HEARING OF THE SUPREME COURT
ADVISORY COMMITTEE

*****

ORIGINAL

Taken before Anna L. Renken, a Certified Shorthand Reporter in Travis County for the State of Texas, on the 11th day of April, 2003, between the hours of 1:05 p.m. and 5:20 o'clock p.m. at the Texas Law Center, 1414 Colorado, Suite 101, Austin, Texas 78701.

1 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: All right. We're
2 back on the record. The Chair recognizes the Chief
3 Judge of the Fourteenth District Court of Appeals 4 who has a personal plea which will be rejected after 5 a brief period of time.

6 (Laughter.)

7 HONORABLE SCOTT A. BRISTER: That's 8 all right. I'm used to that. I in just talking 9 with people wanted to get a brief feel for whether 10 it might be possible at some point to shift our 11 Saturday morning meetings to Thursday afternoon 12 meetings. The Brister household with four kids and 13 a stay-at-home mom who homes schools them five days 14 in a row is enough. And when I tell her I'd like 15 Saturday basically all day by the time you travel
16 there's some problem with it for some reason. And I
17 know our attendance tends to drop off substantially 18 on Saturday morning. I just wondered if there were 19 other people in my situation that might be more 20 interested in coming up for Thursday afternoon and 21 Friday, leaving Friday evening rather than all day 22 Friday and then half of Saturday.

23 MS. SWEENEY: I'm with Scott.

24 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Me too for the 25 same reason.

1 MS. SWEENEY: Different reasons.

2 (Laughter.)

3 HONORABLE SARAH B. DUNCAN: I think I
4 ought to put them on the record.

5 (Laughter.)

6 HONORABLE SCOTT A. BRISTER: Paula
7 and I agree. Don't go into any details.

8 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: I asked Judge
9 Brister if this was one of those things where he 10 just wanted to say "I asked"; but there is a 11 short-term issue and then a longer-term issue. The 12 short-term issue is for the next few meetings anyway 13 we have got the hotel locked in, and that's a big 14 complicated negotiation. So we couldn't change it 15 in the short term; but we certainly could in the 16 long term.

17 What I mentioned to Scott was from a 18 practitioner's standpoint I sometimes run into 19 situations where I may be in trial or there may be a 20 hearing set or something on a Friday and I have to 21 beg to get out of that; and almost almost always 22 judges here across the state have been very lenient 23 about that, not as tolerant in the federal system or 24 outside the state; but if you start adding another 25 work day, then that starts to impact some of the 1 practicing lawyers, but maybe that's just me. Maybe 2 nobody else has got that situation. So that's the 3 only counterbalancing thing; and I'm completely 4 sympathetic with the Saturday thing. My kids are 5 just now in college; but I had lots of those 6 conflicts. And you don't want to miss your kids'

7 activities on the weekends. So Elaine, who has a 8 college age child, I might add.

9 PROFESSOR CARLSON: Yes. I'm an 10 empty nester. My husband embraces the Saturday 11 meetings for golf reasons.

12 (Laughter.)

13 PROFESSOR CARLSON: But I almost 14 always have a class on Thursday, which means I would 15 have to try and record or something; and it would be 16 difficult unless I can get them to switch my entire 17 teaching schedule. I don't know how everybody else 18 feels.

19 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: What does 20 everybody else think?

21 PROFESSOR ALBRIGHT: How do you get 22 students to go to class on Thursday afternoon?

23 PROFESSOR CARLSON: It is not a 24 problem.

25 MR. ORSINGER: They're motivated at 1 her law school.

2 (Laughter.)

3 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Richard awakes.
4 Does anybody else have any thoughts or comments?

5 MR. ORSINGER: I have a problem
6 similar to yours. I think there would be a lot of 7 Thursdays I couldn't come. Fridays is an easier day
8 to get off in my law practice. Thursday is harder 9 and both of them even harder.

10 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. What else?
11 Alex.

12 PROFESSOR ALBRIGHT: What if we did a 13 little bit of both? Because I think there are a lot 14 of people who can't come on Saturdays because 15 Saturdays are pretty low attendance; and we could do 16 some of both. Then we could catch both people.

17 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes. Try to 18 maybe, we have six meetings a year; and maybe have 19 three of them where we, you know, where we have them 20 on Friday/Saturday and then three that have 21 Thursday/Friday. Is that your suggestion?

22 MR. LOW: Alternate.

23 PROFESSOR CARLSON: That would work.

24 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Would it matter
25 which months those were either from a child

1 standpoint or from a practitioner's standpoint?

2 MR. LOW: Probably summer months
3 while the kids are in school. I don't know

4 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Justice Hecht,
5 Justice Jefferson, what are you are thinking about 6 this?

7 JUSTICE HECHT: We're easy.

8 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Did you get that?

9 COURT REPORTER: Yes.

10 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Judge Patterson.

11 HONORABLE JAN P. PATTERSON: I think 12 it's always hard to know if we're going to have a 13 Saturday session or not. I recognize that problem; 14 but it does seem that attendance falls off; and its 15 hard to know what is cause and effect, but sometimes 16 we have it's issues that are of less interest to 17 people on Saturday, so that those of us who are 18 willing to stay or have a high level of guilt tend 19 to be here.

20 (Laughter.)

21 HONORABLE JAN P. PATTERSON: And so
22 it kind of feeds on itself. So it seems to me that 23 we need to have important issues at that time if 24 we're going to have the full committee meet.
25 Another possibility it would seem to start Thursday

1 night like 7:00 to 10:00. Well, we might have 2 efficient meetings. Not that they're not.

3 MR. ORSINGER: Can we have an open 4 bar?

5 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Then we'd get some 6 work done. You might have a committee of one from 7 7:00 to 10:00.

8 HONORABLE JAN P. PATTERSON: But it
9 does seem that we tailor the meeting on Saturday to 10 knowing that there may not be a lot of people; and 11 it feeds on itself in that respect. So I just throw 12 that out.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Any other 14 thoughts about it? Is there -- there seemed to be 15 great enthusiasm for the Thursday versus Saturday 16 when it was first proposed. Is that a fair read 17 from everybody?

18 MS. SWEENEY: Do up want a straw
19 poll?

20 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Huh?

21 MS. SWEENEY: Do you want a straw
22 poll?

23 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Who wants
24 Thursday as opposed to Saturday? Who wants to keep 25 it the way it is? It's 16 want to change it and 1 eight want to keep it the same. Actually nine. The 2 Chair voted on this.

3 MR. JACKS: Since it was so close.

4 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: People in Austin
5 should not get to vote.

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Judge Peeples.

7 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: I want to 8 second what Jan Patterson said about the Saturday 9 meetings. It is frustrating to be here and have 10 very low attendance and less sexy issues. Okay.
11 And I think that has happened. And I don't know 12 which is cause and effect. I voted for Thursday; 13 but I can do either way. I mean, I'd be in favor of 14 compressing it all into an intensive Friday or maybe 15 coming more often and doing it only on Friday.

16 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: That's what I have 17 tried to do, David, is try to compress it into 18 Fridays when I can; but we're not going to make it 19 this time. And there's going to be plenty of sexy 20 issues tomorrow, by the way.

21 Why don't we do this if it's all right
22 with everybody: Why don't Lee and I see if there 23 are some months where we can do the Thursday/Friday 24 and see how it works and see what our attendance is 25 and what problems it creates for us. And we'll do

1 that as soon as we're out of this cycle with the 2 hotel, which I don't know when it is; but and we'll 3 take a shot at it and see how it works. Is that, 4 Judge Brister, does that work all right for you if 5 we do it that way?

6 HONORABLE SCOTT A. BRISTER: Sure.

7 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. All right.
8 So we're back to -- is this sexy or not, Judge 9 Peeples, what we're doing now?

10 (Laughter.)

11 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: Everything.
12 Everything.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: I think we're 14 going to have to get you to rate these projects 15 every time on the Peeples sexy requirement. Okay.
16 Elaine, where are we?

17 PROFESSOR CARLSON: Let's see.

18 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: We left off at 19 successive offers and we're going to take it only 20 from the best offer. You can make them, but only 21 from the best; but you're subject to sanctions only 22 from the time your best offer is rejected.

23 PROFESSOR CARLSON: Okay. So we're 24 ready to move on?

25 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: We're ready to move

1 on.

2 PROFESSOR CARLSON: If we could, if 3 we could go back to page three and maybe address 4 this.

5 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: That's not the way 6 we...

7 PROFESSOR CARLSON: This could be 8 quick, it could be long. 167.2(a)(5) which says 9 that an offer needs to be the offer to settle all 10 the claims, Paula raised the issue of whether it 11 should include all parties. There were some cases 12 where that might be appropriate and a lot of cases 13 that it probably wouldn't be appropriate. I don't 14 know if we want to discuss that or leave it the way 15 it is or not.

16 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well, it should at 17 least do this. The question is whether it should be 18 more.

19 PROFESSOR CARLSON: Right. Should it 20 be "as to all parties," or just can you offer to 21 settle "as to a party?"

22 MR. ORSINGER: I mean, the problem I 23 have with "all parties" is that there may be 24 somebody that is willing to do their share and 25 someone who is not, and the one who is willing to do

1 their share then gets to suffer the sanction.
2 Doesn't that go with that territory? It seems to me 3 like if you're going to be punished, you ought to be 4 punished for what you do wrong and not what somebody 5 else does wrong.

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Tommy, I know
7 you've thought about this.

8 MR. JACKS: Well, I have. I mean, if 9 one of the terms of the offer though is that it is 10 conditioned upon acceptance by other parties, I 11 don't see that you're not in the same boat under the 12 rule as written.

13 PROFESSOR CARLSON: Paula gave an 14 example on a multi-defendants case where one 15 defendant, the defendants. I think under your 16 hypothetical, Paula, I don't want to put words in 17 your mouth.

18 MS. SWEENEY: I'll let you know.

19 PROFESSOR CARLSON: If there were 20 multiple defendants, that there might be some 21 agreement, that the defendant with the least means 22 might trigger an offer and not have it conditioned.
23 And there's really, the only thing the plaintiff, I 24 guess, could do is come up with a counter offer or 25 risk the --

1 MR. JACKS: By way of information, 2 there was an ABA offer of judgment rule proposed in 3 '95; and they had a special provision for 4 multi-party cases that basically in the case of 5 multiple plaintiffs the rule applied only if the 6 right of each plaintiff to recover is identical to 7 the right of other plaintiffs and only one award of 8 damages could be made in the case, and as to 9 multiple defendants only applied if the liability of 10 each defendant is joint and several.

11 I've also seen a provision that had to do 12 with the multiple parties where one is vicariously 13 liable for the other. I don't remember which 14 provision that was; but I've seen at least a couple 15 of versions where there are special rules. I think 16 it's Nevada that has a special provision in their 17 statutes for multi-party cases.

18 And I do see more, certainly more 19 complexity in the multi-party case; and I think 20 there probably are more opportunities for 21 gamesmanship. I just can't imagine what they all 22 are; and it's another one of the parts of this rule 23 that makes my head hurt every time I start thinking 24 about it. So...

25 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Did House Bill 4

1 deal with that?

2 MR. JACKS: Well, let me look.

3 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: They talk about a
4 defendant or group of defendants.

5 MR. JACKS: I think under House Bill
6 4 they don't. I don't recall their limiting offers 7 by multiple defendants. Under House Bill 4 only 8 defendants can make an offer.

9 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Right.

10 MR. JACKS: Not the plaintiffs. And 11 they speak in terms of a defendant or group of 12 defendants being able to do that. I don't remember 13 any limits on the multi-party offer.

14 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: It doesn't look
15 like there is. Okay. Richard Orsinger.

16 MR. ORSINGER: I guess Tommy's
17 explanation didn't help me very much. I can see a 18 situation, say, involving a family automobile 19 collision where you have a husband, a wife and a 20 child that are all plaintiffs, and you might have 21 several defendants on the other side and then a 22 negligence allocation. And so are we envisioning 23 that all the plaintiffs would have to make one 24 consolidated offer to all the defendants who would 25 be consolidated for purposes of the offer? And are

1 the defendants if it is a consolidated offer, are 2 all the defendants bound if the collective liability 3 of the defendants is within 70 percent? Or what if 4 somebody's allocation is only 25 percent? Are they 5 out of the sanction range? I mean, are these 6 sensible questions?

7 PROFESSOR CARLSON: Yes.

8 MR. ORSINGER: Okay. Then how do you 9 make that work?

10 PROFESSOR CARLSON: That's why we 11 didn't do it. It's very difficult, and we probably 12 could think it through; but Tommy is right. The 13 only one I guess it is Nevada; and it limited the 14 requirement of the joint offer when there was a 15 common theory of liability and a liability the 16 defendants were entirely derivative of the liability 17 of the remaining defendants to whom an offer was 18 made or the liability of all the defendants to whom 19 the offer made was entirely derivative of the 20 liability of the remaining defendants when the offer 21 was made.

22 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I bet that took 23 a long time.

24 PROFESSOR CARLSON: So it was limited 25 in the situation where you could really show that

1           there was a reason why the offer should be joint 2           because of the derivative liability; but I don't 3           know if we want to go there or not. You know, it 4           was just a factor we leave to the judge under the 5           discretion to award. How are we referring to this 6           now? I don't want to use the word "sanctions." Fee 7           shifting costs under the trial Court's discretion as 8           proposed under 167.6(d).

9                         CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: (b) is mandatory 10           on one. 167.6(b) is mandatory, isn't it?

11                        PROFESSOR CARLSON: (d).

12                        MR. DUGGINS: (d)(3).

13                        MS. SWEENEY: "Must."

14                        MR. SHENKKAN: It's mandatory; but 15           it's subject to (d)(3); and the limitations and the 16           exceptions in (d)(3) is the one that the Professor 17           was alluding to, and that is the basic kick-out if 18           the judge says it's gamesmanship. So the argument 19           would be in such a case "that's gamesmanship 20           because"; and then you'd have to fill in the blank 21           why that was gamesmanship.

22                        CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Carl.

23                        MR. HAMILTON: As I understood Tommy, 24           if the condition of the offer is that all defendants 25           accept and then one doesn't, so therefore the offer

1 gets rejected, I don't think those that accept it 2 ought to be penalized, if that's the way it is now 3 worded.

4 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes. Good point.
5 Skip.

6 MR. WATSON: Just to clarify, as I
7 read (a)(3) and (5) together I'm assuming that 8 because you have to identify the party making the 9 offer and the party or parties to whom it is made 10 that for example a plaintiff could pick off the one 11 recalcitrant defendant among many defendants who is 12 holding things up by putting the penalty and the 13 onus on them and making an offer only to that 14 defendant. Is that incorrect?

15 PROFESSOR CARLSON: No. I think 16 that's correct. Because as this rule is proposed it 17 can be between a single plaintiff and an single 18 defendant regardless of the multiple party posture 19 of the case.

20 MR. WATKINS: Okay. I just wanted to 21 be clear.

22 MR. ORSINGER: The problem is created 23 if you change the rule to "parties" rather than 24 "offeror" and "offeree" and that's when you walk 25 into the complexities.

1 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: (3) says "identify 2 the party or parties making the offer."

3 MR. ORSINGER: But it's voluntary.
4 Right? I think as I understood --

5 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: It's all 6 voluntary.

7 MR. ORSINGER: No.

8 PROFESSOR CARLSON: No. What Paula 9 was -- and again Paula, if I'm putting words in your 10 mouth, tell me. But I think what Paula's 11 consideration was that should we require in a 12 multiple party case that for the offer of judgment 13 rule to be triggered that is mandatory as to all 14 parties.

15 MR. ORSINGER: Right. If you do
16 that, then you have these difficulties that no one 17 has seen their way through apparently.

18 PROFESSOR CARLSON: So are we of the 19 mind that that is better dealt with with the trial 20 Court discretion in 167.6?

21 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: That's what I 22 think.

23 HONORABLE CARLOS LOPEZ: If we're 24 going to leave that up, quote, "up to the judge," 25 that's fine; but I think there ought to be an

1 asterisk or something that says one of the factors
2 to consider is the extent to which and then talk 3 about this whole scenario of not punishing the guy
4 who didn't do anything wrong. And that is not 5 artful language; but we all know why we're leaving 6 it up to the judge. Let's make sure the judges 7 know.

8 PROFESSOR CARLSON: Okay. I'll make 9 a note.

10 MR. BOYD: Clarification. Leaving it
11 the way it is where it's "offeror" and "offeree," 12 but you're in a multi-party case, is the intent that 13 the party who receives the sanction receives all of 14 the attorney's fees they expend after the rejection, 15 or do they have a duty to segregate which time was 16 spent as to that particular defendant?

17 PROFESSOR CARLSON: We did not 18 discuss that. That's a valid concern.

19 MR. BOYD: Yes. I mean, any of us
20 who have ever had to litigate how to make the other 21 side segregate their fees between those causes of 22 action they prevailed on and didn't, it's almost 23 impossible. And yet if you have a situation where 24 one defendant ought to have to pay sanctions and the 25 other shouldn't, does that defendant pay the full

1 hourly fee or some portion of it?

2 PROFESSOR CARLSON: You know, and I
3 guess Jeff, to some extent it goes to the 4 reasonableness of the fees, which isn't a very 5 satisfactory response to you.

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: There is 7 jurisprudence on whether or not claims are 8 inextricably entwined --

9 MR. BOYD: Right.

10 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: -- such that you
11 get the whole ball of wax and you have got to 12 segregate. I suppose you could draw on that 13 jurisprudence in this instance.

14 MR. BOYD: If you spend time taking 15 depositions to prove my co-defendant who is not 16 being sanctioned is liable --

17 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Right.

18 MR. BOYD: -- do I have to pay for 19 that as part of the sanction? And maybe the 20 "reasonableness" language gets there; but I bet 21 we'll be litigating that.

22 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes.

23 MR. JACKS: You get the same problem
24 in that we've excluded from the rule certain classes 25 of cases, for example DTPA cases, which because the 1 DTPA has its own offer of settlement mechanisms.

2 And in a case where you have mixed causes of action, 3 DTPA plus fraud plus contract, for example, you have 4 a similar problem. Is the offer only to cover the 5 DTPA claim? And then when you get to the outcome
6 what are you comparing with the offer? And then 7 what fees are you imposing sanctions if you're 8 imposing sanctions? And if you superimpose that 9 over the multi-party situation, then you really get 10 a headache.

11 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Carl.

12 MR. HAMILTON: Tommy, does that mean?
13 I thought under 167.1 if it's a DTPA claim, it 14 didn't cover it.

15 MR. JACKS: Well, except that it's 16 common that DTPA claims appear in cases that also 17 have other claims in them.

18 MR. HAMILTON: I know. But if it had 19 a DTPA claim, doesn't it mean the whole case is 20 covered?

21 MR. JACKS: The rule doesn't say
22 that, or I don't think it makes that clear. And so 23 there we are. It seems to be an open question, 24 Carl, in the rule as it's written.

25 HONORABLE CARLOS LOPEZ: What instead

1 of trying to identify this myriad of everything that 2 is going to come up plus the ones we haven't thought 3 of let's just put some, we're going to put some 4 broad language in, Transamerica language that "the 5 punishment has got to fit the crime" kind of 6 language that allows the parties to tailor their 7 arguments to the judge based on exactly what has 8 happened here. Like you can make the argument 9 "Judge, why should I have to pay for that" and just 10 and leave it very open ended. Because if not, I 11 don't see how we're ever going to get there. There 12 are just too many possibilities.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Is the language we 14 already have in the rule sufficient to allow that, 15 "the punishment fits the crime?"

16 MR. ORSINGER: Well, it depends on 17 whether the offeror who makes the offer to more than 18 one defendant stipulates that all defendants have to 19 agree, and all defendants do agree but one. What 20 happens then?

21 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well, you know,
22 the language says that if the Court finds that it 23 would unjustly punish a party or unjustly reward 24 unfair strategic conduct rather than a good faith 25 attempt to reach a settlement, that's pretty broad.

1 Judge Patterson and then Paula.

2 HONORABLE JAN P. PATTERSON: Along 3 the same lines, I've been wondering whether any 4 thought was given to some statement or purpose at 5 the beginning. I know we rejected that in some 6 context; but I wonder if it might not be suitable 7 here to state what the objective of the statute 8 (SIC) rule is so that the interstices issues can be 9 read in the context of the general purposes. If it 10 is to promote settlement early in the litigation, if 11 it is whatever those two or three things are, if we 12 could come up with those for a statement of ideals.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Statements of 14 ideals for the "rule" as opposed to "statute" since 15 we're just doing rulemaking here?

16 HONORABLE JAN P. PATTERSON: Yes.

17 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes, Paula.

18 MS. SWEENEY: Which dovetails with 19 what I was going to say. Looking at this language 20 that you just keyed on about "punish a party or 21 unjustly reward, unfair strategic conduct rather 22 than a good faith attempt to reach a settlement" --

23 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Right.

24 MR. SWEENEY: -- you know, the 25 implication if you look at what that sentence says,

1 is that there is something unfair about having 2 strategy considerations in this and that the 3 implication of this whole rule and what I'd like to 4 see somewhere in the preface or where ever it would 5 be is that we do not wish to penalize parties for 6 submitting bona fide disputes to juries in the State 7 of Texas, because implicit in a lot of this rule is 8 a punitive sense that if you go to trial, 50 percent 9 of the litigants are frivolous or in some way taking 10 advantage of the existence of the system by using 11 it. And I don't think certainly that this committee 12 or the Court if it writes a rule, should by 13 implication allow that inference to be drawn from 14 the use of the jury system. So I would very much 15 want that to be reflected somewhere that simply 16 going to trial and losing does not mean you were 17 wrong for being there in the first place on either 18 side of the docket.

19 And then the other part of it, and that 20 goes back to this multi-party situation, I don't 21 know how you write it to solve the problem; but 22 rejecting an offer from one defendant when that 23 offer will unfairly prejudice your rights against 24 other defendants may be the key, that if that the 25 Court must take into account other parties, not just

1 the offeror and offeree in evaluating the merit of 2 the parties' conduct. And I think that gets you to 3 that place, because I don't think we can draft in a 4 way that says "In this type of case where it's an 5 agency relationship you have one set of rules; and 6 where it's multi-party but not agency you have got 7 another." And but if there were a comment about 8 taking into account the relative positions of the 9 other non-offering parties, then that would be 10 another indication to the Court of what factors to 11 take into account in deciding whether the strategy 12 is I guess a fair versus unfair strategy.

13 PROFESSOR CARLSON: Uh-huh (yes).

14 MR. SOULES: The effects on the 15 claims of the defenses of the other parties.

16 MS. SWEENEY: Yes, exactly.

17 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Any other 18 comments?

19 HONORABLE DAVID B. GAULTNEY: If I
20 could just mention this, because Buddy Low asked me 21 to, and he's not here. And he mentioned the 22 situation where you have multiple claimants to a 23 limited fund. I think this is the reverse of what 24 Paula was saying. For example, this sanction is a 25 carrier. Let's say there is a policy with three

1 claimants, there is a lack of willingness of any 2 claimant to accept, and they all think they're 3 entitled to the same fund. The carrier can't get 4 rid of the money, can't settle any of the claims.
5 Would this be taken into account in terms of they 6 get multi access in the policy, whether that was a 7 reasonable effort? I hadn't really thought through 8 that issue. Buddy mentioned it just at lunch; and 9 so I wanted to throw it out.

10 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Elaine, did
11 you-all think about that at the time or Tommy?

12 PROFESSOR CARLSON: I think we did
13 think of that when we tried to draft fairly broad 14 language in the trial Court discretion; but what I'm 15 hearing and I kind of would like a little more input 16 from the full committee is is there a need for more 17 definitive factors in 167.6(d), (e), (a) and (b)?

18 MR. JACKS: There are models for 19 that --

20 PROFESSOR CARLSON: Uh-huh (yes).

21 MR. JACKS: -- in I think in the 22 proposed Federal Rule which has been picked up in 23 some other, well, in the Florida statute; and I
24 think in the ABA proposal there was a list of a half 25 a dozen or so factors that the Court should

1 consider. I've got those here if you care to hear 2 them.

3 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes. I think my 4 recollection is that in the past we have shied away 5 from factors all the way from the parental 6 notification rules to the Daubert rules.

7 MR. JACKS: I suppose you could also 8 do it in a comment; but there's quite a lot of 9 precedent for factors, and some of the things we 10 talked about could be there. It's the language that 11 we've got gives a fair amount of discretion, but 12 little guidance.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Uh-huh (yes).

14 MR. JACKS: And so the question is do 15 we want to offer more guidance; and that might or 16 might not be more or less discretion.

17 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes. What does 18 everybody think about that, factors, guidance, 19 whatever you want to call it? Richard Orsinger.

20 MR. ORSINGER: I favor us
21 articulating the important factors for the Courts, 22 because I think there is a habit either among judges 23 or among people opposing to say that if it's not 24 listed, it's not a legitimate consideration. There 25 is a concommon danger that if we start listing and

1 we are not --

2 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: What kind of 3 danger?

4 MR. ORSINGER: There is a danger that 5 goes along with that --

6 (Laughter.)

7 MR. ORSINGER: -- that if you start 8 listing and you're not complete, then you have 9 created an exclusion; but these are very general.
10 And I'm thinking, for example, in the situation
11 Buddy Low raised if you have an insurance policy 12 that maxed out and the damages are legitimately well 13 above that and the insurance company or the defender 14 can't give it to any one plaintiff and the measure 15 not on what you collect, it's on what the judgment 16 is, it's impossible for the defendant to accept a 17 reasonable offer in that situation. So that means 18 we have fee shifting even though it's deserved, if I 19 understand the operation of the rule. And so it 20 seems to me like we ought to put some serious 21 thought into the kind of situations where we think 22 someone should not be punished or factors to be 23 considered and we ought to list them.

24 HONORABLE CARLOS LOPEZ: In the 25 inter pleading.

1 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Tommy.

2 MR. JACKS: I have got the Florida
3 factors, if that's helpful.

4 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Uh-huh (yes).

5 MR. JACKS: There are six of them.
6 The first is "the then apparent merit or lack of 7 merit in the claim" meaning at the time the offer 8 was rejected, "the number and nature of the 9 proposals made by the parties, the closeness of 10 questions of fact and law at issue, whether the 11 party making the proposal has unreasonably refused 12 to furnish information necessary to evaluate the 13 reasonableness of the proposal, whether the suit was 14 in the nature of a test case presenting questions of 15 far reaching importance affecting the non-parties," 16 and the last is "the amount of judicial delay, cost 17 and expense that the party making the proposal 18 reasonably would be expected to incur if the 19 litigation were to be prolonged." So those are...

20 MR. ORSINGER: Could I ask, please?

21 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Richard.

22 MR. ORSINGER: Is that rule where the 23 Court has complete discretion to impose sanctions 24 that the Court measures, or is there some kind of 25 automatic sanction like ours and that is when the 1 Court can reduce the sanctions?

2 MR. JACKS: It's actually the Court
3 under the Florida statute has discretion to 4 determine the reasonableness of the, in that case, 5 the fee speaking in terms of sanctions since it's 6 done by statute rather than by Court rule, and says 7 the Court shall consider these factors in making 8 that. It sounds to me like the Court has fairly 9 complete discretion in terms of how much or how 10 little of the fees incurred to assess as a cost.
11 The Court also may in its discretion determine that 12 a proposal was not made in good faith, in which case 13 the Court may disallow the award entirely.

14 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Bill.

15 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: How does that 16 work in Florida? Do they have another bench trial 17 after the trial in order to figure out liability for 18 attorney's fees? Because in a lot of cases you're 19 going to have --

20 MR. JACKS: Yes.

21 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes. We talked a 22 lot about that, you know, as a reason not to do this 23 because of satellite litigation. But yes.

24 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Hmm.

25 MR. JACKS: You know, there's even a

1 question whether you're entitled to a jury trial on 2 the issues of sanctions.

3 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes. We talked 4 about that.

5 MR. JACKS: Yes.

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. What do we 7 want to do? Benton has arrived.

8 HONORABLE LEVI BENTON: How are you,
9 sir? Excuse me for being late.

10 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: That's quite all 11 right. I'm glad to have you with us. Skip.

12 MR. WATSON: Chip, my problem with 13 the broadening of factors, the factors as they are 14 in broad numbers, is that it doesn't address I guess 15 I would say who is ultimately going to pay the 16 sanctions that are presumed unless the Court 17 intervenes to reduce them. And it seems to me that 18 as it's now written in response to what Buddy had 19 raised is that it looks like this is a way that the 20 Court is creating a situation where an insurance 21 carrier with policy limits in a multi-plaintiff case
22 is going to be placed in an intolerable Stowers 23 situation. It's a way to raise the limits unless 24 something is affirmatively said that makes that not 25 happen; and none of the six factors in Florida keep

1 that from happening. That would be the argument 2 made, there is nothing in print that says that will 3 happen.

4 More important to me frankly is the 5 ethical dilemma that the lawyer receiving such an 6 offer is in whether it's whether he has a cap in 7 terms of insurance or worse yet a recalcitrant 8 multi-defendant or multi-plaintiff bunch of parties 9 where for economy of scale, aligned interests, 10 et cetera everyone has hired the same counsel. In 11 oil and gas cases the operators, the attorney 12 general represents the non-operators. In mass tort 13 the same lawyer is representing all of the 14 plaintiffs. Where one or more recalcitrant parties 15 represented by that attorney refuses the offer it's 16 not just that that party is going to get tagged with 17 costs and expenses. It means the others who want to 18 settle are prevented from doing it. And it appears 19 that to keep the ultimate charge for either 20 malpractice or worse yet breach of fiduciary duty 21 for not giving the clients all of the information 22 they need to keep them from getting sanctioned, 23 which will be the charge that there wasn't full 24 disclosure of everything we needed when you gave 25 that advice, that we're going to have to bail, and

1 we may have to bail on all of them once that occurs 2 and get new counsel in there to represent these 3 conflicting interests of previously aligned parties 4 in a joint defense.

5 And I just don't see how -- I don't want
6 to make too big a deal out of it; but I'm not sure 7 you can make too big a deal out of it. Those two 8 problems cannot be finessed, and they've got to be 9 dealt with specific language that sets forth what is 10 going to happen in at least those two instances, 11 limited insurance multiple claims and one attorney 12 representing multiple parties one of whom wants not 13 to accept an offer that is made on all of them.

14 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Bill.

15 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I'm not sure
16 that at least the first one is a problem. I mean, I 17 assume you're talking liability insurance. You can 18 settle with whomever, and you use up your limits, 19 and that's the end of it. That's current law, I 20 believe, Soriana and Deere.

21 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: What about Skip's
22 second point?

23 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I'm not sure I'm 24 following all this when I'm listening, so I can't 25 address that.

1                   CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Skip, really 2 your comments sort of argue against having a rule at 3 all.

4                   MR. WATSON: That's not my intent;
5 but I don't want a rule that is going to come around 6 and bite me in the back side. That's where my 7 comments are going.

8                   CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: I think all 9 through these discussions there has been that strain 10 among the practicing lawyers that this is a rule 11 that has implications for how you advise your 12 clients and, you know, whether or not somebody later 13 can question your judgment on it and claim 14 malpractice. So I think the Court has been made 15 well aware of all our concerns in that regard. So 16 do we have the Florida laundry list or not?

17                  MR. SCHENKKAN: Well, maybe this is a 18 more general procedural question and maybe it only 19 applies to those of us who are new; but it's helpful 20 on something like the Florida information if we had 21 the full text including the context, because it 22 sounds like that language is put in the middle of a 23 statute that is designed in a different way than the 24 rule we're working on. And I'd kind of like to see 25 the interplay.

1 I'm wondering if, I don't know whether the 2 schedule is that some final advice to our client the 3 Court must be rendered on this particular rule at 4 this meeting, or if this is something we're going to 5 be taking up further. I for one would very much 6 like to have the benefit of an e-mail version, if 7 Tommy's people are able to do that, of the Florida 8 statute and the Nevada one as well and perhaps let 9 those who are more familiar with some of these 10 dilemmas call our attention to a case if there's a 11 case that illustrates the problem so I can think 12 about it better.

13 I'm having a little difficulty deciding 14 whether these instances are likely to be common 15 enough and hard enough for the trial Court to 16 recognize as falling under the discretionary out to 17 warrant fixing in the rule and perhaps messing up a 18 rule that has worked perfectly well in the middle of 19 the run cases. I just don't feel like I have got 20 enough information.

21 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes. Pete, I think 22 the Court is desirous of us getting through this 23 rule at this meeting and giving its best counsel we 24 can recognizing that we've spent three or four prior 25 SCAC meetings and the Jamail process. And a lot of

1 the things you're hearing today are not being raised 2 for the first time. They are for you, I know; but 3 they're not for this committee and not for the 4 record and not for the Court. Carlos.

5 HONORABLE CARLOS LOPEZ: Normally I
6 argue the other way; but in this particular 7 situation with this many variables I think we 8 should, the language about justice and all the rest 9 of it I think it's then up to the parties to flesh
10 out what that is for the Court. And if they can say 11 "Well, here is what they do in Florida with a very 12 similar situation, not identical, but similar" and 13 just let that go. If not, we risk doing what 14 happens with Daubert, for example, where they listed 15 the factors and now all the lawyers think that 16 that's, it's limited to that, and it's not.

17 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes. And we have 18 had many discussions about factors and whether just 19 what you say. But Alistair.

20 MR. DAWSON: When I heard the Florida
21 factors it sounded to me like it gave the trial 22 Court broad discretion; and as I read the rule as 23 proposed it's mandatory with some limited 24 exceptions, so there seems to be a fundamental 25 difference of approach. And I can certainly see in

1 Florida you're going to have a lot of satellite
2 litigation, post judgment litigation about all kinds 3 of excuses of why you did or didn't accept 4 settlement offers; and it seems to me by reading 5 what the committee came up with they wanted to avoid 6 that by having sort of mandatory limited exceptions.
7 And that was my comment about the Florida factor.
8 It seems to change the whole philosophical approach 9 of the rule.

10 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Judge Christopher.

11 HONORABLE TRACY CHRISTOPHER: I just 12 had a question on the multi-plaintiff situation.
13 From a plaintiff's attorney point of view are you 14 worried the plaintiffs will say "I offered 15 $10,000,000 to settle with 10 plaintiffs" and then 16 that somehow will trigger this rule?

17 My reading of the rule would be the 18 defendant would have to say "I'm offering $200,000 19 to Plaintiff A and one million to plaintiff B," and 20 that a defendant couldn't say they all have to 21 settle. Now and maybe if I'm reading it that way, 22 it needs to be cleared up. I mean, I was 23 anticipating specific offers from specific 24 defendants to specific plaintiffs so that we could 25 understand what was being offered. Is that not

1 right?

2 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: It sounds
3 reasonable; but I don't know if it right.

4 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: In the 5 aggregate. We have rules against making aggregate 6 settlements.

7 MR. SOULES: No.

8 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: If we can get on 9 to Bill here.

10 MR. SOULES: You have to be damn
11 careful how you do it.

12 HONORABLE CARLOS LOPEZ: Wouldn't we 13 define what an unconditional unqualified offer is?
14 And one, it says it's got to be, it only works if X, 15 Y or Z. Maybe it shouldn't trigger the rule at all.
16 That's one way.

17 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Judge Bland.

18 HONORABLE JANE BLAND: Back to the 19 factors, I personally like having factors because I 20 think that it helps define the parameters of our 21 discretion. And, you know, I'd rather have the 22 factors here either in a comment or in the rule 23 than, you know, try the case, the case goes up on 24 appeal and then we get the factors, which is okay 25 too; but it just seems more sense to have the 1 factors ahead of time.

2 (Laughter.)

3 HONORABLE JANE BLAND: Factors seem 4 to just be generated and, you know, the factors 5 appear; and it seems to me like if we have an idea 6 and if we have to go by some factors, they need to 7 be tailored to, you know, our needs here in Texas; 8 but I don't think -- I think that's a good idea and 9 it would give the lawyers some guidance about when 10 would you be able to seek a trial judge's, you know, 11 intervention to get us to I guess opt out of the 12 rule or the rule not apply or something like that.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Paula.

14 MS. SWEENEY: But several of these 15 last comments go back to something that is unclear 16 in the way this rule is written. And Elaine and 17 Tommy, I don't know what you-all's decision was in 18 your committee. But is it the intent that the 19 default mode is that this rule does apply and there 20 will be fee shifting in every case where an offer 21 has been made and rejected, or is it that this rule 22 only applies in cases where there has been 23 unreasonable conduct? Because I think that is a 24 fundamental issue that needs to be clear. And are 25 we going to in every case are we doing to do this?

1 Are we going to have this kind of a hearing after 2 every verdict and presuppose that somebody was 3 frivolous for being down there?

4 I agree with you the way this is written 5 we are going to have this in every case; and I 6 don't -- that to me seems a bizarre thing for the 7 Supreme Court of the state to say to the litigants 8 of the state, "one of you is frivolous for being 9 here" in every case. And I wonder what you-all 10 thought in your committee and whether the intent of 11 the rule is for the default to be this won't come up 12 or the default to be this will come up.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Do you want me to 14 respond to that? I think the intent was that it 15 will come up, not that it won't come up.

16 MS. SWEENEY: In every case?

17 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: In every case.
18 And that if there had been an offer that was 19 rejected and it fell outside that parameter, that 20 safety zone, "safety net" as Tommy called it, then 21 yes, sanctions will be awarded subject to the 22 discretion of the Court bounded by what is said in 23 the rule. I think that was the intent. Now whether 24 that is a good idea or not is something else. But 25 Judge Brister and then you, Bill.

1 HONORABLE SCOTT A. BRISTER: And
2 again, I think the reason for that is, as I 3 explained, I don't -- my interest in this rule is 4 for the small case taken on a contingency fee with 5 the client which my friends in the plaintiff's bar 6 say they at least in their younger years tend to 7 have lots of who have a fabulous idea of what this 8 case is worth because they've watched too much Court 9 TV. And so they want, they tell me there is no 10 problem getting their client to turn down offers 11 from the defendant because they think everybody gets 12 lots of money.

13 And in that case the plaintiff's attorney 14 is stuck. You have to try that. If it's a small 15 personal injury case, car wreck, fender bender in 16 Harris county, the defense attorney is not -- the 17 insurance is not going to pay, because they win most 18 of them. The plaintiff's attorney likes to 19 withdraw, and I won't give you my story about that 20 again; but the judge is out of their mind if you let 21 the plaintiff's attorney withdraw, because then 22 you're stuck with this nut trying it pro se. And 23 the plaintiff's attorney ends up having to try a 24 case they know they're going to lose because there 25 is no leverage with those plaintiffs. They have

1 nothing to lose. Their agreement says they get a 2 free trial.

3 So if you treat this as a sanction, that 4 assumes that there is some bad faith on the 5 plaintiff's part. No. They're just wrong. They 6 have a wrong idea about the way the justice system 7 works because they've watched too much TV. It's not 8 that they're bad people or they're doing this to 9 harm. They're just misinformed.

10 And the idea of this rule as I understand 11 it was to put a cost at least on those cases so that 12 a plaintiff's attorney could explain to your own 13 client, "yes, we can go all the way to trial; but 14 given the offer they have made you will end up 15 losing money if we go all the way to trial" so that 16 there will be a down side on small personal injury
17 cases. And that's why it shouldn't be tied to a 18 post hearing inquiry about whether they acted 19 reasonably and stuff because that is going to be a 20 waste of time. They were just wrong.

21 And the question, if a defendant is wrong 22 on a breach of contract case, they pay the 23 attorney's fees. Nobody seems to think there is a 24 problem with that. You were just wrong. And 25 whether you were unreasonable defending the contract

1 or not is irrelevant. On DTPA whether you were 2 unreasonable in defending your deceptive practice is 3 irrelevant. You were wrong. You pay. So it's not 4 that unreasonable a rule in large areas of the law 5 today.

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Carlos, did you
7 want to say something?

8 HONORABLE CARLOS LOPEZ: Well, we get 9 a lot of the cases that the judge is talking about; 10 and it makes sense in the cases he's talking about, 11 which is a bunch of them; but there is a whole bunch 12 of them that aren't like that. And I think a lot of 13 people are concerned. Like for example, Paula, was 14 it meant to just, was it meant to penalize if they 15 were just wrong, or was it meant to penalize them if 16 they are unreasonably wrong or intentionally wrong 17 or, you know, something more culpable than just 18 being wrong?

19 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes. I don't 20 think intent had anything to do with it. I think it 21 was meant to shift fee sanctions, whatever you want 22 to call it; but if you're not right about your case 23 within certain parameters, then you pay.

24 MR. SWEENEY: Judge Brister says it's 25 just for crummy little car wrecks. Can we put that

1 in?

2 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Huh?

3 MS. SWEENEY: If this is only meant
4 to apply to crummy little car wrecks, let's say so.

5 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well, I don't --

6 MS. SWEENEY: But it's not written 7 that way. It's applies. And I'm not meaning to be 8 that facetious. There are a host of cases where 9 litigants are entitled to go to the courthouse and 10 have a jury resolve their claims. And if we're 11 going to have a rule like this, I think it needs to 12 specify a reasonableness standard. If there is some 13 yahoo who has watched too much TV who won't listen 14 to his lawyer and gets stuck with a judge who won't 15 let the lawyer withdraw, then you've got a situation 16 where they're being unreasonable, the lawyer is 17 stuck going to trial and doesn't have a choice.
18 Fine. Make it clear it's a reasonableness standard 19 which is what you're describing. But to have it be 20 a strict liability type standard where every time 21 you lose then you have to have a whole nother trial 22 over this stuff is going to clog the courts, because 23 there is a loser in every case.

24 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Ladies first.

25 PROFESSOR CARLSON: Paula, it is

1 "unreasonable."

2 MS. SWEENEY: To go to trial?

3 (Laughter.)

4 PROFESSOR CARLSON: No. No. It is 5 based on an unreasonable rejection; but it was 6 per se in that we by the end of the meeting 7 hopefully agree on a buffer and say "Outside that 8 buffer you're unreasonable presumptively and then 9 you've got to come into the exception.

10 HONORABLE CARLOS LOPES: So you would 11 address Paula's concern by saying the buffer might 12 be bigger?

13 PROFESSOR CARLSON: That's a 14 possibility.

15 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Judge Gaultney.

16 HONORABLE DAVID B. GAULTNEY: She 17 addressed my question, because the title of the rule 18 says "Unreasonable."

19 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: He was first.
20 Yes, go ahead, Carl.

21 MR. HAMILTON: As I understand one of 22 the reasons we used the word "sanctions" is because 23 that's been used and upheld in other places; but in 24 the other places where it's been upheld it's because 25 of misconduct, but this is clearly not misconduct if

1 someone just guesses wrong about what the value of 2 the case is. And I'm not certain that we ought not 3 to have some hearing about whenever it amounts to 4 such misconduct as to be sanctions.

5 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well, it's 6 unreasonable conduct. It's more blatant.

7 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Maybe we're 8 getting back to the beginning of what Tommy was 9 talking about with these factors; but I don't like 10 to put factors in generally, but this last part is 11 seeming to be considerably more important. The 12 167.6(d) in (3) does say, has this, "If you do this, 13 judge, you have to have detailed written findings" 14 is kind of a barrier to the judge saying that 15 imposition of sanctions would unjustly punish the 16 party. But it would seem to me that if you take 17 away all of somebody's recovery that they were 18 otherwise entitled to because they went to trial, 19 that looks like it is punishment and arguably it's 20 unjust. Maybe you say they were unreasonable, so it 21 wasn't unjust; but that's, if this is not just some 22 little tiny extra afterthought to save people in 23 rare cases, if it's a principal part of the 24 architecture of this rule, it needs more work.

25 MR. SOULES: If we think we're going

1 to have, unless we're just going to have "plaintiff 2 pays and nobody else," then we need to get down to 3 business, because that is what is happening in some 4 pink building nearby. And we can debate this until 5 we're blue in the face; but you know, that's very, 6 it's not a low probability problem.

7 JUSTICE NATHAN HECHT: Or we can 8 report back to Senator Ratliff that we just failed.

9 MR. SOULES: Yes, sir. And "the 10 plaintiff pays" and so be it. That's the way it's 11 written over there. We need to get this balanced.
12 We need to do the best job we can. We need to get 13 down the trail today and get this over with. We've 14 got to make some sense. It won't be perfect; but it 15 will be probably better than some that's over in 16 some pink building somewhere nearby.

17 (Laughter.)

18 MR. SOULES: And we'll have a better 19 chance of maybe doing something about it later after 20 we have a little experience with it. And we've just 21 got to get moving. We can wring our hands and emote 22 all we want; but things are moving, man. The train 23 is moving, and you ain't stopping the train.

24 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: We'll just do it 25 piece by piece and do it.

1 MR. SOULES: Okay?

2 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: "Light tan
3 building" I think is a better description. All 4 right. So Tommy, do we put these Florida factors in 5 here or not?

6 MR. SOULES: I think we put the 7 factors in. We have got Kraus factors. We've got 8 104 factors, attorney's fees. We've got factors for 9 gross negligence. We've got all kind of factors.

10 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: So you're a 11 "factor" guy?

12 MR. SOULES: Let's give them some 13 factors. Okay? Including the ability, including I 14 don't remember whether one of them is the ability of 15 the guy who makes the offer to pay. That ought to 16 be one factor. Huh? And just; but you know, some 17 reasonable factors, some standards for these trial 18 judges to think about. Otherwise nobody knew what 19 the Kraus factors were, remember, until Kraus was 20 written?

21 (Laughter.)

22 MR. SOULES: We didn't have a
23 standard for punitive damages. Chip, why wait?

24 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well, I think --

25 MR. SOULES: And you can submit all

1 this in one jury trial, in one verdict. I had a 2 case both sides said breach of contract. Okay? The 3 judge came and gave my client nothing, gave Carlos 4 Sedillo's client nothing, gave me $75,000 attorney's 5 fees and gave Carlos $75,000 attorney's fees, the 6 same verdict. It's not that complicated. It 7 doesn't take that many trials.

8 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: If you're not 9 careful, we're going to call these the "Soules 10 factors."

11 (Laughter.)

12 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: The "Soules 13 train."

14 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: The "Soules
15 train." The Soules train is leaving the station 16 here. Yes, Judge Peeples.

17 MR. SOULES: I vote we have factors.

18 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: It's 19 beguiling to say we ought to have factors, because 20 as Alistair Dawson pointed out, the Florida factors 21 will generate satellite litigation because they're 22 so expansive just any old reason will get litigated 23 whereas the way it's written right now it is 24 basically you've got the buffer which defines the 25 playing field, and then there will be the sanctions

1 or fee shifting except in these exceptional cases; 2 but the Florida factors change the whole approach of 3 this. And so it's not just a matter of let's help
4 our poor judges know what to look at. The factors 5 from Florida will expand the whole reach of this and 6 change the shift of it.

7 MR. SOULES: How about picking some 8 factors out of 104?

9 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: What I'm 10 saying, Luke, is that by giving factors you change 11 the whole nature of the rule.

12 MR. SOULES: Well, are we going to 13 use the 104 factors for fee shifting?

14 MR. DAWSON: Not under this rule as 15 written.

16 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: I'm in 17 favor of leaving what is on page seven in there.

18 MR. SOULES: You're not even going to 19 use the 104 factors? When somebody takes 10 lawyers 20 to one deposition you've got to pay every dollar.

21 MR. SCHENKKAN: We are going to use 22 the factors because it says "reasonableness." But 23 I'm in favor of leaving it the way it is. And the 24 argument for leaving it the way it is is that it is 25 designed to be a system that is self administrating

1 as much as possible and to create an incentive to 2 settle in the cases to which it applies, and then 3 there is a separate debate about which cases it 4 ought to apply to. But as drafted it's only going 5 to set up the $50,000 fee maximum and less than that 6 if the amount recovered is less than that, because 7 you can only zero a plaintiff out with these fees.
8 You can't make a plaintiff pay out of pocket.

9 So we're talking about cases in which 10 $50,000 in fees are a big portion of what is 11 potentially at stake, relatively smaller cases. You 12 don't want satellite litigation in such cases. You 13 don't want it in general; but especially you don't 14 want it in these cases. So the system you have here 15 where you only get out of that relatively modest 16 amount of fee shifting if you can make a really 17 strong showing that it is really unjust is a good 18 rule. It is going to dispose of the enormous middle 19 run of these cases and not cause a problem.

20 I'm starting from your fundamental premise
21 that we get on down the road; but I reach exactly 22 the opposite result.

23 MR. SOULES: Are you going to submit 24 attorney's fees in every case? And if the liability 25 doesn't meet what the judge has got in the envelope

1 over there as a settlement offer, then you judgment, 2 award the attorney's fees, and if it doesn't, it 3 doesn't.

4 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. One more
5 comment, and then we're going to vote on the Soules 6 factors or not. Judge Patterson, you get the final 7 say on this debate.

8 HONORABLE JAN P. PATTERSON: What a
9 responsibility. I think we ought to hear them again 10 though, because two of them, one is lack of merit of 11 claim and the other one is closeness of question.
12 We've just had a jury verdict.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Right.

14 HONORABLE JAN P. PATTERSON: And I
15 mean, whatever the factor should be, I don't think 16 these can be the factors; and so I agree with David, 17 well said that it's beguiling and tempting and 18 factors sometimes are irresistible; but they should 19 be left to judges. I'm just kidding about the last 20 part.

21 (Laughter.)

22 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Let's let Tommy 23 read it one more time; and then we're going to vote 24 do we want these factors.

25 MR. JACKS: Okay. They are "the then

1           apparent merit or lack of merit of the claim, the 2           number and nature of proposal made by the parties, 3           the closeness of questions of fact and law at issue, 4           whether the party making the proposal had 5           unreasonably refused to furnish information 6           necessary to evaluate the reasonableness of the 7           proposal, whether the suit was in the nature of a 8           test case with questions of far reaching importance 9           affecting non-parties, the amount of the additional 10          delay, cost and expense that the party making the 11          proposal reasonably would be expected to incur if 12          the litigation were to be prolonged," and then there 13          is another I guess factor in this sense in that in 14          Florida "the Court may in its discretion determine 15          that a proposal is not made in good faith. In such 16          case the Court may disallow and award costs and 17          attorney's fees."

18                           CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Everybody
19                           in favor of those factors by adding it to our rule 20                           raise your hand.

21                           MS. SWEENEY: Should the first factor 22                           be "claims or defenses?"

23                           CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: No. Everybody who 24                           is in favor of those factors raise your hand.

25                           PROFESSOR CARLSON: In the rule.

1 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: In the rule.

2 PROFESSOR CARLSON: Not the comment.

3 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Not the comment.

4 MR. HAMILTON: Are we going to vote
5 on the comment too?

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Probably not.

7 One, two, three. Luke, are you up or down?

8 MR. SOULES: I'm for it.

9 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Everybody who is 10 opposed to that, having that in the rule? By a vote 11 of 16 to seven, the Chair not voting, the factors 12 will not be in the rule. Any appetite for a 13 comment?

14 HONORABLE DAVID B. GAULTNEY: I
15 propose it be in a comment.

16 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: All right.
17 Everybody who wants it in a comment raise your hand.

18 MR. BOYD: Clarification: As an 19 exclusive list or an example of factors?

20 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Example. We never 21 have exclusive lists. Everybody who is against 22 having it in a comment?

23 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Point of 24 information: Can I ask one question? The financial 25 situation of the claimant --

1 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Out of order. Out
2 of order. Out of order. Raise your hand if you're 3 against this in the comment.

4 PROFESSOR CARLSON: It is not in the 5 comment?

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Are you against it
7 in the comment or not?

8 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I'm against it.

9 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: By a vote of 14 to 10 11, the Chair not voting, it is to be in a comment, 11 that list in a comment.

12 MS. SWEENEY: Mr. Chairman, I move 13 that the first clause be amended to read "claims or 14 defenses."

15 MR. SOULES: Second.

16 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes. We're going
17 to have to adopt it to harmonize it to our rule, 18 because the Florida rule as pointed out is not the 19 same. Okay. Elaine, what is next?

20 MS. SWEENEY: Can we take a vote on 21 that, please?

22 MR. YELENOSKY: You got it. You got 23 it.

24 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: And Paula, do you
25 want to vote on whether we are going to harmonize it

1 into the rule or not?

2 MS. SWEENEY: No. Whether the 3 "claims or defenses" whether it be two ways, in 4 other words.

5 MR. YELENOSKY: I thought Chip
6 already said that.

7 MR. ORSINGER: I think we have that 8 by consensus.

9 MS. SWEENEY: Okay. If it's no
10 dissent, by consensus, that's great.

11 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. What is 12 next, Elaine?

13 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Mr. Chairman, 14 are we still on that (d) part, 167.6(d, which is 15 what I think we just voted to amend?

16 PROFESSOR CARLSON: No.

17 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: No. We are if 18 Elaine says we are.

19 PROFESSOR CARLSON: Do you think we 20 should stay there?

21 MR. JACKS: You're running the show.

22 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: You're running the 23 show, Elaine.

24 PROFESSOR CARLSON: Do you mind if we 25 come back to that, Bill?

1 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: No, I don't 2 mind.

3 PROFESSOR CARLSON: All right. I
4 don't think, these are fatal words, I don't think 5 167.3 is controversial on the ability to withdraw an 6 offer, 167.3 on page four.

7 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Has anybody got 8 comments on 167.3?

9 MR. ORSINGER: I would just suggest 10 that the last sentence say "once an unaccepted offer 11 has been withdrawn," so no one considered that. I 12 don't -- contractually you're not supposed to 13 withdraw an offer after it has been accepted.

14 PROFESSOR CARLSON: You are correct.

15 MR. HAMILTON: If you make the offer
16 to extend to the time of trial, can you withdraw it 17 before trial?

18 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Sure.

19 PROFESSOR CARLSON: Yes.

20 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: That's the whole
21 point of this rule.

22 MR. ORSINGER: You can withdraw it
23 any time up to the time it's accepted.

24 MR. YELENOSKY: The first sentence 25 covers that.

1 MR. SCHENKKAN: Once it's accepted
2 it's not an offer. It's a contract.

3 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Right.

4 MR. SCHENKKAN: So I don't know that 5 you need this modification.

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Anything
7 else on this one? All right. The next section.

8 PROFESSOR CARLSON: 167.4 I spoke to 9 Tommy, and Tommy, make sure I've got this right, I 10 think we're missing the word "not."

11 MR. ORSINGER: Yes, you are.

12 PROFESSOR CARLSON: "An offer that 13 has not been addressed." Otherwise is there any 14 comments on that?

15 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Richard.

16 MR. ORSINGER: Yes. I have some 17 extended comments to make on --

18 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Hang on guys. The 19 court reporter can't hear. Go ahead, Richard.

20 MR. ORSINGER: If the case is simple 21 and you can settle with an offer of $100,000, this 22 is not a problem; but in the area of law I practice 23 which is family law where your offers have many, 24 many features to it you can draft a comprehensive 25 settlement agreement and still have modified

1 disputes over what your settlement was; and 2 particularly in commercial litigation where you may 3 have money exchanges hands or assignment of 4 licensing rights or any number of complex issues 5 there can be a bona fide dispute as to what the 6 settlement is even though you have a settlement 7 document.

8 And what has happened traditionally in 9 Texas is if you had a settlement agreement and then 10 a disagreement about your settlement agreement, the 11 Court could no longer enter a judgment by consent 12 because the consent doesn't exist at the time of 13 rendition. And in Padilla vs. LaFrance the Supreme 14 Court said in the event of a dispute over a 15 settlement agreement somebody needs to drop back, 16 amend their pleadings, seek specific performance of 17 the settlement and file a motion for summary
18 judgment. And if you can't win summary judgment, 19 then you have got to try your contract case on the 20 settlement in connection with your trying the 21 underlying liability.

22 The legislature did not like that in 23 family law because it so often happened that 24 mediated settlement agreements would fall apart
25 after they were signed. So they amended the Family

1 Code to provide that as long as it's in bold face or 2 all caps that the consent cannot be withdrawn if you 3 enter into a settlement in a family law case that is 4 signed by the parties and signed by the lawyers, 5 then they can no longer withdraw consent and the 6 Court can enter a judgment based on a motion, not an 7 amended pleading and a suit for specific 8 performance, but based on a motion.

9 Now this particular rule jumps over all of 10 the wisdom that we've learned in civil litigation 11 and even jumps over the Family Code provisions and 12 said basically when an offer is accepted you can get 13 a judgment on the basis of a motion. And that's 14 maybe not so dangerous if it is just somebody who 15 pays $100,000 and gets a release; but there might 16 even be an argument over what the release says.

17 And I would question the wisdom of us 18 saying that if there is bona fide dispute over the 19 nature of the settlement, that you can get a 20 judgment on a motion without a trial and without a 21 jury. So I'm just warning everybody about that, 22 because we've had a lot of problems with it in 23 family law.

24 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Does this rule 25 apply to family law cases?

1 MR. ORSINGER: No. But what I'm 2 telling you is that if you write this rule this way, 3 you're going to run, you're going to collide with 4 Padilla vs. LaFrance which says that if there is a 5 dispute over the settlement, you can't enter a 6 quote, "consent judgment." You have to go litigate 7 your specific performance case.

8 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Are you talking 9 about 167.4?

10 MR. ORSINGER. Yes. Because the last 11 sentence says "when an offer is accepted the offeror 12 or offeree may file the offer and acceptance along 13 with a motion for judgment." And that implies that 14 the Court can grant a judgment on motion. Now 15 granted it doesn't say that; but I think we can 16 infer that if you can -- if we provide that you can 17 file a motion for judgment, that means you can have 18 a judgment entered even if somebody is saying "Wait 19 a minute. The judgment they are asking for is not 20 the judgment we agreed to give them." Do you see 21 what I'm saying?

22 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes.

23 MR. ORSINGER: The dispute over what 24 the settlement is. And I can imagine even in a 25 fairly straight forward case where somebody says

1 "I'll pay you $100,000 and we'll exchange full and 2 complete releases" what is full and complete in a 3 release may be a dispute as to whose release and 4 what they are released of. And if it is a 5 commercial lawsuit where you're talking about 6 providing additional material at a reduced rate or 7 assignment of licensing rights in connection with 8 the settlement or if it is a suit involving the 9 scope of competition on a non compete clause and the 10 question is, I just I promise you that we should not 11 say that you can get a judgment on a motion when 12 there is a bona fide dispute over what the 13 settlement is without overturning Padilla vs.
14 LaFrance, and we don't even have the safeguards 15 built in that the legislature requires in the family 16 law that there be a disclosure to the settling 17 parties that offer is non revocable.

18 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Be that as it 19 may, let's go to the next section.

20 (Laughter.)

21 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Alex is going to 22 say one thing, and then we'll do that.

23 PROFESSOR ALBRIGHT: I think 24 Richard's point about Padilla vs. LaFrance is 25 correct; but I think this says you can file a

1 motion. I think if somebody withdraws consent, the 2 judge can deny their motion under Padilla vs.
3 LaFrance, so I don't think this changes it at all.

4 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Any views on this 5 rule?

6 JUSTICE NATHAN HECHT: No.

7 JUSTICE WALLACE B. JEFFERSON: No.

8 HONORABLE LEVI BENTON: We couldn't 9 hear your question, Chip.

10 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: I asked the Justices
11 if they had any views on 167.4, and they said "No."
12 Ralph.

13 MR. DUGGINS: Should we insert the 14 word "only" after the word "accepted" in the first 15 line to avoid some contention that it has been 16 accepted orally?

17 MR. BOYD: Which rule?

18 MR. DUGGINS: 167.4.

19 MR. JACKS: Yes. I think that's 20 good.

21 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: "Only," okay. What 22 other comments?

23 MR. BOYD: Are we on 3.4 now?

24 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: We're on 167.4.

25 MR. BOYD: Because we were on 1.3.

1 PROFESSOR CARLSON: 167.3.

2 MR. BOYD: 3. And I have a question
3 on .3. But as to .4 am I reading this wrong or 4 should the word "not" be before.

5 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: "Not" is in 6 there. When we were worrying about 3 it got in 7 there.

8 MR. BOYD: Okay.

9 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: We added it it
10 seems like an hour ago.

11 MR. BOYD: And then on three, this 12 goes back to first year contracts, and I forgot a 13 long time ago. But if I made an offer to you and I 14 say I offer to settle this case and I expressly by 15 the terms of my offer leave it open for X number of 16 days, can I withdraw it before those days pass as a 17 matter of contract law?

18 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: According to this 19 rule we can. I think we mentioned that. Okay.
20 What else?

21 MR. ORSINGER: Before we go on I'd 22 like to get a clarification. Do people agree with 23 Alex that if this rule is adopted, it doesn't change 24 Padilla vs. LaFrance? Everyone agrees with Alex?
25 Okay. Let's write this down.

1 MR. SCHENKKAN: Some of us don't know
2 Padilla vs. LaFrance.

3 MR. ORSINGER: It will be litigated.

4 PROFESSOR ALBRIGHT: I taught this on 5 Wednesday.

6 MR. SWEENEY: We go with Alex.

7 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: There are some 8 affirmative nods of the head down there at the other 9 end of the table. So, okay, what is next, Elaine?

10 PROFESSOR CARLSON: All right.
11 167.5, again I think is fairly straight forward; but 12 I would like to see if there is any comment.

13 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I don't know why 14 it needs to say that. It's not withdrawn; but or 15 not withdrawn. Okay. Or withdrawn or an offer that 16 is not accepted seems to be --

17 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: It's not 18 necessarily.

19 MS. SWEENEY: Do we need this 20 section?

21 MR. ORSINGER: Well, you're worried
22 about the fact that somebody doesn't reply and then 23 you're really deeming it as a rejection. Right?

24 HONORABLE CARLOS LOPEZ: Right. It's 25 got to be accepted or else.

1 MR. YELENOSKY: Let's use the word 2 "deem."

3 HONORABLE DAVID B. GAULTNEY: I'm 4 having trouble with the phrasing "not withdrawn or 5 rejected."

6 MR. YELENOSKY: Why don't we just 7 have a section that says "deemed a rejection" and 8 that it says that it is "deemed rejected if not 9 accepted. "

10 MS. SWEENEY: Better.

11 PROFESSOR ALBRIGHT: It's rejected
12 when it expires. Right?

13 MR. JACKS: Yes.

14 PROFESSOR ALBRIGHT: Like this says,
15 "An offer that is not withdrawn is rejected."
16 That's not right. It's not rejected until it 17 expires. Right?

18 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Unless it's 19 withdrawn.

20 PROFESSOR ALBRIGHT: Unless it's 21 withdrawn.

22 MR. ORSINGER: Well, my drafting 23 suggestion was you say "An offer that is not 24 withdrawn or accepted prior to expiration is deemed 25 rejected." And you need to have a deemed rejection

1 because your rule is driven on the basis of 2 rejection, not just a failure to accept.

3 MR. YELENOSKY: You want to say "Is 4 not withdrawn and is not accepted."

5 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes. I agree with 6 Richard on that. Elaine, is this language okay with 7 you?

8 PROFESSOR CARLSON: Yes.

9 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Has anybody got a
10 problem with Richard's language? Read it again.

11 MR. ORSINGER: "An offer that is not 12 withdrawn or accepted prior to expiration is deemed 13 rejected."

14 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Stephen, is that 15 okay?

16 MR. YELENOSKY: Well, I don't know.
17 It doesn't sound right to me. "Not withdrawn or 18 accepted," and literally if it is not withdrawn.

19 MR. SCHENKKAN: "And is not 20 accepted."

21 MR. YELENOSKY. "And." That's what 22 I'm saying. It has to be "and is not accepted."

23 HONORABLE TERRY E. CHRISTOPHER: Why
24 do you have "not withdrawn" in there?

25 MR. YELENOSKY: It may not. But if

1 you're going to put it in there, you don't want to 2 put in an "or."

3 MR. SCHENKKAN: "An offer that is not 4 accepted by the date is deemed rejected."

5 MR. YELENOSKY: Right.

6 HONORABLE CARLOS LOPEZ: How about 7 let's say what we're saying, which is failure to 8 respond is deemed rejection. That's what we're 9 really saying, so let's just say it.

10 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: That's a good
11 point. That fits with the second sentence. Yes.
12 Okay. The wise guy came up with some language here.

13 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I would say the 14 sentence ought to come first and then the next 15 concept second.

16 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes. I think that 17 makes sense. "An offer may be rejected by written 18 notice served on the offeror by the acceptance 19 date."

20 HONORABLE CARLOS LOPEZ: "Or by 21 failure to respond," put it right there.

22 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: "Or by failure to 23 respond in which case it is deemed rejected."

24 MR. ORSINGER: Take the word "also"
25 out of there. Move that sentence first.

1 HONORABLE CARLOS LOPEZ: Yes.

2 Instead of "failure to respond," he is pointing out 3 maybe it should say "failure to accept."

4 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: "Failure to accept in 5 which case it is deemed rejected." Okay. How does 6 that sound? It is going to say "An offer may be 7 rejected by written notice served on the offeror by 8 the acceptance date or by failure to accept in which 9 case it is deemed rejected." Any problems with that 10 language?

11 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Too many words;
12 but I'm happy with it.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. All right.
14 What is next? "Sanctoins"?

15 PROFESSOR CARLSON: "Sanctoins."

16 MR. SCHENKKAN: Is this the time when 17 we take up the question of whether these have to be 18 called sanctions?

19 PROFESSOR CARLSON: This would be a 20 good time.

21 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: This would be a 22 great time. The thinking behind it, Tommy and 23 Elaine, I think was that there was an issue that was 24 debated with some degree of passion by some of our 25 legislative members of the committee some time ago

1           that this was beyond the Court's rulemaking
2           authority. And the research indicated that if it 3           was in the nature of sanctions, it would be within 4           the Court's rulemaking, and if it wasn't, then 5           there was an issue on that.

6                       The Florida rule as I recall is both 7           statutory and by rule.

8                               PROFESSOR CARLSON: Right.

9                               CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: But the rule that 10          was passed was as a result of a statute. And this 11          and our rule of all the rules out there, and I think 12          we're one of only like five or six states that 13          doesn't have an offer of settlement rule, our rule 14          is closest to the Florida rule. So that's what is 15          behind the word "sanctions." Yes, Bill.

16                              PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, having it 17          called "sanctions" does have other implications, 18          like whether it's unjust to impose it just being one 19          of them. In the more than 20 years that I've been 20          on this committee we have occasionally worried about 21          this issue; and usually it has --

22                              CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: You lost your 23          hair.

24                              PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Among other 25          things.

1 (Laughter.)

2 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: But it's never 3 seemed to me to be very important. If the 4 legislature wants to have a different statute that 5 does something different from this, that's what is 6 going to happen. If they don't, there's not going 7 to be a problem.

8 MR. ORSINGER: I'd like to follow up 9 on that, that the people who decide whether this 10 rule is beyond the Court's rulemaking authority is 11 of course who promulgated the rule. And if the 12 legislature doesn't like the rule, they're going to 13 adopt a statute regardless of whether it's beyond or 14 within the Court's ability.

15 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: It's kind of what 16 Bill just said.

17 MR. ORSINGER: Right. So I really 18 feel like that's not a legitimate rationale for 19 using the word "sanctions" since the word
20 "sanctions" carries so much negative baggage 21 including when you renew for your specialization 22 they want to know if you've been sanctioned. When 23 they file a malpractice case against you they'll 24 argue to the jury that it was a sanction, et cetera, 25 et cetera.

1                   CHAIRMAN BABCOCK:  Yes.  Good point.
2                   Elaine, then Alistair.

3                   PROFESSOR CARLSON:  I don't think you
4                   have to use the word "sanctions" to have a 5                   legitimate fee shifting rule; but I think what the 6                   cases are telling us is that the content, the 7                   substance of the fee shifting rule has to relate to 8                   conduct during the litigation and cannot create 9                   automatically a cause of action for attorney's fees 10                  under the British system in every case.

11                  So I don't think we have to use the word 12                  "sanctions;" but it's the substance of the rule that 13                  goes to punishment based on unreasonable conduct.

14                  CHAIRMAN BABCOCK:  What is our 15                  alternative wording?

16                  MR. DAWSON:  I was going to suggest 17                  "imposition of costs."

18                  PROFESSOR CARLSON:  "Taxation of post 19                  offer costs."

20                  PROFESSOR DORSANEO:  Well, if we call 21                  it "costs," then we're buying into the case law that 22                  says that if you're -- it doesn't matter whether 23                  it's tough on you because of your economic 24                  circumstances.  If we call it sanctions, I think a 25                  good argument could be made that once -- we sanction

1 people who are cheats and who are dopes in the sense 2 of being grossly professionally stupid, but not 3 because somebody is just occasionally stupid. And 4 gross cheats and really bad dopes. And I think it 5 depends upon who you want to get.

6 PROFESSOR CARLSON: So Bill, you're 7 saying you think that using the word "sanctions" 8 you're going to pull in the Transamerica checks and 9 balances from a due process point of view?

10 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: And due process
11 principles, yes.

12 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Tommy.

13 MR. JACKS: I think a reason for 14 using "cost" is that it may make, may trigger 15 coverage under certain policies. I know John Martin 16 last year looked at some policies of his clients; 17 and I don't know whether that mattered under those 18 policies or not, but I think it should be a goal of 19 ours to have insurers who have the right to 20 controlled settlements be the ones who are 21 responsible for paying any costs for their 22 judgements.

23 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: What would you
24 call it?

25 MR. JACKS: I would lean towards

1 "costs" on that account; and I think it gives you a 2 better. And we get to this over on the next page 3 under "Persons Liable, subsection (c)" of this 4 section.

5 MR. MUNZINGER: That subsection (c)
6 sounds good to me. I'm not an expert on sanctions.
7 But I'm wondering can you sanction a non-party 8 because the insurance carrier is not a party?

9 MR. JACKS: Well, I guess that 10 supports my argument to use the word "costs" rather 11 than "sanctions." I think for a carrier who 12 contractually is committed to pay costs if costs are 13 imposed, there is a better argument that the carrier 14 is responsible and not the insured.

15 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Can we call it
16 "costs and attorney's fees"?

17 MR. JACKS: I think you can call it 18 "costs including attorney's fees."

19 MR. SOULES: There are three things:
20 Costs, expense of litigation and attorney's fees.

21 MR. SCHENKKAN: And "costs" can be 22 defined to include attorney's fees or not include 23 attorney's fees. It just depends on how you set the 24 definition up and define in that way for purposes of 25 the rule.

1 MR. JACKS: In fact we'd have to call
2 it "costs including certain fees or including 3 attorney's fees and certain expenses" because we're 4 also incorporating expert witnesses for two experts 5 here.

6 MR. SCHENKKAN: But in the title if 7 "Costs" was in it, the rule itself is a defined term 8 which includes each of these components that is 9 already in here.

10 MR. JACKS: Right.

11 HONORABLE CARLOS LOPEZ: If we do
12 call it "costs," is there a need to analyze and see 13 whether it harmonizes with the rule on costs?

14 PROFESSOR CARLSON: It depends if we 15 sufficiently define what is included as "costs."

16 HONORABLE CARLOS LOPEZ: The rules
17 says "shall, but for good cause."

18 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: What if we just 19 call it 167.6, "Costs Including Certain Fees and 20 Expenses"?

21 MR. ORSINGER: Well, we better limit
22 the term "costs" to this rule --

23 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Right.

24 MR. ORSINGER: -- so we don't collide
25 with Rule 131 and 143.

1 PROFESSOR CARLSON: How about "post
2 offer costs"?

3 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: "Post offer costs," 4 how about that?

5 MR. ORSINGER: 131 and 143.

6 MR. JACKS: You're only asking for 7 post rejection costs, because it doesn't start with 8 the offer, if we're going to get into that.

9 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay.

10 HONORABLE CARLOS LOPEZ: If not, the 11 trial Court is bound by the other rule as well.

12 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: "Post rejection 13 costs including certain fees and expenses," does 14 that work for you, Elaine?

15 PROFESSOR CARLSON: It's a little 16 long, but okay.

17 COMMITTEE MEMBER: Are some of those 18 fees going to be attorney's fees?

19 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes.

20 MR. ORSINGER: And expert witness 21 costs, whatever that may be.

22 PROFESSOR CARLSON: That's why it is 23 better.

24 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: "Certain fees and 25 expenses." Okay. Luke, are you okay with that?

1 MR. SOULES: (Nods affirmatively.)

2 MR. ORSINGER: As long as we do that 3 we need to note for purposes of this record or in a 4 comment that Rule 131 doesn't apply to this 5 component of the costs, because 131 requires you to 6 assess costs to the winner except for good cause 7 stated on the record, I think.

8 PROFESSOR CARLSON: We need a
9 comment.

10 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. All right.
11 Subpart (a).

12 PROFESSOR CARLSON: Tommy, would you 13 be willing to take this next section?

14 MR. JACKS: Oh.

15 PROFESSOR CARLSON: 167.6(a).

16 MR. JACKS: Okay. There is a part
17 that is missing. It's simply a clerical error. I 18 mean, the thrust of this is to apply as a trigger 19 whether in the case of the claimant they get less 20 than 70 percent of the offer; and then there is a 21 corresponding subpart (2) which is missing in the 22 draft we've got, but which is the mirror image of it 23 and says that as for a party against whom a claim is 24 made the cost shifting is triggered if the offer 25 was, if the outcome was more than 130 percent of the 1 amount that was offered. And the nonmonetary

2 language doesn't change between the two. And so 3 there is a 30-percent buffer zone for each side.
4 And that is the trigger. Or I'll put it another
5 way: That is what is deemed to be an unreasonable 6 litigation conduct and rejecting an offer.

7 And I guess there's a couple of questions
8 that are implicit in this. One is whether the 30 9 percent buffer zone is appropriate or not. And then 10 a separate issue is and I think is raised at this 11 point is whether A, the rules should apply to cases 12 for nonmonetary release; and B, if it does, what is 13 the standard? Is the standard substantially all the 14 nonmonetary relief sought or not? The footnote 15 suggests that in choosing that language the effort 16 was to allow about as much margin for error in cases 17 for nonmonetary relief as you do in cases for money 18 damages; and but clearly you don't have the ability 19 to quantify it as you do in the case of monetary 20 damages.

21 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: So if you're 22 seeking to restrain a guy from competing in 23 employment in a 100-mile radius, if you get him for 24 72 miles, then you're okay.

25 (Laughter.)

1 MR. JACKS: That's true.

2 MR. YELENOSKY: To clarify part (b), 3 isn't the part (b) that is written here actually 4 doesn't that actually belong in the mirror image?

5 MR. JACKS: It is in the mirror
6 image.

7 MR. YELENOSKY: Well, no. But I
8 mean, the way it's written here it says "A judgment 9 is less favorable than an offer to a party making a 10 claim if the nonmonetary award is at least 11 substantially all of the nonmonetary relief sought."
12 That says the plaintiff won. So that belongs in (2) 13 in the mirror image. And then I'll withhold for 14 this moment my attack on that whole notion.

15 MR. JACKS: Right.

16 MR. YELENOSKY: But isn't that right?

17 MR. JACKS: Yes. So I guess the word
18 "not?"

19 MR. SCHENKKAN: Well, or 20 "substantially less," if you're doing the (1)(b) to 21 a party making a claim, it would be "if the 22 nonmonetary award is substantially less than all of 23 the monetary."

24 MR. JACKS: Yes, "less than 25 substantially all" is the correct language.

1 MR. YELENOSKY: "Less than 2 substantially all" is not. Is that the right 3 standard, or is it "substantially less," because 4 those are two different things? And if we are going 5 to have this provision, then I think it should be 6 "substantially less."

7 MR. JACKS: All I can tell you is 8 that the language that was meant to be there right 9 or wrong is "less than substantially all."

10 MR. YELENOSKY: Okay.

11 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: "Less than 12 substantially all."

13 MR. ORSINGER: Why wouldn't we just 14 say "substantially?"

15 MR. YELENOSKY: And that means that 16 the way that is you decipher whether it should 17 happen at all is that if I ask for injunctive 18 relief, can I get anything less than --

19 MR. JACKS: 99.9 percent would be 20 less.

21 MR. YELENOSKY: Yes. Yes. Than, you 22 know, fee shifting time.

23 MR. JACKS: I'm not saying it's good 24 language. I'm just saying that is what the language 25 was meant to be.

1 MR. YELENOSKY: Right.

2 MR. ORSINGER: Can't we say

3 "substantially less than?"

4 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: "Less than 5 substantial" might make sense; but it's at least 6 harder to understand than "substantially less."

7 HONORABLE DAVID GAULTNEY: How is 8 "substantially less" different than "significantly 9 less" which is the availability initial clause? It 10 says "if a judgment is rendered and is 11 insignificantly less." Should we use the same 12 language and repeat it "significantly less" in the 13 nonmonetary instead of shifting it to 14 "substantially"?

15 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: It makes sense.

16 MR. JACKS: I think there is a 17 question whether, and the committee has debated this 18 before; but I think when you really try to write it 19 it shows the difficulty of applying this rule to 20 cases of nonmonetary relief, because however you 21 write it you can't have the precision that you have 22 in cases of money damages. So the question is what 23 words? I mean, if your goal, as the footnote says, 24 is to convey the same degree of laxity, that is,
25 something that corresponds to 70 percent and 130

1 percent, what words best do that?

2 I personally questioned whether, I think 3 you could fall short of -- well, I think at least 4 "substantially all" doesn't capture it to me, 5 because to me "substantially all" sounds more like 6 90 percent than it does 70 percent.

7 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Richard.

8 MR. ORSINGER: I'm in favor of taking 9 nonmonetary relief out. And if you have a case that 10 is combined money and nonmoney and you're on the 11 money in the money, but not on the money in the 12 nonmoney, you're never going to figure that out. If 13 you're within 30 percent of the jury verdict on 14 cash, but you don't get your other nonmonetary 15 relief, then you're both in and outside the rule.
16 Under subdivision (a) I think you've gotten this 17 backwards. It should be "Costs, attorney's fees and 18 interest incurred after the date the offer was 19 subjected" rather than "as of the date."

20 MS. SWEENEY: Yes. It's backwards.

21 MR. ORSINGER: And I would favor
22 removing "nonmonetary," because we're defining it by 23 using the same terms that sets it out. I mean, 24 we're not giving anybody any help. It's not 25 anything that can be measured. Apparently there is

1 no effort to let a jury decide this even though 2 there is probably a Constitutional right to it; and 3 it's just I would vote taking it out.

4 MR. SCHENKKAN: Can I before you?
5 There were several things said and talking about 6 which ones we want to take up in which order, one of 7 them essentially I want to take up. And the 8 "changes as of" I don't think that's an error. I 9 think that's correct.

10 MR. ORSINGER: You do?

11 MR. SCHENKKAN: Yes, because what 12 we're talking about is what costs have been incurred 13 as of the first time you invoke this statute that 14 might be recoverable under your plaintiff's theory.

15 MR. ORSINGER: You're trying to 16 punish somebody for not settling by making them pay 17 the cost of litigating out the rest of the case. So 18 I spend $100,000 getting to where I make you an 19 offer and you decline it, and I spend $50,00 more.

20 MR. SCHENKKAN: No. We're defining 21 what counts as more favored as an offer by a 22 defendant, that is more favorable to the plaintiff 23 than the plaintiff's recovery, and the plaintiff's 24 recovery in a cause of action in which the plaintiff 25 can recover attorney's fees.

1 MR. ORSINGER: Okay.

2 MR. SCHENKKAN: And they have, has 3 approved some attorney's fees before the defendant
4 makes an offer. What we're doing, I think --
5 somebody who knows more about this can check me -- I 6 believe we're incorporating by reference the federal 7 case law which says that when you have a fee 8 shifting deal like this and the defendant does 9 whatever is required to trigger it, it varies from 10 situation to situation, that cuts off an otherwise 11 applicable plaintiff's right to fees. And this says 12 "Well, it may cut it off; but it preserves it as to 13 those fees that had been accrued before it was cut 14 off." So if you're a plaintiff who is going under a 15 statute that has a fee shifting right and it is not 16 accepted at the beginning of this rule from the 17 whole thing like the DTPA, you wouldn't have 18 unreasonably rejected the settlement unless the 19 offer was, unless the judgment including for your 20 attorney's fees before they made an offer was at 21 least --

22 MS. SWEENEY: He's right.

23 MR. SCHENKKAN: -- 70 percent.

24 MS. SWEENEY: I've gone from Richard 25 is right to you're right.

1 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Carl.

2 MR. HAMILTON: Are you going to have 3 to have a jury issue as to what the attorney's fee 4 were on the date the settlement offer was rejected?
5 How are you going to determine that?

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes. I don't 7 think we've resolved the issue about whether you're 8 entitled to the jury. We've talked about it a lot.

9 MR. HAMILTON: I'm talking about in 10 the main judgment. In the main judgment here you're 11 testing whether or not you got to this 70 percent by 12 the amount of the award including the attorney's 13 fees as of the date the offer was rejected, so you 14 would have to have your jury issues divided up.

15 MS. SWEENEY: You'd have to split 16 your jury issue into up to the date of the rejection 17 and after.

18 MR. HAMILTON: Yes.

19 MR. JACKS: Well, there are other 20 statutes or rules which exclude attorney's fees and 21 costs for the purposes of making the comparison; and 22 that may be one of the reasons they do that. So you 23 just compare the damages that weren't covered by the 24 offer and the damages awarded in the judgment. I 25 don't think this draft speaks specifically to 1           whether you do or don't include attorney's fees --

2                       CHAIRMAN BABCOCK:   Yes.  I

3           misunderstood you.

4                       MR. JACKS:   -- and costs in the 5           offer.  It certainly doesn't say you can't do that, 6           nor does it say you must if you're entitled to, and 7           nor does -- this paragraph it says if awarded, you 8           consider them; but it doesn't.  I mean, the 9           possibility exists that they weren't included in the 10          offer; but are awarded in the judgment.  And to be 11          comparing apples and apples you should only consider 12          them if they were a part of the offer.  So it seems 13          to me you need to go one of two directions.  Either 14          whether included in the offer or not, just exclude 15          them for purposes of the comparison and just compare 16          the apples to apples part, or if you do this, then I 17          think the point is probably right that you may have 18          to have a jury finding of what they were at a 19          certain date, which clutters up your charge.

20                      MR. HAMILTON:  And which may give the 21          jury something to handle the rejected settlement.

22                      MR. JACKS:  Well, certainly they'll 23          come up with their ideas about why it's in there, 24          right or wrong.

25                      CHAIRMAN BABCOCK:  Yes, Bill.

1                   PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Tommy, do you 2 think it's necessary to have this whole, this 3 "including" thing in it? Why don't we just do the 4 amount of the judgment unless.

5                   MR. JACKS: Well, except that if they 6 were included in the offer, you've got one part of 7 the offer that has grown; and so you can only get an 8 apples to apples comparison by knowing what the 9 reasonable fees were at the time of the offer. So 10 to make the comparison, which is why it's written 11 this way, I think the cleaner way to do it is to say 12 that what you compare is exclusive of fees and costs 13 even if they were included in the offer, and so you 14 don't have to get into this. Do you follow me?

15                   PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Uh-huh (yes).

16                   CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Judge Christopher.

17                   HONORABLE TRACY CHRISTOPHER: Just 18 from a trial judge point of view, I would prefer to 19 have attorney's fees included both times if a cause 20 of action allows for money award of attorney's fee, 21 because I have seen a lot of litigation essentially 22 over the amount of the attorney's fees rather than 23 the amount of what to do under the contract. So 24 from my point of view I'd rather have them both in 25 there; and I know it's heresy to suggest to you, but

1 we trial judges could make that distinction as to 2 the amount of fees at the time of the offer versus 3 the jury.

4 (Laughter.)

5 HONORABLE TRACY CHRISTOPHER: We 6 could do it. We promise.

7 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Robert.

8 MR. VALADEZ: I don't know if this is 9 the right time. My question really totally shifts 10 gears, but it pertains to the issue of judgment.
11 And I know you have the comment we've seen that 12 judgments means summary judgment, judgment after DB 13 or judgment NOV. My question is when I read this 14 rule in its entirety it looks like it's putting 15 everything in a picture that the trial judge is 16 making a decision on when, you know, after a verdict 17 or after the judgment.

18 Nowhere in the rule do I see any 19 addressing of the issue of post judgment after an 20 appeal. For example, you have a company goes in.
21 They're in Duval county, let's say. They get a five 22 million dollar demand on a case that they feel that 23 they have a really rock solid appellate point. They 24 go try the case. They get hit for $15,000,000 or, 25 you know, $20,000,000, something to get the

1 percentages right. The trial judge sees that 2 written offer, says you're sanctioned. Say it was a 3 big case, 100 depositions and they get hit for the 4 $50,000.

5 The way the rule is written right now it 6 seems to me, and I may be missing something, but 7 that defendant could have sanctions and there is 8 nothing in the rule like in Rule 215, you know, that 9 kind of piggybacks it up with the judgment. You 10 could arguably have an independent sanctions order.
11 The trial judge orders it paid. It goes up, and 12 there's a reverse and rendition; but the way the 13 rule is written right now it doesn't take into 14 account appellate review in any way, shape or form.

15 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: It does look
16 like it's going to be a separate judgment which I 17 guess in Lane Bank where the opinion should have 18 said something else.

19 MR. VALADEZ: Yes. So you could get 20 hit for unreasonably severing a case that you win.

21 MR. PROFESSOR DORSANEO: That you 22 win.

23 MR. VALADEZ: And it's just it 24 happens unfortunately more often than not in the 25 areas I practice in. But I would like to have

1 something. I don't know if that is an issue in 2 anybody's mind.

3 MR. ORSINGER: Couldn't you address
4 that by just appealing the sanction order with the 5 judgment at the same time; and if you get the 6 reversal of one, you get the other one?

7 MR. VALADEZ: Sure. Like 215, you
8 know, everywhere where it talks about the sanction 9 it says, you know, the sanction order is appealable
10 with the final judgment. And nowhere in this rule 11 does it say that. We could maybe perhaps resolve it 12 that way to make sure that the defendant or vice 13 versa, the plaintiff doesn't lose a case that they 14 should have won after appeal.

15 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Got you. Yes,
16 Carl.

17 MR. HAMILTON: This Elaine, this 18 first sentence here says "if the judgment is 19 rendered." Does that contemplate that before a 20 final judgment is ever signed that you have these 21 hearings so that everything gets put into one 22 judgment then later, or does that word have any 23 significance, "rendered?"

24 PROFESSOR CARLSON: I'm going to 25 defer to Tommy on that. I don't know.

1 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Tommy, is 2 "rendered" significant?

3 MR. JACKS: If it is, I missed it.

4 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes, Bill.

5 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: The rule is 6 written as if these things happen in sequence.

7 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Right.

8 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I don't know
9 whether they need to or should. And that's what I 10 was talking about earlier about what are we talking 11 about when we say "after," because it makes sense to 12 me to have this all be done as part of the judgment 13 making process. It makes sense to me to do it like 14 that, and it could be written that way.

15 MR. VALADEZ: That's exactly my 16 concern, because Rule 215 the way it's written there 17 is an actual provision in the rule that allows the 18 trial Court to order when the sanctions must be 19 paid. That's given, the Court is given discretion; 20 and it's not treated here.

21 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: This word "rendered," 22 are we, Tommy are you trying, are you suggesting 23 that let's say the settlement, the settlement, the 24 offer of judgment is $100,000, the jury comes back 25 at $100,000; but there is a JNOV filed and the Court

1 takes it away? So now you've got a zero award, 2 $100,000 offer. The judgment that is rendered is 3 going to be for zero. So the rules trigger it. Is 4 that what you're trying to get at there?

5 MR. JACKS: Well, I don't think so,
6 because I mean the footnote obviously contemplates 7 judgments NOV which would be the last judgment in 8 the case.

9 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Right. Yes.

10 MR. JACKS: And credit sequentially.

11 HONORABLE CARLOS LOPEZ: Why don't we 12 just direct the trial Court to make it part of the 13 final judgment like other costs.

14 MR. JACKS: I think the intent was it
15 was part of the final judgment. I don't know.

16 JUSTICE NATHAN HECHT: Well, I think 17 part of it is that if the plaintiff just nonsuits, 18 for example, you wouldn't be able to come in and get 19 fees because you have made an offer earlier that 20 didn't get accepted and arguably while the nonsuit 21 which means they got zero. This is only going to 22 work if people go to a decision rather than somebody 23 gives up --

24 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: So you can give up 25 and --

1 JUSTICE NATHAN HECHT: -- I think is 2 the idea

3 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: -- and escape the 4 rule.

5 JUSTICE NATHAN HECHT: (Nods
6 affirmatively.)

7 MR. ORSINGER: But you can't nonsuit
8 after a certain point of the trial.

9 MS. SWEENEY: "Call your first 10 witness."

11 MR. ORSINGER: Is that what it is?

12 MR. VALADEZ: I don't think that's 13 right.

14 PROFESSOR CARLSON: I thought it was 15 after the plaintiff completes their direct proof.

16 MR. JACKS: After the plaintiff
17 rests. But in any case it's before you know what 18 the outcome is.

19 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Yes, Bill.

20 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I think instead 21 of putting this timing in there and say if the 22 judgment is rendered, we can just talk about the 23 amount of the judgment would be significantly less, 24 some wording like that and have this be done, have 25 this be done as part of the judgment making process

1           rather than as a separate proceeding after. Now the 2           problem with that is you slow it down.

3                         CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Right.

4                         PROFESSOR DORSANEO: You slow the 5           judgment making process down. But maybe slowing 6           things down would speed some other things up.

7                         JUSTICE NATHAN HECHT: I don't recall 8           a discussion in our group, in the task force group 9           about the timing issue --

10                        MR. JACKS: There was none.

11                        JUSTICE NATHAN HECHT: -- that you
12           have just raised. But the idea of whether it's a 13           good idea or a bad idea here is if there is not a 14           judgment, if it's just a dismissal, the rule doesn't 15           apply.

16                        MR. VALADEZ: Right.

17                        JUSTICE NATHAN HECHT: There is no 18           piling on.

19                                 (Laughter.)

20                        CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: You're going to 21           nonsuit and we're going to stick you. Who is that?
22           Paula?

23                        MS. SWEENEY: Yes, sir. Is this 24           where you want to talk about capped cases?

25                        CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Do we want to talk

1 about caps yet? No. We talk about caps on the next 2 page.

3 MR. SCHENKKAN: And the nonmonetary
4 issue, I'm not sure if it got decided. I must have 5 nodded off or turned over.

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well, we did not 7 decide.

8 MR. SCHENKKAN: Yes. So before we 9 move to caps can we resolve nonmonetary?

10 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes. We're still 11 on this page.

12 HONORABLE SARAH B. DUNCAN: The 13 timing issue is pretty significant. The JNOV is a 14 good example. How do you assess whether you're 15 within the buffer zone until you know you have got a 16 final judgment?

17 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: That's the thing
18 about doing it all at one time, because then the 19 judge is going to have to say "Okay. I know; but 20 they don't, that I'm going to JNOV this." And "I 21 know, but they don't know that they are going to be 22 eligible for this." You might not even have I guess 23 maybe if you say it's got to be all at one time, you 24 have to move; but that's unnecessary. I mean, why 25 should you have to move when there's been $100,000

1 verdict? You've got a pending motion; but you don't 2 know if it's going to be granted; and to cover 3 yourself if you make it all at one time, then you're 4 also going to have to move for these fees. Yes, 5 Sarah.

6 HONORABLE SARAH B. DUNCAN: I would 7 also question, and this might be a very unpopular 8 viewpoint around the table; but I would also 9 question the advisability of saying as long as the 10 plaintiff nonsuits or let's say the defendant emits 11 a frivolous affirmative defense with answer. Then 12 this rule doesn't apply. That's to me part of where 13 you really need this rule.

14 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: To not give them
15 the escape hatch.

16 HONORABLE SARAH B. DUNCAN: I file a 17 frivolous claim and you incur $100,000 worth of 18 attorney's fee and I nonsuit; and so this rule 19 doesn't apply, so you're not going to get anything 20 out of me. And then I wait a month and it's 21 refiled. That to me is precisely --

22 MR. SCHENKKAN: You wouldn't get 23 anything anyway. Again, it's capped against 24 plaintiffs at the amount of plaintiff's recovery in 25 a suit in which a plaintiff --

1 HONORABLE SARAH B. DUNCAN: I'm not 2 sure where it would apply. When you say the 3 plaintiff is capped at the amount of judgment I'm 4 not sure where it would apply; but it just seems to 5 me that to let somebody opt out of this rule by 6 nonsuiting a claim or defense.

7 MR. SCHENKKAN: I think it's a
8 discussion that leaps ahead to the cap; but I 9 understand the purpose of the cap to be able to 10 recognize the reality that the enormous majority of 11 plaintiffs are judgment proof and it is neither 12 politically acceptable to say they're going to have 13 to pay out of their pockets for guessing wrong about 14 this nor as a practical matter will actually lead to 15 any actual payments out of their pockets. And thus 16 we're capping that side of it at the amount of 17 recovery for the plaintiff. It's one of the 18 respects in which this is not really two-way. The 19 defendant is capped only at fifty and the plaintiff 20 is capped at the lesser of fifty and the plaintiff's 21 recovery.

22 But if you accept that premise which maybe 23 we will debate in a moment when we get to the 24 subject, if you accept that premise, it doesn't 25 change it to allow the plaintiff to nonsuit. That's 1 just another way of setting the recovery limits.

2 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes.

3 MR. BOYD: Justice Duncan raises a
4 good point. What if there are multiple defendants?
5 They keep -- it is five defendants. The plaintiff
6 drags four of them along; and then right before 7 trial drops those four, but gets a big judgment 8 against the fifth.

9 MR. SCHENKKAN: Well, I assume the 10 four are -- that's back to our earlier issue, can an 11 individual defendant make an offer to an individual 12 plaintiff? I think the answer is yes under the rule 13 as drafted. I think it should be; and I think it 14 solves that problem.

15 MR. BOYD: Now the plaintiff has 16 recovered money as a result of the claim.

17 MR. SCHENKKAN: That's true. That is 18 the scenario that is addressed in the statute 19 version in House Bill 4. It's not addressed in 20 here.

21 MR. BOYD: Right.

22 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Let's go back to 23 the timing thing, Elaine.

24 PROFESSOR CARLSON: Rule 162 on 25 dismissal or nonsuit currently reads "Any dismissal

1 pursuant to this rule shall not prejudice the right
2 of an adverse party to be heard on a pending claim 3 for affirmative relief or excuse the payment of all 4 costs taxed by the clerk. A dismissal can have no
5 effect on any motion for sanctions, attorney's fees 6 or other costs pending at the time of dismissal."
7 And if we're going "costy," I just point that out.

8 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Judge Bland.

9 HONORABLE JANE BLAND: Back on the 10 timing in 167.4 we say that the offeror or offeree 11 may file the offer and acceptance along with a 12 motion for judgment. So that that would contemplate 13 that we were going to incorporate a hearing on this 14 issue together with I suppose all of our other 15 judgment related issues.

16 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: More than one
17 judgment.

18 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well, but would 19 we? Because if the offer is accepted, then there is 20 no issue of attorney's fees.

21 HONORABLE JANE BLAND: Oh, you're 22 right. Okay. Then we could hear it afterward, and 23 we do do that; but then we run into deadline 24 problems for our plenary power.

25 MR. ORSINGER: Well, it's probably --

1 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Assuming they 2 apply.

3 MR. ORSINGER: I think if there is 4 unresolved pending relief, everything is --

5 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Lane Bank is 6 wrong.

7 MR. ORSINGER: -- in the judgment.
8 In Texas we traditionally had a one judgment rule 9 where we only have one judgment at the conclusion of 10 the case. If you have --

11 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: What if they enter 12 Sarah's, you know, "This is a final, no kidding 13 judgment"?

14 HONORABLE CARLOS LOPEZ: In spite of 15 this issue outstanding.

16 MR. ORSINGER: I mean, my preference
17 would be to fold this into the final judgment. But 18 if we don't and there's a pending motion to assess 19 fees under this rule, but we haven't otherwise 20 rendered judgment on the jury verdict, doesn't that 21 keep the otherwise rendered judgment on the jury 22 verdict interlocutory while this motion is 23 unresolved? And if so, then ultimately aren't we 24 going to end up with a non interlocutory judgment at 25 the end when the judge says? And what I think is

1 going to happen is people are going to file them 2 after the verdict comes in. People are going to 3 file a motion for judgment; and they'll know at that 4 time whether they're going to have a shot at these 5 fees or not; and if they do have a shot at these 6 fees, they'll ask for a post trial hearing on the 7 assessment of the fees.

8 HONORABLE SARAH B. DUNCAN: Richard, 9 what are you going to do if on the last day of 10 plenary power the judge signs what is basically a 11 JNOV?

12 MR. ORSINGER: I don't see how you're 13 going to lose plenary power if someone has filed a 14 motion like this. Now if they haven't filed a 15 motion like this and the judgment goes final, then 16 it's too late to file a motion like this. But if 17 they have a judgment on the verdict and then they 18 file a motion to assess fees under this rule and 19 that's pending, does that or does that not keep the 20 judgment on the verdict from going final? I mean, 21 to me it doesn't. It keeps it from going final. It 22 remains interlocutory.

23 HONORABLE SARAH B. DUNCAN: But only
24 if you've got to have the judge signed the JNOV 459 25 so that you can get your motion for sanctions under

1 this rule filed.

2 MR. SCHENKKAN: You've still got 30
3 days from --

4 HONORABLE JANE BLAND: You
5 can't --

6 COURT REPORTER: I can't hear you.
7 I'm sorry.

8 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Hang on. Don't do
9 that. Alistair.

10 MR. DAWSON: I don't know
11 procedurally how this works. But in the courts 12 whether it's the trial court or the appellate court 13 that assessed court costs and nobody pays anything 14 for a while, and the case goes up on appeal and the 15 appellate court decides it, and at some point way
16 down the line I get a call from some clerk that says 17 "You owe or your client owes $2,000 because we've 18 now assessed. We've gone back and counted up all 19 the depositions and all this stuff and that's your 20 courts costs so you need to pay us," why can't we 21 treat these in the vein as court costs to be 22 assessed at the conclusion of the case? After the 23 file judgment is entered and it's gone up on appeal; 24 and then procedurally I don't know how to do it, but 25 conceptually treat it the same way we do the other

1 court costs so we don't run into issues of finding 2 of the final judgment and what happens if the jury 3 does this and then the judge does this on NOV and 4 then it goes up on appeal. You know what the case 5 is or the conclusion and you can assess what the 6 offer was, the reasonableness of the offer against 7 the final disposition of the case.

8 MR. HALL: You have to supercede the 9 court costs.

10 MR. JEFFERSON: And that's a
11 liquidated amount. You know what the court costs 12 are.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Right. Yes. And 14 if it goes all the way up on appeal and judgment is 15 reversed and rendered or affirmed or whatever it is, 16 can you then go back to the trial court and resolve 17 the disputed issue of fact, because there's going to 18 be a dispute about how much money?

19 MR. ORSINGER: Well, wait a minute.
20 The sanction is going to run the opposite way after 21 the reversal probably.

22 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: However it does, I
23 mean, you're going to have to go back to the trial
24 court and have the trial judge do something. Judge 25 Christopher.

1 HONORABLE TRACY CHRISTOPHER: I just 2 think it needs to be in one instrument. I mean, if 3 we have an example of plaintiff got an award of 4 $50,000 and the defendant is going to get $50,000 in 5 costs back so the net affect is zero, that ought to 6 be in the judgment. There ought to be just one 7 judgment to that effect.

8 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: That's make some 9 sense.

10 HONORABLE TRACY CHRISTOPHER: I don't 11 know how we want to do it; but it needs to be in 12 one.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Oh, yes. You're 14 fine with ideas. No solutions.

15 (Laughter.)

16 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Carl.

17 MR. HAMILTON: Why don't we just put 18 a time period for that motion to be filed after the 19 rendition, but before the signing of the final 20 judgment.

21 MR. JEFFERSON: Is there a 22 difference?

23 MR. HAMILTON: Yes.

24 MR. ORSINGER: Sometimes they're 25 simultaneous; but there is a difference between

1 rendition and signing, but they may occur
2 simultaneously.

3 MR. JEFFERSON: How could you render 4 judgment without knowing? You just award an amount 5 without the number? I award the side without 6 awarding a number?

7 MR. ORSINGER: No. The judgment that 8 is rendered is the judgment on the verdict; and 9 that's rendered. Typically that would be rendered 10 orally; and then you would know what the rendition 11 is, so it's time to hurry up and file your motion.
12 But sometimes the judge renders at the time you 13 decide which party's judgment to sign in which event 14 there are simultaneous events.

15 MR. JEFFERSON: But you don't have 16 to.

17 HONORABLE JANE BLAND: Why don't we 18 say "recovery" instead of "judgment?" If the 19 recovery is significantly less favorable to a party, 20 a recovery" --

21 MR. SCHENKKAN: Because the recovery
22 then gets you into collection issues, collection and 23 judgment. I think that's an additional layer of 24 complexity.

25 MR. ORSINGER: We have got to

1 distinguish between the verdict, the judgment and 2 the collectability; and this is trying to just go 3 with the judgment, not the verdict and not the 4 collectability.

5 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Bill.

6 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I think we would 7 want; and Elaine, see what you think about it,
8 because I think we want to do this in effect like a 9 motion to modify the judgment because that gets it 10 to be the same judgment and it wouldn't require it 11 to be done kind of ahead of schedule, but it does 12 need to be addressed in terms of timetable.

13 We had the Marshall, John Marshall case 14 for the 306(a) that caused a lot of trouble. Like 15 what is the time frame for this if the rule doesn't 16 say a time frame?

17 HONORABLE CARLOS LOPEZ: You could 18 make it like the findings of fact.

19 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes, Tommy.

20 MR. JACKS: As a practical matter 21 aren't you going to go down to the courthouse and 22 have a hearing about all this and thrash it out? I 23 mean, people are going to file their motion for 24 judgment NOV, motion for judgment, motion for these 25 costs and you go down and have a hearing, and at the 1 end of the hearing the judge says "All right. Here

2 is what we're going to do. And winning party draw 3 me up a judgment that says all of this."

4 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: That's all true;
5 but you have to get the idea when is the last time 6 that you can wait to file this. And it probably 7 makes sense to do it. It probably does make sense 8 to do it as part of the judgment, the one judgment 9 making process, but don't require it to be loaded 10 into the first step. What Chip said made sense to 11 me about that earlier.

12 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Well, I 13 think we pretty much have an idea what we want to 14 do. Now it's a matter of writing it. Do you agree, 15 David?

16 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: Uh-huh
17 (yes).

18 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: So we'll take a 19 break.

20 (Recess 3:00 p.m. to 3:30 p.m.)

21 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: All right. We're 22 back on the record pushing forward. We are on the 23 record. All right. I think Elaine, your charge is 24 that we're going to try to have one document that is 25 going to include the judgment, whatever it is, and

1 the fee award, whatever it is; and the timing of 2 that is going to have to work out so that happens at 3 the same time.

4 So then we have two other issues, one,
5 whether we're going to have nonmonetary relief 6 included in this rule or not and second, whether the 7 monetary award that is specified in subsection 8 (a)(1)(A) is going to include attorney's fees and 9 interest incurred, et cetera, et cetera. Judge 10 Christopher says yes, it should include that.
11 Others like Tommy say maybe it shouldn't. And so 12 we've got to decide that. So why don't we take up 13 the first issue of nonmonetary? Should that be in 14 the rule or not?

15 HONORABLE SARAH B. DUNCAN: Haven't 16 we already voted on this?

17 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Nonmonetary? Have 18 we? No, we haven't.

19 MR. YELENOSKY: Not on the Jamail
20 report. I think when we discussed it perhaps before 21 in 1993.

22 HONORABLE JAN P. PATTERSON: Not this 23 year.

24 (Laughter.)

25 MR. YELENOSKY: I think in 1993.

1 (Laughter.)

2 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: At some point we;
3 but not now. Okay. So nonmonetary, anybody want to 4 talk any more about that?

5 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: What is an 6 example of nonmonetary claims in a garden variety 7 personal injury or any kind of damage case that is 8 legitimately there?

9 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well, you say I've 10 got a covenant not to compete and you, employee 11 breached it and you, you this new employer conspired 12 with him on that and interfered with our contract, 13 and at the same time you used confidential
14 information that you got while you're at my company, 15 the plaintiff company. And so now I want to 16 restrain you from working for the second defendant, 17 the second corporate defendant and I want to 18 restrain him from using you plus for the month that 19 he was working there before I could get my 20 injunction granted you took away six customers from 21 me that you shouldn't have taken away, and that's 22 cost me a million dollars in damages.

23 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: I
24 understand that, Chip. I'm asking in most of the 25 cases in Texas that are about damages is there a

1 legitimate nonmonetary claim?

2 MR. ORSINGER: No.

3 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: So why
4 don't we throw this overboard?

5 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes.

6 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: But we need 7 to be sure that somebody with a case we want to 8 cover, that is, a damage case can't get out of this 9 thing by adding on a claim for an apology or 10 something nonmonetary.

11 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Judge Bland and 12 Judge Christopher simultaneously put their hands up.
13 So whichever one wants to go first.

14 HONORABLE JANE BLAND: Deed
15 restrictions cases, you know, "I think my stairwell 16 complies." "No, it doesn't comply. You need to 17 take it down." You know, the nonmonetary I 18 understand the problems associated with the matters 19 of interpretation; but I'd be willing to take a 20 crack at it because I think those cases in 21 particular are cases where lawyers have difficulty 22 framing for their client what a realistic position 23 at trial will be. And often it is either the 24 stairwell is okay or the stairwell is not okay. So 25 you're really often dealing with degrees of 1 substantially all or all. It's usually all or 2 nothing. And for those few cases I think a 3 provision like this would be helpful.

4 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Judge Christopher.

5 HONORABLE TRACY CHRISTOPHER: It is 6 the same thing, deed restrictions. We have a lot of 7 them.

8 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Deed restrictions,
9 a lot of them. Okay. That's right. No zoning deed 10 restrictions. Stephen.

11 MR. YELENOSKY: Well, I alluded to 12 this point earlier. But to the extent we're going 13 to keep the zero out there for the plaintiff that 14 has no responsibility either because Pete Schenkkan 15 said societally we definitely don't think that's a 16 good idea and/or they're judgment proof anyway, what 17 would be the justification for having somebody who 18 is probably judgment proof ending up with a judgment 19 against them on a nonmonetary claim as this rule 20 appears to allow? Isn't that correct, Elaine and 21 Tommy, that this rule would allow a judgment up to 22 $50,000 against a judgment proof plaintiff on the 23 nonmonetary claim?

24 And I can think of lots of examples where 25 Advocacy, Inc. or Legal Aid is representing a parent

1 let's say who has a claim and it's only an 2 injunctive claim. They are judgment proof; but you 3 are going to have to advise them you could end up 4 with a judgment against you for $50,000; and that's 5 going to matter to them. And I think it's going to 6 matter to them not only in the garden variety cases; 7 but it's going to matter in the cases where there is 8 an important issue of law to be decided, perhaps a 9 rights issue where it's going to be either/or. And 10 if the "or" is you lost, the advice you have to give 11 that person is you're subject to a $50,000 judgment.

12 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: The issue is 13 whether or not we throw this nonmonetary award thing 14 overboard, as Judge Peeples says, or keep it and 15 refine it in some way. Bill had his hand up first, 16 Sarah and then Justice Duncan.

17 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: It seems odd for 18 cases where somebody seeking injunctive relief that 19 if they don't get substantially all of it or if they 20 don't get any of it, then the ceiling is $50,000.
21 It just seems odd to me.

22 JUSTICE NATHAN HECHT: Ceiling? I 23 don't understand that.

24 MR. ORSINGER: Since there is no
25 monetary recovery the plaintiff can't be cut off at 1 zero. If you're seeking an injunction and you fail, 2 since your recovery doesn't, you don't have a dollar 3 recovery, you might have to pay up to $50,000 just 4 because you didn't get an injunction. But if you 5 were suing for $50, you'd never have to pay that.

6 JUSTICE NATHAN HECHT: But you could 7 fix that without taking it out. (a)(1)(B), 8 (a)(2)(B), I guess.

9 MR. ORSINGER: Yes. That's right.

10 MR. YELENOSKY: I'm sorry. I
11 couldn't hear you.

12 JUSTICE NATHAN HECHT: Well, you
13 don't have to take subsection (B) on page five, you 14 don't have to take that out, capital (B), to fix 15 that problem. Right? Well, you just say well, if 16 all he gets, fix that over in (d) and say "If all 17 you get is nonmonetary relief, you can't be 18 sanctioned a dollar amount." I see your point.
19 You're saying if you get substantially less, you 20 might be okay.

21 MR. YELENOSKY: Right. And then that 22 doesn't even get to the point of how you judge that.
23 And I just don't think --

24 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: You're a "throw it 25 overboard" guy.

1 MR. YELENOSKY: Huh?

2 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: You want to throw
3 it overboard.

4 MR. YELENOSKY: Yes.

5 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay.

6 MR. YELENOSKY: Particularly since we 7 don't have the exception here for suits against 8 governmental entities. And a lot of those suits for 9 injunctive relief against governmental entities are 10 not going to involve money and they're going to 11 involve rights issues; and I think a lot of times 12 those things are appropriate to be in court.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Judge Christopher.

14 HONORABLE JAN P. PATTERSON: Well, 15 this is going to jibe into the question of 16 attorney's fees too, because a lot of times what we 17 are really arguing about are the attorney's fees in 18 a case or the declaratory judgment about a 19 particular statute or something like that. So if 20 you did recover relief and you got attorney's fees 21 and had rejected a previous offer, then there would 22 be something to offer if we included attorney's fees 23 as part of the amount to look at.

24 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: What would you
25 offset it against?

1 HONORABLE TRACY CHRISTOPHER: What I
2 mean is if one side recovered attorney's fees, but 3 had rejected an offer previously, then the defense
4 say would be able to, you know, get their $50,000
5 against the attorney's fees.

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: And they would get 7 their attorney's fees in the deed restriction cases 8 on the ground that it's a breach of contract and 9 that you're entitled to attorney's fees?

10 HONORABLE TRACY CHRISTOPHER: Yes.

11 HONORABLE JANE BLAND: As declaratory
12 judgment.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: As a declaratory
14 judgment.

15 HONORABLE JANE BLAND: I don't think 16 we contemplate their fees against the nonmonetary.
17 I think it has to come to zero. But if there was a 18 monetary award connected to recovery, then that 19 could be offset.

20 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. So two 21 circumstances: One where there was a monetary 22 component to it and one where attorney's fees was an 23 issue as in a DEC action or in a contract action.
24 Yes, Jeff.

25 MR. BOYD: I'm trying to think both

1 DEC action and injunction relief, those being the 2 most common forms of nonmonetary. And in the DEC
3 action I'm trying to figure out how all this relates 4 to the standard for attorney's fees under Chapter 37 5 which is "as are equitable and just" to begin with, 6 so you don't even have to be the prevailing party by 7 any standard in a DEC action to get the Court to 8 award attorney's fees. So which trumps which? I 9 would assume 37009 trumps Supreme Court rule. And 10 judge could say "I don't care what this new rule 11 says. This is a DEC action, and I don't think it's 12 equitable and just to give to you. It's better to 13 give them to you."

14 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: I don't think it 15 would trump it.

16 MR. BOYD: One option is to put 17 Chapter 37 in the list of things that are not -- are 18 exempted at the very beginning of this rule and not 19 have it apply to DEC actions.

20 HONORABLE TRACY CHRISTOPHER: We get 21 briefs in contract cases that are filed as DEC 22 actions.

23 MR. BOYD: Yes. But that's a whole 24 nother issue.

25 HONORABLE TRACY CHRISTOPHER: Yes.

1 You can't exempt that.

2 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Bill, then 3 Richard.

4 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: We can fix this 5 $50,000 problem when we get to (d) based on what 6 people have said.

7 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes.

8 MR. ORSINGER: The comment on the 9 last issue, it seems to me that if you're entitled 10 to recover fees either under declaratory judgment or 11 because it is a suit on a contract and if you've got 12 even $5 on your affirmative claim, you're entitled 13 to recover the fees that the jury finds on a 14 contract claim for the amount of the Court awards on 15 a DEC action; but this would operate as an offset 16 going the opposite direction, so I don't think that 17 one trumps the other. I feel like you may be 18 successful as a contract plaintiff. You may recover 19 your attorney's fees; but if your recovery is more 20 than 30 percent over the offer, the other side may 21 have an offset against your attorney's fee judgment 22 for their attorney's fee, if you see what I'm 23 saying. So I don't think they're mutually 24 exclusive. I think that they may balance each other 25 out to some extent.

1 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Justice Duncan.

2 HONORABLE SARAH B. DUNCAN: I really
3 think we voted on this before, because I remember 4 hearing some very persuasive arguments about why 5 nonmonetary relief should be in here. But even if 6 I'm just imagining all this, one of the most 7 persuasive arguments to me was Judge Peeples' point 8 which Judge Christopher indirectly alluded to.
9 People around the table were saying "Okay. Fine.
10 If nonmonetary relief isn't included, all I have got 11 to do is add a nonmonetary claim to my lawsuit to 12 get out of this." And we couldn't figure out a way 13 to write it to prevent that from happening.

14 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Stephen.

15 MR. YELENOSKY: Well, I think we, if 16 I remember right and this didn't happen, I guess it 17 could happen now. I thought we had drafted 18 something that referred to if the primary relief 19 sought was nonmonetary and granted, that required 20 some kind of qualitative judgment; but so does 21 everything else in here.

22 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: We can fix it
23 when we get to (d).

24 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Pete.

25 MR. SCHENKKAN: I'm wondering also

1           how big a problem it is. I think I may have been 2           the one who said that the plaintiff just adds the 3           nonmonetary claim in; but I'm wondering how big that 4           is if that is truly, pardon the expression, in the 5           context of a frivolous claim or even simply a non 6           meritorious claim, that it may get bounced out 7           pretty fast on some other basis of the special 8           exceptions jurisdiction, summary judgment, I don't 9           know what. And then at that point we are back under 10          the statute and an offer is made and the rule 11          applies. So I'm in, because of that I'm in favor in 12          spite this possibility of throwing this nonmonetary 13          thing out.

14                   CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes. I think we 15          need to have a vote on whether we throw it overboard 16          or whether we keep it. Elaine, just because you're 17          you.

18                   PROFESSOR CARLSON: Thank you, Mr.
19          Chairman. Sarah and Steve, you are not delusional.

20                   MR. YELENOSKY: At least on this 21          point.

22                   (Laughter.)

23                   PROFESSOR CARLSON: At least on this 24          point. At the June meeting last year in Dallas at 25          Phil's place at SMU we did discuss excluding from

1 the offer of judgment rule nonmonetary claims.
2 Concern was expressed that, as Sarah suggested, that 3 if the case involved a nonmonetary claim to opt out, 4 everybody would opt out. And so we recommended by 5 oh, I think it was maybe a vote of 10 to two or 6 something, because we were pretty sparse, we 7 recommended that a claim for declaratory injunctive 8 or other nonmonetary is excluded, but that this rule 9 does not apply to a claim that is primarily for 10 damages and only incidental for nonmonetary relief.
11 That was our Supreme Court Advisory Committee 12 suggestion.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Tommy, why did you
14 and the Jamail people reject that sound advice?

15 MR. YELENOSKY: Not to ask a loaded
16 question.

17 MR. JACKS: Actually I wrote the 18 language that Elaine just read and preferred it. My 19 view didn't prevail; but I think it should prevail
20 here.

21 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: All right. The 22 last comment from Bill. You get the last word on 23 this one.

24 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I was going to 25 wait to talk about (d).

1 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: No. Don't wait
2 and talk about (d).

3 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Do you want me
4 to do it?

5 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes. How about we 6 move the language Elaine just read, substitute that 7 for the language here in (a)(1)(B).

8 MR. YELENOSKY: Or actually the 9 language she suggested, wouldn't that come up really 10 among the exceptions at the very beginning?

11 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes. Right.
12 You're right. Yes. Okay. So the vote would be to 13 throw (a)(1)(B) overboard and to include in the 14 exceptions what Elaine just read. So that's the 15 vote.

16 HONORABLE TRACY CHRISTOPHER: Could 17 you read the exception?

18 PROFESSOR CARLSON: This is what we 19 voted at the June meeting last year. "A claim for 20 declaratory injunctive or other nonmonetary relief 21 is excluded; but the exclusion does not apply for a 22 claim that is primarily for damages and only 23 incidental for nonmonetary relief" thereby burdening 24 the trial Court with that determination.

25 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Bill.

1 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: We may have 2 voted that; but an antitrust case seeking treble 3 damages and seeking to enjoin your behavior for the 4 rest of the time is impossible to analyze under that 5 formula.

6 HONORABLE TRACY CHRISTOPHER: And 7 what about when you have a breach of contract case 8 and you filed a declaratory judgment to declare that 9 you haven't broken the contract and the defense has 10 got the counterclaim for damages? Is that an 11 exception or not?

12 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Let Elaine answer
13 that question.

14 PROFESSOR CARLSON: Well, here is 15 what we came up with. "While this lacks 16 definitiveness, we felt is best to leave to case law 17 development of the definition of incidental"; and 18 then we moved on at our meeting.

19 (Laughter.)

20 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I would rather 21 just eliminate an affirmative recovery by changing 22 the language in (d) to say that "sanctions imposed 23 on a claimant generally, not just with respect to 24 claims for monetary relief may not exceed the amount 25 of award of the claimant by the judgment." That

1 takes care of this attorney's fees thing that the 2 judges were talking about down there; but it takes 3 away my worry and Steve's worry about somebody 4 getting tagged for $50,000 when they don't get any 5 relief.

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes. Okay. Does 7 that speak to the issue of whether we're going to 8 delete (a)(1)(B)?

9 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: We don't have to 10 delete it if we do that, if we do the what I just 11 said.

12 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. All right.
13 So you would be against deleting it?

14 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I would be 15 against deleting it by doing something that I can't 16 tell how, what it means.

17 PROFESSOR CARLSON: Which 18 conceptually, I mean, the conceptual argument for 19 including nonmonetary relief goes back to the 20 purpose of rule, the complete disposition of the 21 case, so your offer of judgment has to extend to 22 everyone. The problem is in the application.

23 MR. YELENOSKY: I think, I mean, I
24 think you're right, Bill, and I agree with you on 25 the point that it does solve the problem of the 1 $50,000 judgment. And last summer when we were 2 talking about this we didn't have that cap, as I

3 remember, so this exclusion was important. It may 4 not be important if we change it as you said; but it 5 doesn't address the other problem which is how do 6 you judge whether somebody got substantially less,
7 substantially more, whether an offer that was mixed 8 with damages and equitable relief and then they 9 adjust the two of those to a better offer than the 10 other one? So I think that point still would be one 11 arguing for an exclusion; but I do agree if we're 12 not going to, I mean, I'm much happier with one or 13 the other.

14 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: We could do 15 both.

16 MR. YELENOSKY: Right.

17 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: The Florida rule,
18 Tommy, has nonmonetary in it, doesn't it? It's got 19 both monetary and nonmonetary.

20 MR. JACKS: I think so. I have to 21 check.

22 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: My recollection is 23 it does. Judge Peeples.

24 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: My concern
25 here is that we have said earlier in this rule that

1 your offer has to include all claims. Okay. And 2 now we're saying here on page five that if you've 3 got something that everybody would agree is about 4 damages but also some nonmonetary claims were thrown 5 in, the offer has to include those. And that's 6 going to gum up. I mean people, it seems to me, who 7 don't want this to apply to them will be creative in 8 coming up with nonmonetary claims to make just so it 9 will gum up this and make it hard to work, and I
10 think that is a real danger here.

11 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well, what if 12 there is a claim for declaratory relief and there is 13 a claim for damages? We say the requirements of the 14 offer are to offer to settle all the claims.

15 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: Let me ask
16 this: The way it works right now without this rule 17 if I've got a -- I'm a lawyer and I've got a case 18 that's got a lot of claims in it, I can settle some 19 of those claims with the other side. I can say 20 "Look. We'll settle this aspect of the case and try 21 the rest of it."

22 Maybe we made a mistake when we said back 23 on page three the offer has to settle all claims.
24 Maybe we ought to let this apply when someone says 25 "Look. I want to settle the damage aspect of this

1 case and I'll try injunction," because I think there 2 is a real risk that people who don't want this to 3 apply to their case will be creative in coming up 4 with nonmonetary causes of action to just foul it 5 up.

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: So you would say this 7 ought to be changed to say "Offer to settle all 8 claim for damages"?

9 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: Maybe so.

10 MR. SCHENKKAN: For monetary relief.

11 MR. JACKS: Monetary relief.

12 MR. ORSINGER: Would include 13 attorney's fees, damages would.

14 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes, John Martin.

15 MR. MARTIN: I agree pretty strongly 16 with Judge Peeples on that. But another thing just 17 occurred to me, Chip. There are situations where 18 the lawsuit is only for money damages; but the 19 settlement negotiations include things like "I want 20 lifetime air travel on your airline," or "I want 21 your company to chance their policies," or one I 22 settled was for free lifetime wheel chairs every 23 time an individual needed a wheel chair for the rest 24 of their life. How are you going to measure those 25 sorts of things in here? I really think this whole

1 thing ought to be limited to dollars against 2 dollars.

3 At some point we have got to simplify 4 this. It's complicated enough as it is.

5 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Right. By the 6 way, I want to talk to you about settling for 7 lifetime air mileage.

8 (Laughter.)

9 MR. MARTIN: I haven't ever done
10 that; but everybody asks.

11 MS. SWEENEY: I tried to get him to 12 do that; and he wouldn't.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: He wouldn't do it?

14 MS. SWEENEY: No.

15 MR. JACKS: Keep him here a little 16 longer and he might.

17 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes. We're going
18 to 10:00 tonight.

19 (Laughter.)

20 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Carl.

21 MR. HAMILTON: Well, I have a problem
22 with Bill's suggestion that (d)(2) will solve the 23 problem if you change the wording, because there may 24 be some problems with (d)(2) in letting the claimant 25 off without having to pay anything, but not letting

1 the defendant off equally as well.

2 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes.

3 MR. HAMILTON: So that may or may not 4 work depending on what we do with that.

5 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: We need to bring 6 some closure on this issue about whether or not we 7 are going to throw the nonmonetary thing over the 8 side. And we've talked about this a lot. Why don't 9 we vote on this. How many people think we should 10 discard the nonmonetary aspects of this rule? Raise 11 your hand. How many are against that? The vote is 12 23 to six, the Chair not voting, in favor of 13 throwing it over the side. So nonmonetary is out.
14 Now do we want to include the stuff at the 15 beginning?

16 MS. SWEENEY: What stuff?

17 MR. ORSINGER: I don't think we 18 should. If you include it as an exclusion on the 19 statute, then somebody could try to plead themselves 20 into the exclusion. If you just exclude them from 21 the sanction part of it, then they are still in the 22 game. It's just that we ignore the nonmonetary part 23 for sanction purposes.

24 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Good with you, 25 Elaine?

1 PROFESSOR CARLSON: So the offer has 2 to go to everybody.

3 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: No. You're going 4 to change 167.2(a)(5) to say "offer to settle all 5 claims for monetary relief."

6 PROFESSOR CARLSON: Got it.

7 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay? Are we all
8 right with that? All right.

9 HONORABLE TRACY CHRISTOPHER: Does 10 that include attorney's fees, or we haven't decided 11 that yet?

12 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: That's the next,
13 what we're going through right now. So (a)(1)(A) 14 now defines monetary award as including costs, 15 attorney's fees and interest incurred. Do we want 16 to keep that in there, or do we want to just make it 17 damages exclusive of those costs and attorney's 18 fees? Not all at once? Judge Christopher.

19 HONORABLE TRACY CHRISTOPHER: I'll 20 just repeat myself. In the small contract cases the 21 dispute becomes attorney's fees.

22 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: I agree.

23 HONORABLE TRACY CHRISTOPHER: And we 24 need to keep attorney's fees in there.

25 HONORABLE CARLOS LOPEZ: I second

1 that. I have had a ton of cases where the contract 2 controversy was $10,000 and the attorney's fees were 3 forty on each side.

4 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Anybody disagree
5 with that? Jeff.

6 MR. BOYD: The problem is the problem
7 with the way it's written is that how much it 8 complicates it to have to in essence litigate what 9 the amount of attorney's fees was as of the time of 10 the offer as opposed to fees where they're at. And 11 there is some question about whether that is a jury 12 issue or a bench issue, whether a judge can 13 determine that. Do we have a sense of?

14 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well, I think we're 15 taking the position it's a judge issue, aren't we?
16 Yes.

17 MR. BOYD: Because it does seem to me
18 that if you either include all of the fees both pre 19 and post rejection or exclude all of the fee pre and 20 post, there will be a significant number of cases in 21 which it will be an unfair result. Either way you 22 do it it's unfair.

23 JUSTICE NATHAN HECHT: But in this 24 paragraph all the inclusion of attorney fees, costs 25 and so on impacts is the 70 percent, because if you

1 exclude them, then all you're looking at is the 2 number that was recovered exclusive of all of those 3 things that was at 70 percent. If you put them in, 4 then it means you have a better chance of getting 5 closer to 70 percent. If you take them out, then 6 you have a less chance getting closer to the 70 7 percent. I think all the inclusion does in this 8 particular paragraph is help the party; and also be 9 the same in (a)(2)(A), it would help the party get 10 closer or further away from 70 or 130 percent.

11 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Alex.

12 PROFESSOR ALBRIGHT: Tracy, isn't 13 your situation where there is an affirmative claim 14 for attorney's fees?

15 HONORABLE TRACY CHRISTOPHER: Yes.

16 PROFESSOR ALBRIGHT: So you're 17 talking settling. In your settlement offer you're 18 settling the underlying claim. For the attorney's 19 fees between the dashes here are not, don't appear 20 to be settling the underlying claim. These are the 21 attorney's fees that you might get as a sanction.
22 Right?

23 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: No.

24 HONORABLE TRACY CHRISTOPHER:
25 Awarded.

1 MR. YELENOSKY: On the contract.

2 JUSTICE NATHAN HECHT: You make an 3 offer and you say "I'll settle your principal claim 4 for $50 plus and I'll settle your attorney fee
5 claims for $20; and they say "no." So then you go 6 to trial and they only get $10 which is way lower 7 than $50. But they get $40 in attorney fees, so 8 that is $50. So now the question is are you within 9 70 percent of the offer or not? If you exclude the 10 attorney fees, there is no way in the world you're 11 going to get close to the 70 percent. If you put 12 them in, you have a better chance of getting there.

13 MR. BOYD: And what I'm saying is you 14 should not be allowed to get them there because your 15 original offer was not adequate even considering the 16 fees that you would incur to get to that point.

17 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Judge Christopher.

18 HONORABLE TRACY CHRISTOPHER: Here's 19 what happens in a contract case. Somebody will 20 spend $5,000 in attorney's fees. The underlying 21 amount owed is $5,000. And then for a defendant to 22 come in and offer to pay $5,000 and it's not fair 23 and somehow fee shift after that; and the jury is 24 going to award $5,000 at trial because that's what 25 is owed; but the defense is going to say "I get to 1 fee shift, because you didn't accept my $5,000" 2 where all the fee is after that.

3 MR. BOYD: Okay. Let me see if I can 4 explain what I'm trying to say. If let's say you
5 have got a plaintiff contract claim that I believe 6 is worth $100,000, and at this point in the game
7 I've got $20,000 of fees in it. So I make a demand 8 for $100,000. I cut it. I have got $120,000 in the 9 case; but I make a demand for $100,000. It's 10 rejected. I go to trial and the jury says your 11 contract claims were $20,000; but you have got 12 $80,000 in fees in it. And that $80,000 sixty of 13 it came after I made my offer. If you include the 14 total of it --

15 HONORABLE TRACY CHRISTOPHER: No.
16 But it is as of the date of the offer.

17 MR. YELENOSKY: It's as of the date
18 of the offer.

19 MR. BOYD: Well, yes. That's my 20 point. If you've got a -- well, the date of 21 rejection.

22 HONORABLE TRACY CHRISTOPHER: Your 23 attorney's fees were twenty at the time of the 24 offer.

25 MR. YELENOSKY: That's the whole part

1 about the jury has to figure out how much fees.

2 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Right.

3 MR. BOYD: Okay. So --

4 HONORABLE TRACY CHRISTOPHER: So you
5 would only have a total of $40,000. You would be a 6 loser.

7 PROFESSOR ALBRIGHT: But then you're 8 having to every time there is an offer here you're 9 going to have to distinguish what is attorney's fee 10 and what is the underlying claim, which what most 11 people do is say "I'll pay you this much to get rid 12 of the whole thing." Right?

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Carl.

14 MR. HAMILTON: If I'm representing a 15 defendant, I think I can sometimes try to guess at 16 what the value of the claim is for actual damages; 17 but I don't have a clue as to how much time that 18 lawyer is going to spend on the case, how much he's 19 going to claim as attorney's fees. So I think it 20 ought to be the offer ought to be limited to the 21 actual damages amount. That's what we ought to 22 judge as to whether it comes within the 70 percent.
23 Leave all the attorney's fees and everything out.
24 They can be part of the offer; but that's not what 25 we base the 70 percent on.

1                   CHAIRMAN BABCOCK:  So you're in the camp
2                   that says knock out the attorney's fees and costs.
3                   Judge Christopher and others are in the camp that 4                   say "No.  You have got to include them, the 5                   attorney's fees and interest incurred as of the date 6                   the offer was rejected, not the million dollars 7                   you're going to spend after that, but as of the date 8                   the offer was rejected."  Alex says "That's a 9                   problem because how are you ever going to know?  You 10                  know, you're going to have to keep track of that in 11                  points of time."  So that's she has got concern 12                  about that.  Richard, last comment, and then we're 13                  going to vote.

14                  MR. ORSINGER:  It seems to me that 15                  the offers that count are the offers to settle all 16                  claims for a stated dollar amount; and if I'm on the 17                  plaintiff's side, my offer is going to include the 18                  value of my underlying claim and the amount of fees 19                  I have in the case.  And if I'm on the defense side, 20                  it's going to be what I think they could recover 21                  plus what the fees will be plus what my defensive 22                  fees will be.  And to say we're only going to 23                  consider an arbitrarily small part of what 24                  everyone's real economic discussion of settlement 25                  doesn't make sense.  If the plaintiff says "I'll

1 settle all my claims underlying and attorney's fees 2 for a hundred," or if the defendant says "I'll 3 settle all of your claims, underlying fees and 4 attorney's fees for seventy-five," why wouldn't we 5 measure the sanction against the real offer?

6 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: We would.

7 MR. ORSINGER: To me to segregate 8 out --

9 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: We did.

10 MR. ORSINGER: No. If we segregate
11 out and say the only thing that counts for sanction 12 purposes is the underlying claim, means we're 13 ignoring the economic reality of the cost of 14 attorney's fees and the right to recover against the 15 other side.

16 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: We're not saying
17 that.

18 MR. ORSINGER: No. The proposal
19 around here is or some people are proposing that we 20 only look at the settlement offer on the quote, 21 "underlying claim" without regard to your attendant 22 recovery of fees.

23 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: I thought that 24 you've got one number which is your settlement 25 number, and that's one measure; and then the second,

1 and that's going to be for damages plus attorney's 2 fees in a contract case, for example. And then 3 you've got another measure that you have to have 4 which is the amount of money you can recover at 5 trial plus the amount of attorney's fees you 6 incurred as of the date you rejected the offer. And 7 that's so you measure those two and see if they're 8 within 70 percent; and if they are, you have one 9 result. And if they're not, you have another. Am I 10 right on that?

11 JUSTICE NATHAN HECHT: Yes. Let me,
12 if I can try it another way too. What the problem 13 in A is that what you cannot do is compare the 14 recovery after the trial against the offer if it 15 includes post offer attorney fees and expenses 16 because that gives the rejected party an incentive 17 to multiply those so he'll get closer to 70 percent.
18 So you have got to take those out somewhat. You can 19 either take them out the way this does, which is 20 after the judgment is, after the verdict or findings 21 are made and before the judgment is rendered the 22 trier of fact or the judge separates them out, or 23 you can go back to the offer and say when you make 24 the offer you've got to separate them out and say 25 "I'll offer you this for your claim and this for 1 your attorney fees" so that you'll have something to 2 compare six months from now when you get a judgment, 3 or you can leave it out all together in which case 4 you'll just be making an imperfect comparison; but 5 you'll still be looking at what you were trying to 6 settle versus whether you got 70 percent.

7 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Right.

8 MR. ORSINGER: See, what do you do if 9 the parties have the same assessment of what the 10 underlying recovery is, but differing assessments of 11 what the reasonable fee is? You might be defeating 12 settlements that you could reach when the dispute is 13 just over the fees. To me either get the money and 14 you go, or you don't. And to me you ought to just 15 combine all of your affirmative claims and fees 16 you're entitled to recover and that's your offer; 17 and then when the case is tried you calculate what 18 the jury or the judge finds is the underlying claim 19 of the fees to that date and match those two.

20 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Isn't what you're 21 going to do when you make your offer, Richard, 22 you're going to let's say I know you're my opponent, 23 and I know you have got $100,000 in attorney's fees 24 as of the date we're trying to settle this thing, 25 and I think that my exposure on your damages is 1 $100,000. So what I'm going to offer you is 2 $100,000 on the damage claim, and I'm going to offer 3 you $71,000 on your attorney's fees. Right? And if 4 I'm right on my damage claim, then I'm going to win 5 at the when you reject and we go to the end of the 6 case.

7 JUSTICE NATHAN HECHT: If you don't 8 do it as written, one possibility is that the offer 9 will break out your claim in attorney fees and low 10 ball the attorney fees to force you into a conflict 11 with your client so you'll say because "I think my 12 claim is worth $100,000. He's offering $85,000.
13 That's well within $70,000. It might not be worth 14 that much. You know, I can make that decision; but 15 he's only going to offer me three in attorney fees 16 and then force me to decide is that close enough 17 that I want to risk this rule and not get any 18 attorney fees, or do I want to be put in a conflict 19 with my client and say 'No, I've got to hold out for 20 more attorney fees?'"

21 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Stephen.

22 MR. YELENOSKY: Well, I guess there
23 is a question of whether the offering party's 24 labeling or division of what they are paying you has 25 any real legal significance anyway. At Legal

1 Services we're trying to figure out how to deal with 2 low ball offers on attorney's fees where the client
3 doesn't owe us any money. I worked with Professor 4 Silver at UT; and we came around to conclude that 5 there wasn't anything that bound a receiving party 6 of an offer to treat the offering party's division 7 of the money as sacrosanct in any way and you could 8 have an agreement with your client that whatever the 9 offering party calls it it's a lump sum what we'll 10 figure out based on our agreement in the 11 attorney/client how that is divided. So I'm not 12 sure how that all plays into this; but I guess it 13 raised in my mind whether or not the labeling by the 14 offering party is determinative.

15 MR. SCHENKKAN: Surely it's not 16 determinative; and I doubt if it even matters in 17 many cases, because in most cases where the monetary 18 award of awarded could include attorney's fees at 19 least as of the date the offer is rejected it's 20 because some other statute makes that a part of what 21 the plaintiff client, not the lawyer --

22 MR. YELENOSKY: Right.

23 MR. SCHENKKAN: -- gets out of the 24 case. So those attorney's fees awarded are not the 25 plaintiff attorney's fees. They're the plaintiff's.

1 They're part of the plaintiff's award.

2 MR. YELENOSKY: Right.

3 MR. SCHENKKAN: I think then it is 4 entirely a separate question of contract subject to 5 judicial review and regulation.

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. We're going 7 to vote on whether we're going to include the 8 language in (a)(1)(A) as written. And all those who 9 are in favor of that raise your hand. All those 10 opposed? It carries by a vote 24 to one, the Chair 11 not voting.

12 MR. GILSTRAP: Chip.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes, sir.

14 MR. GILSTRAP: I have a comment about 15 how it works because I don't understand it that 16 well. But as I understand it a monetary award 17 includes damages. Right?

18 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Right.

19 MR. GILSTRAP: Don't we still have 20 the rule inclusion of one is exclusion of the 21 others? And this is even worse. It says a monetary 22 award including only costs, attorney's fees and 23 interest." I think you could probably construe this 24 some other way; and if we're going to redraw, maybe 25 this needs to be drawn up, clean that up by someone

1 who understands it. I'm not going to volunteer to 2 fix it.

3 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Is that you? Okay.
4 Get with Elaine about that.

5 MR. GILSTRAP: All right. Subpart 6 (b).

7 MR. JACKS: Chip.

8 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes, Tommy.

9 MR. JACKS: I voted yes because I
10 agree with the sprit of this; but I think it still 11 needs a tweak. And what I would suggest is that 12 where we're putting what has been in the offer that 13 would say if there is a claim for attorney's fees 14 and you want to ask for that in your offer, you have 15 got to put it in your offer.

16 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: I think that's 17 good.

18 MR. JACKS: And then in this 19 paragraph we just voted on instead of saying if 20 award, just if awarded; but if included in the offer 21 and award. That is --

22 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes.

23 MR. JACKS: -- it has to be both 24 places.

25 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes, I think so.

1 I think so.

2 MR. JACKS: Does that make sense?

3 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes. Okay. Now
4 by the way, we are doing a lot of tweaking of 5 language; and what we're going to do, which we've 6 done before, we did most notably with the parental 7 notification rules because of the timing, Elaine and 8 Tommy are going to take all our comments and put 9 them into a redraft and then e-mail that to 10 everybody and you send back whatever written 11 comments that you want and the Court will take those 12 into account. So that's how we're going to do that.

13 Subpart (b), the amount, Elaine.

14 MR. HAMILTON: Chip, can I ask one
15 question?

16 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes, Carl.

17 MR. HAMILTON: If you get a monetary
18 award and attorney's fees, two different numbers, do 19 you add those two numbers together and both the 20 offer and then the judgment and determines if you 21 reached the 70 percent?

22 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: No. It's only the 23 attorney's fees that were incurred as of the date 24 the offer was rejected.

25 MR. HAMILTON: Do you add those two

1 together?

2 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Yes.

3 MR. ORSINGER: Yes.

4 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Right.

5 MR. HAMILTON: You add the monetary
6 amount and the attorney's fees?

7 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: As of the date the 8 offer was refused.

9 MR. HAMILTON: As one figure?

10 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Right.

11 MR. HAMILTON: Compared to the 12 judgment?

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Right.

14 MR. HAMILTON: Okay.

15 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well, compared,
16 now wait a minute. That's not right. The judgment 17 is the amount of money that was awarded as damages 18 plus the amount of attorney's fees incurred as of 19 the date the offer was rejected which may not be in 20 the judgment. It may be a bigger number.

21 MR. ORSINGER: It may not be in the 22 verdict either.

23 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: It may not be in 24 the verdict either.

25 MR. ORSINGER: Because the verdict

1 will be your entire fees for the whole case, not 2 just up to the date of the offer.

3 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: That's right.

4 MR. ORSINGER: So the trial judge may 5 have to come in after the verdict and decide what 6 portion.

7 MR. HAMILTON: Yes. I understand
8 that. But all I'm saying is let's say that the 9 monetary award is $100,000, and the judge figures 10 out that there was $20,000 worth of attorney's fees 11 incurred right up to the time of the offer.

12 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: The offer was 13 rejected. Okay.

14 MR. HAMILTON: The offer was 15 rejected. So the verdict comes in -- or the judge 16 comes in and he finds that the attorney's fee offer 17 was okay, that you know, hit it right on the money; 18 but the monetary amount was too low or vice versa.

19 JUSTICE NATHAN HECHT: You add them
20 together.

21 MR. HAMILTON: That's what I'm 22 saying. You add them together.

23 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Right.

24 MR. BOYD: So for clarification then,
25 I think we just voted to include, to keep this

1 language the way it is; but now I'm hearing
2 conversations about whether we would also require 3 the offeror to separate the amounts at the time of 4 the offer. And that's a whole different issue. And 5 from the perspective of my position it is because 6 whether something is designated attorney's fees as 7 opposed to damages is important and is binding; and 8 under Rider 11 of the Appropriations Act a state 9 agency, the money will go to GR, but a certain 10 amount will go to the Attorney General. And that's 11 not something we can work out by agreement with the 12 client; but it's by legislative enactment.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Right.

14 MR. BOYD: So I want to make sure 15 we're not deciding to put some requirement in there 16 that the offeror separate the two and then the 17 offeree is bound by that when the decision is made 18 at the end.

19 JUSTICE NATHAN HECHT: We're not.
20 We're not doing that.

21 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: All right.
22 Elaine, amount, have we gone through that yet?

23 PROFESSOR CARLSON: No.

24 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay.

25 PROFESSOR CARLSON: Bill pointed out

1 a problem in this section that is valid. It says
2 "The court after a hearing in which the parties may 3 present evidence must award the offeror as" 4 sanctions costs, whatever "those amounts reasonably 5 and necessarily incurred by the offeror after the 6 offer was rejected." "Until when" Bill asked.

7 MR. YELENOSKY: Isn't that between 8 the offer and the judgment?

9 PROFESSOR CARLSON: Until the signing
10 of the final judgment, the rendition of final 11 judgment?

12 JUSTICE NATHAN HECHT: Signing.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Signing. Signing
14 the final judgment, because you're going to deal 15 with the timing issue, because so that the number 16 that gets put in there as post rejection costs 17 including certain fees and expenses is in the same 18 document as the final judgment.

19 PROFESSOR CARLSON: And in those 20 cases that probably would work I guess if the JNOV 21 is actually granted after the signing of the 22 judgment, a written judgment.

23 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: No. That wouldn't 24 be a JNOV. That would be an offer to recover.

25 MR. ORSINGER: You can file a JNOV

1 after judgment.

2 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, it's 3 called a motion to modify probably.

4 MR. ORSINGER: That's pretty rare.
5 That's when they hire a good appellate lawyer after 6 the judgment has been signed.

7 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: That's when they hire
8 you. Shameless self promotion.

9 (Laughter.)

10 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Those of you new 11 on the committee will not see that for the last 12 time.

13 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: I've seen worse.
14 They shall remain nameless.

15 (Laughter.)

16 MR. ORSINGER: I think that it might 17 clarify if in (a) we said: If the judgment to be 18 rendered is significantly less" so that we don't 19 force the court to go through a rendition. If you 20 say "the judgment to be rendered," then someone 21 could file a motion to render judgment. Someone 22 could file a motion to render the opposite judgment 23 and the judge says "I'm going to go with the 24 plaintiff on the case, so I want to hear evidence on 25 the plaintiff attorney's fees." They aren't going

1 to go with the defendant. We don't actually have to 2 make them render and then come back in and unrender.

3 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: We talked about 4 that.

5 MR. ORSINGER: Are we going to make 6 that "to be rendered"?

7 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Something similar 8 to that, yes.

9 MR. ORSINGER: Okay.

10 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Let's get back to 11 this amount thing. Bill and Elaine's point is 12 valid. So should it be after the appeal, you know, 13 appealable judgment, final judgment? What do you?

14 MR. SCHENKKAN: Do you mean to 15 exclude the practice in other attorney's fee cases 16 of specifying the amounts of attorney's fees that 17 would be applicable in the event of appeal to the 18 Court of Appeals and a further amount --

19 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes.

20 MR. SCHENKKAN: -- that would be 21 applicable in the event of an appeal or not? It 22 seems it's a clear policy choice. I don't think 23 there is any intrinsic right answer or wrong answer.
24 Just what is the intent?

25 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well, if you limit it

1 to the fees incurred up through the final judgment, 2 then you're necessarily going to exclude appellate 3 fees.

4 MR. ORSINGER: Yes. Peter is saying
5 do we necessarily have to cut it off at judgment, or 6 do you want to include it all the way to the Texas 7 Supreme Court?

8 MR. SCHENKKAN: Which do you want to 9 do is what I'm asking.

10 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes. What the 11 committee wanted to do is only dealing with trial 12 court level and not try to deal with the appellate 13 level.

14 MR. SCHENKKAN: Okay.

15 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Unless we change
16 the cap, because we're only dealing with $50,000 17 here. Maybe that not even that much depending on 18 the size of the verdict. Okay. What else, Elaine?

19 PROFESSOR CARLSON: Okay. Then we 20 get to what are the fee shifting --

21 MR. ORSINGER: Well, no. We just 22 skipped over a Constitutional issue there. Maybe 23 nobody cares about it; but I think we at least 24 should note that we are providing for --

25 MR. SCHENKKAN: We don't know what

1 the Constitution is going to look like.

2 MR. ORSINGER: Good point. So maybe
3 it's a moot discussion.

4 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: What 5 Constitutional issue?

6 MR. ORSINGER: Well, I mean, someone 7 might argue that having to pay a reasonable fee is a 8 jury issue. It is in all other parts of Texas law 9 except for this rule. So, you know, are we going to 10 by this rule provide that there is no right to a 11 jury and everybody is comfortable with that?

12 MR. CHAIRMAN: We decided a long time 13 ago we would be silent on that.

14 MR. ORSINGER: Oh, excuse me. I am 15 sorry. I missed part of that off the record 16 discussion.

17 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: It was not off the 18 record. It was totally on the record.

19 MR. JACKS: He's back.

20 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: He must have been 21 hung over this morning.

22 HONORABLE TRACY CHRISTOPHER: Maybe
23 we should go back to calling them sanctions again.

24 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: That's right.

25 MR. SCHENKKAN: And also for purposes

1 of skipping over and moving on, I hope silence will 2 not be taken as acquiescence in any particular 3 unwritten comment that as indicated might later be 4 supplied at footnote marker 24, because I think 5 there is a substantial difference of opinion under 6 existing law as to when and how contingent fee 7 agreements can be taken into account for purposes of 8 determining reasonable and necessary fees. And it 9 would be a further question as to whether that 10 existing law, whatever the reference may be, should 11 be taken exactly as is for this new and different 12 context or will be different here. So I assume for 13 purposes of having something that the legislature 14 can know we adopted the legislature doesn't have to 15 see the comment; but I'd sure like to talk about the 16 comments when that later time comes.

17 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: But we're on the 18 part, that section, that footnote 24 relates to.

19 MR. SCHENKKAN: That's the only 20 reason I say it now. I don't want to be stopping 21 and complaining about the footnote.

22 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: One of the prior 23 versions specifically mentioned contingent fees; and 24 I think Senator Ratliff one of his early bills had 25 that language in there. I don't think it's in House

1 Bill 4. Am I right about that?

2 MR. JACKS: Yes.

3 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. And it's 4 not in this. And so that means that somebody took 5 it out for some reason. Why did we take it out, 6 talking about contingency fees?

7 JUSTICE NATHAN HECHT: Well, I'm 8 struggling here; but I think Joe put this in or 9 wanted this put in because he wanted to be sure that 10 the contingent fee arrangement could be taken into 11 account, just what it says. He raised a good point 12 that maybe it can and maybe it can't and for what 13 purposes and how. So I mean obviously we're not 14 trying to resolve those kinds of substantive issues 15 in a comment and should not. This was just to 16 reference the problem.

17 MR. ORSINGER: I would argue that the 18 use of the word "amounts reasonably and necessary" 19 suggest to me that you're considering a fee based on 20 services or time rather than a percentage recovery.
21 And if you really, if you want the Court to be able 22 to say 40 percent is a reasonable fee, maybe we 23 shouldn't say "amounts." I don't know if anyone 24 interprets it the same way I do.

25 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: When you're

1 determining reasonableness and necessity one of the 2 factors in the State Bar rule is, you know, how 3 tough a case it was.

4 MR. JACKS: And whether the feature
5 is contingent is in the rule.

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes. And whether 7 the fees are contingent too. I mean, that laundry
8 list in the State Bar rule has got contingent fee.

9 MR. ORSINGER: Why don't we just say 10 "reasonable and necessary attorney's fees" rather 11 than "the amounts reasonably and necessarily 12 incurred"?

13 MR. BOYD: Because it includes expert
14 fees and court costs on the next page.

15 MR. ORSINGER: Okay. So I guess what 16 we're saying is a contingent fee is not, the Court 17 is not bound by a contingent fee arrangement.

18 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Right.

19 MR. ORSINGER: But the Court can 20 consider the fact that the fee is contingent in 21 determining reasonable fees.

22 JUSTICE NATHAN HECHT: The rule
23 doesn't say. And a comment is proposed that would 24 say "We're not saying." But Peter raised the issue 25 that even a comment as proposed may say something

1 too much or something wrong. And of course, we 2 don't want to do that in a comment. We're not 3 trying to affect the substantive law on the comments 4 of the rule. So I think rather than -- well, the 5 committee could take another view; but we might want 6 to be silent on this subject.

7 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes. And you could 8 fix it and tie in a whole bunch of well established 9 law in (b)(3) by just adding the words "reasonable 10 and necessary attorney's fees." And that's going to 11 hook into the State Bar rule which contemplates 12 contingent fees; and there's a whole bunch of case 13 law that is developed under that. And then you can 14 be silent about it otherwise. Peter, does that 15 satisfy you?

16 MR. SCHENKKAN: I think we are being 17 silent about it now. I just want people to accept 18 that that is what we're being. And if everybody is 19 okay with that, that's just fine. Different people 20 around the room may have different ideas in mind of 21 what the existing law provides about when and how 22 the contingency nature of one side's, I guess 23 conceivably both sides', one side's arrangements 24 might be taken into account. And you may wake up 25 and be surprised --

1 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well, that's --

2 MR. SCHENKKAN: -- some day later.

3 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: -- an everyday.

4 Carl.

5 MR. HAMILTON: I don't particularly 6 like the word "incurred" because the Court might say 7 "Well, I'm bound to follow the contingent fee 8 because that's the fee that was incurred by the 9 offeror."

10 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Yes. I think
11 that's right. I don't like the word "incur."

12 MR. SCHENKKAN: Just "award the 13 offeror reasonable and necessary costs" since we 14 will have defined "costs" for the purposes of this 15 rule "including court costs, expert witness fees."

16 MR. BOYD: But you have to have 17 something "incurred" in order to fix it in that time 18 period, a verb.

19 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Well, the 20 problem you have all three categories. You want to 21 say "earned."

22 HONORABLE CARLOS LOPEZ: Or fees
23 related to work done during the time period.

24 MR. HAMILTON: Say "reasonable and 25 necessary" --

1 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: "Reasonable and 2 necessary attorney's fees earns.

3 MR. HAMILTON: "Reasonable and 4 necessary costs including attorney's fees."

5 MR. ORSINGER: I would propose that 6 we move "reasonable and necessary" into the 7 subdivision because to me you don't have a 8 reasonable and necessary test on court costs. If 9 you used the Civil Practice & Remedies Code 10 definition of court costs, court costs are what they 11 are. You don't have to have the court reporters 12 come in and testify that the charges per page were 13 reasonable and stuff like that.

14 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Where attorney's 15 fees you could say, you could add more language and 16 instead of just saying "attorney's fees" you could 17 say "reasonable attorney fees earned."

18 MR. ORSINGER: And not say
19 "necessary"?

20 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: "Necessary"
21 doesn't. I kind of think attorney's fees are 22 necessary; but I think that a lot of people don't 23 know what they're talking about when they say
24 "necessary."

25 HONORABLE CARLOS LOPEZ: "Reasonable

1 fee necessitated by."

2 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Because you need
3 an attorney to do this work.

4 HONORABLE CARLOS LOPEZ: "Fees 5 related to, reasonable fees related to."

6 PROFESSOR DORSANEO: That will work.

7 MR. ORSINGER: I mean, I think there 8 is a validity to the concept of "necessary," because 9 someone who takes three lawyers to every deposition 10 they may be charging reasonable rates; but it's not 11 necessary for them to do that. They might file four 12 sets of special exceptions, and it might have been a 13 reasonable fee for it; but it might not have been 14 necessary.

15 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: How about this? "The 16 Court after a hearing in which the parties may 17 present evidence must award the offeror as post 18 rejection costs including certain fees and expenses
19 that were reasonable and necessary after the offer 20 was rejected for costs, fees, reasonable and 21 necessary attorney's fees."

22 MR. ORSINGER: Do you mean by that to 23 be able to litigate the reasonableness of deposition 24 charges?

25 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well, I mean 99

1 times out of 100 you wouldn't, because I suppose you 2 could, because -- is Jackson here? You know, if 3 Jackson charges $50 a page.

4 MR. JACKSON: Wait a minute.

5 (Laughter.)

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Sorry. $45.

7 MR. ORSINGER: Let's take the word
8 "Court" out of there. To me the court costs; and I 9 don't agree that footnote 25 that they're defined 10 only in case law. I don't have the Civil Practices 11 & Remedies Code here; but I believe they're defined 12 in the Civil Practices.

13 PROFESSOR CARLSON: Yes. I don't 14 agree with that either.

15 MR. ORSINGER: So court costs to me
16 have a -- go back 150 years when the legislature 17 told us what they are. I don't see why we ought to 18 be sitting around here talking about reasonableness 19 and or court costs that are not defined by statute.
20 Court costs are court costs. We all know what they 21 are.

22 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: But you could get 23 into a fight about a court reporter fee. I never 24 have.

25 MS. SWEENEY: Should we let the case

1 law handle that?

2 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Huh?

3 MS. SWEENEY: Shouldn't we let that 4 develop in case law?

5 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes.

6 MS. SWEENEY: Thanks.

7 MR. MUNZINGER: What about
8 distinguishing between fees and expenses? The way 9 you have it written now fees for no more than two 10 testifying expert witnesses. What if he charges you 11 $15,000 for computer time? Is that a fee, or is 12 that an expense? The same for the lawyer. You have 13 got copying expenses. You have got all kinds of 14 expenses; but the word "fee" implies for 15 professional service rendered as distinct from the 16 expense incurred.

17 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Good point. So do 18 you want to expand it to expenses?

19 MR. JACKS: I would not.

20 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Huh?

21 MR. JACKS: I would not.

22 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Just "fees." What 23 does everybody think? Do you want to expand it to 24 "expenses" or keep it as "fees?" Skip, do you feel 25 strongly both ways?

1 MR. WATSON: I'm just waiting for the 2 vote up or down on the whole thing put together.

3 (Laughter.)

4 MR. MUNZINGER: Yes, but Skip, what 5 if you lose the whole thing? It's better to get 6 what you can while you can.

7 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Leave it at 8 "fees?"

9 HONORABLE TRACY CHRISTOPHER: I would 10 go with "expenses" because very often I think it is 11 a big part of recovery. Someone, sometimes 12 contingent fee expenses come off the top. I would 13 include "expenses."

14 MR. BOYD: I agree.

15 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Two votes
16 for "expenses." David Peeples is shaking his head 17 "yes"?

18 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: We're 19 trying to compensate people for what they're out.

20 MR. YELENOSKY: Up to $50,000.

21 MR. JEFFERSON: More of a punitive 22 thing.

23 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Is everybody in 24 favor of "expenses" then? Actually not everybody 25 is. How many people are in favor of adding

1 "expenses"? Raise your hand. How many against? By 2 a vote of 15 to four that carries. "Expenses" will 3 be included.

4 MR. MUNZINGER: Modified by 5 "reasonable and necessary."

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Right. Modified
7 by "reasonable and necessary."

8 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Any more on 9 this part of the rule? Okay. Subsection (c), 10 Persons Liable, we're going to change "sanctions" 11 everywhere we see it.

12 MS. SWEENEY: When do I get to talk 13 about caps?

14 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Very soon.

15 MS. SWEENEY: Okay. All right.

16 MR. SCHENKKAN: It seems to me this 17 ought to be on the party or actually on the offeree.
18 Right? It's the offeree to whom you make the offer.
19 The definition is the offeree is a party. The 20 offeree has the right to accept. If the offeree has 21 the right to accept in the first place, then the 22 whole thing would fall out under (d). It would be 23 very unfair to sanction somebody for turning down an 24 offer they didn't have the power to accept. I think 25 that probably would come out. It seems to me this

1 ought to be imposed on the offeree; and therefore 2 that leads me to wonder why we need it at all.

3 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: I think it's an 4 insurance issue.

5 MR. SCHENKKAN: But how does it
6 change the insurance issue? If the award is against 7 the offeree, then there is a separate insurance law 8 issue of coverage; and I don't think we mean to 9 rewrite the law of insurance coverage.

10 MR. BOYD: Is there an issue about 11 whether policies cover sanctions?

12 MR. SCHENKKAN: Yes.

13 MR. BOYD: Right. But it's not 14 sanctions then, because here is the reason because 15 the insurance company says "No. I'm not going to 16 pay that offer." And then at the end of it all the 17 plaintiff wins and also recovers post rejection 18 costs or sanctions and the insurance company who 19 denied the offer says "No. That's not covered."

20 MR. MUNZINGER: That's right. And 21 most policies give to the insurance carrier the 22 power to decide to settle.

23 MR. BOYD: To decide to settle.

24 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes. But here is 25 an interesting part of this: Let's say that I'm

1           defending a case and I'm the insured and I have got 2           a policy. The policy is no reservation of rights, 3           and this offer of settlement comes in. My insurance
4           company says "huh-uh." Now under this language 5           you're not going to stick me because I don't have 6           the right to accept or reject the offer, so the 7           insured is out of it. You know, when you come after 8           me I say "Whoa, whoa, whoa. Hold it. Whoever you 9           look to don't look to me because I did not have the 10          power, the right to accept or reject the offer."

11                       MR. JEFFERSON: I'm not sure about 12          that. I think you do have the right to accept or 13          reject; but you're risking insurance coverage. I 14          mean, you're still the defendant in the lawsuit.
15          That's a whole different issue whether you have got 16          coverage or not. I don't know how you could bind 17          the insurance carrier. Although if they're in 18          control of the defense, they make the decisions 19          about whether to make an offer or not and they're 20          wrong, I don't see how they could deny coverage on 21          the basis that their decision was wrong and 22          therefore we're not going to protect our insured.

23                       CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: It's almost like a 24          Stowers type.

25                       MR. ORSINGER: That's a tort claim

1 against your own insurance company.

2 MR. JEFFERSON: That's right.

3 MR. ORSINGER: And is that different
4 from a rule imposing liability on an insurance 5 company in a paragraph in a rule?

6 MR. JEFFERSON: Absolutely. Yes,
7 that's different. I don't know how we bind an 8 insurance carrier in a rule.

9 MR. MUNZINGER: I don't either. They 10 are not parties to the lawsuit and you can't change 11 their contract.

12 MR. JEFFERSON: But there are other.
13 I mean, there are other aspects of the relationship 14 that the rule will influence.

15 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: What do you think 16 about this, Justice Hecht?

17 JUSTICE NATHAN HECHT: Well, if 18 you're being defended by your insurer without a 19 reservation of rights and the lawyer abuses 20 discovery and is sanctioned, surely the insurance 21 company pays that.

22 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Or the lawyer
23 does.

24 JUSTICE NATHAN HECHT: Or the lawyer.
25 But not me.

1 Or if the adjuster doesn't show up
2 for mediation, who gets sanctioned?

3 JUSTICE NATHAN HECHT: Well, if that 4 is not imposing sanctions on an insurer by rule, I 5 don't know what it is.

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well, you may pay
7 it if you're the one, you the client are the one 8 saying "Hey, I want you to, you know, not turn over 9 documents" even though we have no right to not turn 10 them over. You say "You're my lawyer. You do 11 that." So then they can get you to pay; but not if 12 you're saying "Hey, I'm just being defended. You 13 know, however you and the insurance company want to 14 handle it is fine."

15 MR. SCHENKKAN: That's why I think it
16 ought to be out of the rule all together. This is a 17 rule about offerors and offerees, and let the 18 insurance law take care of it, however it takes care 19 of it.

20 MR. ORSINGER: I'm a little worried
21 about how this is going to apply to corporations, 22 because they're probably, you know, certainly the 23 president is the person who has the right to accept 24 or reject; but it's probably going to be a vice 25 president or the head of the claims department or

1 somebody even lower down, arguably the entire board
2 of directors, general counsel. How does this apply 3 to a corporation? Who is the person who has the 4 right to accept?

5 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: The corporation is 6 a person for that purpose.

7 MR. ORSINGER: It's not? Or it is.

8 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: It is.

9 MR. ORSINGER: Let's be sure that 10 this record here says that we're not talking about 11 the people inside a corporation who make the call.
12 We're talking about the corporation itself.

13 MR. YELENOSKY: Pete suggested --

14 MR. SCHENKKAN: Take it out. Either 15 take it out all together or replace it with "party" 16 or "offeree."

17 HONORABLE CARLOS LOPEZ: It's no more 18 ambiguous.

19 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. So there is 20 movement afoot to take this out. Judge Christopher.

21 HONORABLE TRACY CHRISTOPHER: I had 22 just one other question. Is it our intent to make 23 this apply against minors? Guardian ad litem are 24 the ones who have the right to accept unless 25 we change the ad litem rule which is getting

1 proposed. They are the ones who have the right to 2 ultimately to accept. And is that discussed at all 3 in the various previous permutations?

4 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: No. I don't think 5 so.

6 MR. ORSINGER: No.

7 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Tommy.

8 MR. JACKS: There is another place
9 you can take care of this. I think the sense is 10 it's the height of unfairness to sanction or impose 11 costs on an insured whose insurer has the right to 12 control settlement. Now you could add that to the 13 Florida factors as another factor for the Court to 14 consider when it's unjust to punish a party if 15 you're not going to say something about it here.
16 But it seems to me that somewhere somehow the 17 message needs to be conveyed that you don't want to 18 put an insured in that position.

19 MR. YELENOSKY: Tommy, if that 20 becomes a factor which would cause the Court not to 21 award the cost shifting against the insured, but the 22 Court has no ability or authority to award it 23 against the insurance company, then is that fair?

24 MR. JACKS: Well, the judge has the 25 ability to read the policy and figure out whether

1 the insurer is on the hook or not, and if they are,
2 go a head and let her rip; and if they're not, I 3 mean, if the facts that play out at that time of 4 hearing are that it's the insurer who made the 5 decision, but they're not on the hook for the 6 penalty, then that's something the judge ought to 7 take into account.

8 MR. YELENOSKY: Except that I guess 9 insurance law might develop a pattern if this gets 10 into place to where insurance companies would be 11 liable for decisions that they made despite what is 12 in the contract.

13 MR. JACKS: As the law develops that 14 will affect how the judge decides things, I suppose.

15 MS. SWEENEY: This language just says 16 "may be an insurer" which to go all the way back to 17 what is already here on the page doesn't say "is 18 going to be." It just says "can be," which if it's 19 the insurer who is making the call, smack him; and 20 if it's the insured who is making the call, smack 21 the insured.

22 MR. MUNZINGER: How can a Court enter
23 a judgment against a non-party insurance company 24 requiring a non-party insurance company to pay money 25 to a plaintiff and not violate due process?

1                   CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Can a Court make 2 an adjuster go to mediation?

3                   HONORABLE CARLOS LOPEZ: How does it 4 violate due process? They've had notice, they've 5 been involved, they've made decisions.

6                   MR. MUNZINGER: They weren't joined 7 in the case, they have a contract that there may not 8 fly. I think you raise kinds of due process issues 9 with it and procedural issues which I know Skip, and 10 I have to agree with Skip, I think obviously this 11 rule is designed to get rid of bad lawsuits; but one 12 unintended consequence may be that it triggers a lot 13 of lawsuits, and this may be one of them.

14                   You've got a problem with your insurance 15 policy. Does it or doesn't it cover? And if the 16 insurance company is not, says "No, we're not going 17 to pay that sum, they're liable," it seems to me the 18 insured if the insured has a judgment entered 19 against him or her, has a Stowers type claim now for 20 $50,000 or whatever against the carrier. And if I 21 know my carriers, and I do because I've worked for 22 them, they are going to say "We're not paying."

23                   MR. JEFFERSON: I can't imagine an 24 insurer who is defending without a reservation of 25 rights and they're controlling their defense

1           counsel, and the lawyer or the party gets sanctioned
2           under this rule, I can't imagine an insurer saying
3           "I'm not going to cover that." And if they did, I 4           think they would be doing it at their peril.

5                       MR. MUNZINGER: They have their 6           risks; but --

7                       HONORABLE CARLOS LOPEZ: Or that it 8           goes against the coverage.

9                       HONORABLE TRACY CHRISTOPHER: The 10          case law says they're not accountable for 11          malpractice.

12                      CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Should do 13          we leave this in or take it out?

14                      PROFESSOR DORSANEO: Take it out.

15                      CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Bill says 16          take it out. Anybody for leaving it in?

17                      MS. SWEENEY: Leave it in.

18                      CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Who said "leave it 19          in?"

20                      MS. SWEENEY: Me.

21                      CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: All right. Paula 22          said leave it in. Bill said leave it out. The vote 23          will be everybody that wants to take it out raise 24          your hand.

25                      MR. JACKS: I want to take it out and 1 put it somewhere else.

2 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: I wouldn't vote
3 for this.

4 MS. CORTELL: Can you clarify the 5 vote?

6 MR. YELENOSKY: I thought we were 7 taking out all of it.

8 MR. MUNZINGER: They want you to 9 clarify what we're voting on.

10 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Put your 11 hands down and we'll clarify it. We're going to 12 take out subsection "Person Liable."

13 MS. SWEENEY: (c).

14 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: (c). Subsection
15 (c), I'm sorry, "Person liable," we're voting to 16 take that out. If you want to take it out, raise 17 your hand. If you want to leave it in, raise your 18 hand. 16 to 10 we take it out.

19 MR. ORSINGER: You may not allow 20 this; but I'm wondering what if we just took out 21 "which may be an insurer" and left it in? Would it 22 change the vote? Are you willing to vote that?

23 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: No, I don't. No.
24 We've talked about this enough. Unless Justice
25 Hecht, do you want to talk about it?

1 JUSTICE NATHAN HECHT: (Nods
2 negatively.)

3 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Limitations and 4 exceptions, now Paula.

5 MS. SWEENEY: This rule does not 6 account for one of the problems that we discussed
7 earlier; and Elaine and Tommy, I would like to know 8 your thoughts on it. If you have a statutory cap, 9 I'm not talking about insurance coverage, if you've 10 got a statutory cap of $250,000 and you have a 11 million dollars in damages and everybody knows you 12 do, you can't ever get more than $250,000. It 13 doesn't matter what you do. Why would the defense 14 ever offer more than whatever percentage we put in 15 here, 70 percent of $250,000? You've just lowered 16 every cap in the state by 30 percent.

17 I would propose that in order to avail 18 themselves of the caps under those circumstances the 19 defendants would have had to have offered those 20 caps. In other words, if you say "I've got a 21 $250,000 cap, you know, forget it. I'm never going 22 to offer it to you, because that's the most you can 23 ever get. Go ahead and try me, and you're going to 24 get whatever that is." 100 and -- I don't know.
25 Someone tell me. $190,000. I think they ought to 1           lose the protection of the cap. Someone can put 2           that in the rule.

3                           (Laughter.)

4                           MS. SWEENEY: But there needs to 5           be -- you wanted to know what I wanted.

6                           CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: If they don't like 7           it, they can overturn the rule.

8                           HONORABLE JAN P. PATTERSON: That 9           should be in the notes.

10                          MS. SWEENEY: Just abrogate sovereign 11           immunity all together. There has to be some 12           provision that this fee shifting cannot apply if the 13           amount of the cap isn't offered and the judgment is 14           greater than the cap. Otherwise you're just 15           lowering the caps; and there is nothing the 16           plaintiff can do, because they're going to spend 17           that much money. They're going to go to trial.
18           They're going to get a million dollar verdict which 19           will be reduced to the $250,000 cap which will then 20           be potentially reduced by costs and expenses.

21                          MR. SCHENKKAN: I don't understand 22           it. If you don't, if all you're going to get is the 23           $250,000 anyway, that's all you're going to get.
24           You're protected by the 70 percent. If they offer
25           you --

1 MS. SWEENEY: 70 percent of $250,000.
2 And I have to spend another $100,000 to get there.
3 I'm going to outspend anything I could ever get by 4 way of sanctions. I'm never going to get up to the 5 cap. I don't have the numbers that I can march down 6 the line.

7 But let's say in a malpractice death case 8 there is approximately a 1.4 million cap per 9 defendant for the next two weeks.

10 (Laughter.)

11 MS. SWEENEY: You make a demand of 12 the cap because you have a big earnings loss and you 13 can document it.

14 MR. SCHENKKAN: Okay.

15 MR. SWEENEY: They offer you 70
16 percent of it. Everybody knows early on it's a good 17 case. You have got to spend $250,000, $300,000 on 18 experts, litigation costs and so on to get to that 19 place to get that verdict and you can't avail 20 yourself of any of these provisions.

21 HONORABLE TRACY CHRISTOPHER: Are 22 they currently offering you the cap?

23 MR. SCHENKKAN: Yes. I don't 24 understand it. It seems to me you offer them a cap, 25 1.2 million, and if you're right.

1 MS. SWEENEY: 1.4.

2 MR. SCHENKKAN: 1.4 million. And if 3 it comes in at 1.4 million, they now owe you 1.4 4 million plus fifty.

5 MR. YELENOSKY: No. Because their 6 offer would have been just 70 percent. Right? And 7 if you offer -- you're not offering. You're request 8 is not more than 130 percent more, whatever the 9 parallel. Right?

10 HONORABLE JAN P. PATTERSON: They 11 have an additional buffer.

12 HONORABLE CARLOS LOPEZ: They have a 13 buffer. They're protected.

14 MR. YELENOSKY: You can't math that.

15 MR. SCHENKKAN: Maybe now I need an 16 Excedrin. I'm having trouble following you at this 17 point.

18 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well, yes. I 19 don't understand. If they offer you 70 percent of 20 1.4, it is $980,000.

21 MS. SWEENEY: Okay.

22 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: So they offer you 23 $980,000 and you say "Huh-uh. I'm not going to take 24 that because I think this is a heck of a case and 25 I'm going to recover a million four." If you

1 recover a million four, you're going to get a 2 million four, and they're not going to get their 3 attorney's fees. Right?

4 JUSTICE NATHAN HECHT: They're going 5 to get yours.

6 MR. YELENOSKY: But you're not going 7 to be able to get, you're not going to be able to 8 impose the sanctions on them.

9 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Right.

10 MS. SWEENEY: Because you can never 11 beat that. All they have to do is hit 70 percent of 12 the cap.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: On the other hand you 14 have enticed them to make a 70 percent offer in a 15 case where there is going to be a contest. That's a 16 benefit to you. Judge Benton.

17 HONORABLE LEVI BENTON: What about if 18 we change the composition of the rule that says 19 looking at the judgment in cases where there is a 20 cap, we change it to say "the verdict?"

21 MR. YELENOSKY: Before the cap?

22 MR. BENTON: Right.

23 CHAIRMAN CARLOS LOPEZ: Ouch. Now
24 we're talking. That's really that's intellectually 25 honest.

1 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well, let's never 2 be honest.

3 MR. ORSINGER: I'm not sure we can 4 handle that.

5 MS. SWEENEY: You're new, aren't you?
6 (Laughter.)

7 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Tommy.

8 MR. JACKS: Well, Paula, we did
9 discuss this within the other committee; and the way 10 we came out of it is in the footnotes; and basically 11 what the footnotes say is if it appears to the Court 12 that that sort of game playing was going on, then 13 the Court takes that into account in determining 14 whether to impose a sanction or not. And that's the 15 principal reason for the language "unfair competing 16 conduct rather than a good faith attempt to reach a 17 settlement" dropping to footnote 32 which gives the 18 example. "For example, in a case in which damages 19 are capped refusal of an offer that attempts to make 20 strategic use of that cap should not be subject to 21 sanctions."

22 It's also referred to in footnote 10 on 23 page two where there is discussion of certain types 24 of actions that weren't accepted, but again states 25 that and gives the very example you gave although

1 with a $100,000 cap and says the better solution is 2 to deal with strategic abuse rather than to except 3 the entire category of the cases.

4 And so that's where the Jamail committee
5 came down on it. I mean, there was agreement that 6 you don't want to permit that kind of game playing 7 to result in sanctions; but it was dealt with in 8 this way rather than putting something explicit in 9 the rule.

10 MS. SWEENEY: The other cap question
11 that ties with that is if you have a statutory cap, 12 tort claims cap, and the conduct is just egregious 13 and they won't, you know, they won't do the right 14 thing, they persist in offering you $240,000 until 15 the day of trial. You get a $500,000 verdict. The 16 cap would then be $250,000. What? Is it 17 contemplated that this $50,000 sanction which would 18 be appropriate under the facts, I'm hypothesizing, 19 would be awarded or not awarded? Is there just 20 immunity for cap defendants or anything that would 21 go over their cap under this provision?

22 MR. JACKS: Not under this provision.
23 In fact there is a footnote that expressly says that 24 the penalty is in addition to and over and above any 25 caps. There is some law, and I haven't briefed it

1           lately; but there is some law about governmental 2           units as far as whether they are subject to anything 3           over the cap, and there's some case law about it.
4           And I don't think that this rule contemplates that.

5                       MR. SCHENKKAN:   Maybe I really am 6           just completely stupid here, because it seems like 7           everyone else here sees this a different way than 8           me.  I'd like to try it one more time because it 9           really doesn't look like this is the case.

10                      If the plaintiff's recovery is capped at 11           $100,000, how does the defendant trigger the rule by 12           a $70,000 offer when what the rule says is the offer 13           has to be more than 30 percent more favorable to the 14           claimant than the judgment?  The judgment under a 15           cap situation is going to be $100,000.  The 16           defendant can't trigger that except by making an 17           offer that is $130,000.  If the defendant makes that 18           offer, you're going to take it --

19                      MR. SWEENEY:   Yes.

20                      MR. SCHENKKAN:  -- in a $100,00 cap
21           case.

22                      HONORABLE BABCOCK:  Also in a heart 23           beat.

24                      MS. SWEENEY:   I think you're 25           backwards.

1 HONORABLE CARLOS LOPEZ: It says
2 that. That's got to be fixed because it's the other 3 way around.

4 MS. SCHENKKAN: The judgment is 5 infinitely less favorable than an offer if --

6 HONORABLE CARLOS LOPEZ: Less
7 favorable to the person.

8 MS. SCHENKKAN: To a party making a 9 claim, to a plaintiff, if it's less than 70 percent 10 of the amount offered. The amount offered in this 11 hypothetical is 70. That means the judgment has to 12 be 70 percent of $70,000.

13 HONORABLE CARLOS LOPEZ: That 14 language needs to be changed to "favorable to the 15 person making the offer." The judgment has got to 16 be less than favorable to the person making the 17 offer. They didn't offer enough. That's why 18 they're getting penalized.

19 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: Don't we 20 need to be looking to the subsection (2) that is not 21 in the printed materials?

22 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes.

23 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: Which would 24 have 130 percent instead of 70, or are we looking at 25 (a)?

1 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Whatever end of 2 the telescope you look at.

3 MR. WATSON: Do you guys really think 4 the district from Lastbuddy is ever going to be able 5 to implement this?

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Which district
7 judge?

8 MR. WATSON: Lastbuddy, Fog Knott,
9 anyplace other than the people sitting in this room.

10 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: That was a good
11 example, Skip.

12 MS. SWEENEY: Way to go.

13 (Laughter.)

14 HONORABLE TRACY CHRISTOPHER: That 15 was nice of you.

16 MR. WATSON: I'm not as dumb as I 17 look.

18 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Did you catch the 19 numbers?

20 MR. JACKS: I did.

21 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. Let's go 22 back to Paula's caps. Do people favor trying to 23 address the cap issue in the rule, or is it people's 24 view that it's adequately dealt with in the comment
25 that Tommy referred to, the issue of caps?

1 HONORABLE CARLOS LOPEZ: You mean as 2 to whether or not he's above the cap?

3 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: I'm sorry. Where 4 damages are capped by statute, that's the issue
5 Paula raises.

6 MS. SWEENEY: I'd just rather see it
7 in the rule than in a comment, because you know, I 8 wave comments at judges all the time; but they say 9 "It's not -- that's nice; but it's not in the rule."

10 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Right. No
11 question Paula wants it in the rule. Without 12 knowing exactly how we'd put it in the rule, how 13 many people want the rule to deal explicitly with 14 damages which are capped by statute? Everybody that 15 does raise your hand. All those who do not want it 16 in the rule raise your hand, rather would have it 17 dealt with by comment. Everybody listening?

18 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: Chip, I 19 think Tommy's point was it's already in the rule at 20 the top of page seven. It's just that the comment 21 makes it clear that sub (a) is talking about things 22 like strategic use of the cap. So it's in the rule.
23 Maybe it's not as explicit as you want to.

24 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Paula's point was 25 she wants it more explicit. Right?

1 MS. SWEENEY: Yes.

2 HONORABLE LEVI BENTON: I agree that 3 it ought to be more explicit.

4 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Judge Benton
5 thinks it ought to be more explicit. Let's try it 6 again.

7 HONORABLE JAN P. PATTERSON: Can I
8 ask a question?

9 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes, Judge
10 Patterson.

11 HONORABLE JAN P. PATTERSON: Is the 12 intent of the note at 28 to say that it speaks to 13 the verdict amount?

14 MR. JACKS: No.

15 JUSTICE NATHAN HECHT: The $50,000 is 16 above.

17 HONORABLE JAN P. PATTERSON: Well,
18 then what does the footnote mean, Tommy?

19 MR. JACKS: Well, the footnote 28
20 means that the Court is expressing the view that the 21 sanctions can be imposed without regard to damage
22 caps or coverage limitations. Now I don't. No 23 offense; but the Court may be legislating a little 24 bit there because I don't know that the Court can 25 modify either insurance contracts or statutes.

1 HONORABLE JAN P. PATTERSON: All that 2 says is the sanctions can be added to the cap 3 amount?

4 MR. JACKS: But the idea is that even 5 if you hit the cap, you can also get sanctions from 6 the party who has the benefit of the cap.

7 HONORABLE JAN P. PATTERSON: Okay.

8 JUSTICE NATHAN HECHT: Okay. Well,
9 again, maybe I don't understand the way it works out 10 there. But if the assistant attorney general is 11 defending the case and, God help us, commits 12 discovery abuse and the plaintiff gets way over 13 whatever of the cap is in damages, does that mean 14 that the trial judge cannot sanction the attorney 15 for discovery abuse? And it has never occurred to 16 me that that would be the case; but I suppose the 17 argument could be made that sanctions and everything 18 are under the cap. So what that means is that if 19 the attorney general is defending a case where 20 there's pretty clear liability of a lot of damages 21 and it may go over the cap, yes.

22 HONORABLE CARLOS LOPEZ: I think what 23 this really does is it confirms your view that these 24 are sanctions as opposed to something else.

25 JUSTICE NATHAN HECHT: Well, I mean,

1 we can call them something else, and that's fine.
2 But it just seems to me it's in the nature of that 3 as opposed to something else; but if that's not the 4 way it works, then --

5 MR. JACKS: There is some law that,
6 and I'm not well versed enough to know what it is;
7 but I think that is a question that the Courts have 8 come up with an answer for.

9 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Richard Munzinger.

10 MR. MUNZINGER: Only that raises the 11 philosophical question of sanctioning an attorney 12 who makes a bad guess. There is a distinction 13 between discovery abuse and being wrong about a 14 settlement evaluation; and that's the vice at the 15 heart of this rule, which is another vote on other 16 day which may be ignored; but that's the problem.
17 It's one thing to say "Well, we can sanction you for 18 discovery abuse." "Yes, sir. But I didn't commit 19 discovery abuse. I just guessed wrong." "Well, you 20 dumb bell."

21 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: That view has been 22 well articulated for several meetings. Okay.
23 Getting back to Judge Peeples says "Really it's in 24 the rule, so we shouldn't be voting on whether to 25 put it in the rule. It's already there." So the 1 vote really is do we make more explicit the issue 2 relating to damages which are capped by statute in 3 the rule, more explicit language than currently is 4 in the rule? Fair enough, Paula?

5 MS. SWEENEY: Yes.

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Okay. So that's 7 what we're voting on. Everybody that wants to do 8 that raise your hand.

9 MR. SCHENKKAN: Which direction?
10 What is the "which?" Which direction?

11 MR. ORSINGER: We want to be more
12 explicit in the rule.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: More explicit
14 about saying. Everybody raise your hand. All 15 right. All those opposed? By a vote of 17 to 11, 16 the Chair not voting, that passes. So Paula, you're 17 going to need to get with Elaine and Tommy and come 18 up with some language that would accomplish that.
19 We're not going to be able to do it sitting here 20 drafting with 50 people. Richard.

21 MR. ORSINGER: As a parting shot on 22 our discussion, and I could be wrong, Peter can 23 correct me, I think the defendants would have to 24 offer $77,000 to avoid a sanction on $100,000 cap, 25 not $70,000.

1 MR. SCHENKKAN: No. But again,
2 that's half. We're now halfway there. It's right 3 that that's what the defendant would have to be at 4 for it not to apply; but it doesn't mean avoiding 5 the sanction, because you're not sanctioned for not 6 making an offer. You're sanctioned for turning down 7 an offer. I'm saying there is no way that Paula can 8 be sanctioned for turning down an offer under a cap 9 situation if the offer is the cap, because it's 10 definitely within the 30 percent of the judgment.

11 MS. SWEENEY: It's the other way
12 around.

13 MR. SCHENKKAN: The only thing, the 14 only effect that the combination of this rule plus 15 the caps, putting these together, the rule we're 16 talking about as presently drafted plus a situation 17 where it's $100,000 cap, the only effect is Paula 18 doesn't have the opportunity to move $50,000 worth 19 of fees to the defendant that she would have if 20 there weren't a cap by making an offer that was 21 less. But her offer has to be --

22 MR. JACKS: She's got to go below 23 $70,000 on her offer in order to --

24 MR. SCHENKKAN: But she has to go 25 below $70,000 anyway.

1 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes, Kent.

2 MR. SULLIVAN: I actually agree with 3 Paula and her comments; but I voted against this.
4 The reason is I don't believe we can specifically by 5 rule contemplate all the different ways you might 6 manipulate this particular dynamic. It seems to me 7 that very specific comments saying that it is this 8 type of situation that is specifically contemplated 9 to be excluded because it is strategic and 10 manipulative would be a better way to go and I think 11 would give greater breadth to this than by 12 attempting to do it by rule in which case "I think 13 the rule here while the rule didn't specifically 14 touch on exactly what I have done here, so it 15 doesn't apply at all."

16 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: You guys get 17 together on that. Okay? Here is a question. Is 18 $50,000 enough?

19 MR. JACKS: Or too much?

20 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Or too much?

21 MR. SCHENKKAN: Well, in that 22 connection where did the $50,000 come from? Is it 23 based on any data at all about what the proportion 24 is to judgment percentages?

25 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: If it is based on

1 data, I didn't hear it. Where did it come from, 2 Tommy?

3 JUSTICE NATHAN HECHT: (Indicating.)

4 MR. YELENOSKY: Footnote 29 says this 5 ought to be at the 70- or 90-percentile level, 6 whatever that means. I don't know if that is a 7 normative statement.

8 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Well, is $50,000 the 9 right number?

10 MR. JACKS: I don't know. I argued 11 for a lower number.

12 MR. GILSTRAP: Isn't that really a
13 political call? I mean, we have got to have a 14 number that is big enough that maybe this will be 15 the law instead of what the legislature passes. So 16 how big has it got to be before the legislature 17 says, or if it gets too small, the legislature is 18 going to say "It's nothing. It's really not a 19 sanction."

20 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes. It may or 21 may not be a political call. But and we talked this 22 morning a little bit about what the politics of all 23 this is. But the Court is looking to us for advice, 24 so the subcommittee and the Jamail committee has 25 recommenced a number, and we need to discuss briefly

1 here whether that number is the right one.

2 MR. GILSTRAP: I'm not saying we 3 shouldn't discuss. I'm just saying it has a 4 political dimension.

5 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes. No question.
6 This all does since there is a House Bill that has 7 been passed. Richard.

8 MR. ORSINGER: I think that $50,000 is a 9 heck of a lot of money for the lawsuits that ripple 10 through our system and that this is somewhat 11 experimental for us; and I would be frightened for 12 us to increase this number higher before we have any 13 idea how well it's going to work and might argue we 14 ought to lower it other than the fact that we have 15 the living, breathing legislature next door. So I 16 would certainly not vote to increase it, and I'd be 17 afraid to lower it.

18 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: So you think it's 19 "just right," like Goldy Locks.

20 MR. ORSINGER: Just like Goldy Locks.

21 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Just like Goldy
22 Locks. Okay. Judge Christopher.

23 HONORABLE TRACY CHRISTOPHER: I would 24 prefer it to be lower because of the nature of the 25 rule because it doesn't really require a bad

1           conduct, just kind of a bad guess, so I would prefer 2           it be lower.

3                         CHAIRMAN BABCOCK:   Okay.   And Paula.

4                         MS. SWEENEY:   I don't think the 5           legislature is going to sneer at a number when the 6           minimum automobile liability numbers are lower than 7           this, and they seem to not have a problem with that 8           and you can kill somebody for that.   I think it 9           should be lower than this.

10                        JUSTICE NATHAN HECHT:   House Bill 4
11           has no limits.

12                        MS. SWEENEY:   I didn't hear you.

13                        JUSTICE NATHAN HECHT:   House Bill 4
14           has no limit.

15                        CHAIRMAN BABCOCK:   And it's only got 16           a 10 percent fudge factor.

17                        MR. SCHENKKAN:   And the House Bill 4 18           limit is, the real limit is the "may not exceed the 19           amount awarded in the judgment."   And thus I think 20           $50,000 is the low number in this context.   I think 21           we're having to start to explain how come it's not 22           higher, because there are cases in which the amount 23           of the judgment is a heck of a lot more than 24           $50,000; and in those cases you're saying $50,000 is 25           the only incentive.

1                   CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: "Don't even bother
2 me about $50,000." Okay. Anybody else?

3                   MR. VALADEZ: Is there any particular 4 reason that it had to be a specific number? Do you
5 know?

6                   CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: I don't think so.

7                   HONORABLE CARLOS LOPEZ: I was going 8 to say can we index it to be somehow to the amount 9 in controversy, amount awarded somehow so that it 10 goes with the size of the case?

11                  CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: You can do 12 whatever you want. Sure. Tommy.

13                  MR. JACKS: Well, I'll say a couple 14 of the things. Last year when this committee voted 15 on this we came up with 10 times the costs that were 16 incurred post rejection. The one version of this 17 rule that I drafted at some point, although I think 18 not for either committee frankly, was 25 percent of 19 the award, not of recovery not to exceed $25,000 was 20 the number.

21                  But having said all of that I think 22 Richard Orsinger is right. I'm afraid if we send 23 over a lower number than this, that it's going to be 24 rejected out of hand; and I'm not talking about the 25 House at this point. I'm really talking about the 1 Senate committee. I think it's important to note 2 that the Chairman, Governor Ratliff has sponsored 3 this bill every session since 1993 and in none of 4 his prior bills has he ever had any cap other than 5 the amount of the plaintiff's recovery. And if -- 6 I'm afraid that if we send him anything lower than 7 this number, and he already knows about this number 8 because there has been testimony about it, that it 9 might get a serious look from the Senate committee.

10 And of course if it doesn't get a serious look from 11 the Senate committee, it is not going to get a look 12 by anybody over there. I mean, that's the place 13 where the only alternative to the House version is 14 going to be written at least until it gets to 15 conference.

16 So even though I argued for a lower amount 17 and I think the amount ought to be lower, for the 18 audience that we're addressing now I think we 19 probably ought to leave it as it is.

20 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: All right.
21 Everybody that wants to leave it at $50,000 raise 22 your hand.

23 MS. SWEENEY: Is there a word besides 24 "want" that we can use?

25 JUSTICE NATHAN HECHT: Take a picture

1 of Paula. I would never think Paula Sweeney voted 2 "aye."

3 (Laughter.)

4 MS. SWEENEY: While holding my nose.

5 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Anybody against?

6 All right. By a unanimous --

7 MR. VALADEZ: Hold on real quick.

8 Did that include raising it? Against it would be if 9 we wanted to raise it?

10 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes. All right.

11 Pam, you're against it?

12 MS. BARON: Yes.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: By a vote of 20 to 14 two, the Chair not voting, $50,000 is the number.
15 We're going to do a little tweaking to the rest of 16 subpart (d) to accommodate Paula's concern.

17 MR. SCHENKKAN: Can I ask one thing
18 about (d)(2)? I think it should be taken out of with 19 respect to monetary relief. I ask that we take out 20 "imposed on a claimant." Our rule is a two-way rule 21 unlike House Bill 4. And if it's going to be a 22 two-way rule and there is going to be a limited 23 amount of judgment, I think that limit ought to be 24 two ways.

25 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes. The intent

1 of the rule is to make it both ways.

2 MR. SCHENKKAN: It's no longer
3 sanctions; but whatever you call them, "costs may 4 not exceed the amount awarded claimant."

5 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: "Party."

6 MR. JEFFERSON: "Party."

7 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: "Party." Judge
8 Peeples.

9 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: I'd like to 10 hear some discussion on why an utterly ridiculous 11 case of no liability there is no sanction as opposed 12 to as I understand this a little bitty case where 13 you get a tiny, tiny judgment you'll get a little 14 bit of sanctions. But a ridiculous, no liability 15 case of which there are some there's no sanctions, 16 not a nickle. Why?

17 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Paula.

18 MS. SWEENEY: We still have 19 frivolous. We still have the Bill on frivolous 20 lawsuits. We still have Rule 13.

21 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: Yes. But 22 those provisions were so gutted that they're just 23 the most toothless provisions known to law. It 24 never happens. I just cannot with a straight face 25 defend something that just says a just totally,

1 nonsensical case or adding a party who has no 2 business being there you're just home free on this 3 law.

4 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: So you want to 5 take subpart (2) out of here?

6 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: Well, I'm 7 wondering if you could limit it to $50,000 max or 8 maybe the last offer that was made or the last 9 demand made or something like that.

10 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: We've got $50,000.

11 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: But to have 12 zero is just crazy.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: We've got $50,000
14 in here.

15 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: But if 16 there's a no liability finding or no damages; am I 17 right, there's no sanction?

18 MR. SCHENKKAN: Yes. It's the lesser 19 of.

20 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: Which is 21 less than $50,000. It just is surreal.

22 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Surreal.

23 MR. VALADEZ: Right.

24 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Pete.

25 MR. SCHENKKAN: It seems to me though

1           that the problem, David, is that you can't solve 2           everything in any one rule; and this one operates 3           within the limits of an offer of settlement. If the 4           physical reason you're not settling with someone is 5           because you think their claim is worth nothing, 6           you're not in an offer of settlement posture, and 7           then you would have the real reality which is in 8           whatever the percentage is with all the exceptions 9           we have at the front end this mainly applies to 10          personal injury cases. I know it's not exclusive; 11          but mainly personal injury cases. Mostly personal 12          injury plaintiffs are judgment proof. It isn't 13          going to amount to anything to put something in here 14          that says they have to pay something out of pocket.
15          All it's going to do is call the law into disgrace 16          if anybody is foolish enough to try to collect a 17          sanction award from.

18                   CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes. But the 19                   judge's point is that a nonfrivolous, but ridiculous 20                   case, a defendant may want to offer $5,000.

21                   HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: Or $500.

22                   CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Or $500. And if 23                   he does, then how come if you get pushed all the way 24                   to summary judgment when presumably the case will be 25                   kicked out after they do discovery on you and you've

1 got to wait until all reasonable time to file your 2 no evidence motion for discovery and it costs a lot 3 of money, how come you don't get to recover some 4 fees, and why wouldn't you want to encourage the 5 nonfrivolous, but ridiculous case to accept the $500
6 to $5,000?

7 MR. SCHENKKAN: And the answer is 8 because what happens if they turn it down? Do you 9 collect from them? I think that's the answer.
10 That's the problem.

11 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: It doesn't 12 have to be collected. There is some value in the 13 symbolism of it. And let me say this: We're not 14 talking only about low damage automobile cases. I'm 15 telling you there are cases where it's corporation 16 against corporation and they bring it, which is a 17 fine lawsuit, and they bring in a bunch of 18 individuals who just shouldn't be there, and they 19 ought to be able to say "Look. Here is why I don't 20 belong in this case. I'm having to pay a lawyer and 21 take off time to be here. I'm offering you $500, 22 $1000 or whatever to get out," and that ought to 23 trigger this rule. And there ought to be some 24 consequences when someone says "No. I've got the 25 right to keep you in this case, and I'm going to do

1           it until you pay me a bunch of money." That is 2           wrong.

3                       MR. BOYD: The inability of a 4           defendant to pay doesn't stop a judge from entering 5           a judgment against the defendant. I don't see why it 6           should stop a judge from entering a sanction against 7           the plaintiff.

8                       CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Richard.

9                       MR. ORSINGER: The problem I see with 10          pursuing this line is that it's going to be 11          difficult to write it so that you punish the people
12          who really should be punished under David Peeples' 13          analysis, but don't punish the people who just lost 14          a jury verdict. I mean, I see sometimes I see 15          plaintiff's lawyers that invested $750,000 of their 16          money in a products liability case that over in 17          Mississippi garnered a nine million dollar judgment 18          and then somewhere else they got zeroed out on 19          basically the same products liability claim.

20                      Those were good faith lawsuits. People 21          invested real money. They hired real experts. The 22          jury didn't go with them. So how do you distinguish 23          the people who are zeroed out because the jury 24          didn't go with them and the people who are abusing 25          the legal system like David Peeples? The only way

1 to do that is --

2 (Laughter.)

3 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: We all know
4 what you meant.

5 MR. ORSINGER: In my view you can't 6 have an automatic trigger that might sweep the 7 honest litigants who lose in with the bad litigants.
8 And if we're going to address David Peeples' 9 concern, maybe we ought to do it through a proviso 10 where the trial judge has the authority to provide 11 or impose sanctions on frivolous litigants that has 12 more teeth than the sanctions rule.

13 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: The problem is it's 14 not frivolous. I mean, it's ridiculous; but it's 15 not frivolous,

16 MR. ORSINGER: Well, then maybe the 17 standard ought to be ridiculous instead of 18 frivolous. I don't think that there ought to be, 19 you know, automatic liability that someone who has a 20 good faith case has to go into their savings account 21 or use up their college fund to pay just because the 22 jury didn't go with them. I'm really troubled by 23 that.

24 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Tommy.

25 MR. JACKS: Well, look. The reason

1 we were asked to consider this rule to begin with 2 was because a Bill had been offered in the 3 legislature in several sessions and the Court wanted 4 us to get out front on it. In the Bill that had 5 been offered by the Senator who is now the chairman
6 of the committee who is going to rewrite the Bill 7 every time this provision is in there. It's also in 8 the House Bill. And so here we are. I mean, it may 9 not make either good sense or good justice; but 10 nothing we do about this is going to have any 11 effect. It's in here because it was in there.

12 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes. I think the 13 Court ought to get a sense of our committee. Judge 14 Peeples as usual makes a very eloquent statement 15 about this.

16 HONORABLE DAVID PEEPLES: It occurred
17 to me, you know, a little case like this if the 18 plaintiff comes in and says "Look, I'll take $2000 19 if you'll let me out"; and the defendant says "No."
20 Maybe we can draft this so that the maximum exposure 21 would be the $2,000 offer or something. I mean, 22 there are ways to cap this so someone wouldn't, a 23 little bitty person wouldn't face the $50,000 24 sanction judgment.

25 But the symbolism to me is important. I

1 think to tell people if your case is so bad that you 2 get zeroed on a no liability finding, you owe 3 nothing, that's a bad message to send.

4 HONORABLE CARLOS LOPEZ: That's way
5 too broad a brush, with all due respect. There are 6 plenty of cases where the jury comes back with zero 7 where both lawyers were sitting during the 8 deliberations nervous because they didn't know how 9 it was going to come out. I agree with what the 10 judge is saying absolutely. The problem is the 11 devil is in that detail.

12 MR. ORSINGER: Yes. And some of your 13 verdicts are 10 to two. So okay, ten jurors felt 14 like it was a bad case; but two thought it was a 15 good case. So how can you say it's frivolous if 16 even one juror votes in favor of liability?

17 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Justice Duncan
18 first, then Justice Patterson, then Frank.

19 HONORABLE SARAH B. DUNCAN: I agree 20 with David that the way he presented it that would 21 be absurd. The problem is this is a no fault rule.
22 This doesn't -- it's inherent in the rule that it is 23 going to affect far more litigants than those who 24 file ridiculous, but not frivolous lawsuits. So the 25 question as in any rulemaking process is given the 1 breadth of the rule what is the fair thing to do if 2 there is one answer, which I frankly don't think 3 there is? But the problem is this isn't based on 4 filing a ridiculous, but not frivolous lawsuit.

5 This is going to apply to every single type.

6 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Justice Patterson.

7 HONORABLE JAN P. PATTERSON: Well, I
8 think we all recognize that there are going to be 9 some gaps in the statute -- or in the rules, excuse 10 me, and that we can't speak to every type of case 11 here; but I think the effort is to have it apply to 12 a body of cases and then see how it flows and falls 13 out and we can always tweak it. So I don't think we 14 have to speak to every possible category of cases.

15 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Judge Christopher.
16 I'm sorry. Frank Gilstrap first.

17 MR. GILSTRAP: I think Tommy's
18 remarks kind of carry the day with me. If we were 19 trying to draft the best rule to deal with the 20 problem, it wouldn't come out anything like this.
21 As a matter of fact, if the last committee had its 22 way, we wouldn't have a rule at all. What is 23 driving this is the need, is the fact that if we 24 don't do something, the legislature is; and given 25 that I can't imagine that we would come out with a

1 proposal that actually had more teeth than the one 2 the legislature is proposing. If this isn't in the 3 legislative Bill, why should we put it in here?

4 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Judge Christopher.

5 HONORABLE TRACY CHRISTOPHER: I think 6 that most of the times where you get the person that 7 shouldn't be in a lawsuit there are other 8 potentially responsible parties in the lawsuit like, 9 for example, maybe you sue a doctor who prescribed a 10 drug properly; but there is a drug, a bad reaction 11 from the drug, but you sue the doctor and the drug 12 manufacturer. Well, the plaintiff is going to get, 13 if the plaintiff got some money from the drug 14 manufacturer, why shouldn't the doctor get his 15 $10,000 offer of settlement to get out of the case
16 early back? Why shouldn't they? I mean, you know, 17 he was put in there. The plaintiff now has some 18 money.

19 HONORABLE CARLOS LOPEZ: Well, even 20 if they should, I don't know if this is the right 21 place to do that. I mean, there is a way to get, 22 there is a way to sanction people who file --

23 HONORABLE TRACY CHRISTOPHER: It's 24 not a frivolous lawsuit in that situation. I mean, 25 it's rejecting the offer of settlement and what we

1 do with it. You have rejected my $5,000 cost of 2 defense offer before I had to go to all these 3 depositions and incur all these attorney's fees
4 because I'm nervous and I send my lawyer to all 5 these depositions just in case they say something 6 bad about the doctor even though we know the doctors 7 are just sitting there for whatever reason. I mean, 8 I think it should be addressed.

9 MR. ORSINGER: I'm not sure that 10 Judge Christopher's concern isn't covered, because 11 if the defendant doctor hits sanction territory, 12 actually (d)(2) says that the sanction is limited to 13 the amount awarded the claimant by the judgment. So 14 if they get $500,000 against the drug company.

15 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes. But they 16 settled. They settled against the drug company.
17 The drug company settles.

18 MR. ORSINGER: For a take nothing
19 judgment? Okay.

20 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes. The case is 21 dismissed, confidential settlement. And so Judge 22 Christopher's point is the guy is sitting there with 23 a half a million dollars and has cost this doctor 24 who is not comfortable a whole bunch of money.

25 MS. SWEENEY: It didn't cost him

1 anything. We were talking about carriers earlier.
2 It cost his carrier; but they're not a party and 3 they're not going to sanction them. Why are we 4 protecting them? Seriously, I mean, if now we're 5 worried about insurance companies and their 6 controlling the litigation; but earlier we took, you 7 know, went away from that because they're not 8 parties. So and the doc' in the hypothetical is 9 going to have a carrier incurring the cost.

10 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: In order to give the 11 Court some guidance on where we are coming from I 12 want to propose a vote that is, you know, how many 13 people think that Judge Peeples' concern merits 14 further attention and drafting?

15 MR. JEFFERSON: In this rule?

16 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Yes, in this rule?
17 Obviously his concern merits further consideration.
18 But in this rule. An you could accomplish that a 19 number of different ways. You could do it by 20 ditching (d) (2), or you could do it by some formula 21 that Judge Peeples would come up with. But how many 22 people? Everybody that thinks that we should 23 attempt to in this rule come up with some language 24 to deal with Judge Peeples' concern, raise your 25 hand. 13. How many people think that the rule is 1 fine as it is and that we shouldn't try to deal with 2 it?

3 (Laughter.)

4 MR. ORSINGER: Don't say that.

5 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: All right. How 6 many people think the opposite of what we just voted 7 on?

8 (Laughter.)

9 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: Judge Peeples, you
10 lost a close one 14 to 13 with the Chair not voting.
11 The last two parts 167.7 and 167.8 I don't think are 12 controversial; but if anybody -- Richard, put your 13 hand down.

14 MR. ORSINGER: No. I can't stand
15 this.

16 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: If anybody has got 17 concerns about this, tell Elaine. And Elaine, if 18 you know, if there is any way -- well, I don't know 19 when we can get a redraft, because there is a lot of 20 tweaking that needs to be done.

21 PROFESSOR CARLSON: I've got to have 22 the record.

23 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: You're going to 24 need to get the record. So anybody who has got a 25 concern about 167.7 or 167.8 let Elaine know

1 promptly and we'll deal with that. The reason I'm 2 doing this is tomorrow I want to get to the other 3 things we have got to deal with.

4 But before we close today you're not going 5 to believe the e-mail that I just got about half an 6 hour ago; but I'd like to read it because it follows
7 what Justice Hecht was saying.

8 "Dear Mr. Babcock:

9 I'm a professor at Bolt Hall in Berkeley.
10 I'm interested in unpublished judicial opinions and 11 have followed your admirable work on this issue in 12 Texas. I'm working on it in California. There is a 13 Bill in the legislature here which I helped draft 14 which uses Texas as a model in providing that all 15 unpublished opinions that the California Court of 16 Appeals would at least be citeable. I'm going to 17 testify on it and I have some questions."

18 So when California starts following us 19 it's scary.

20 (Laughter.)

21 CHAIRMAN BABCOCK: We are now in 22 recess. See you tomorrow at 9:00.
