SOULES: And that's 12 why it's got some old stuff in it that doesn't 13 apply.

14 I think you need it in the rule, Richard.

15 MR. ORSINGER: Okay. Whatever 16 you say.

17 CHAIRMAN SOULES: It says he 18 can either dismiss and go to trial against 19 those that are served, or serve those others.
20 I guess that's -- or may obtain severance of 21 the case as between those served and those not 22 served. Now, that is an additional severance 23 remedy.

24 And I don't think we need "but no 25 dismissal shall be allowed" and so forth

1 because that's substantive law. Either the 2 principal obligor has to be in the case or 3 doesn't have to be in the case depending on 4 statutes and contractual agreements.

5 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, save
6 that until we look at the next rule. That may 7 be right. I think that's right on some days
8 and then on other days I think something else.

9 CHAIRMAN SOULES: All right.
10 There's a question that that's -- again, I 11 think that's substantive law, can you get a 12 judgment against a secondary obligor without 13 also taking a judgment against the primary 14 obligor.

15 MR. HAMILTON: But if you take 16 that out, then somebody is going to argue that 17 it was taken out to permit the contrary.

18 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, but
19 there's substantive case law that it depends 20 on the circumstances whether they're essential 21 parties. And if we're going to start -- if 22 we're going to put this in there, then we've 23 got to write all the exceptions, and we've 24 only got one, which is statute. And there's a 25 lot -- there's at least one more big one.

1 MR. ORSINGER: Contract.

2 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Contract.

3 And then "No defendant against whom any 4 suit may be so dismissed shall be thereby 5 exonerated from any liability, but may at any 6 time be proceeded against as if no such suit
7 had been brought and no such dismissal
8 ordered," I guess that's okay. It doesn't --

9 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Yeah.

10 CHAIRMAN SOULES: -- say
11 anything.

12 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I'm
13 beginning to see why I left it out the first 14 time around a couple of years ago.

15 CHAIRMAN SOULES: What, the 16 last sentence?

17 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: No, the 18 whole thing.

19 CHAIRMAN SOULES: The whole
20 thing?

21 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I mean, it
22 really is just a special rule for people not 23 served.

24 MR. ORSINGER: And we're 25 restating the fact that they can nonsuit and

1 that it's without prejudice. It's really just 2 a corollary to the main rule.

3 CHAIRMAN SOULES: The only
4 thing it adds is a basis for severance.

5 MR. ORSINGER: Which is 6 important, because you're not going to meet 7 the oral criteria for severance.

8 CHAIRMAN SOULES: That's
9 right. And that is an issue.

10 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I'd say we 11 leave it in and make it -- but what if we call 12 it -- do we want to say "dismiss or nonsuit" 13 to have nonsuit in there too? I guess so just 14 for the sake of --

15 MS. SWEENEY: Otherwise,
16 there's going to be some assumption that there 17 was a reason for not doing it.

18 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Except we 19 have the last sentence. Maybe you would like 20 the last sentence in the regular nonsuit rule, 21 but use the word "dismiss."

22 HON. SCOTT A. BRISTER: Well,
23 the interesting thing about that last sentence 24 is it's not in the first paragraph.

25 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Yes.

1 HON. SCOTT A. BRISTER: Because 2 the first sentence just assumes that nonsuit
3 is without prejudice, so say so.

4 MS. SWEENEY: Well, and that's 5 the importance of the language "nonsuit," just 6 because of the baggage that it carries with 7 it.

8 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. Well,
9 any other discussion on (b)? Bill, do you see 10 anyplace you need assistance on that we 11 haven't talked about?

12 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I would 13 take out -- I do think "in due time" should 14 come out, and "take new process." I do think 15 we could say "served" or "obtain service on 16 those not served or not properly served" or 17 something. And take "he" out and say "the 18 plaintiff."

19 It's not a rule that's hurting us any,
20 and actually, you know, I have one case right 21 now where I have some defendants that I'm 22 really not planning on serving at this point.
23 I'm happy to have this rule.

24 MR. ORSINGER: I would like a
25 proposal that on (c), Avoidance of Prejudice,

1 that we say, that we insert that it's not 2 without prejudice to the nonsuiting party as 3 well. "Any dismissal or nonsuit taken 4 pursuant to this rule does not prejudice the 5 plaintiff's right to refile or the right of 6 another party to be heard on a pending claim."

7 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Where are 8 you?

9 MR. ORSINGER: Oh, Judge
10 Brister mentioned that it's just implicit that 11 a nonsuit is without prejudice to the 12 nonsuiting party under (a), but under (b) we 13 make it explicit. But (c) has to do with 14 avoidance of prejudice, and couldn't we just 15 put the fact that it's nonsuiting without 16 prejudice to the plaintiff under (c) and solve 17 that problem?

18 CHAIRMAN SOULES: You would put 19 that where?

20 MR. ORSINGER: Well, the 21 suggestion is, "does not prejudice the right 22 of the nonsuiting party to refile, or the 23 right of another party to be heard on a 24 pending claim," et cetera.

25 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay.

1                   PROFESSOR DORSANEO: We can put 2 that in there if you want to. The right to 3 the refile is what you want.

4                   CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. That 5 sounds sensible. How about (d)?

6                   PROFESSOR DORSANEO: That's 7 verbatim.

8                   MS. SWEENEY: It is verbatim.

9                   CHAIRMAN SOULES: The second 10 sentence is really a separate concept from the 11 heading.

12                   MR. ORSINGER: It sure it. We 13 ought to have (e), Taxation and Costs, or 14 something like that.

15                   PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Okay. (e) 16 something. That's taxation of costs or just 17 costs.

18                   MR. PRINCE: Can we carry 19 through with what Paula has been talking 20 about, and that is, any -- although I don't 21 think it matters -- put "dismissal or 22 nonsuit." And also in subpart (e), "dismissal 23 or nonsuit." In other words, make it parallel 24 to what we've been doing before.

25                   PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Done.

1                   CHAIRMAN SOULES: Good idea.
2           What's next, Bill?

3                   PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, it's 4           this last rule, and this is one I've been 5           going back and forth on. I at one point 6           personally recommended that we take out the 7           rules that concern surety and suretyship
8           defenses. Then after our last meeting I heard 9           people say things that made me rethink that, 10          even though they didn't exactly say that it 11          should come back in. And I went back and 12          concluded the opposite of what you just said a 13          minute ago about the secondary and primarily 14          liable people in this paragraph (a).

15                 It's not that big of a deal, and I 16           actually do agree with you that all of this is 17           governed by statute or is controlled by 18           contractual waiver of these rights or a 19           contractual provision modifying these rights.
20           And maybe we don't need anything like this, 21           the "In General" paragraph (a) part. I don't 22           think it hurts to have it in here either. It 23           says, "except otherwise provided by law or 24           these rules." And maybe that would satisfy 25           you better than the preceding rule, which is,

1 "except in cases provided by statute," which 2 does perhaps seem to be a little bit too 3 narrow.

4 The reason the title is Actions Against 5 Accommodation Makers and Endorsers is that 6 it's my perception that Article 3 or Chapter 3 7 of our Business and Commerce Code is being, or 8 well, either has been redone or is in the 9 process of being redone; I think has been 10 redone, or perhaps it's in process.

11 MR. ORSINGER: Bill, I think 12 Elaine talked to a professor.

13 Did you already tell him about that?

14 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Yeah. But 15 he didn't address that part of -- 16 MR. ORSINGER: He didn't?

17 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: --
18 anything. And as I understand this, our 19 procedural law is trying to play catchup with 20 the substantive law on using the right terms.
21 And once upon a time I understood a guarantor 22 as somebody who is primarily liable, but if 23 you're a surety you're secondarily liable and 24 you had suretyship defenses. And our rules 25 speak in terms of this surety person having

1 suretyship rights, I think, coming from that
2 time.

3 Then we went in 1967 to the Business and 4 Commerce Code, Article 3 of the Uniform
5 Commercial Code, and we picked up different 6 language, where the modern language became 7 somebody is a guarantor of payment or a 8 guarantor of collection or negotiable
9 instruments. But we had a separate provision 10 in the Business and Commerce Code for other 11 contracts, and we didn't change our language 12 in the procedural rules to exactly match that, 13 but we did say to go read the Uniform
14 Commercial Code.

15 Now, under the current commercial 16 lawyers' way of talking about things, they 17 call somebody who lends credit to another an 18 accommodation maker, and you can be an 19 endorser without being a maker. And I just 20 kind of wonder whether we should try to keep 21 up with this language in some shape or form.
22 I'm actually beginning to think that we should 23 not because it keeps changing. And I ended up 24 recommending in the draft that we talk about 25 people who are primarily liable and people who

1 are secondarily liable.

2 The professors from South Texas say that,
3 well, you ought to -- why don't you just talk 4 about a secondary obligor and a primary 5 obligor in order to make it parallel. But 6 even they say that they don't like the rule at 7 all because this is all covered by contract.
8 They say that they're self-avowed creditors 9 lawyers and freedom of contract fans, so they 10 don't want even any notion that there are 11 these special rights protecting people who are 12 secondarily liable who haven't waived those 13 rights by contract.

14 So my own personal recommendation and I 15 think the committee's recommendation is to 16 have a paragraph like paragraph (a), even 17 though it doesn't say very much that's 18 informative, just to have the matter covered 19 in the procedural rules.

20 Unlike in other circumstances where we 21 have cross-referenced to a special code, we 22 haven't made the recommendation to do that, 23 perhaps fearing that we don't know how to 24 draft that.

25 MR. ORSINGER: Or what code to

1 cross-refer to.

2 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Yeah. I
3 think it's always in the Business and Commerce
4 Code, but not necessarily the same chapter.

5 MR. ORSINGER: Isn't there some 6 aspect in the UCC or some other statute that 7 fills it out?

8 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: It's all
9 in the Business and Commerce Code.

10 MR. ORSINGER: Everything is?

11 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I think,
12 but I'm not certain that it is.

13 CHAIRMAN SOULES: The UCC is.

14 MR. ORSINGER: Well, I heard 15 some discussion about there being something in 16 a UCC revision that wasn't adopted into our 17 Business and Commerce Code. Maybe I'm very 18 confused.

19 CHAIRMAN SOULES: That won't be 20 Texas UCC.

21 MR. ORSINGER: No. It's in the 22 Texas statute, but it's --

23 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, that 24 makes the point --

25 MR. ORSINGER: Forget it. I

1 don't understand anything about it.

2 CHAIRMAN SOULES: This is UCC,
3 not the Business and Commerce Code --

4 MR. ORSINGER: No, but the part
5 I'm talking about is, I understand that there 6 were some amendments that were made that 7 didn't show up. They came into our law in a 8 different fashion rather than through the 9 Business and Commerce Code, but I don't know 10 this area, so let me just withdraw that.

11 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: The other 12 paragraphs --

13 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Did you have 14 something on that, Carl?

15 MR. HAMILTON: Yeah. What does 16 the last sentence in (a) add to the first 17 sentence in (a)? Isn't it saying the same
18 thing?

19 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Maybe it
20 doesn't say anything different. It says they 21 can be sued, it says it affirmatively, and may 22 be jointly sued with the person's primary
23 obligor.

24 MR. HAMILTON: That's what the 25 first sentence says.

1 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, it
2 says more.

3 CHAIRMAN SOULES: And it says
4 they may be sued alone.

5 MR. HAMILTON: Only by statute.

6 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, that
7 has to be changed to "as provided by law."

8 MR. HAMILTON: But that's what 9 the first sentence says.

10 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I think
11 you're probably right, Carl. One says it one 12 way and one says it a different way. I think 13 they probably say the same thing, even though 14 it's in slightly different ways.

15 CHAIRMAN SOULES: You're 16 probably right. I think that's probably 17 right.

18 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Now, the 19 question is which way should we say it, may 20 not or may?

21 CHAIRMAN SOULES: I think the 22 first sentence is --

23 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Better.

24 CHAIRMAN SOULES: -- better.

25 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: And I

1 might pick up with the professors, the 2 commercial law professors saying that an 3 action may not be maintained against a
4 secondary obligor unless the primary obligor
5 is joined. It's just more economical and more 6 parallel.

7 CHAIRMAN SOULES: And it sounds
8 good. Does anybody else have anything else on 9 this?

10 MR. ORSINGER: Now, are we 11 comfortable with the bonds and sheriffs? This 12 is the same language unchanged?

13 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Yeah, it's 14 pretty much -- the ones below are just extra 15 things that deal with official bonds. This 16 isn't even exactly the same kind of thing.
17 (b)(1), which is in the rulebook and probably 18 should be retained because it's not otherwise 19 covered in the rulebook by one of the other 20 rules, at least it is a clearer way.

21 It says if you have a subordinate officer 22 who is given a bond, that you can -- that the 23 superior officer and the subordinate officer 24 and the sureties on the bond may be joined as 25 defendants. Or maybe it just says that

1 sureties and the superior officer can be 2 joined as defendants. But it deals with the 3 specific problem of state officers, 4 subordinate officers who have given bond with 5 the sureties being on the subordinate
6 officer's bond rather than on the state
7 officer's bond. I don't know how big a deal 8 that is, but it's in the procedural rulebook
9 and it seems to be a sensible enough thing.

10 HON. C. A. GUITTARD: Do you
11 want to say "such superior officer" or do you 12 just say "a superior officer"?

13 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I don't 14 like "such" very often.

15 MR. ORSINGER: Well, you should 16 say "the" rather than "a," shouldn't you?

17 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: And it's 18 not Rule 36, it's 136 -- no, it isn't. It's 19 Rule 36.

20 MR. ORSINGER: Well, it's 21 surely in the wrong place.

22 CHAIRMAN SOULES: That looks
23 all right. Bill, would you consider changing 24 on Page 14 in that paragraph (b), changing 25 "statute" to "as provided by law."

1                   PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Yeah. And 2 I think that will pick up contract and case
3 law, don't you think?

4                   CHAIRMAN SOULES: I think so.

5                   PROFESSOR DORSANEO: And 6 "Sheriffs and Constables" is a similar kind 7 of thing. Who is "he"?

8                   CHAIRMAN SOULES: Oh, that's 9 the sheriff, constable or a deputy or either.

10                  PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well,
11 this --

12                  MR. ORSINGER: What it says is 13 that he can join his bonding party in as a 14 co-defendant.

15                  PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well,
16 that's probably so anyway, but why not leave
17 it in here. It's in the current thing.

18                  CHAIRMAN SOULES: And the cause 19 may be continued to obtain service on such 20 parties. It's okay with me.

21                  PROFESSOR DORSANEO: And then
22 the last one is another special deal where you 23 have different sureties for different periods
24 of time, and you -- it's kind of like Big 25 Daddy Lipscomb; you get them all in there and 1 see which ones are the ball carriers.

2 MR. BABCOCK: That was also 3 Bubba Smith.

4 MR. ORSINGER: I'll make a note
5 of that.

6 MS. SWEENEY: Are you all
7 talking about judges or football players?

8 MR. BABCOCK: Baltimore Colts
9 football players.

10 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Okay. Good
11 job.

12 MR. ORSINGER: Bill Dorsaneo
13 gets credit for that, because he has his own 14 committee, which is the Appellate Rules, which 15 is a plateful, and in addition to that, he is 16 the scrivener and chief draftsman of this 17 committee, and it's not even his 18 responsibility.

19 CHAIRMAN SOULES: Well, we
20 admire Bill for that.

21 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, it
22 is a pleasure to work with you people mostly.

23 CHAIRMAN SOULES: You mean most 24 of us or most of the time?
